NASH—PURVIS.

On Wednesday evening, Dec. 19, at 7 o'clock, the residence of Mr. T. C. Purvis, Purvis street, Yonge, was the scene of an interesting event when his second daughter, Miss Edith, was united in marriage to Clifford C. Nash, teacher in the Business College, Brockville. The house was nicely decorated with evergreens and some seventy guests were present. The bride, who was prettily gowned in cream cashmere, carried a shower bouquet of white carnations and ferns, and was given away by her father. Miss Abbie Judson, a dear little tot of three summers, niece of the bride, was maid of honor and looked so dainty in white as she followed, carrying a basket of chrysanthemums. The ceremony was performed by Rev. R. Stillwell, of Lyn, and took place under an arch of evergreens. Miss Winnie Purvis, cousin of the bride, played the wedding march. The company sat down to a recherche wedding supper, after which the young couple left for Brockville, whence they went to York State on a short trip. The presents were numerous and useful. Mr. and Mrs. Nash will take up their residence in Brockville after the holidays.

Cooking Food for Hogs.

Mr. Geo. Oglesbee, writing to the Rural New Yorker, says:

My experience in cooking feed to stock is rather limited, yet I consider that bulky foods, such as roots, pumpkins, etc., are valuable for stock, especially when cooked, than when fed raw. For several years I fed raw feed, and I had no success, but during the last two years I have been feeding cooked, and I can obtain no comparison between roots, equal parts cooked and uncooked, three parts cooked and one part uncooked feed for any kind of stock, as I feel satisfied, as far as I think that cooked feed of either kinds is good for any kind of stock, and would say that I think it would be profitable to anyone who raises hogs, either in large or small quantities, to use more cooked and less raw feed.

Lameness in the muscles and joints indicates rheumatism. Don't dally with it a minute. Take Hood's Sarsaparilla and cure it.

THE LAND TAX.

Sarnia, Ont., is going to try the experiment of exempting all improvements for a period of five years. The Town Council has decided to submit a by-law to that effect. This is the first place in Ontario that has made any attempt to carry out the single tax idea. And thus, in Sarnia, all taxes derived from the land and buildings will be derived from the land alone. Under this system the man who holds unimproved land will have to sell or pay such a tax as will compel him to put buildings upon it, so as to get some revenue from it. As there will be no taxation on buildings citizens will be induced to put up finer residences. Of course this is not going so far as we can see, to reduce the taxes to any very great extent, so far as the ordinary ratepayer is concerned. The taxes have to be paid, and a man who is paying $30 per year now on his house and land will simply have to pay $30 on his land alone. But the landgrabber who is holding building lots for a rise in values will suffer, since the rate on land alone will necessarily be higher. A man is the man that ought to suffer. News.

Fall Fairs.

Speaking on the subject of fall fairs, the Hon. John Dryden in one of his addresses said: At many of these fairs, the rope dancer and the gambling device have been the most prominent attractions. Many directors have thought it a clever thing to accept a fee of $10 from the owner of a gambling device, and in return to allow the owner of that device the privilege of preying upon the gullible. But the evil is working its own cure. People are making their complaints for [illegible] to take their children or themselves to the fairs.
