WASHINGTON'S SOCIAL EVENT.

The Marriage of George N. Curzon, M. P., to an American Girl.

A Good Match—The Contracting Parties Both Very Talented.

WASHINGTON, April 17.—The great social event of the post-Lenten season will be the marriage in this city on Monday next of Mr. George Nathaniel Curzon, member of Parliament for Southport, England, and Miss Mary Leiter, the daughter of L. Z. Leiter, of Washington, formerly of Chicago. The ceremony will be performed at noon at St. John's Episcopal Church. Mr. Curzon is expected to arrive in New York on the Majestic today. He will be accompanied by his brother, Francis Curzon, his sister, Lady Miller, and his best man, Lord Leamington.

Miss Leiter has been warmly congratulated upon her approaching marriage with Mr. Curzon, who is one of the most promising of Great Britain's younger public men. Mr. Curzon is 33 years of age and is the eldest son of Lord Scarsdale. He has traveled extensively in the Orient and has written several books on Japan, Corea and Siam. He spent last winter in Afghanistan and wrote a series of letters from Cabul to the London Times, which evinced a comprehensive grasp of the political conditions in that country, and which attracted wide attention in Great Britain. He has been an active student for many years of Central Asian affairs and filled with credit the post of Under Secretary for India in the British Foreign Office. The Scarsdale family is an old and highly distinguished one. The family estate, Kettleston, is in the north of England, near the town of Derby. Here 150 years ago one of the ancestors of Greig Nathaniel Curzon entertained Dr. Samuel Johnson and his biographer, Boswell. The estate of Kettleston has been in the possession of the Scarsdales for more than 200 years.

Miss Leiter is not only a very beautiful girl, but she is brilliantly endowed, and has enjoyed for several years the advantage of extended foreign travel. She has been a conspicuous figure socially, not only in Washington, New York, Newport and Bar Harbor, but in London and Paris as well.

Mr. and Mrs. Curzon, after their wedding trip in this country, will make their home in London.

BRITAIN'S NAVAL ENTERPRISE.

LONDON, April 17.—The Cunard liners Campania and Lucania have been added to the list of subsidized steamers. In the event of war they will be equipped with five-inch breach-loading guns and Nordenfeldt machine guns.

AUSTRIA STILL SHAKING.

VIENNA, April 17.—Shocks of earthquake were again felt in Laibach last night, doing additional damage to the town and greatly increasing the existing panic. Most of the people who remained in the town after the previous shocks are now fleeing to the open country, leaving the place almost deserted. Food is very scarce and great distress prevails.

HERE IN LONDON

Another Triumph for B. B. B.

Dyspepsia Cured.

I was very sick for over three months, and, believing my case to be of a malignant type, I lost no time in consulting a physician, who treated me for dyspepsia. Receiving no benefit, I went to a specialist, who told me I had catarrh of the stomach, but his treatment had no effect and I was getting worse every day. The pain was so intense that I could not rest at night and was compelled to walk the floor to get any ease. I consulted eleven physicians in all, first trying one and then another, but their medicine did not do me a particle of good. My friends recommended one thing, then another, but I got no relief. I failed from 195 pounds down to 135 pounds and was about giving up in despair when, as a last resort, I noticed that B. B. B. was recommended for dyspepsia, and concluded to try it. I felt a slight change for the better after using one bottle. I then purchased six, being delighted to find that it was doing me good. I kept on using B. B. B. and kept gaining in flesh at the rate of one pound a day. I took in all eighteen bottles of B. B. B., and am today about back to my old weight, and am feeling as well as I ever did. Now, I would strongly recommend B. B. B. to anyone suffering from dyspepsia. Don't be experimenting with other things, but take the genuine, never-failing, old reliable B. B. B. that always cures.

The Scrap Bag.

Such weather for Easter Sunday! I wonder how many fair ones gazed up disconsolately at the patch of sky which belongs to London. I fear more than one pretty pair of eyes murmured "provoking!" when regarding the clouds that the weather bureau sent us for Easter morning. Sulky, bad-tempered looking clouds—the sort that seem to lie in wait for pretty flower-trimmed hats, and crisp spring gowns, and then suddenly empty themselves with a little splutter of joy, when everybody is looking the other way!

"Diplomacy," by the Coghlans, last Saturday afternoon, was about the least exhilarating entertainment I ever attended. The rain pattered dismally on the roof, while a depressed audience watched a languid, distrait company saunter through their parts. There seemed to be but one pretty woman and one joke in the whole performance. Fortunately, I had an engagement with the dentist.

She (hanging back at the doorway and whispering)—Don't look so happy. I shan't go in with you while you wear that rapturous expression. Everybody will know at a glance that we are bride and bridegroom.

He (whispering also)—My dear, take the beam out of your own eye.

Wife-beating comes high in Germany. We see that the problem of how to discourage these undeveloped savages in their marital theories has been solved in a wiser way in der Vaterland than in most other countries. There, the brutal husband must make his wife a present of his earnings for a week, and spend Saturday night and all of Sunday in jail meditating on the error of his ways, and wondering whether his wife shall have had time to spend all the money before he gets out. This mode of correction may be recommended to New York women, who have recently been endeavoring to obtain more practical protection for poor "walloped" wives. They found the Legislature not altogether unsympathetic, insomuch that it offered to increase penalties for a man who should beat any woman but his wife! Old Galileo was right. The world does move—a little.

"Vogue" says: If women could only realize the nature of the mud and dirt accumulated by the trailing skirts and brought into their homes—a daily invitation to cheerful, active, virulent, deadly microbes, to "jump on and have a ride"—they would never have a skirt come near the ground under any circumstances.

They say of Madame Rejane in her great play, "Madame Sans-Gene," that to be comparatively plain-looking is a distinct advantage to the French woman who undertakes to make herself adorable; there is then nothing to obscure the triumph of pure art. Her enunciation is beautifully clear and telling; she makes her points without appearing to underline them. In the vernacular of the prize ring, Madame Rejane would be credited with the possession of a "terrible left"; her significant gestures are almost invariably made with the left hand.

Good deeds in this world done,
Are paid beyond the sun;
As water on the root
Is seen above the fruit.

The destruction of the Florida oranges should not cause undue lamentation. We have been supplied with Florida oranges in the past which never came from Florida, and there is no doubt that this supply will be kept up.

KEEP THE RIGHT SIDE OUT.

Like most garments and most carpets, everything in life has a right and a wrong side. You can take any joy and by turning it around find troubles on the other side, or you may take the greatest trouble and by turning it around find joy on the other side. The gloomiest mountain never casts a shadow on both sides at once, nor does the greatest of life's calamities.
