For Housekeepers.

The condition of the potato market is interesting at the present time to farmers, retail storekeepers and the public alike. The effect of the recent frosts was apparent in the prices that ruled on mid-week market prices last week. The price generally asked, though not generally secured, was 75c per bag, but on Saturday, with larger offerings, 45c ruled. In Toronto a famine is reported, and consequently there was a slightly stiffer price asked for the tubers. Today the supply was very small, and 35c to 45c per bag ruled.

Other things—indeed, nearly all staples—were supplied sparingly. The attendance also was small.

As usual, vegetables and flowers were offered in big lots, and the ordinary sales were made at quotations. Other offerings and sales did not affect prices.
