Frank Webster, against statute a very happy nature took place, when on behalf of the board, Rev. E. B. Lanceley, pastor of the church, presented an address to Mr. Isaac Webster, of Maitland street, who has the distinction of being the oldest Methodist in the city. After the address, Messrs, C. J. Beal and T. B. Escott presented Mr. Webster with a beautiful leather-covered album containing photographs of all the ministers of the church since its dedication, the members of the trustee board, and old church-members.

Mr. Webster, who is 88 years of age, joined the Methodist Church when but fourteen, thus having been for nearly 75 years a member. Although so advanced in years, Mr. Webster still takes an active interest in church affairs, having attended last night's meeting as usual, unconscious that the board had any move on foot. The first Methodist service in the township of London was held in the home of Mr. Webster's father, at which the son was present. Mr. Webster can still recall incidents of that meeting, such tervals.
