McLACHLIN A BAD UMPIRE.

HIS IDIOSYNCRASIES AT THE TORONTO GROUNDS.

He Permitted the Players to Talk Back at Him—And Essayed to Fine a Single Man—They all Kicked Like Mules—The Visitors got Their Guarantee and Toronto the Game.

The two hundred spectators at yesterday's game had three or four times the worth of their money and only saw a five-inning game. What was wanting in play was amply supplied by the freak umpire. Never was such an exhibition made in Toronto.

The playing rules were framed last winter to simplify matters for Mr. Umpire; so that he had easy control of the field and players.

A sprinkling rain fell at 4 o'clock. His refereeship was not on hand, but he showed up in four minutes and it still rained. Toronto, of course objected, to save the guarantee. The visiting combination used every means to hurry the game past three innings, which is necessary to secure their century. Captain Peter Wood noticed the water coming down in torrents and so declared himself. In the middle of his half of the third he called his men off the field, notwithstanding McLachlan's mandate to "play ball." The umpire took out his chronometer and watched the legal 60 seconds fliit by. Two minutes must have passed before Toronto succumbed. Finally three innings were completed, in which time Maddock's men had scored one run and the visitors nary a unit.

Then the complexion of the surroundings underwent a phenomenal change. Two more innings would give Toronto a victory, and falling to get that far meant "no game," which Bay City struggled for. Capt. Day wanted an umbrella, while Mr. Wood turned his benign countenance heavenward in vain to discover the falling of a single drop. Amidst many protestations the game progressed until the fifth was completed with Toronto two runs to their credit and still the visitors could not tally.

Rain fell heavily when Connors stepped to the plate to open the sixth. He flew out to West. Time was called with Rickley at bat. The visitors kicked firmly but good naturedly. After a 25-minutes' delay play was resumed and it was now Toronto's turn to delay. With the bases full the side was retired without any scoring. Saginaw started the second half of the sixth with the Torontos loth to take the field. After one man had retired and Hamilton had hit safely McLachlin finally called "game." The score reverts to the fifth inning:

Baseball in England.

[Newcastle (Eng.) Chronicle, April 30.]

This American pastime was introduced into Sunderland for the first time last evening, and judging by the manner in which it was appreciated baseball will no doubt become almost as popular as football. Mr. H. A. Sheffield and Mr. T. B. Moore, students of Edinburgh University, have been spending their Easter vacation in introducing the game into the North, and Mr. Sheffield arrived in Sunderland on Monday for the purpose of teaching those who are willing to learn. The ground of the Sunderland Football Club in Newcastle-road was placed at his disposal and the Sunderland team and a good number of friends and spectators assembled there last night for the purpose of having the game explained to them.

Baseball, as is pretty well-known, is the national game par excellence in America, and it has supplanted all other pastimes, while the players are paid princely salaries; but it will be remembered that when the two American teams visited this country in March of last year and played their opening match at the Oval on March 12, the game did not seem to take the fancy of the spectators, who merely looked upon it as an offshoot of the English game of rounders; and as a matter of fact this was the opinion of the British public at every place where the two American teams gave exhibitions of their prowess. Although the teams mentioned above were the best that could be got together, and were perfect exponents of the pastime, it must be confessed that the game did not take root in any part of the United Kingdom, and the furore which their visit caused at the outset soon died away. It is in every way likely, however, that if the youth of this district can be made to take an interest in the pastime, it will soon become as popular with them as has football within recent years, and it will also help to fill up the void during the football "close" season.

To-day's Baseball Game.

Saginaw-Bay City concludes their series with Toronto to-day, starting at 3½. Shepherd will likely pitch for the visitors and Titcombe or Wood for Toronto. Toronto plays in Detroit Monday and remains away until May 23.

Dust from the Diamond.

Shepherd was fined $5 for refusing to take the field in the rain yesterday.

Ike was at his old tricks yesterday, struck out twice and had his two errors.

So far over 100,000 people have seen the Boston Players' League Club play this year.

Rain prevented the London game at Hamilton and the Detroit match at Buffalo yesterday.

Eddie Burke is credited with playing a sensational field game against Brooklyn yesterday.

Catcher Roche was released by Hamilton yesterday and immediately signed by London.

The Woodlands would like to hear from any club whose members are 15 and under. Address Allie Irwin, 831 Yonge-st ceit.

President Von der Ahe has presented each member of the Browns with a magnificent blue serge citizen's suit for traveling purposes.

Coleman made his debut in the box yesterday and did not permit more than one hit in any inning. He uses a raise ball that is very effective.

Newman impressed the spectators favorably with his back-stop work yesterday. He easily threw the fast runner, Day, out at second in the third.

The front page of last Sunday's New York World was good for admission to yesterday's Brotherhood game at Gotham. It is estimated that 17,000 persons saw the match.

The Atlantas defeated the Church-streets yesterday by a score of 36 to 5. Batteries—Woodbridge and Fahey and Wright; Ross and Graham. The feature of the game was Wald's home run.

The Cleveland-Pittsburg and Chicago-Buffalo Players' League, Chicago-Cleveland National League and Toledo-Louisville and Columbus-St. Louis Association games were postponed yesterday.

Tom Ramsay, the old Louisville trainer, who was "given up for good," as the doctors would say, by the Louisville people, has turned out to be one of the Browns' strongest pitchers. He still has that old "drop" ball, and it is just as deceptive as ever.

Rickley fouled all Manager Maddock's balls over the fence and grand stand in the sixth, when the umpire demanded that McArthur should throw out one as per instructions from Secretary White. This was refused and Pete Wood took one out of his pocket.

The umpire difficulty threatens to attack the International this early in the season. Curry appears to be as efficient as McLachlin and Collins are incapable. From McLachlin's exhibitions here it is evident he must go; and outside reports say the same of Collins. And Curry may be wanted by one of the big Leagues at any moment.

"It was the most phenomenal bang on record," said a crank last night to his uptown friend who had not seen the game. "It was in the sixth. Two men were out and Wood, Grim and McLaughlin on bases with like at the bat." "He brought in three men with a triple," suggested the second gent. "Better than that—he brought in nine men, the other side, by striking out."

The committee that was appointed to make arrangements for the trip of Canadian Association football players to Fall River for the international match with the Rovers of that place have decided to abandon the game for the present. THE Y. W. C. A.

The New $45,000 Home of the Society in Elm-street.

Perhaps no organization in the city has accomplished more for the moral welfare of Toronto than the Young Women's Christian Association. For 17 years its work has been productive of much good and its progress from the time of inauguration in May, 1873, has been rapid. Not content with one line of work it has gradually extended its borders in almost every direction tending to the happiness of women.

In 1875 Mrs. Brett, a zealous worker in the association, started what is now known as the City Relief Society and which has always been affiliated with the mother organization. The following year "The Haven" was inaugurated by the association and it still remains a branch of the work. In 1885 the ladies of the association went a step further and organised the Girls' Industrial Institute, which is now distinct from the association. Since 1873 the headquarters of the ladies have been at 33 Duke-street, but the location and lack of room has long been an impediment to the work. With their customary activity the ladies decided some time ago that a new building was a necessity, and of course they were not long in finding ways and means to accomplish their ends.

The result is that now a new building is in the course of erection under the charge of Messrs. Gordon & Helliwell., It is situated on the north side of Elm-street, near Yonge, and is just west of where it is proposed to erect a new building for St. George's Society. The location could not be better, being close to one of the busiest streets in the city. The main part of the building will cover an area of 84x37 and there will also be a wing running north from the rear 49½x44½. Externally the structure will be handsome and commanding. The front and sides will be composed of red pressed brick, with a basement of brown stone. In the front will be a central tower surmounted by a flagstaff and containing the main entrance to the building. The attractiveness of the structure will be materially increased by large plate-glass windows in the basement and ground floor.

On the ground floor will be situated a combined reading-room and library, the secretary's office, a parlor and three class-rooms. On this floor the wing will form a large meeting-room capable of holding from 250 to 300 people, and if necessary it can be enlarged by opening the folding-doors separating it from the parlor and one of the class-rooms.

There is also a high basement. Here will be an airy gymnasium 88x37, a dressing-room and a kitchen and pantry for use on occasions of public socials. The interior of the gymnasium is excellently arranged for its purpose. The walls will be of finely finished brick.

All these rooms are for the public but the west half of the building and all the other stories are to be arranged for the boarding house. This is to be kept entirely separate from the rest of the building so that the quarters will be as private as if the girls resided in their own homes. On this side of the building the basement will contain the girls' dining-room, kitchen, pantries, etc.

In the boarding house on the ground floor will be two parlors, one of which will be used as a board room. On the whole of the first floor will be 23 bedrooms, two bathrooms, a lavatory and a linen room. On the second floor there will be 25 more bedrooms. The attic will be left unfinished for the present, but at some future date it will fitted up with 22 bedrooms. Each bedroom in the building will contain a closet.

The building will be heated by steam and the ventilation will be perfect, being obtained by a system of flues which enter each room and by ducts situated in the attic. In the rear there will be a handsome balcony. The total cost will amount to fully $45,000 and the building will be ready for occupation by the first of next January

The Drummer and His Grip.

Though the rain and sleet are falling,
And the roads are "awful muddy;"
Though all men "hard times" are bawling,
Though a fellow's nose gets ruddy,
Though the rivers may be frozen,
And the frost may bite and nip,
You can never stop the advent
Of the drummer and his grip.

Though the trains may all be smashing,
Though the horses all go lame,
The drummer, like the bedbug,
Will get there just the same.
And when his time is over,
Will come sailing from his trip,
For he always "makes connection,"
Does the drummer and his grip.

Ah, he teaches us a lesson,
With his energy and grit,
Things that "paralyse" most people
Don't astonish him a bit,
And he's ever bright and cheerful,
And a smile is on his lip;
He's a daisy from away back,
Is the drummer with his grip.

Give him a kind word always,
He'll give you back the same;
For the doings of some "black sheep"
Don't give the whole tribe blame.
For down, clear down in hades,
Some so-called "good men" slip,
While along the road to heaven
Goes the drummer (with his grip).

Eulogizing The Evening News.

Last night a deputation from Bricklayers' Union No. 2, headed by Mr. Andrew McCormack, visited The Evening News office and presented the manager and staff with a richly illuminated address expressive of the congratulations of the union at the result of the recent action for libel against The News and wishing it success as the advocate of the cause of labor. The deputation was received by Mr. Darby, who after the address had been read by Mr. Marsh, made a felicitous reply. Mr. T. A. Gregg, editor of the paper, also spoke, detailing the course of The News since it espoused the cause of labor. Mr. McCormack made a rousing address to the company that had assembled to witness the presentation, pointing out that the workingmen were no longer misinformed, thanks to the press, which kept them posted. "I would rather go without my breakfast than my morning paper," said Andrew, "and rather without my supper than my evening paper and I take both." Mr. Dobson of the strike committee also spoke, eulogizing the press for the aid it rendered the masses.

Dr. Parsons v. the Devil's Brass Bands.

Editor World: The reverend gentleman above-mentioned with windy, blatant and brassy effontery, simply asserts a falsehood, from the fact that Scripture informs us that Tubal Cain and not the devil was the inventor of brass instruments.

Would the reverend gentleman kindly answer the following questions:

1. Is Dr. Parsons an authority upon processions, civil or military?

2. Does declamation alone, however frothy or intolerant, prove anything? (We think not.)

3. Can the Rev. Dr. Parsons conscientiously say that he has done as much or more good than the humblest officer of the Salvation Army, if so, how can he prove it? The reverend gentleman should bear in mind that these parades are frequently the means of drawing men to church who otherwise would never darken a church door.

Mr. Baigent's Funeral.

The funeral of Mr. Richard Baigent took place from his late residence, Sherbourne-street, yesterday morning. The deceased had been the drawing-master of the Jarvis-street Collegiate Institute for over 25 years, and as a mark of respect the school was closed for the day.

The rector, masters and boys assembled as usual and proceeded to the house in a body, thence to the church and St. Michael's Cemetery. Among the floral offerings were an anchor from the girls, cut-roses from the staff and a wreath from the boys of the Collegiate Institute.

Mr. Baigent was also drawing-master of Upper Canada College for nearly 30 years.
