News Boy's Address.

To the Patrons of the

Chronicle

Again the News Boy makes a call
Not in his old accustomed way,
But wishes to inform the folk
That this is News Boy's holiday.

He brings to you an extra sheet
Which treats upon the year that's gone;
It bids you FORTY SEVEN hail,
And tune your harp for social song.

I wish you all a happy year;
Do hear kind Patrons what I say,
I'm very much in need of cash—
I'm loooking for my YEARLY PAY:

Up my muse, let us be starting,
Let us now begin to rhyme;
Try if we can furnish something
Suited to this New Year's time.

Well I know that there is nothing
On the common where I go—
But what grows up wild by nature
Such as never makes a show.

Redfern, Slader, Gore and Laskey,
They of laurels strip the field—
They are men of classic knowledge
Who can face the critic's steel.

I grew up no classic scholar,
I know nothing of that sect;
I was never taught the science,
Of the march of intellect.

I want on no polished armour,
Let me through the forest roam;
Give to me my mother wit,
Let me have my sling and stone.

I will take a stroll at random,
And the Provinces explore—
I will cross the broad Atlantic
'Till I see old England's shore.

Then I'll see what Peel's been doing,
See the changes he has made;
See the public wheel revolving
To establish his Free Trade.

See him in the field of Commerce
Advocating Britain's cause;
Has he sacrificed his honour,
Or does he deserve applause?

When he stood up in his glory
In the great commercial fight,
Then the "veteran Statesman" heard him
And acknowledged he was right.

Did he drop the scale of power—
Did he ever stand aloof?
And when thousands cried dishonour,
Did he listen without proof?

Rouse, ye freeborn sons of Britain,
To the Constitution stand;
Nor allow it to be shaken
By a base malignant band.

See ye not his friend Dick Cobden
How he's driving on with speed;
See he'll shake the Constitution
If he carries out the league.

Dark indeed's the state of Erin—
Heard ye not the voice of strife?
See her poor in deep starvation—
See the loss of human life!

Raise her from her degradation—
Let your sympathy be shed;
Give her artisans employment—
Give her starving children bread.

Peace be to old Caledonia!
Like her mountains ever firm;
See her wealth in Agriculture,
There the lesson from her learn.

Does she seek for separation?
All she asks is quickly told;
Give to her a fair protection,
As she had in days of old.

Stop my muse and we'll enquire—
Could it be the work of chance
That Spain's Infanta is united
To the Dauphin son of France?

Can't you see there's an alliance
Bound by matrimonial tie?
See John Bull bids them defiance,
He does all their strength defy.

Haste on my muse, and onward further—
Off to India—see Cabul—
Hear the spirit of rebellion
'Mong the wild fanatic fools.

See great Gough the conquering hero,
Does Great Britain know his worth?
Yes—she's crowning him with honour
Worthy of his noble birth.

Conquering hero! son of thunder!
Roar of Cannon thy delight;
And thy motto "no surrender"
When thou faced the daring Sikh.

Hail Britannia! dread of nations,
Mistress of the land and seas;
Thou mak'st all thy foes knock under
As thou didst the proud Chinese.

Speed me on a little further—
California's in my view;
War of Oregon is over,
Jonathan's enough to do.

Let him count his cents and dollars,
Calculate the cost anew;
That 'twill take to disinherit
The hardy sons of Mexico.

Haste my muse and speed me homeward
Let us see what's going on,
At our home the thriving City
Which we designate Saint John.

See our harbour stock'd with shipping,
There's a growth in enterprise;
Trade is rapidly increasing,
See our splendid buildings rise!

And no sooner are they finished
Than they're filled with merchandize—
And we see the Gents and Misses
Purchasing their large supplies.

There are many more improvements
That have lately come to pass;
Recently our streets were lighted
By a brilliant flame of Gas.

As we glance at the election
We see changes and disgrace;
See what trouble and vexation
Have been reigning through the place.

Through that humbug of a "Union"
That so many did surprise;
But like all newfangled notions,
Down it went no more to rise.

Let Dr. Sam go 'tend his patients,
Cram them with professic drugs;
Issue pills of desperation
Such as agitate humbugs.

The President can mind his shipping,
Long J. S. can 'tend his store;
Loyal J. can practice pleading
Just as he has done before.

Heard you not the lamentation
That has rung throughout the place,
About the recent execution
Which the ladies deem disgrace.

Hear them sighing, moaning, crying,
We must save him if we can;
Some allow there was no harm in Killing of an Irishman.

See you not our long petition,
Sign your names and save his life;
Know you not that many of us
Would be proud to be his wife.

Hark! the City clock is striking,
Forty-six has gone his way;
Welcome in young Forty-Seven,
Hail this happy New Year's day.

If it brings you health and plenty—
If your treasure's running o'er,
Don't forget the thousands wanting,
Begging bread from door to door.

Prosper well our Constitution—
Sons of Britain all agree
To hail Victoria Britain's Glory—
Fill your hearts with Loyalty.

Not forgetting our Sir William
Who is present to our view;
Happiness attend his lady—
"Happy New Year" so adieu.
