Here's Just the Right Bowel Laxative

Gentle, Sure—Pleasant to Take—A Tried and True, Genuine, Nature's Remedy.

If you do not have free, easy and regular movements of the bowels you lack the prime and first essential of good health. There's more harm done than mere uncomfortableness, sluggishness and bilious ness—retention of food wastes in the bowels pollutes, irritates and poisons. You make the circulatory system—the blood—a scavenger instead of a fountain of purest life and untainted vitality. The ills of constipation are not trifling but nearly always are fraught with vital significance. Seek your relief in Nature! Accept the gentle, natural aid of Lax-ets! Be sure not to force and crowd the delicate organs of the stomach! Avoid all the danger of powerful and unknown medicines! Your safety and your health are always secured—if you take Lax-ets. The formula is on every box—show it to your family physician. Lax-ets are put up in a flat metal case in handy tablet form—one tablet taken before meals or on retiring always brings relief. Pleasing to take—the most potent yet gentle of all remedies—a genuine help of Nature's—a bowel laxative which cures constipation. Recommended and for sale by Recalling a Mailed Letter.

Many times people would like to recall a letter after it has been mailed. This can be done even if the letter has reached the postoffice of its destination. At every postoffice there are what are called "withdrawal blanks." On application they will be furnished, and when a deposit is made to cover the expense the postmaster will telegraph to the postmaster at the letter's destination asking that it be promptly returned. The applicant first signs this agreement: "It is hereby agreed that, if the letter is returned to me, I will protect you from any and all claims made against you for such return and will fully indemnify you for any loss you may sustain by reason of such action. And I herewith deposit $— to cover all expenses incurred and will deliver to you the envelope of the letter returned." In many cases persons have made remittances to fraudulent parties or irresponsible firms, not learning their true character until after the letter had gone, and have succeeded in recalling them.

A Quick Start.

O. W. Nickerson and J. S. Baker were residents of Harwick. Captain Nickerson, as he was called, was a man of means and very shrewd. Joe was less fortunate. One day the captain met Joe and said, "Come over tonight." Joe did so, and as soon as he entered the captain's home the captain took him into a distant room, closed all the windows and doors securely and said: "Now, Joe, I will tell you the secret of getting rich and you can pay me $25. Be saving, of course, and when you do make a bargain with any one be sure that no one hears you, and then if you get the worst of it or want to back out you can. Now hand me the $25."

Joe thought a second and then said, "Did any one hear us make this bargain, captain?"

"Not a soul," replied the captain.

"Well, then," Joe said, "I guess I'll begin on you."

"Where the Treasure Is," Etc.

"Harold," said the heiress, "I have been thinking."

"Thinking of me, precious?" asked Harold.

"Indirectly, yes. I have been thinking that were you to marry me everybody would say you only did so in order to get my money."

"What care I for the unthinking world?"

"But, oh, Harold, I will marry you!"

"My own dar"—

"And I will not have people say unkind things about you, so I have arranged to give all my fortune to the missionaries. Why, Harold, where are you going?"

Harold paused long enough on his way to the door to look back and mutter, "I'm going to be a missionary!"—Judge.

Star Rays.

What causes the rays or pencils of light that seem to be thrown out by every star when seen by the naked eye? A German scientist finds that all stars show precisely the same rays, but that in the case of the brighter stars the rays are plainer and somewhat longer. It is further remarked that the rays seen by the left and right eyes differ, and that if the head be turned the rays are rotated in a corresponding manner. It is thus concluded that the source of the rays is not in the stars, but in the eye itself, the middle of the retina being not perfectly homogeneous in its sensitiveness.

How a Horse Sleeps.

Horses always point one ear forward when they sleep. Exactly why it is done no human being can tell, but the probability is that the practice is a relic of the time when they were wild and obliged to be on their guard even when asleep. Cattle, on the other hand, are apparently indifferent as to the position of their ears while sleeping, but no odds what position they are in both are always pointed alike. Ask some observing horseman if it is not a fact that a horse always throws one ear forward when he sleeps.

Commerce and Literature.

"Do you think that a commercial career is to be compared to a literary career?" asked the high browed and melancholy youth.

"My boy," said Mr. Cumrox, "in business you can write your name on a piece of paper no bigger than a postal card and make it worth thousands of dollars. In literature you can write up reams of paper without making it worth 50 cents."

Weeds For Weeds.

Fred—So you are really going to marry that young widow, eh? Joe—Yes. Fred—She tells me you have promised to give up smoking. Joe—Yes, sort of mutual sacrifice, as it were. She agreed to give up her weeds if I would give up mine.

The Kangaroo at Bay.

When pursued the kangaroo, if possible, directs his flight toward the river. If he reaches it, he enters and, thanks to his great height, is able to go on foot to a depth where the dogs are obliged to swim. There he plants himself on his two hind legs and his tail, and, up to his shoulders in the water, he waits the attack of the dogs. With his fore paws he seizes by the head the first dog that approaches him, and, as he is more solidly balanced than his assailant, he holds the dog's nose under water as long as he can. Unless a second dog speedily comes to the rescue the first one is sure to be drowned. If a companion arrives and by his attacks on the kangaroo manages to set the captive free the half drowned brute is glad to regain the shore as quickly as possible. In this way a strong and courageous male kangaroo will hold his own against twenty or thirty dogs, drowning some and frightening others, and the hunter is obliged to intervene with a bullet.

The Scorpion of Ceylon.

A more disagreeable object than a scorpion of Ceylon it would be difficult to imagine. Although, as a rule, it does not measure more than seven inches in length, there is a species found in the woods that are longer than a foot. They crawl out of some dried wood, and, taking up their position on a convenient rock or stone, look, as they hold their great jointed sting curved over their backs and their claws held aloft, the very picture of aggressive warfare. Here they stretch themselves in the broiling sun and await their prey. These are the small, beautiful honeybirds that dart from flower to flower and take the place of the humming birds of the east. As one approaches the scorpion seems to shrink into the stone until it becomes almost imperceptible. Suddenly the great insect will raise its claws and dart at its beautiful victim, which in a moment is destroyed.

A Human Nose Two Feet In Length.

Elephantiasis is a peculiar form of leprosy in which the limbs and features swell to horrible proportions and out of all semblance to the legs, arms and faces of human beings. Cases are known where the legs have become so swollen that they measured 4½ feet in circumference. The ears of the same victim, Walter Brisbane, an English sailor, were eighteen inches in length, and his nose elongated to upward of two feet when in the last stages of the horrible malady.—London Telegraph.

Feminine Logic.

"The female sex," said M. Calino lately, "is the most illogical in the world."

"What new proof have you of the want of devotion of women to the canons of logic?" he was asked.

"Why, take my wife," answered M. Calino. "I had all the trouble in the world to get her to enter her thirties, and now, a dozen years later, I can't get her out of them."

False Pretense.

"No, madam," said Bridget, "I'll not have widout two weeks' notice. That was the conthract an' I'll howld yez to it."

"But," replied Mrs. Hiram Offen, "you broke the contract in the first place by representing yourself as a cook."

Put Her Foot Down.

Naggin—But why don't you argue the matter out with your wife? Meekton—Hush! My wife has very positive ideas on that subject. The moment I opened my mouth my wife would put her foot down, and— Naggin—The idea! I should think you'd choke to death.

Near Drowning at Kettle Point

John McCurdy and Archie Watson, both north end boys, probably owe their lives to the prompt action of a young man of Forest. The two boys were out in a small rowboat near Kettle Point, when the boat was overturned and the occupants thrown into the water. The Canadian was the only person in the vicinity at the time of the accident, but he managed to rescue them.—Port Huron Times

THE Winnipeg Free Press estimates for the Canadian West crop report for 1906 a yield on the average of 19 bushels per acre on 4,750,000 acres, or a total of 90,250,000 bushels. The Free Press claims that for three years in succession it has made the most correct estimate of the crop yield.

IT is almost next to impossible to get a man to do anything these days. Those who want to work have all they can do, while those who hate work—well its impossible to get them to do anything in any case. It's lucky we haven't many of the latter in this community.

THE house fly is said to be largely responsible for the high death rate from diarrhoea. If mothers would only keep milk for the children in clean and covered vessels to prevent the house fly getting at it the infantile mortality would be speedily reduced.

THEY were looking over beautiful Woodlawn Cemetery. O'Comiskey, filled with admiration, said to his friend and guide: "This is the spot, the very identical spot, where I intend being laid, if I am spared." Of course, it was an Irishman who said to his physician: "Doctor, yer stuff me so much wid drugs Oi'm sick a long toime after Oi git well."

A TOWN is greatly judged by its schools and churches. Our churches are a credit to a place of this size. Our church buildings are large, neat and inviting and our pastors are pulpit orators, the equal of which one seldown finds outside the metropolitan cities. Our schools are equally good in most respects Our buildings are all that could be desired; our teachers are the best that money and a careful and wise school board can employ, and if our schools do not come up to the perfection line the fault can be traced to the pupils themselves, who fail to appreciate the advantages a generous public has given them.
