FREE TRADE IN BUILDING MATERIALS.

Chicago, Jan. 15, 1872.

Two important movements—both of them having much interest to Canadians—are now agitating what may be called the "middle class" of this city, by which I mean those interested in property and doing business. Both movements meet with almost universal support, and in both the City Council, a fairly representative body of the intelligence and wishes of the city, has given its assistance. The first, and by for the most important of the two, in so far as Canada is concerned, is the endeavor now being made to have similar privileges extended to the rebuilding Chicagoans in the years of grace 1872-73, as were extended to the inhabitants of Portland after their memorable fire catastrophe. The admittance of building materials from foreign ports, free of duty, it agreed to by Congress, means a developement of Western Canadian trade with this place that was not seen during the best days of the Reciprocity Treaty. A mighty city in ruins, and the owners of land eager in the race of rebuilding, means that Canadian lumbermen, Canadian brick manufacturers, Canadian iron manufacturers, and Canadian glass manufacturers and importers, will have a busy season this year and the next. The movement here is in the hands of our most influential citizens. The Mayor enters into the project with all possible earnestness, for in its success he sees the success of his fire-limits made possible; the leading journals unanimously approve of the movement; and real estate owners and merchants are as a unit on the subject. The only parties that raise any objection at all, or cavil at the action proposed, are the men interested in the trades likely to be affected by the action. Opinions are divided as to what will be the action of Congress in the matter, but it is likely, having in view the coming Presidential contest and the increasing importance of the Western vote, that the request will be cordially complied with. It is very likely that each party will strive to outdo the other, in order the more favourably to influence public opinion. I have noticed in the Globe an expression of opinion in favor of this course, and in other journals outside of Chicago the same view has been held. This public opinion will, no doubt, have its due effect.

There has been quite a stir among the agents of the Canadian brick makers and lumbermen stationed here, and, from despatches which have been made public, large orders are already taken and offered and contracts agreed on, on the condition that if Congress makes the abatement the landowner shall receive a pro rata benefit. It is getting to be a provision commonly inserted in such contracts.

The Mexican revolution by last events, may be said to be at an end. Annexation to the United States is the latest theory.

The Pacific Coast Wrecking Company are about to send out to the coast of Ecuador a party in search of treasure.

To the Editor of the C. P. Herald.

DEAR SIR,—The Presbyterian bodies of St. Andrew's and St. John's, Almonte, held their annual missionary and social meetings respectively, on Thursday and Friday, the 11th and 12th inst.

With your permission, I would desire a small space in your widely circulated journal, for a few remarks, critical, laudatory or otherwise with respect to said meetings, as the cases may seem to merit, by at least one in the audience, and feel confident by many in both congregations.

Such subjects as missionary meetings, their objects, and the policy adopted, (or to use words perhaps more consonant to ecclesiastical matters, I might say) the course of action pursued by the clergy for the furtherance of the various schemes of the church; will not I feel confident, be injured in the least, by, as our cousins across the lines would say, a little public "ventilation." Whatever statements therefore may be made in this article, I trust may not be charged to personal feelings, malevolence, or a wish to discountenance or discourage the various schemes of the church for the evangelization of the world. Far be it from the writer of this, to wish to throw cold water upon the missionary efforts of the church; for I am firm in the faith, that the more a nation becomes truly christianized, the happier and more prosperous it will become, even in a temporal point of view.

The meeting in St. Andrew's was opened by devotional exercises; the Pastor Rev. Mr. Gordon in the chair. The speakers on the platform were Rev. Mr. McGillvray, of Brockville; Rev. Mr. Ross, of Beckwith; Rev. Mr. McKenzie, of Almonte; Rev. Mr. Campbell, of Renfrew, and Rev. Mr. Doudiet, of Montreal, and we had also the assistance of a good choir discoursing sweet strains, between the various addresses.

The Rev. Mr. McGillvray was the first person called upon to address the meeting. His remarks were very clear and energetic in regard to our duties as Christians living under a gospel dispensation. That we should be zealous for the spread of that same great privilege which we enjoyed, to those who were not so happily situated. He stated that he had been conversing one day lately with a person, a good professing Christian too, who had been at one of these meetings, who said that their speeches were all very good; the only fault he had to them, was, that they had said too much about giving. He (Mr. McG) had felt very sore indeed, to think, that such thoughts could be entertained by persons with an open bible and a preached gospel. He enforced his claims of Christian liberality, towards the spread of the "truth as it is in Jesus," by the authority of the master, and concluded his address, by strenuously urging the claims of missions, upon the means of all professing Christians, according as the Lord had blessed them in their store and in their basket.

The succeeding speakers all spoke in the same tenor pointing out clearly our position, as admonished and commanded in the pages of Holy Writ. Mr. Ross said that the subject laid out for him by the Presbytery, was the several schemes of the church. Said that these were six in number, and that to speak upon them all would occupy more time than was then at his disposal; so would confine himself to the last upon the list, namely, the Home Mission Scheme. He showed us from a scriptural point of view, that our endeavors for the propagation of the gospel, should begin in our own midst and spread outwards; for the Great Head of the church commanded his disciples to go and preach the gospel to all nations, beginning first at Jerusalem. All strongly impressed upon the audience the greater blessedness of giving than receiving.

The last speaker Rev. Mr. Doudiet of Montreal on rising, said, that he had come here to speak to them of the French Canadian mission scheme and endeavor to enlist their sympathies in its behalf. But before entering upon his subject he would wish to make a remark or two. Said he had listened with a great deal of pleasure and was sorry to say, likewise with some pain to what had been said by previous speakers on the platform. He was of the opinion that too much had been said about giving. Thought that when any subject requiring the assistance of the philanthropic or benevolent, was rightly put before the intelligence of a community, that there was not much doubt of the realization of the end desired. Only show men your case and let their intelligence be convinced of its reality and desirability; and he had no fears for the result. As an instance of this, the Chicago fire was an apt illustration. The people of New York had but to be made aware by the flash of the electric wire of the sufferings of their brethren at the scene of the conflagration, when that fast express train, loaded with food and clothing, was despatched with almost electric celerity, to the relief of the sufferers. And he contended that in ecclesiastical matters, like beneficial effects would flow from an earnest, truthful and clear exposition of the cause requiring fostering care. Queen's College was a case in point. At the time of its pecuniary embarrassment, it was feared that the church might suffer for a time. But what was the result. It was that, as soon as the friends of the fostering growth of the church were made aware of the critical position of that institution, they put their shoulders to the wheel and have preserved the machinery of Queen's College intact.

The Rev. gentleman then proceeded with his subject. He gave us a very clear and concise sketch of the F. C. Mission. The greatness of the work to be done, its desirability,—the good already accomplished in the good seed sown, and the arduousness of the task from persecutions by the enemies of the truth, and sometimes too by being hampered by various shades of advice, from its friends; the plain, unvarnished statement of which would convince any unbiased mind of the very great difficulties in the way of the successful working of the scheme. Yet withal Mr. D. appeared to be full of hope and sanguine of a successful issue, at no very distant day. He concluded without the usual biblical admonitions. His truly is a labour of love. The meeting was then dismissed by singing the doxology and the pronouncing of the benediction.

On Friday evening the services in St. John's were opened by praise and prayer. There were several clergymen on the platform and the Pastor in the chair. Refreshments were then served, which being got through with, the audience were enlivened by the strains of a very strong and efficient choir, with melodeon accompaniment, which rendered very pleasing service throughout the evening.

The Rev. Mr. Burns of Perth, was the first called upon to address the meeting. He stated that the subject set apart for him to treat upon, was the Home Mission Scheme. Said that the Rev. Mr. Gregg of Toronto, was present to advocate the foreign mission scheme, and before commencing, he would wish it to be understood that he was not opposed to the Foreign Mission, and what he had to say, he did not wish to clash with the claims to be urged upon their notice by his Rev. friend from Toronto. On the contrary he was a friend to all schemes for the furtherance of the Redeemer's Kingdom. But as he was of the opinion that Canada was destined to become the home of many millions of our race, we ought to strive to sow the seeds of pure and undefiled religion, so that our country might become a good, as well as, a great nation. Mr. B treated his subject throughout in a very lucid manner, and concluded by urging upon his hearers the duty of Christian liberality.

The addresses from speakers following, were all, nearly, in the same strain. The Rev. Mr. Gregg of Toronto, gave us a little light on the working of the Foreign Mission in China, in the hands of the Presbyterian church of Canada. The meeting was closed at about eleven o'clock by singing of the Doxology and the pronouncing of the Benediction.

And now Mr. Editor, in thinking over all that I can remember of what I heard those two nights last week, I find but little information gained in regard to those schemes and their workings. But I have listened to a very great amount of censure, anent the sin of too small an appropriation one's substance towards the claims of the church. Am well aware that the laity are in duty bound to take heed to the words of their pastors, provided they are sanctioned by the words of inspiration and spoken in all charity. I admit too, that rebuke and admonition are often necessary; and the writer feels that he oft deserves both. Still I cannot allow myself to look up to the clergy as demigods. They are human and consequently are liable to many shortcomings, as well as we. How comes it that we so rarely hear of a minister leaving a congregation giving a good stipend, for one giving very much less, say, for a small remuneration in the backwoods, or rarer still in exchange for a pulpit in central Africa, India, or the Fiji Islands. Without doubt many of us require to be remembered occasionally of the duty of the cultivation of Christian liberality. Still I deem the inculcation to have been rather strongly put before the congregation of St. John's on Friday evening. I hold, considering, as their pastor stated, that they were all working people, not one being, he said, what could be termed rich, that within the past three or four years, they have given of their means towards the church, a fair proportion, in purchasing of sites for church and manse and in erecting thereon a church, and a dwelling house for the pastor, both quite creditable edifices even for the village of Almonte. And likewise when their minister was in poor health last year, and it was deemed that a trip across the Atlantic, might prove beneficial to him, they immediately set to work and furnished the needful to defray the cost of said trip for himself and lady. And if I remember right, about the same time, they presented Mrs. McKenzie with a carpet and some other household "fixings." Am informed also that at this very time present, they have raised a purse of some sixty dollars, as a small token of regard for their pastor. Yet notwithstanding it is quite possible, should the Rev. gentleman receive a call to fill a vacant charge, not a hundred miles distant from the city of Hamilton, that he might accept of it. But in that event we might told, that this was a move for the advancement of the Redeemer's Kingdom; that it was a call from the Lord. Apropos, to which, I have often noted, the words of an old divine in the west of Scotland (Rev. Dr. Fleming) "they will tell you it is a call from the Lord, but the Lord might call again and again, if there was no increase of stipend, they would not hear the call. Now these things being so, I think it behooves the clergy to judge charitably of their lay brethern. Moreover I contend that this enterprising, money making nineteenth century has done far more, towards the spreading of the gospel than the two preceding centuries put together, and if we have to plead guilty to the charge of being overmuch set upon the accumulation of substance, in our farms and our merchandise, I do think that the shepherds of the flocks, are, as a class, as fond of creature comforts, in the shape of fine houses and goodly plenishings, musical instruments and all the various et ceteras of fashionable life as are the flocks. However as two blacks will never make a white, perhaps it would be as well to meet each other half way upon a common platform and each try to emulate the other in deeds of charity.

Trusting that I may not have ever stepped the bounds of moderation, I sum up by fondly hoping that at our next anniversary meetings, we may listen to more cheering and edifying addresses.

Yours, A HEARER.
Almonte, Jan. 18, 1872.

Amongst the symptoms of Consumption which present themselves as the disease progresses, are cold chills, cough, shortness of breath, restlessness at night, loss of appetite, loss of flesh, night sweats, hectic, expectoration of white mucous, pellets, also yellow and bluish or gray matter, sometimes streaked with blood; burning pains in the chest, diarrhœa, general prostration and incapacity for the ordinary duties of life. As the patient becomes reduced, other complications appear and he rapidly sinks. A remarkable and very common physical sign among consumptives is their exemption from alarm; notwithstanding the dangerous character of their disease, they believe in ultimate recovery. This very confidence prevents the patients from resorting to the only means of cure, and that watchfulness necessary in so critical a time, until finally they lapse into hopeless irrecovery. Like the first adventurous boatman that rowed down from Erie, broad and smooth was the river, rapid his progress, and pleasant his anticipations. Alas, the tide which drifted him so rapidly was one of destruction, and when he would retrace his way he found the current too strong to stem, and that he drew nearer every instant to the mighty Niagara. Down, down, he was carried amidst the the seething spray, and with his bark was dashed to pieces.

The consumptive is admonished to resort to Fellows' Compound Syrup of Hypophosphites, when the first symptom presents itself as it is the only sure remedy.

The importance of giving Sheridan's Cavalry Condition Powders to horses that have been out in the cold rain, stood in cold wind, or drank too much cold water, cannot be over-estimated; no man should be without it that owns a good horse.

The first railroad train entered Constantinople last week.

FELLOW'S Compound Syrup of Hypophosphites. As all life endowed bodies, whether they be Beasts, Birds, Reptiles, Insects, or even Zoophites, and subjects of the Vegetable Kingdom, are governed by vital force, which binds all the springs of existence, and as nothing can save them from destruction when this principle leaves them, the discovery of means whereby vitality may be sustained in the living body is indeed a boon to the world

Modern Chemistry has ventilated the question and discovered the ingredients constituting the brain, muscles and nerves, and finds that by introducing these ingredients in proper proportions the brain and nervous system are strengthened.

This, then, is substantially the basis on which Fellows' Hypophosphites is built, its direct action is upon the blood, the brain and nervous system, and the muscles. Strengthening the Nerves, it causes the rapid distribution of vitalized blood in the Muscular Organs of the Body.

As this is entirely distinct and different from every other preparation of Hypophosphites, be careful to ask for Fellows' Syrup, and take no other.

It is adapted for all cases of weakness and Emaciation, whether arising from a sedentary life, a tropical climate, from fever, or debility from any cause, and is efficacious in Pulmonary Consumption, many confirmed cases having been cured and all benefitted, where its use has been continued over a fortnight.

In Bronchitis it is a specific, and in Asthma it gives relief where every other remedy fails.

For Nervous Debility it stands unrivalled, and may be used with confidence in all cases.

Rousing the Sluggish Heart and Liver, strengthening the action of the Stomach and Bowels, and enabling the Lungs to be fully inflated with Oxygen.

Sold by Apothecaries. Price, $1.50 Six for $7.50.
