EDITOR M'INTYRE'S DEATH

IT IS CHARGED THAT MR. McINTYRE, A NATIVE OF PRINCE EDWARD ISLAND, WAS MURDERED.

The Fearful Beating He Received at the Hands of His Political Enemies Claimed to be the Cause of His Demise.

Winfield S. Overton, of Whitestone, Long Island, the long and intimate friend of the late Angus P. McIntyre, editor of the Long Island city Tribune, created a sensation in Mayor Gleason's municpality yesterday by declaring in a double leaded editorial in the newspaper which he is temporarily conducting, that Mr. McIntyre was murdered. He calls for the vengeance of the law on his late friend's assailants. There is no question but that violence had something to do with causing the editor's death. Up to a certain period about a year and a half ago Mr. McIntyre was a man of robust physique. All of a sudden he began to show signs of failing health and though carefully treated by skilled physicians grew markedly worse from day to day. He spent last winter in Florida and returned home in March apparently improved; but very soon there occurred a relapse and the old symptoms reappeared and his friends foresaw the end approaching. While Judge Overton's charge that his friend was murdered may be extravagant, and while it may be that he lived long enough to close the gates of the law against a criminal prosecution, the particulars of the affair which Mr. Overton has in mind are known to a number of persons. One night after a political meeting Editor McIntyre strolled into the hotel of Thomas Hogan, and, being sociable to a fault, he ordered drinks for himself and a few friends whom he recognized. One of these friends took the liberty of inviting to the bar a man for whom Mr. McIntyre had no friendly feeling and he remonstrated. High words followed until it came to a point of self defense according to the manly art. Two men stood ready to rain blows on Mr. McIntyre, who was no match for either of them. With the agility of a wildcat he sprang upon one of them, bit his under lip off and spat it out on the floor. No one realized for an instant what had transpired. When the man looked in the glass and saw his disfigurement he was seized with the rage of a wounded tiger, and fell to work on McIntyre with blows like those of a trip hammer. The second man, just as big and strong, dealt sledge hammer blows to the journalist. When he fell on the floor, senseless and bleeding, they jumped upon him until they thought him dead. Then they carried his body out and laid it in an open lot, where hours afterward he was discovered wet through from a driving rain. He was an awful sight, and one of his legs was sprained so badly that for weeks he had to move about on crutches. From that night dated his physical decline. One of the men had picked up the other's lip and put it in his pocket. They hastened to Dr. Denler, but the piece of flesh was dead and could not be replaced. The facts of the affray were known to the police at the time. The men are still in the city and are well known. One of them drove a wagon for the Long Island express company.

The Tribune says:

Up to last fall Mr. McIntyre was the embodiment of health and physical vigor. He was a fine specimen of perfect stature and strength. It is true, his habits did not conform to the stereotyped formula prescribed by physicians and moralists. But as to the former he had a surplus of strength; as to the latter, qualities that in comparison would, or should, make his critics blush. He was chock full of humanity. His great, full nature responded to the smallest or the greatest draught. Nothing that could not defend itself would be unprotected in his presence. His tremendous strength would be made felt to relieve a street dog from abuse; his muscular arm would be the first uplifted to shield the weak from the strong; just as his heart and purse were always opened and always emptied to sympathize with the afflicted and to help the distressed.

The exact particulars of his trouble last fall we never heard—we never desired to know. It began, we believe in his defense of some woman's name. He was set upon by a set of burly fellows, and, after being knocked insensible was kicked on his sides until from sheer exhaustion his assailants were compelled to desist. Then began his illness, in September which at last eventuated in his death. In our judgment as it is the opinion of all who know the facts, Mr. McIntyre was foully, brutally murdered, and to-day his blood calls for that vengeance, which must sooner or later overtake his assassins. He is the victim—his murder was the natural and logical outcome—of that spirit of lawlessness which had so long obtained the mastery of our people and which had been so long protected and excused by the official corruption in our courts. For years life and property had been the puppets of politicians and official knaves, crime had been encouraged and condoned by men whose duty it was to punish—by courts whose portals were closed to all applicants for justice in whose scales a wire pulled, or henchman, was liable to be weighed. Under such circumstances it is not strange that the tree had not then, and does not now refuse to bear its criminal fruit, though, thank God, its branches are nearly withered and its trunk is in rapid decay. The finger of justice points which no uncertainty to the cause of his and to many other good men's death in this city—and a just Judge has already dealt with some, as He will soon with others, who were primarily responsible for this terrible condition of affairs.

THE PEACE CONGRESS.

OPINIONS OF PROMINENT FRENCHMEN ON INTERNATIONAL ARBITRATION.

Emile Ollivier Says It Is Out of the Question, and at Present, Hopes of Such a Congress are Purely Chimerical.

BY TELEGRAPH TO THE GAZETTE.

LONDON, July 22.—Apropos of the Peace Congress here, an expression of the opinions of distinguished Frenchmen have been obtained as to the possibility of averting war by international arbitration.

Emile Ollivier, prime minister under Napoleon the third, says: Anything in the nature of international arbitration is out of the question since Italy had not retaken possession of Lombardy and Venice and Alsace Lorraine had not been given back to France. Until then the hopes of a universal peace congress are purely chimerical.

Jules Simon, the well known orator, hopes that finally a court of arbitration will be constituted among the various peoples. He sees ample reason to justify all men in devoting their efforts in the cause of universal peace.

The Marquis DeVogue, diplomat and author, expressed himself most vigorously and radically on the subject. He says: "So long as there are left on the globe two men with bread and money and women between them, so long will there be bloodshed and strife.

BY TELEGRAPH TO THE GAZETTE.

FREDERICTON July 22.—The Rev. Dr. McLeod, pastor of the Free Christian Baptist church, has resigned his position. He will preach his farewell sermon on Sunday next. Dr. McLeod has been pastor of this church for over twenty years.

Our citizens were greatly surpisred yesterday on hearing that Mr. F. W. Cram has resigned the position of manager of the N. B. Railway.

Captain Matthews and Lieut. Davis of the Salvation army here held a farewell meeting on Sunday evening last.

CHICAGO, July 22.—The following has been received this morning at Rock Island Railroad Company's office in this city: Rock Island train No. 14 went through a bridge about a mile west of Lyman last night. ST. PETERSBURG, July 22.—A portion of the town of Slonim has been wrecked by a hurricane and many personsa re buried in the ruins. Nineteen bodies so far have been taken out.

The Unfinished Wall.

As there was no grand jury summoned this morning the complaint regarding the Mount Pleasant road and retaining wall could not be dealt with and the matter will lie over till the next sitting of the court. The following gentlemen will give testimony as to the dangerous and unsatisfactory condition of the road: Fred E. Barker, A. Rowan, A. Seely, John H. Parks, Dr. Silas Alward, Ald. J. J. Forrest, Ald. McGoldrick and others. Any one who sees the amount of work that has been done already and the small additional outlay that is needed to make the road a splendid driveway and walk of a reasonable grade must see that the work should be completed according to the plan of the city engineer. If this was done the grade, which is now in places as much as 12 per cent, would be reduced to an even 8 per cent all the way, and the road instead of being only 15 to 25 feet wide as before would have a width of 66 feet altogether. Then with a neat iron railing along the top of the wall and a good sidewalk, this important road would be a boulevard that the city might be proud of.

TO BOYCOTT THE NORTH.

THE GOVERNOR OF GEORGIA'S LETTER ON THE SUBJECT.

The Position He Hopes the Negroes Will Take—Courtesies to Ontario's Prison Reform Committee—The Guatemalan Battle Doubted.

BY TELEGRAPH TO THE GAZETTE.

NEW YORK, July 22.—Governor Gordon of Georgia in a communication to the Herald says he is in entire accord with the spirit, tone, and practical suggestions of the Atlanta Constitution as to the use of the boycott as a means of self preservation and commercial independence if the Force bill becomes law.

He sincerely hopes the southern negroes will not destroy their own prosperity by consorting with those whose mad policy threatens the well being of both races.

"We shall still hope," he concludes, "that after these years of apparent reconciliation and of restored confidence we shall not see the whole current of national sentiment turned backward and downward by sectional legislation which has no possible justification nor excuse."

BOSTON, July 22.—The Ontario Prison commission specially appointed by the Provincial government to inquire into the various questions connected with prison management and the causes of crime arrived in Boston last evening.

They propose to investigate the most important penal reformatory and industrial institutions of the United States.

From the Prison Commissioners of Massachusetts they have received an invitation to inspect the institutions under control of that department and they will begin work today.

NEW YORK, July 22.—A special from Washington says no news has been received at the State Department confirmatory of the reported outbreak of hostilities between Guatemala and San Salvador.

Acting Secretary Adee is inclined to doubt the authenticity of the intelligence that a battle has taken place.

The latest official news is that the armed forces of San Salvador and Guatemala were watching each other on the frontier. Nothing has been heard from the United States minister, Miesner, at Guatemala, who has been telegraphed to for information.

Salmon, Grilse and Trout.

CAMP ADAMS, JULY 19.—Young Dick Hutchison, son of E. Hutchison, ex M. P. P., accompanied by his friend and boyish companion arrived at Camp Adams Wednesday evening, the 16th inst. Mr. John Kingston of Chaplin Island Road was their guide.

Thursday morning Mr. Adams, wife, and son Clay, left for home. Mr. Adams spent 23 days at camp, and had as company Mr. Hamilton of your city, Messrs. Armstrong and Lawlor of Newcastle, also Mr. D. B. C. Brown of Aspen, Colorado, and some other local notables.

John Hudson, one of the firm of Tracey & Co, Brooklyn, New York, leaves Newcastle for Adams fishing grounds tomorrow (Monday) accompanied by Master Clay Adam sand Ned Way—Archie Stewart for guide and cook. Mr. Hudson will remain eight days at Camp. This is Mr. Hudson's third trip to the fishing grounds of the North West.

Interviewing Mr. Adams on his arrival home, I found this had been his 20th year at this fishing ground—distant from New Castle 40 miles—20 by waggon road, and 20 by portage. In 88 his party captured some 220 fish, comprising salmon, grilse, and trout. The number of salmon caught 61, and grilse 87. To beat the record of 61 salmon for 23 days in year '88 was a seemingly hard task. Yet this year in the same number of days there were taken from the location of the house to the falls—distant not ¼ mile—72 salmon, 58 grilse and over 100 trout. I find he goes fishing on the Richibucto river and tributaries for the next few days.

TOWN REDUCED TO RUINS.

FORT DE FRANCE IS PRACTICALLY DESTROYED BY FIRE.

Over 1700 Houses and Public Buildings Burned—Thirty Human Beings Lose Their Lives—The Inhabitants Suffering from Hunger, Thirst and Cold.

LONDON, July 20.—Mail advices from Martinique have just been received, giving full details of the disastrous fire that practically destroyed the town of Fort de France, burning 30 human beings to death and rendering thousands of families homeless. The fire began on Sunday June 22, near the cathedral, and spread so rapidly that aid was called from Martinique, whence came two steamers with men, engines and pumps, arriving at Fort de France four hours after the fire was discovered. By that time the buildings on the entire seaboard thereabouts were in flames. The workhouse and two government establishments had been burnt to the ground and several of the inmates killed. The fire commencing in the middle of the rue Blebach, had reached within 100 yards of the Riviera de Madame, and the courts of Justice were threatend. The narrowness of the streets, the lack of pumps and the scarcity of water disheartened the people so much that, after six hours of hopeless struggle with the flames, it was not till the president's office caught fire and firemen arrived from St. Pierre that really strenuous efforts were made to save the building. Meanwhile the cathedral was in flames, and the ruins, together with widespread panic, increased the danger and difficulties. Dynamite was then used to stay the progress of the fire, but too late. A terrific explosion was heard, and whole blocks of buildings came thundering down, killing and wounding many people. The postal telegram office and two hotels were soon burning fiercely, and at 5 o'clock 150 of the finest houses in the city were flaming together. At the other extremity of the furnace, which already covered 90 square acres, the fight against the fire was bravely continued, although the houses, which were mostly of wood, fell in one burning mass across the streets, setting the opposite houses aflame.

At night fall the fire had consumed everything between the Rue Dupoise and the sea, and between the Savane and the Riviera de Madame, and the fire was not stopped till it had reached the offices of the gendarmerie. The sight next morning was truly pitiful. The whole Savane was encumbered with odds and ends, and the whole population was camped in the midst, suffering from hunger, thirst and cold, for there was no shelter but that afforded by the trees in the park. The conflagration is said to have been caused by the using of kerosene to light a fire in a private house.

The loss amounts to the value of £30,000,000, as 1700 pieces of property and all the principal public buildings are destroyed. In fact the town is reduced to ruins and the inhabitants are in a deplorable condition. Food is being sent to them from all parts of the West Indies.

AN IMPORTANT JUDGMENT.

Judge Taschereau Delivers Judgment in the Whelan-Ford Case—The Canadian Cotton Factories—The Quebec Arson Case—Special Commission &c

SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.

MONTREAL, July 22.—Justice Taschereau in the Superior court this morning rendered judgment in the Whelan-Ford case, granting the motion of J. P. Whelan to quash the seizure before judgment taken by his late partner Ford, against the money due the partnerships on account of the Quebec court house contract, and which is still in the hands of the Provincial Treasurer. The judge claimed that Whelan obtained the contract in his individual capacity and while he associated certain other contractors with him they had no claim except as employes of Whelan. The amount involved is about $155,000.

A. F. Gault who returned from England to-day, says the negotiations for the purchase of all the cotton factories in Canada by an English syndicate will be resumed at once with every prospect of success.

QUEBEC, July 22.—More new proof against Delamarre in the arson case is that on the eve of the fire his bar was nearly nude of its usual stock. Delamarre admitted yesterday that he offered money to Dufour to set fire to the house, but he said he was only in fun. It has just been discovered that Delamarre's child which died recently, had been interred in St. Sauveur cemetery without the knowledge of the cure of St. Roch.

TORONTO, July 22.—Sir Thomas Galt, chief justice of the court of Common Pleas was to be sworn in yesterday as administrator of Ontario during the absence of Sir Alexander Campbell in Europe but the commission has not yet arrived from the Governor General.

John J. McGee, clerk of the privy council, acting as a special commission, is here to administer the oath.

A BUDGET FROM OTTAWA.

Administrator pro tem—Montreal Harbor Improvements—Interprovincial Cricket—Tug Burned—Col. Charles Robinson—The Montmorency Election.

SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.

OTTAWA, Ont., July 22.—Sir Thomas Galt has been appointed administrator of the province of Ontario during the absence of Lieut. Govenor Campbell.

A commission of engineers will be appointed this fall to report on the question of Montreal's proposed two million dollar harbor improvements.

The Ottawa cricket club is making an effort to arrange a series of interprovincial cricket matches.

The tug "Resolute" was burned to the water's edge early this morning. The crew had a narrow escape. The impression prevails in military circles that Col. Charles Robinson, assistant secretary at the Horse guards, succeeds Sir Fred Middleton in Canada; this officer was born in Toronto.

Advices from Montmorency state the Conservatives will carry the election. Hon. Mr. Chapleau speaks at Chateau Richer tomorrow.

SENDING THEM AROUND.—The secretary of the Exhibition Association is diligently distributing the exhibition premium lists amongst the various places in the Provinces. The little books contain considerable information, and their distribution will doubtless bring our fall exhibition more before the eyes of the general public.

Police Court.

Mary Stephenson and Catherine Fulton, liquor dealers of North end, were fined $20 each for selling liquor in violation of the law.

This afternoon Robert Davis and Patrick Sullivan, also of the North end, were each fined $20 for a like offence.

Picnics.

Rev. Fr. Wynn's picnic was held at Chapel Grove to-day. A large number of pleasure seekers were taken to the picnic by the steamer Clifton.

St. Rose's Sunday school picnic was held to-day, on grounds near the church, and a very pleasant time was enjoyed by those who attended it.

A temperance lodge picnic went to South Bay in busses, and several private picnics were held at the Bay Shore.

Another American Yacht.

The second American yacht of the season arrived here about noon today. It was the steam yacht Garabout of Salem, Mass. She has Messrs. King Upton, owner, Roger Upton, Wm. Sawyer of Pennsylvania, and Henry M. Woods, lawyer of Gloucester, Mass. on board. J. W. Bevins is acting as pilot. The Garabout is 23 tons register and belongs to the Eastern Yacht Club of Massachussets. She is an extremely pretty craft and will remain here until to-morrow when she will leave for the westward. The party have been cruising for several weeks and are thoroughly enjoying themselves.

Ran Down by a Steamer.

Steamer City of San Aintonio collided with the woodboat Sultan about three o'clock this morning and damaged her to a considerable extent. The Sultan was lying off Rankin's wharf to an anchor when she was struck on the starboard side directly abaft the mainrigging and a hole cut in her side to the water's edge. About 20 feet of rail was destroyed and that with the other damage sustained will necessitate a large amount of repairs. The steamer was going into her wharf when the collision occurred and her crew claim that no lights were visible on the woodboat. The crew of the latter craft claim that they had a light up forward and that it could be plainly seen. The matter will doubtless eventuate in the steamboat company paying for all damage done.

St. John Abroad.

In a recent issue of the Boston Globe there appeared a despatch from Barre, Vermont, stating that Sumner Kimball had sold his large quarry at that place to a syndicate composed of T. W. Egan, W. H. Harris and Forsythe & Ingram. The price paid was $20,000. The Mr. Forsythe referred to is Mr. Stephen H. Forsythe, a former St John boy who after having charge of the quarrying operations of the New Brunswick Red Granite company at St. George left there about eleven years ago and settled in Vermont. He has been very successful in business at Barre, his works giving employment to about 50 hands. In a letter to a friend in this city Mr. Forsythe states that about $20,000 are paid out monthly by employers in the granite business, and that quarry property is increasing in value every year because of the large demand for granite. At present his firm are engaged in the manufacture of two large monuments, one for Chicago and the other for New York, the contract price for each being $20,000. The class of work done by this firm is very fine, some of the carving being exquisite. Mr. Forsythe is a brother-in-law of Mr. William McGinley of this city.
