The Smuggling Case.

Before entering into an investigation into the charges of defrauding the government against Capt. John Emmons at the police court yesterday, counsel for the prosecution explained that Emmons was captain of the schooner Mary Grover, that sailed from Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., at daylight on Oct. 26, 1883, having on board a cargo consisting of hay, cattle, coal and sundry articles valued at about $3000. Instead of making the usual entry at the nearest regular port, which was Sault Ste. Marie, on the Canadian side, he went to Michipicoten, where he unloaded, and then proceeded to Port Arthur and made a false entry as to his cargo. A question was raised as to his worship's jurisdiction and it was decided that after taking the evidence to adjourn the case for a few days.

Wouldn't Wear Dude Pants

"My lawyer isn't here," exclaimed the defendant in the suit of Taylor v. Mannel at the western division court yesterday. The lawyer soon put in an appearance, however, and the case was proceeded with. Taylor & Kennedy, tailors in the Rossin house block, sue a butcher named Mannel for $27, the price of a suit of clothes. Mannel claims that the clothes did not fit, and consequently he would not pay for them. When put in the witness box he said that he had distinctly told Mr. Taylor that he "didn't want dude pants," and "he wouldn't wear those horrid tight pantaloons." Witnesses swore that the pants and vest did not fit, even after they had been altered.—Judgment for defendant.

Prompt Measures.

—Prompt means should be used to break up sudden colds and coughs in their early stages. Hagyard's Pectoral Balsam does this most speedily and effectually. 2-4-6

Almost Another Case of Blowing Out the Gas.

Autumn's Turning Point.

From the New York Herald.

The present season has been so far remarkably mild on the Atlantic seaboard, but the frost king has at last commenced his travels southward in earnest. The "cold wave" now on its way toward this region threatens to be a severe contrast with the summer-like weather we had yesterday. This is, therefore, the opportune moment for people to get their warm wrappings ready and to see that the body is amply protected by suitable underclothing against the first shock of the cold season, which is sometimes the hardest for the system to bear. A little prudence in this particular just now may avert illness which would hang on weak constitutions during the coming winter.

Who's Your Fat Friend?

—In the good old days of the Georges, when Beau Brummell was the recognized dandy of the day, the then prince of Wales was one day walking down Pall mell. The prince lifted his hat to a well-fed passer-by in a most courteous manner, when he was interrupted by Brummell with the impertinent remark: "Hello, George, who's your fat friend." The prince was astounded at Brummell's impudence, but as on former occasions laughed the matter off. The disease arise suddenly and without any assignable cause.
