A SCANDALOUS SCURRY

The scurry to safety of the members of the Borden cabinet and some of the prominent members of the party supporting the premier is an appalling scandal. The rush for the bomb-proof dugouts during a hot engagement is heroic conduct compared to this mad retreat of eminent Conservatives to the bomb-proof, lifelong jobs.

The members of the Borden government have spent much of their time in their dishonest task of branding their opponents as disloyal. But what of the score or so of eminent members of the government who have left the front ranks to take rich positions, life jobs in the civil service?

Sir George Foster, not disgusted with politics, will retire to the senate.

A. C. Boyce, M.P., of Algoma, is appointed to fill a vacancy which did not exist in the railway commission at $8,000 a year.

Dr. Clarence Jamieson, M.P., of Digby, replaces Dr. Adam Shortt on the civil service commission. This commission was the beginning of a sincere effort to remove the civil service from politics. But an eminent Canadian educationist had to give way to a Tory member of parliament.

Hon. Dr. Roche, a member of the cabinet, leaves the work of an important position for a bomb-proof job at the side of Mr. Jamieson.

Col. Maclean, M.P., of Charlottetown, has been appointed controller of the mounted police.

Gerald Brabazon, M.P., of Pontiac, has taken the position of inspection of storage dams on the Ottawa river.

Frank Shepard, M.P., of Nanaimo, has a somewhat similar position at the coast.

Claude Macdonnell and several other members have been appointed to the senate.

Sir George Perley is to become high commissioner.

It is said that Hon. Mr. Burrell will be appointed clerk of the house or to some such position; that Hon. Mr. Crothers will be made a judge, and that Hon. Frank Cochrane will be appointed to some post on the C.N.R.

And this does not include them all.

At this time when Canada is in need of her strongest and most experienced sons in parliament, these men scurry to well-feathered nests.

Britain and Canada at this time expect every man to do his duty. This is a time of special effort and special sacrifice. Canada expects the better positions to be reserved to the heroes who return from the front incapacitated from further action.

And what do we see? A band of government favorites capturing all the good jobs.

That is a sidelight upon the methods of the present administration.

A man who cannot guess well has no right to write very much about the political situation in Canada.

If there is much more delay in the holding of an election, it is possible that the war will be over and the soldiers back in Canada.

Every western man of any consideration has been suggested as member of the union government with the exception of one, Lucien Boudreau.

This time last year we had some sort of an idea about the names and addresses of the men who were looking enviously at the mayoralty and other civic positions.

Affairs in Greece are not as satisfactory as they might be. The young king seems to have a Hohenzollern slant. It is possible that the Greek people will tolerate him, but not much more. Only one man stands between Greece and reaction, and that man is Venizelos.

Some person is always holding up Australia as an example to Canada. But in the recent election the premier, who is a member of the pro-war party, in order to be returned had to pledge himself that he would not use any majority his party might have in the house to force conscription, and that he would not again ask the people to vote on a referendum unless a serious reversal of the allies justified such action. When the leader of the opposition suggests a referendum before any such misfortune occurs, he is accused of being lukewarm and anti-British. That is the difference between Canada and Australia.

THE SLACKER WEALTH

When R. B. Bennett informed an audience of women in Calgary that conscription of wealth was now practically in force in Canada, he may not have been speaking for the government, but he was defending the policy of the administration.

There is no conscription of wealth or anything like conscription of wealth in Canada. Canada has made no move towards the most moderate form of wealth conscription. It has not gone as far in that direction as the United States.

Compare Canada and Britain.

The taxation since war began in Great Britain has increased from $18 per head to $61 per head. Of this average $61 which every man, woman and child pays annually to the government, $50 is collected by direct taxation, namely, income tax, excess profits tax and death duties of inheritance tax.

This is to some extent conscription of wealth. An indirect tax comes from the people.

Now what has Canada done? For the year ending last March, Canada's revenue reached $232,000,000, of which $12,500,000 came from direct taxation, and $219,500,000 from indirect taxation.

Britain's revenue is made up by 82 per cent of direct taxation on wealth, and 18 per cent on indirect taxation, which falls upon the people.

In Canada only 5 1-2 per cent of the revenue is from wealth, and 94 1-2 per cent comes upon the people. The wealth of the country is paying for the war in Britain. The wealth of the country is paying for no share of the war in Canada.

The wealth of the country is the biggest slacker in Canada.

The baseball Giant, it seems, has resumed his ordinary stature, and has suddenly turned and will no longer submit to being trodden upon by White Sox.

There was another week of fairly good submarine record. With three or four such records all in a row, it looks as though the British had taken the measure of the menace.

No adverse criticism can be made of the military tribunals which have been appointed for this city. They are composed of competent men, who can and doubtless will give good service.

If Mr. Bennett really means that the wealthy corporations in Canada are doing their fair share in this war, and what they are doing is really submitting to wealth conscription, once more he surprises the public.

The prohibitionists in Quebec are now going after the city of Montreal, and they believe that they can win out. After the result in Quebec city, anything is possible. If Montreal goes dry, prohibition will be nation-wide.

It is reported now that W. F. O'Connor has been refused permission to take action against the manager of the company of Flavelle, Bart., for refusing to furnish certain information. That is very important, if true.

The British have the upper hand of the enemy on the western front. It is not difficult to figure out the progress of the war had the Russian bear done his duty on the eastern front. The war would have been over by this time.

The citizens who have been called upon to give information to the city at the session tonight will have an opportunity of showing the mayor and council how the city should be run, or quietly submitting to the mayor and council running it.

There is nothing more humiliating than the scramble in Ottawa of cabinet ministers and leading members of parliament for permanent, well-feathered, life positions. Some want the senate, while others prefer some other government positions. And this is in war time.

The Albertan does not look with much favor upon the long list of aldermen who have announced their withdrawal from municipal life. They have learned something in the last year or so of value to the public, and they should be willing to furnish their services to the city at this critical time.

If the Liberal leaders insisted upon an election at the close of the war, they acted wisely. This is a war time election upon a war time franchise for a war time parliament. When the war is over the parliament should be dissolved, and when the soldiers are back again they will be able to have their say in public affairs.

A STICKLER FOR ECONOMY

Hostess (to small visitor): "Whatever is the matter, Bobby? Do you want to go home?" Bobby (valiantly): "No, it's all right, I'm not crying! Mother told me not to leave anything on my plate—I took such a lot of mustard!"—Passing Show, London.

ALL U.S. STAPLE FOODS GO UNDER GOVT. CONTROL

President Wilson Will Issue Order, Placing 20 Different Commodities on Control List

Washington, Oct. 10.—Virtually all the staple foods consumed by the American people will be put under government control on November 1.

The food administration announced that within a few days, President Wilson will issue an order requiring that manufacturers and distributors of twenty fundamental foods operate under license restrictions designed to prevent unreasonable profits and to stop speculation and hoarding.

Regulations will be prescribed for meat packers, cold storage houses, millers, canners, elevators, grain dealers and wholesale dealers and retailers doing a business of more than $100,000 annually in the commodities to be named.

GERMAN MILITARY STRENGTH DECLINES

Allied Forces Have Worn Down Huns' Military Machine

Washington, Oct. 10.—Germany's military strength now shows a decrease for the time since the war began, according to a review based upon data of the French general staff, made public here tonight by the French high commission.

Worn down and driven back by the never-ending pounding of the allies on the western front, the statement says, the Germans have made their supreme military effort, drawing heavily upon their inactive armies in the east and calling out their 1918 and part of their 1919 reserves.

"This shows," concludes the statement, "the decisive character attending the operations in 1918, when three great democracies, England, France and America, will unite their entire strength in attacking the enemy, in conformity with the principles of the war."

CAPTURED, BUT CONTENTED; A HUN OFFICER PRISONER

This young officer was among the German prisoners captured by the Canadians during the fighting for Hill 70. Judging from his expression, the officer in question appears to be more than contented with his lot and to have no regrets at leaving the struggle behind him.

OPERATION OF Y.M.C.A. UNDER FOUR COMMITTEES

Boundary Line of Alberta and Saskatchewan New Division

Winnipeg, Oct. 10.—The operation of the Y.M.C.A. in Canada is now under the direction of four territorial committees instead of three as formerly. The reorganization of the work of the association in the west was effected at a meeting of members of the national council of the Y.M.C.A. and the territorial committee for western Ontario, Saskatchewan and Manitoba, which was held at the headquarters here this afternoon and tonight. Formerly, western Ontario, Manitoba, Saskatchewan, Alberta and British Columbia were under the jurisdiction of one committee. This territory has now been cut in two, the border of Saskatchewan and Alberta being taken as the dividing line. Western Ontario, Manitoba and Saskatchewan will now be known as the central western division of the national council.

At today's meeting the following officers were elected as the first executive of the new territory:

Chairman—Hon. Edward Brown, Winnipeg.

Vice-chairmen—W. T. Hart, Winnipeg, for Manitoba; James Balfour, Regina, for Saskatchewan, and I. Delamater, Fort William, for western Ontario.

U.S. MOTOR TRUCK BUILT IN SECRET

Great Care to Keep Construction Secrets Out of German Hands

Lima, Oct. 10.—The first Liberty motor truck for the United States army, the product of the greatest motor truck designers of the country, and the combined genius of 12 motor truck plants and 62 automobile parts factories was completed here today at a local manufacturing plant.

The standardizing machine of which 35,000 copies will be turned out in the first half of 1918 for the army, is said to represent the perfection of automobile development.

Its motor power is derived from the new Liberty motor, recently perfected at Washington by war department experts. Following test at the factory, probably late this week, the truck will start on an endurance run to the east.

The first Liberty motor truck was built in the greatest secrecy to protect it from enemy eyes. A building without windows and lighted only by skylights, housed the truck during the three weeks of its construction. The plant was closely guarded by armed men night and day.

As an added precaution, a second truck was assembled in an eastern city. As each part was completed here, a duplicate was dispatched to a northern New York town, where mechanics assembled a second machine.

If the parts were small they were sent by registered mail. If too big to ship that way, trusted mechanics carried them personally by train. Similar precautions surrounded parts manufactured in the 60 odd factories that contributed to the machine. As each part was completed, it was dispatched to Lima in charge of an army representative, who kept factory officials informed of his progress by telegraph. No one company knows the special design or what companies made other parts.

ANNE'S HOUSE OF DREAMS

By L. M. MONTGOMERY

Author of "Anne of Green Gables," etc.

Anne Shirley, Miss Montgomery's lovable heroine, is engaged to Dr. Gilbert Blythe. To her many friends of Green Gables and Avonlea, this is a big event and their response is both amusing and touching. The blending of romance, pathos and humor, that marks the opening chapters carries through the entire book.

Anne finds that the house Gilbert has selected for her in Four Winds Harbour is just what she has always dreamed a home should be. Their married life in this "house of dreams" is marked by happiness, friendship of interesting neighbors and some exciting and deeply-moving events. And what neighbors they have! Miss Cornelia, whose tongue is never so sharp as when talking of men and their faults; Captain Jim, the hardy old lighthouse keeper; the beautiful Leslie Moore, and even the long-haired Marshall Elliot, all come under Anne's spell. Anne's romance is not the only one. She and Miss Cornelia help toward the happy outcome of another that brightens the story.

Gayety, common sense and happiness pervade the novel. It deals with simple life, wholesome and good, about which Miss Montgomery writes with enthusiasm and out of a whole heart.
