John Macdonald & Co.

The great staple house of Western Canada, John Macdonald & Co. of this city, is this season offering unusual bargains to the trade. In all wool grey flannels, "the low prices at which they are now being offered have never yet been touched, and the stock is by no means unlimited, so that buyers should see them and make their selections in time. In white blankets of all weights, an unexhaustible stock at less than factory prices is warehoused and on view to buyers. See this stock of blankets before purchasing elsewhere. In every line of staple linen and cotton goods this firm has a large and varied stock, and in fancy dry goods as varied as can be well imagined. Any and every dealer cannot fail to be suited in price, quality and terms. See this great dry goods house before leaving Toronto.

The Mutual Reserve Life.

The new business of this association continues to increase at a phenomenal rate—astonishing its best friends and confounding its enemies. We are glad to notice that friend Wells is well to the front in volume of new business, his business for the week amounting to $172,000, and materially helping to swell the figures of this great association, which is now doing over a million and a half of new business per week. The association have opened out business in England, having made a deposit in the Bank of England of $100,000. A letter from London from the attorney of the company states that the business men of London are taking to the plan and system of the Mutual Reserve: "They like its simplicity and equity, and fully recognize that its system insures stability and permanency."

Toronto Vocal Society.

A large number of applications for membership has been made, and the list is now nearly full. The first meeting for the season will be held at the society's hall, corner of Yonge and Alexander streets, on Thursday evening, Sept. 9, at 8 p.m. sharp; it is imperative, therefore, that intending members should apply for membership to Mr. H. Bourlier, secretary, not later than Tuesday, Sept. 7. Mendelssohn's "Hear My Prayer," Hiles' "Hushed in Death," Henry Leslie's "Who is the Angel that Cometh," and Sir Arthur Sullivan's quartet and chorus on the Dominion, dedicated to the "People of Canada," are among the numbers to be put in rehearsal. After the meeting of Thursday next the rehearsals will be held on each Monday evening at 8 o'clock.

White, Joselin & Co.

The enterprising firm of White, Joselin & Co., of this city, offer every new specialty in fancy dry goods, and ask all their present and prospective customers to pay them a visit during the exhibition season. Their stock comprises the very latest novelties in muslins, laces, embroideries, gloves and lace curtains, fancy handkerchiefs in heavy silks and lawns, Saxony wool and Thompson's corsets, and in wool shawls they are showing a most superior stock. At this season of the year, when people are making preparations for the winter season, it is always well to make the best choice possible in purchases, and the trade should certainly not fail to call on this most enterprising firm and inspect their stock before leaving the city.

A Man of His Word.

Notwithstanding all the risk run by Billy Kavanagh in the capture of the big turtles for the "Only Clow," he effected their landing and shipped them per first steamer leaving the Ascension Islands. In the capture seven immense turtles were also seen basking in the sun, but only two were caught, "Billy" himself coming nearly to grief in a watery grave. A telegram announced their capture about ten days ago, and from subsequent information they will arrive here this morning and be on view at Cleghorn's. Don't fail to see them before they are decapitated. They will be served up in Green Turtle Soup all the Exhibition season at the Only Clow's, 60 Colborne-street.

The Allan Line.

By an arrangement made by this company, clergymen and their wives are allowed the following special reduced cabin rates: Quebec to Liverpool by mail steamer, first cabin, $50, return $100; by Liverpool direct steamers, first cabin $45, return $90. The Parisian, 4500, will be the next mail steamer leaving Quebec, Sept. 9, to be followed by the Sarmatian for Liverpool direct, Sept. 17. No cattle, pigs or sheep are carried by the steamers of the Allan line which carry passengers.

Exhibition Notes.

The addition to the pavilion of the Dominion Organ and Piano Company is completed and presents a most attractive appearance. On the dome is a large band stand which will be occupied by the company's band. This new addition makes this pavilion the largest musical instrument pavilion for exhibition purposes in America. Indications point to a grander display of pianos and organs than ever made heretofore, surpassing all previous efforts even of this energetic and go ahead company. Here will be seen grand, square and upright pianos in plain and fancy woods. These woods are brought from almost every clime under the sun, with also choice and beautiful fancy Canadian woods. The fancy wood pianos are fast taking the lead of the darker colored instruments and promise shortly to be all the rage. It is claimed for them that the polish is more durable and better adapted to our rigorous climate. The display of organs will be in every style, from the smallest parlor organ to the largest double manual pedal bass organ, suitable for church purposes and especially adapted for the student of the highest class of church music and church organists. This exhibit is not an experiment, but is the legitimate outgrowth of a rapidly increasing trade which was begun by this company about fifteen years ago, and now extends to almost every part of the civilized world. The trade commanded by this company is something enormous, and the demand for their instruments still rapidly increasing. This rapid growth into a world extended trade and fame is one of the marvels of our day and age, and is in itself a living, convincing monument of the superiority of the instruments of the Dominion Piano and Organ Company. Unquestionable integrity, both in manufacture and dealing, and the superior merit and excellence of their instruments alone could secure and hold such a trade. During the exhibition Ruse's Temple of Music, with its spacious warerooms, will be open as usual to visitors and purchasers with the same extensive stock of pianos and organs as ever. Assuredly, with the grand display in the Exhibition grounds, and the choice and large stock in the warerooms of Joseph Ruse at 68 King-street west, those wishing a fine piano or organ cannot fail for want of choice. x

North Toronto's Hatter.

The name of Charlie Tonkin in North Toronto means hats—good hats. Tonkin does a big trade at 718 Yonge-street. In fact he does all the hat trade of that neighborhood. He has a fine stock, well bought, latest styles, from the best makers. If you wish a good hat, one that will make you feel like a three-year-old, select one from Charlie Tonkin's assortment.

Get Your Fall Suit.

This is the season of the year when all who place any value on a good appearance want a new suit, Tonkin Bros., 110 Yonge-street, make a specialty of fine tailoring. They have a handsome stock of latest pattern goods, goods that are of real value. In pants they claim they can't be beaten as to cut, style and finish. The firm also keep a fine line of hats and caps. Gent's who want to dress well should visit Tonkin Bros.

North American Life Assurance Company.

This company bears the mark of future greatness more distinctly on its various features than any of its competitors of equal size.

It is possessed of very important and special advantages, and they are so well employed as to constantly augment its strength and popularity. It has at its head a man of great influence and high standing in the Dominion, the Hon. Alexander Mackenzie, M.P., ex-Prime Minister of Canada, whose name and character command universal confidence and respect. It is equally fortunate in having as its managing director Wm. McCabe, esq., F.I.A., F.S.S., an underwriter of active and untiring energy, and an accomplished mathematician, who has devoted his time, skill and talent to promote the interests of the company, and being assisted by a board of directors, including the most distinguished statesmen, financiers, and business men of Toronto, the progress of the company has, as might naturally be expected, been rapid and continuous since its organization.

Last year, in spite of the prevailing dullness of trade, it wrote new business amounting to nearly $2,000,000, and, judging from what it has already accomplished during the last six months, it will double that sum in 1886. It is becoming a general favorite, and its popularity is founded not only on the attractiveness and liberality of its carefully matured plans, which embrace all that is really advantageous and desirable in life insurance, but also on the general favor and confidence it has won by the promptness of its payments and its freedom from the taint of litigiousness. It is receiving a handsome yearly income, and possesses ample assets of the best quality, and a proportionately large surplus above all liabilities. On account of its increasing business and need of greater accommodation, it has removed to Manning's handsome building on King-street, and has now one of the finest and best-appointed business offices in the city of Toronto.—New York Insurance Times.
