of the sale, and with a tiny tree months old the pair pair with the substantial sum of 5000s, captured the substantial sum of 5000s.

A screenble for the Teartings and Breed Bakes at Fancy Frieses—was the Farrenchasers Were.

Bell's Life in London of July 2 contains the following interesting account of this great sale:

Undoubtedly the most sensational sale of blood stock of the present century was that presided over by Mr. Tattersall on Monday afternoon in Lord Falmouth's paddocks at Newmarket. Much has been written concerning the Mereworth stud since the sporting world first heard with regret of the noble lord's retirement from the turf, of which for the last twenty five years he has been so liberal a supporter. The merits of the brood mares are so well known, not only in England, but also wherever racing has taken a footing, that buyers from all parts of the world assembled to bid for the marrons and their progeny. and consequently the sum buyers from all parts of the world assembled to bid for the marrons and their progeny. and consequently the sum buyers from all parts of the world assembled to bid for the marrons and their progeny. and consequently the sum buyers from all parts of the world assembled to bid for the marrons and their progeny. and consequently the sum buyers from all parts of the world assembled to bid for the marrons and their progeny. And Lafevre, M. Inestier, M. Count de St. Annual Mr. Cartwell, the count of the sale was to be without three, Don Roberto Cano), all three of whom were buying for Baucos Ayres company, Mr. Crombeys. M. Lamerliere, M. Inestier, M. Count de St. Annual Mr. Cartwell, and the did the sale was to be without the least reserve. The catalogue comprised forty and was allowed to purchase him for 3000 s. for the Leybourne paddocks. The regret universally shared—and staded that the sale was to be without the least reserve. The catalogue comprised forty in label, the open parts of the world was blood to that the sale was to be without the least reserve. The catalogue comp sented, as the well known faces of nearly all the leaders of the national pastime were conspicious. The auctioneer read a letter from Lord Falmouth regretting his inability, through ill-health, to be presentared that the sale was to be without the least reserve. The catalogue comprised fortynine lots, but as three of these were the property of the trainer, and one, Hermione, was withdrawn by the advice of Mr. Barrow, the total was reduced to forty-five. There was a great difference of opinion as to which of the mares would realize most money. So far as looks were EDITOR WORLD: I am a business man and time to me is money. Now, if I am at the corner of Yonge and King streets, and I want to go to the corner of Yeng and Front streets, is it not much more expedient to go straight down Yonge street than to go along King to Bay, down Bay to Front, along Front to the corner alluded to? If instead of reading half a column and a co the finest mare we have ever seen, grand matrons as are both Cantiniere and Spina-way, the latter of whom was one of the way, the latter of whom was one of the best of the daughters of Queen Bertha, and in addition to having been a famous public performer, she has already shown her capacity as a brood mare by producing Busybody, like herself a One Thousand Guineas and Oaks winner. Wheel of Fortune, whose invincible career was so unfortunately brought to an end at York, also claims parentage from Queen Bertha, and also not so stylish as her half-sister she was undoubtedly one of the best marea that ever carried the magpie jacket. Mavis is a somewhat plain looking mare, but, as the dam of Galliard, it was not surprising that a large price was paid for her. Dutch Oven, whose sensational Leger victory will be matter of history, could not fail to command a high price when her grand lineage is run through, and another mare full of quality is Palmflower, who also fetched a substantial sum. As is usually the case, a few of the early lots went somewhat cheaply, and J. Reeves must the wheat crop will be far above the average, and that barley will be a fair crop. Oats will not yield as much as last year but on the whole the crop will be good. Peas so far, are free from the bug which through, and another is Palmflower, who antial sum. somewhat cheaply, and J. Reeves must have secured a bargain in Balimperia for 50gs. Spindrift, a racing looking filly, fell to Lord Fitzwilliam's bid for 420gs, and M. Lefevre gave 550gs for Queensborough, a handsome colt by Queen's Messenger out of Lady Golightly, who is so well shaped that he cannot fail to gallop. Some life was now infused into the business when Skyscraper, by Skylark out of Palmflower, was led into the ring. This youngster was voted one of the best-looking yearlings ever offered, and after a spirited competition between Lord Rosslyn, Hopper, Darling and T. Cannon, the master of Danebury secured him well within his value at 1400gs. F. Archer bought Leapfrog for 250gs; but he afterwards transferred him to Lord Rossmore. Alaric, a bay colt by Childeric out of Lilian, has arrae staying blood on the dam's side, and at 400gs we cannot help thinking Matthew ing yearings ever oncred, and are a superitied competition between Lord Rosslyn, Hopper, Darling and T. sale. Rattlewings, an own sales to darliard, was next led into the ring, and Sir George Chetwynd immediately put her in at a thousand. This, however, was quickly capped by an offer of 1500gs from Captain Machell, after which the duke of Portland joined in, and eventually became her owner for 2100gs. The success of St. Simon no doubt will account for the run on stock of Galopin's get, and Rattlewings is so good looking all over that great things may be expected of her. Galanthis, another filly by the same sire out of Gertrude, who was full of quality, was secured by Lord Fitzwilliam for 1600gs, Lord Rossmore, Sir Geo. Chetwynd, and Mr. Peck helped to run her up. Godolphin, a bay colt by Galopin, out of Jannette, possesses a pedigree which on paper cannot be beaten. Critics might object that he is a trifle short, but he is a yearling of the first-class, and so anxious were several to become The program for Claxton's orchestra concert on Friday evening at the Gardens ncludes the celebrated Rachozy March, includes the celebrated Rachozy March, which got such an enthusiastic encore at the children's concert; the William Tell overture, together with the several bright and charming numbers by Strauss, Waldteufel, Suppe, etc. Herr Henri Jacobsen plays Capriccioso, by David, and Mrs. Agnes Corlette Thomson sings the beautiful Legre Waltz, from Faust, with full orchestra accompaniment, and Millard's Waiting with violin obligato. Critics might object that he is a trife short, but he is a yearling of the first-class, and so anxious were several to become purchasers, that Lord Zetland had to go to £3000 before the hammer fell. Nightmare and Arcadian each brought their value, and then Lord Zetland gave 1000gs for Happy Hampton, who is good-looking enough for anything. Oberon, a charming colt by Galopin out of Wheel of Fortune, was now offered, and though he may not furnish into a big horse, he is full of quality. Lord Rossmore opened the ball with a bid of 1000gs for the young Galopin, and after being opposed by Waugh and Captain Machell, the latter was left master of the situation, no one caring to cap his last offer of 2500gs. Cerealis, an appropriately named son of Galopin—Wheatear, dam of Harvester, was one of the sensational lots of the sale, and like his half brother Godolphin he was not allowed to leave the ring under 3000gs, at which price he fell te Tom Cannon. Brown and M. Malapret afterwards ran her up to 1,700gs, at which price she was knocked down to the Graham trainer, on behalf of Mr. Prat, of Bordeaux. Silver Ring was bought for 1,350gs by Mr. Cartwright, who was acting throughout on behalf of Mr. Abington; her foal by Hampton, however, although barely four months old, realized within 100gs of her dam, Alec Taylor securing him for Mr. Manton. HATS FOR SWELLED HEAD, stood in the Fifth Avenue hotel, "here is something that fits into a niche which has been waiting to be filled for several hundred years.

As the gentleman spoke he took off his hat and offered it to his friend. The friend extended his hand and took the hat, but immediately dropped it.

"Good gracious! Is it carved out of ice?" asked the actonished man.

"It's as cool as if it were, and far more durable," replied the owner. "Sit down and investigate the hat."

The hat was a white derby, not differing in shape or appearance from the every-day derby. But in character what a distinction. While the every-day derby is a felt furnace the hat in question was as cool as the air in a refrigerator. Besides this splendid feature, the hat was of an elastic nature, which made it a very desirable article to wear on the morrow of a bibluous evening. As the head resumed its natural size the hat accommodatingly shrunk itself to meet the natural state of affairs.

"Where are they sold? tell me, quick," said the friend upon hearing the happy possessor of the hat dilate on the qualities of his property.

"My dear boy, they are not sold," was the laughing reply of the questioned man; "they are souvenirs of that dumads boom. Instead of the managers of that unhappy affair giving medals, as the Grant men rewarded the 306, they gave each faithful Edmunds man one of these cold hats. That is how I came by mine. But I hate ne doubt that these hats will seen be on the market, as they are too good to be hidden much longer."

As the fend when the firm was as a triple to wear on the more warded the 306, they gave each faithful Edmunds man one of these cold hats. That is how I came by mine. But I hate ne doubt that these hats will seen be on the market, as they are too good to be hidden much longer."

The secret of the chilly hat lies in the lining, which is of singularly retentive powers. When manufactured the lining is charged with cold, being placed in an atmosphere of fifty-three degrees below zero. The man who has charge of the freezer has to use excessive care in order not to freeze his anatomy when working around the refrigerator. One foolish man froze three fingers and a thumb by endeavoring to remove a frozen hat from the Arctie low.

Cold enough to last all summer is charged in the lining. It is better, however, to hang the hat is the family refrigerator over night.
