WALKER'S JUBILEE ODE.

This year of Jubilee
Well furnished you may be
At Walker's Store.
Rivals censorious
Profess great scorn for us,
Still we're victorious,
Walker's serene.

For, spite of enemies,
Successful still is his
Instalment plan,
Honest his politics,
Fear then no shabby tricks;
Grandly your house he'll fix,
Walker's the man.

Curtains and carpets new,
Pictures and china, too,
There may be found;
Come and inspect his stock,
Thousands unto him flock,
Well can he stand the shock,
Give him a call.

Easy the payments are,
They ne'er your peace will mar,
Nor rest I ween;
So then, your comfort seek,
Pay by the month or week,
All who have done so speak
Well of the scheme.

If you wish to celebrate the Fiftieth Anniversary of the Queen's accession right royally, you could not do so in a more fitting way than by beautifying your home. A thing of beauty, so says the poet, is a joy for ever, and WALKER'S Store is the place to find it. An elegant Parlor Suite or handsome Bedroom Set cannot but prove a lasting souvenir of the festivities of the year, and with a new Jubilee Set of Dishes, how much more enjoyable will be the Jubilee dinner.

GOD SAVE THE QUEEN.
