FREAK QUAKE JARS ALL NORTH AMERICA

DISTURBANCES CONTINUE FOR SEVERAL HOURS

Property Damage In Montana Placed at $500,000

NO LIVES LOST

Western Canada Feels Shock—Instruments Register In Ottawa and Halifax

HELENA, Montana, June 29—Residents of the Gallatine Valley, the apparent centre of the earthquake which shook four states Saturday night and yesterday, remained out in the wide open spaces today, looking back at about $500,000 worth of ruins—the aggregate cost of the tremor.

It was a whimsical earthquake. No one was killed. Nearly a score of buildings cracked and fell. There were a half dozen landslides. A crevice extending at irregular intervals from Manhattan to Three Forks, a distance of 10 miles, remains as one of the scars caused by the 'quake, railway tunnel was caved in, and an avalanche at Deer Park covered 500 feet of railroad track nearby, leaving it buried under earth and rocks 100 feet deep. This was caused when a cliff 800 feet high toppled and fell.

PEOPLE IN PANIC.

The 'quakes began about 6.22 o'clock Saturday night. Thousands of persons in Butte, Great Falls, Billings, Livingstone, Missoula, Helena and other cities and towns were thrown into near panic and rushed clear of buildings. The shocks continued intermittently until well after 10 o'clock. Yesterday there were slight recurrences at Three Forks, Sulphur Springs and Anaconda.

Three Forks, Manhattan and Logan, all near the juncture of the Madison, Gallatine and Jefferson rivers, which form the source of the Missouri, sustained the greatest loss. The court house at White Sulphur Springs fell, and several smaller structures were demolished. The loss there will exceed $100,000, and Three Forks, where the damage was greater, lost about $200,000. Three Forks residents counted 41 distinct shocks.

Hundreds of men were working in the mines at Butte and Anaconda as the earth's surface trembled, but in the 1,000 miles of underground workings there was no damage, according to Butte reports. The miners rushed to the surface when they felt the shocks.

Records Made.

OTTAWA, June 29—The earthquake reported from the middle western states was felt throughout Canada Saturday night and Sunday. Victoria, B. C., observatory felt the quake at 5.30 p.m., Pacific time, Saturday, with the epicentre about six hundred miles from that city.

Saskatoon, Sask., felt a quake for the first time in its history. Windows rattled and walls shook.

Ot the Dominion Observatory at Ottawa, four distinct quakes were felt with the epicentre ranging from 2,730 kilometres (about 1,700 miles) to 1,000 kilometres. The first quake was recorded at 8 p. m. Saturday, Eastern Standard time, and the last at 10.51 a. m. Sunday.

In Halifax.

Halifax, N. S., June 29—The earthquake which shook four middle-western states on Saturday night was clearly recorded on the seismograph in the physics department at Dalhousie University, which began to record at 10.29 o'clock, Atlantic Daylight time, Saturday night, and continued for about forty minutes, during which two shocks were registered.

Buildings Sway.

SASKATOON, Sask., June 29—An earthquake shock which almost caused a panic in at least one building was experienced in Saskatoon early Saturday evening. Buildings swayed and persons in them became ill. The whole period of tremor lasted about half an hour with a severe shock at six o'clock and one a little less severe at 7.12. The first shock was so severe that the record which on the seismograph at the University of Saskatchewan, was designed to record east and west shocks, was so damaged that after the first tremor it ceased to work, the recording needle going completely off the record. The north and south machine, which owing to the damage to the east and west, only gave a fraction of the actual severity of the shock, moved three and a quarter inches.

Excitement reigned in the Hudson's Bay Company restaurant when persons dining there felt and could see the building sway. Several women became ill. Pictures and furniture swayed and moved in several large apartment block in the city. This is the first time in the history of Saskatoon that an earthquake has been felt here.

In Calgary.

CALGARY, June 29—Chandeliers and various buildings in the city swayed for several seconds and people in the vicinity experienced a queer feeling when the tail end of the earthquake was felt in this city at 6.30 o'clock Saturday night.

The Rex sailed from this port on June 15 and was loaded with halibut. The Tuscania left Liverpool for New York June 22 and cleared from Moville, Ireland June 23. LABORITES SEEK CENSURE OF GOVERNMENT

The French gunboat Marne arrived today and landed a party of reinforcements. All foreigners stationed outside of Shameen are coming in. There are fourteen foreign gunboats in port.

HIS MAJESTY AT OPENING OF NEW BUILDING

Canada's Home in Heart of Empire Attracts Large Crowds of Londoners

By HERBERT BAILEY,
British United Press.

LONDON, June 29—It is Canada's Day in London today, and the King and Queen, in the presence of the Ambassadors of the various foreign governments and a representative gathering of the social, political and artistic life of Britain attended to open the new Canada Building in the heart of the West End of London. All the morning papers made prominent reference of the addition to the life of the Empire capital, and a large crowd gathered to greet the King and Queen

KING AND QUEEN THERE.

Rt. Hon. P. H. Larkin, Septimus Warwick, the architect of the building, and Hon. J. H. King, Minister of Public Works for the Dominion, received Their Majesties at the foot of the main entrance. Mrs. Larkin and Miss Aileen Larkin were presented to Their Majesties, and the latter handed the Queen a magnificent bouquet. The King and Queen then went through the building, remarking on the spaciousness of the main rooms and expressing pleasure in the fact that Canadian products had been used in the construction of the buildings.

A FINE BUILDING.

Apart from the fact that the building will absorb all the activities of the Dominion in the Empire capital, which are now scattered all over the city, the new building has dignity externally and grace internally, which should tend to eradicate the notion that Dominion buildings are only used for the purpose of fostering trade and attracting emigrants. There is a touch of regal magnificence in its quiet tones that suggests that Canada is taking a real path in the development of the Empire, which the old building could never have done. It has the impressiveness of an embassay, blended with an intimacy which these buildings have not.

DEBATE TODAY HINGES UPON UNEMPLOYMENT

Great Britain Still Has Problem of Year Ago

SOME COMMENT

Defeat of Ministry Not Expected On Present Motion—Rising of People Forecast

LONDON, June 29—This promises to be a week of important industrial incidents, all more or less directly influenced by the trade depression and consequent unemployment.

The foremost is today's debate in the House of Commons upon the Laborite vote of censure seeking to put the House on record as declaring lack of confidence in the government, "which, after a lengthy period of industrial depression and confronted by an alarming growth in the numbers of unemployed, has failed to take measures to deal with a situation of unprecedented gravity."

It is not expected that the Labourites will get far with their motion.

The Times remarks:

"Unfortunately, industry in the main is beyond the control of governments. British industry particularly is dependent upon world conditions which the government cannot control, and pathetic or threatening appeals to the government to cure the evil of unemployment will do nothing to increase the government's power in the matter."

Lack of Policy.

It is recalled that the Conservatives themselves about a year ago moved in the Commons to reduce the salary of the Minister of Labor because Premier MacDonald's government they declared, lacked a policy in dealing with unemployment.

The Liberals at that time came to the aid of the Laborites and averted their defeat. Premier Baldwin's government will be saved today by its big majority in the House. Commenting upon these two occasions, the Daily Express says despairingly:

"The more the situation changes, the more it is the same."

The Daily Telegraph cites figures purporting to show that the number of unemployed during the last six weeks of MacDonald's Laborite Government was nearly identical with the average of the six weks ending June 8, last.

The Daily Chronicle, Liberal organ, says today's Laborite attack might be termed a case of satan reproving sin.

"The present government's lack of resource in the matter has been deplorable, but the Labor Cabinets record of last year was not a whit better," the paper continues, assuring its readers that "if the Liberal party held office there would be a different tale to tell."

The Laborites are convinced that the present government cannot succeed in reducing unemployment. A. B. Swales, chairman of the Trades Union Congress council, voicing this conviction in a speech on Saturday, added:

"But unless something is done by next winter, we shall see a rising of the people. Let us be ready to back them."

Coal Miners Call Strike For June 30

EDMONTON, Alta., June 29.—Miners in the Edmonton district decided at a meeting held yesterday to go on strike at midnight, June 30, when the present agreement with the operators expires. FRENCH PLAN OF FINANCE IS APPROVED

Measures Are Being Put Into Effect At Once

BOLD MEASURE

Note Circulation Increase Generally Endorsed—Inauguration On Bastille Day

PARIS, June 29—Finance Minister Caillaux was busy today putting into effect his measures, approved by Parliment, to remedy France's financial situation, a situation which he described in an address last night as "less serious than people say, but more serious than people think."

It is understood that the new gold loan, reserved to holders of national defence bonds, will be ready to issue within 10 days and it will perhaps be inaugurated on Bastille Day, July 14, the occasion of France's national fete.

Financial experts in general give favorable reception to the gold loan plan, although agreeing with M. Caillaux that it is a bold measure. Some, however, criticize it on the ground that it is a dangerous innovation for the state to pay one class of debts in gold and the rest in paper.

THE GOLD BASIS.

These critics point out that it may be seized upon by manufacturers dealing in government supplies and others as a precedent on which to base demands for payments calculated on a gold basis.

The wisdom of increasing the note circulation will not be used to cover budget expenditures, but legitimate needs of commerce.

Economists hold that the note circulation ought to amount to one and a half times the budget total; under the figure authorized by Parliament it will correspond to this ratio.

PRESIDENT VISITS FATHER, WHO IS ILL

John Coolidge, Aged 80, is Attended by Physicians—Recovery Expected.

PLYMOUTH, Vermont, June 29.—Called to his old home here by the illness of his father, President Coolidge had the assurance of physicians today that the patient's condition was improving.

Resting easier after drainage of the bladder through an operation performed yesterday, Colonel John Coolidge, eighty years old, himself insisted that he would be on his feet again shortly, and urged the President and Mrs. Coolidge not to worry.

SET-BACK POSSIBLE

His physicians, admitting the possibility of a set-back, said that if all went well the patient would be up and around again within three days. The operation was an emergency one, apparently clearing up an acute condition, but it is possible that it may be necessary to resort again to surgery to give permanent relief.

Accompanied by Mrs. Coolidge, the President hurriedly left the Summer White House at Swampscott yesterday to be with his father.

ANOTHER COMEDIAN

LOS ANGELES, June 29.—Charles Spencer Chaplin, the film comedian, announced yesterday the birth of a baby boy weighing six and three quarter pounds. PRINCE OF WALES REVIEWS WAMOIS

Natives Appear in Varied Costumes—Special Picture Taken of Parade.

PALAPYE, Bechuanaland, South Africa, June 29—The gravity of countenance which the Prince of Wales must assume on formal occasions was seriously taxed during a review of native Bechuana warriors yesterday at Sewore.

The natives appeared in the most outlandish costumes, proudly parading their cherished garments regardless of the general effect. Some wore discarded London police helmets, while others sported tartan kilts.

The prize turnout was that of a chief who appeared in a British hussur husby, the mess packet of an officer of the British foot guards, and golf knickers, of plus fours cut. The Prince had a special photograph taken of this parade.

THE installation of The Times-Star's new two-unit press has reached the stage where it is temporarily interfering with the operation of the old press. During this stage, which will last for two or three days, the mechanical department is forced to resort to expedients which necessitate a slower press run. If, therefore, your paper is a little later than usual, The Times-Star respectfully offers this reason, and trusts that the usual schedule will be in operation in a day or two.

C. P. R. Engineer Dies At Throttle of Moving Train

TORONTO, June 29.—William McIntosh, 42, died at the throttle of his locomotive, between Toronto Union Station and Sunnyside station, 3 miles distant, Sunday evening about six o'clock. McIntosh was driving the Toronto-Hamilton local Canadian Pacific train. About half way between the stations, Duncan McKay, the fireman, saw the engineer double up on his seat and fall off, his hand releasing the throttle. McKay, with the engine still in motion, lifted the dead engineer to the fireman's seat and then drove the train into Sunnyside station. A doctor called, pronounced life extinct. McIntosh had been under the doctor's care for some time.

Starts Tomorrow

ADELA Larkin is a flapper. She admits it proudly.

She rolls her stockings, wears the latest bob, and her pranks are the worry of the neighborhood.

Yet folk like Adela Larkin. She's so frank about everything.

Even Adrian Klyne, reserved, hardened by years as a detective, is quite taken in by Adela.

"A clever little miss," Klyne says of her. And then he adds "as deep as the sea."

Adela's father is the countryside's parish minister. Adela does not understand everything about her father. What daughter is there that does?

But Adela learns a few things about "THE RED RAIN" that's being found in rain-gauges about the country.

And the more she learns about the "rain" the better does she think of Adrian Klyne.

Like most flappers, Adela has a good common sense view of things. She decides that even though her father does seem to be connected with the mystery of the "red rain" it is better that the entire thing be cleared up.

So she joins in with Klyne, and the two work together.

There is a love story between these two.

It is unfolded with all the art of a skillful writer.

You will not want to miss a single installment of the story, "The Red Rain Mystery."

It starts in The Telegraph-Journal Tuesday morning.

Fusion of Ex-Service Men Organizations Is Planned

MONTREAL, June 29.—Fusion of the several ex-service men's organizations in Canada into one whole, with the loss of present identities and the sinking of minor differences to achieve a united front, will be the outcome of the British Empire Service League conference in Ottawa this week if the hopes of Field Marshal Earl Haig are realized, according to Captain Donald Simson, honorary organizing secretary of the league and editor of its official paper. Captain Simson is a member of Earl Haig's party.

Such action by Canada, said Captain Simson, would follow similar action in Great Britain and South Africa and would complete the objective of the league in that particular respect.

"Canada," he said, "is the only Dominion where there is more than one organization of ex-service men, and the Field Marshal hopes that the example of Great Britain and other parts of the Empire will add such weight to his appeal that the several organizations in Canada will find it possible to unite into one association."

Delegates will attend the conference from Great Britain, India and Burma, New Zealand, Australia, South Africa, Rhodesia, Malaya, Irish Free State, Northern Ireland and Newfoundland.
