President McNaught: The Exhibition is a financial success, and the officials are well pleased. We cannot yet tell exactly how far ahead of previous years the receipts are, but it is safe to say that it is the high water mark. While the receipts are heavier, so are the expenses, but the balance is on the right side of the ledger, and the figures are quite satisfactory.

Financially and artistically the greatest Exhibition in the history of the present association! That is the proud record of the superb enterprise whose lights went out Friday evening, not to appear again for another year.

When the gates closed Wednesday evening the officials found themselves even with the best year of the Fair, which was 1898, when there was something in excess of $20,000 on the right side of the ledger. That was the situation Wednesday night with two more days ahead of the show, which meant so much "velvet." Thursday's attendance was nearly as heavy as Wednesday, when 86,000 people passed the turnstiles. Friday the miserable weather almost eliminated the day as a factor in the revenue production, but 17,887 people passed the gates in spite of this condition. Therefore, the receipts for Thursday and Friday, including the splendid crowd in the grand stand Thursday night, must have increased the grand total of the net receipts up to between $30,000 and $40,000.

Kiralfy Got $12,000.

These figures cannot be verified for a day or so, but the indications are that the result is not far from that gratifying figure. An element, however, that works to the other side of the ledger is the big cut in the receipts made by the Kiralfy Company, which received something like $12,000 for the two weeks' performance. This is an expense the show of 1898 did not have to bear. At the same time as a revenue producer the Kiralfy spectacle was a winner. On the whole it is clear that the Fair just closed is one of the biggest successes in every way that have ever been chronicled in the history of such enterprises. This condition tends to make more certain an all-Canadian Exhibition next year, extending over probably thirty days.

Concessionaires Satisfied.

Those holding concessions on the grounds have made money, without an exception. The Midway marvels insist that, while they did not make as much money as they expected, they are satisfied and will return next year.

As an evidence of just how thrifty some of these fakirs were it may be mentioned that one little side show, which did not represent altogether an investment of $100, averaged in receipts $200 a day. Of this, of course, the Exhibition usually secures from twenty to thirty-five per cent. Some of the larger shows run as high as $300 a day.

What Might Have Been.

Had the weather not been so unpropitious about $20,000 more would have been added to the surplus. In spite of these two days, practically lost, the enterprise has proven a revenue producer of prodigious proportions, but, better still, the officials point to the high class of the educational exhibits and the instructive scope of the entire show with pride. They have not been close in matters relating to the artistic and educational features, and the results have justified the outlay.

Review of Live Stock.

The grand review of live stock before the grand stand was an instructive spectacle in spite of the fact that it was made in slush and rain.

All the live stock was paraded before the stand, and the line was over a mile long. This feature of the Fair was stronger this year than in former years, and the greatest enthusiasm has been manifested by those who brought their animals to the Fair.

Would Like to Come Back.

Bolossi Kiralfy, the genius whose artistic skill has breathed life into one of the most extraordinary spectacular performances ever produced on the continent, and Prof. Paolo Giorza, who supplied the splendid musical accompaniment to the delicious combination, are much pleased with the evidence of appreciation so generously bestowed. They are anxious to be factors in next year's Exhibition with a bigger and stronger aggregation. The fire was the only thing that occurred to mar this phase of the entertainment, and it looks as if the insurance companies are the only losers after all.

Crooks Kept Away.

The police arrangements have been perfect, and not a single professional crook of repute in the criminal world has been operating on the grounds. Few reports of losses have been received, and then most of them have been the result of watches dropping from the pockets, most of which were recovered the next day. Inspector Hall, in charge of the station on the grounds, declares it was the cleanest Fair in this respect the city has ever given. The few professional crooks who attempted to operate in the city were stopped at the depot, and either taken to jail or sent back where they came from. Not a single person was injured on the grounds or in the vast throng being transported by the Street Car Company. This is considered a record especially when the company has moved the crowds at night, leaving the grounds in from forty to fifty minutes.

The Directors' Luncheon.

At the directors' luncheon President McNaught said that so far as the Exhibition Association was concerned Manager Hill was not retired. He had not been asked for his resignation,

GAMBLERS RECEIVE 100 LASHES.

Mediaeval Punishment Administered By the Province of Manchuria.

St. Petersburg, Sept. 12.—The Manchurian love of gambling is in process of being quelled by the Governor of that section of the Chinese Empire. The most drastic laws have been issued and are in force to abolish games of chance.

Some of the punishments meted out to persons caught in the act are mediaeval in their cruelty. Card players are punished with 100 lashes on the bare back and are forced to wear metal rings about their necks.

Gambling is entirely forbidden in public and private. Those who play cards at home are publicly whipped and driven from the city where they live. Other prohibitive measures are carried out with as much severity.

NEWFOUNDLAND'S DESTINY.

Sir Robert Bond's Experiment Both Interesting and Alarming.

London, Sept. 12.—The Daily Chronicle, commenting this morning on the errand of Sir Robert Bond, Premier of Newfoundland, in Washington, says there is no reason to doubt that he will succeed in arranging reciprocity between Newfoundland and the United States.

"Sir Robert evidently believes that such a treaty would be preferable to absorption by Canada," says the paper.

"We doubt whether he is right, and we believe that union with Canada is Newfoundland's ultimate destiny. The experiment which Sir Robert is making at any rate is one that will be watched with equal interest and alarm."

MACKENZIE AT PORT ARTHUR.

Has Not Abandoned Idea for Union Station and Summer Hotel.

Port Arthur, Ont., Sept. 12.—This week a number of the directors of the Canadian Northern Railway paid a visit to Port Arthur and inspected the company's works. William Mackenzie was of the party. In reply to a reporter, he said the negotiations for a union station had not been abandoned, nor had he abandoned the project for a summer hotel for the government yard. As to the negotiations between the Council and the C.P.R. for an entrance to the north end of the town, shutting out any other railway, he replied that if any such thing were done the C.N.R. would have to stay at the south end.

HAYTIAN REBEL CHIEF TO DIE.

Alleged He Set Fire to a Town Before Evacuating It.

Port au Prince, Hayti, Sept. 12.—The revolutionary General Chicoye has been tried by a military tribunal and sentenced to be executed at Jacmel Oct. 9.

Preparations for an attack by government forces upon Gonaives, the headquarters of the Firminist revolutionists, are being continued. Port-au-Prince is quiet.

General Chicoye, the Firminist commander, was defeated at Petit Goave Aug. 8, and it is alleged that he set fire to that town before evacuating it.

Blew Off the Door of a Safe and Got $100.

Brandon, Man., Sept. 12.—Hanbury Manufacturing Co. office was burglarized last night. Robbers failed in an attempt to blow open the door of the big safe. They then pulled thru the door of a smaller safe and dynamited the door off. They secured petty cash to the amount of $100 and private papers.

COALITION NOT LOGICAL

Conservative Leader Says There Are Reasons Why It Would Be Improper.

THINKS ARTICLE WAS INSPIRED

By Premier, Who Now Admits He is Powerless—His Party Stands Firm.

Mr. Whitney, the Conservative leader, was asked by The World Friday night for his opinion of the political outlook, in view of the editorial suggesting a coalition government, which appeared in The Globe Thursday. He said:—

"I read the editorial with very great interest, for more than one reason. In the first place, I assume the editorial to be in reality a formal announcement and admission by Mr. Ross that the result of the elections has rendered the government powerless. Surely this assumption is reasonable because one can hardly imagine the chief organ of a government using the language of The Globe without the concurrence, if not the inspiration, of the Premier. I am bound to say, too, that the editorial deals with the situation with the utmost frankness, all of which goes to show that Mr. Ross decided upon this course only after the most careful consideration. In any event, there will henceforth be no room for dispute as to the actual situation.

"In my opinion, also, this course is a creditable one from a party point of view, as nothing could be gained by postponing the evil hour for a short time. The logical outcome of te situation, according to British precedent, is resignation. Having once admitted that the result of the elections has rendered his government powerless, there is nothing left to him but to retire.

"However, Mr. Ross seems to argue in favor of a coalition. There are many reasons why a coalition is unnecessary, and would be improper. I need only mention one, a strong argument for which is furnished by the editorial itself, which says:

It is true, however, that there is no great issue between the parties in Ontario at present, and that, therefore, we see men fighting for names, traditions and prejudices, rather than for principles.

"If these words have any meaning, they convey the idea that, as far as the principles on which the government of the Province would be conducted are concerned, there is no difference between the two parties on which the people can reasonably divide. Therefore, should the opposition cross the floor, practical satisfaction with the situation might be expected from the Reformers. And then, if you add to this that a majority of about 7000 of the voters of the Province have endorsed the opposition, you have a government of almost ideal strength.

"I do not wish to be understood as referring to members of the government in their personal capacity, but, in my opinion, it would be simply absurd to suggest, or expect, that the opposition, or members of it, should in defiance of public decency, under the circumstances, allow themselves to be absorbed by the government, the acts of members of which they have denounced in the strongest manner, in regard to which they have been endorsed by the popular majority. It would, in effect, be an attempt to undo that which has been so well done by the people of the Province, at the suggestion of the opposition."

Premier Roblin Very Ill Fearful of Appendicitis

While in London, Eng., Consulted Sir Thomas Barlow the King's Physician.

Winnipeg, Sept. 12.—(Special.)—It is given out to-day that Premier Roblin is confined to his bed, suffering from nervous prostration, brought on by over work and a severe cold. This is the truth, but not all the truth.

From an intimate friend it is learned that Premier Roblin is a very sick man and has been for the past three months. When he went to the coronation he complained of abdominal pains and feared that he had appendicitis. He was under the care of his physician and lived on frugal diet. In fact it was remarked by many prominent Londoners that he was an extremely light eater.

To his friend he confided that he had come to London to seek a specialist's advice on his condition. About this time King Edward was seized with illness and an operation was performed. The King's symptoms were so much similar to those of the Premier that the latter grew more anxious, and desiring to have the best medical service obtainable, consulted Sir Thomas Barlow, the royal physician, who had attended the King himself.

Sir Thomas diagnosed the Premier's case as intestinal trouble, but did not counsel an operation for appendicitis. He desired to await developments. The Premier was put on a strict diet and cautioned not to over-exert himself.

The Premier, under Sir Thomas Barlow's treatment, improved greatly and it was only recently that he had an acute return of his former symptoms. That his condition is serious is shown by the fact that his doctor here says he must have absolute rest. No one is allowed to see him and all business affairs are entrusted to his colleagues. The fact that he is only 49, of strong constitution and a teetotaller will aid in his efforts to fight off appendicitis.

Rodmond Palen Roblin was born at Sophiasburg, P.E. County, in 1853. He was educated at Albert College, Belleville, and, going to Winnipeg, became a grain merchant. He now represents Woodlands in the legislature. Besides being prominent in politics, he is a highly successful farmer and financier.

Arnott White's Absence Factor in Whalley Case

Mysterious Facts in Dismal Tragedy of the Warehouse, However, Clearing Under Clever Work of Detectives—Geen's Body Robbed After It Was Found.

"We still hope for the return of Arnott White, for we believe he can tell us much that will cast light on this case," observed Coroner Young in adjourning the Whalley inquest Friday night. In view of the absence of this employe of the warehouse, where George Whalley was found dead, the case was continued until Sept. 26.

The dismal tragedy was reviewed again after a month's adjournment of the jury and considerable new evidence developed. At the same time the hearing last night was chiefly important because of the continued failure of the Crown to permit the evidence touching the robbery of the Evans warehouse to be introduced. The indications are that when Watchman Johnston and C.P.R. Detective Turner, who saw the burglar the night of May 30, just before he fired the building, after wrecking the vault, are finally permitted to go on the stand their testimony will develop some rather startling facts. This is evidently being held back until the last moment to give the detectives all the necessary time to uncover new evidence and perhaps secure the return of White, who fled from the city several weeks ago.

Whalley's Death Recalled.

This is the case wherein George Whalley, an employe of Evans & Sons, drug jobbers, was found dead in the basement of the building on Front-street, July 20, under circumstances that indicate foul play. Money known to have been in the victim's possession was missing. The circumstance was especially suspicious, in view of the fact that Whalley's companion, Edward Geen, had been found dead under almost identical circumstances, in almost the same spot, on the same day of the week. The evidence of a number of employes was taken and that of several outsiders. The most important factor in the evidence was that eliminating absolutely the suspicion that Geen's body was robbed before death, or rather before the physician arrived. The rear pockets of the dead man were found turned inside out at the Morgue, yet Dr. Uren made absolutely clear that these pockets were not in that condition when he examined the body while it was still warm. When the remains arrived at the Morgue the pockets were turned out and the money was missing. The officers are exceedingly anxious to discover who turned these pockets outward. Where was it done, while en route to the Morgue, at the Morgue or before it left the basement of the Evans warehouse? That is the question that is exerting considerable influence on the case and causing the detectives to give extra attention to the details.

New Light on Geen's Death.

At first it was thought that Geen might have been poisoned and his money taken before the body was found. The testimony of the physician sheds new light on the case and indicates clearly that the first impression was wrong. Before the body was taken from the warehouse and placed in the undertaker's carriage it was constantly in charge of two men in the warehouse. Then when it was taken away three men had charge of it and two of these opened the casket at the Morgue, took the body out and reported that it had been searched at that time for the pockets were turned outward. The trousers the dead man wore at the time were introduced in evidence with the rear pockets still turned out. This affords an interesting new phase.

Another feature that attracted some attention during the evening was the question of the Crown Attorney to one of the salesmen of the firm, asking him the price at which he sold alcohol, and if he had ever sold any under the market price. The purpose of this query the Attorney failed to divulge, but it is believed to be significant in view of the previous discussion on this subject, when it was claimed a number of gallons of alcohol had been surreptitiously removed from the warehouse. This later proved untrue, however.

Movements of Employes.

Most of the evidence of the evening clung around the movements of the different employes about the time of the death of the two men and on the night the place was entered by a burglar. Again the Crown Attorney attempted to secure from the different employes the opinions they had expressed among themselves as to the cause of the death of their two companions. Some thought they had been poisoned by drinking water in which drugs had been placed, others thought Whalley might have been killed by a blow on the head from a

Dr. Samson's name is the most prominent. W. J. McKee was the last Liberal candidate.

DECEIVES RUSSIAN COLONY.

Nihilist Disorganizes Doukhobors By His Teachings.

Yorkton, Man., Sept. 12.—The teachings of Vladimir Dier Maynowde, a religious enthusiast, but who is suspected of being a nihilist, are disorganizing the Doukhobors in this vicinity.

He teaches that all things belong to God and that there should be no government. He also says the men should have no money, and, acting on his words, several Doukhobors offered all the money they had to the Dominion emigration authorities.

There is an unconfirmed report that two Doukhobors died from the effects of training to live on grass.

Many of his disciples have abandoned their stock and are drawing their own wagons.

RUIN THREATENS FARMERS

Season's Harvest Expected to Prove One of Worst in Last Twenty Years.

CROPS GREATLY DAMAGED BY RAIN

Storms of Last Two Days Thruout England Have Turned Fields Into Quagmires.

London, Sept. 12.—According to reports from all parts of England, the heavy rains of the last three days, coming on top of an exceptionally wet summer, have very seriously damaged the crops. Thousands of farmers find ruin staring them in the face.

Grain has suffered severely. Owing to the weather, it is of such poor quality that early samples failed to get a bid on the market. With a continuance of the prevailing weather it may be days and weeks before any considerable quantity of wheat can be put on the market. When it does come the wheat will be of poor quality.

Farmers will again find that a late harvest is seldom a good one.

It would be almost impossible to estimate the damage occasioned by the rainstorm which prevailed the last two days. One of the largest agriculturists in Lincolnshire stated to-day that with wheat in its present damaged condition the season would prove one of the most disastrous that have been experienced during the last 20 years. The land has been reduced to a quagmire. In some places water is now standing among the wheat.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE CURED HORSE

Lord Vincent Has Been Revived and is in 2.09 Class.

New York, Sept. 12.—Local turfmen were astonished to-day to learn that a prominent trotting horse owner had put an equine star in the hands of a Christian Science practitioner, and the outcome of the treatment has astonished the horse's owner, who declares that the animal is once more fit to race for any man's money. The horse is Lord Vincent, winner of the famous $10,000 Transylvania Stake at Lexington, Ky., and the owner is William Todd.

After he had won the Transylvania Stakes two years ago, Lord Vincent went all to pieces. Trainer John Splan and various veterinarians could not get the horse into form, and so he was retired. Last spring, a Christian Science woman in Youngstown, Ohio, asked permission to work on the horse, and Mr. Todd was much surprised to see Lord Vincent spruce up, take to his feed and begin to notice things. He is now going very fast, and is said to be a dangerous competitor in the 2.09 class.

DECIMAL SYSTEM IN COTTON.

After Oct. 1 Trading To Be in Hundredths of a Penny.

Liverpool, Sept. 12.—At a meeting of the Liverpool Cotton Association yesterday the following resolution was adopted:

"On and after Oct. 1 next trading in spot and futures of American cotton in Liverpool will be in hundreths of a penny per pound, instead of sixty-fourths, and on the same date the discount of 1½ per cent. heretofore allowed will be abolished. This important change in terms will result in a lowering of quotations by 4-64 to 5-64 per pound, or 6-100 to 7-100 per pound, being the equivalent of the discount no longer given, the net value thus remaining unaltered. On the same date the weight of American cotton contracts for futures will be altered from 47,200 pounds to 48,000 pounds.

NEXT TO STEEL TRUST.

Chicago, Sept. 12.—The long-expected merger of the great meat-packing interests of the United States will go into active and open operation on Saturday, Sept. 27, unless there should be an entirely unlooked-for change in the plans agreed upon by all those concerned in the deal at a meeting held yesterday afternoon. An industrial combination, second only to the Steel Trust in point of magnitude and importance, is therefore practically accomplished fact.

BARTON OFF FOR THE WEST.

Board of Trade of Ottawa Presents an Address.

Ottawa, Sept. 12.—Sir Edmund Barton on boarding the Pacific express for Winnipeg and the coast here today was presented with an address from the Ottawa Board of Trade. It referred to the hope of still closer relations between Canada and Australia, and the early completion of the Pacific cable.

Premier Barton in reply expressed the same hope, and said that both countries would derive equal benefits from closer connection. He was greatly impressed with the Canadian resources. Sir John Forrest also spoke of the desirability of the British empire encouraging trade within itself.

BRITISH-INDIAN TRADE.

Large Increase in Both Imports and Exports Shown.

London, Sept. 12.—A Blue Book just issued on the trade of India for the year ended March 31 shows that the imports amounted to $336,663,665, an increase of $30,000,000 over those of the preceding year. The exports were $440,000,000, an increase of $60,000,000.

Commenting on these figures The Daily Mail says:

Whatever faults the nation may be showing in the management of its home affairs, its governing capacity in Greater Britain remains unaffected. The reason for this may be that outside of England the principle that affairs must be conducted by the inexpert is frankly abandoned, and the direction of technical departments is made over, not to party politicians, but to specialists.

Dealing with the statement that Belgium is pressing England close in the business of supplying India with iron and steel, The Daily Mail warns the British ironmaster to wake up, "for if he does not it is practically certain that before long he will see the ubiquitous American invading this preserve."

MIRACLE WORKER'S REVENGE.

Sells His Stock in Railway and Boycotts It.

Vienna, Sept. 12.—The town of Grojetzk, Russia, is connected with the outer world by a railway which derives the major part of its revenue from Jews traveling to seek preternatural aid from the Rabbi of Grojetzk, a reputed miracle-worker and divine healer, who, by the way, as principal shareholder of the railway, had recommended his follows to use it.

At the last shareholders' meeting, however, a conflict of opinion arose between those present, which resulted in the sale by the rabbi of his stock. At the same time he strictly prohibited his followers from using the road, owing to which the trains are now running entirely empty.

BRIGHTER PEOPLE IN MARS.

Western Professor Says They Are Highly Intelligent.

Chicago, Ill., Sept. 12.—That people superior in intelligence to those of the earth inhabit the planet Mars is a conclusion that will be set forth by Prof. G. W. Hough, head of the department of astronomy of Northwestern University, in a report which he is compiling of his summer's observations from the Dearborn Observatory. He asserts that is a probability based on recent discoveries.

The conclusion includes the acceptance of the theory of evolution and the statements of leading astronomers that climatic condi-

BULLER NEVER ADVISED GEN. WHITE'S SURRENDER

"If You Must Surrender, Get Best Terms Possible," Text of Famous Message.

HELIO MAN PRAISES DOGGED FIGHTER

William Carey Returns to Toronto After Going Thru the Whole Campaign.

"You can tell the Canadian people thru The World that there is no truth whatever in the statement that General Buller ever advised General White to surrender Ladysmith. I was a signalist on the heliographs on the day the advice of surrender was said to have been transmitted, and, in spite of any statement to the contrary in the press or otherwise, I know that no such message ever was transmitted."

So spoke William Carey, a bright and sturdy young soldier of the King, who has just returned to his home in this city after having served from the beginning to the end of the South African campaign.

Never Suggested Surrender.

"You can say," he continued, "that I had to do with the heliographing on that memorable day, and if the particulars of the message are ever made known it will be shown that Gen. Buller never even suggested surrender to General White. I was with him during his career there, and every one of us—and there were many of us who knew a good general when we served with him—voted him the finest general that ever breathed the breath of life. When General Joubert was attacking Ladysmith we were twelve miles away, and I took General White's message on the heliograph to General Buller, saying, 'I cannot hold out much longer.' General Buller almost cried when we gave him the message, and he immediately answered, 'Hold out as long as you can: I am only twelve miles away.' Then General White signalled that he thought it would be impossible for him to hold out, whereupon General Buller heliographed, 'If you must surrender get the best conditions possible for your men.' That is the only connection in which General Buller used the word 'surrender,' and every one of us with him commended him for good advice. In the opinion of all of us connected with the 2nd Rifle Brigade, he is the only man who could really get an army corps out of England to-day."

A Brilliant Military Career.

William Carey is 22 years of age, and is a son of John Carey of Claremont-street, who is himself one of the best-known veterans of service to his country living in Toronto. He left here in 1899 and joined the home service, enlisting with the 2nd Rifle Brigade at Rupert Lane, Everton, Liverpool, in August of that year. Just as soon as the first shot was fired in South Africa his brigade was despatched to the scene of war, under General Buller.

Four Canadians With Buller.

"There were only four of us Canadians in the brigade," said the young

His Motion Looking That Way Was Withdrawn, However.

Montreal, Sept. 12.—The General Synod brought its labors to a close this afternoon, when the third session of that body was prorogued by Archbishop Bond.

A motion by Dr. Langtry threatened to disturb the closing hours, but it was eventually withdrawn. A resolution was also adopted congratulating the President of the United States on his recent escape from serious injury.

Tarte Would Know Desire of Captains of Industry

Begins Investigation Into Effects of Present Tariff in Manufacturing Centres.

Montreal, Sept. 12.—Following up his declaration in favor of a change in the tariff, Hon. Mr. Tarte has already started out to visit the several industrial establishments of the city and province. This is the way the Minister's newspaper, La Patrie, puts it:

Why He Came Home.

"Hon. Mr. Tarte reached Montreal this morning in order to put into execution a project which he has had in view for some time past regarding the industrial situation of the Dominion. He will, in fact, conduct a close investigation, similar to that just completed with regard to the important question of transportation. 'We do not know our own country sufficiently well,' Mr. Tarte is always saying, 'and the Minister does not wish to be subject to the same reproach.'

Saw What Was Needed.

"Scarcely had he returned from the great lakes, where he saw with his own eyes the pressing requirements of the country, when Mr. Tarte decided to take personal cognizance of the industrial situation in Canada to enquire into the effects of the present tariff reform among manufacturers, as well as the necessary legislative remedies in order to increase the number of our factories and to ensure, not only increased production, but their financial
