AROUND THE WORLD.

.....The reclamation of Windsor forest for public uses has cost the city of London $1,350,000.

.....Mormon missionaries are active in Kentucky, and 13 converts were lately baptized in Grayson county.

.....Over 75,000 Texas cattle and 10,000 horses are now en route for the north through the Indian territory.

.....Land on the corner of Wall and Broad streets, New York, recently sold for $250 a square foot—$168,000 for the lot.

....Lightning set fire to two wheat fields in Butte county, California, on the 2nd instant. This is said to be an unprecedented occurrence.

.....Lake Worth, in Florida, is only 200 yards distant from the Atlantic and extends parallel with it for a distance of thirty-five miles.

.....A couple who were each three feet in height were recently married at Jefferson, Iowa, many hundred people flocking to witness the ceremony.

.....A crowd of flies so swarmed about the steeple of a church in Detroit the other day as to produce the appearance of smoke, and the fire engines were called out.

....The internal taxes of Germany for the fiscal year 1881-82 on the three articles of salt, sugar and tobacco were: On salt $8,728,495, on sugar $11,922,720, on home-raised tobacco $1,098,720.

.....The attorney general of Tennessee has decided that the matrimonial associations and nuptial guilds in that state are illegal and has ordered their prosecution by the district attorneys.

....In blasting rock on the railroad near old Cayuse station, Umatilla county, Oregon, a nest of snakes was disturbed. After one blast no less than 450 rattlesnakes were found among the debris, not counting the detached pieces.

.....The Japanese government have lately drafted new regulations for marriages. No man in the empire will henceforth be be permitted to marry before arriving at the age of twenty. Women, however, are to be privileged to marry at eighteen.

.....'Didn't you t l me sir, th t you could hold the plough?' said a farmer to an Irishman whom he had taken on trial. "Arrah be aisy now," said Pat; "how the deuce can I hould it and two horses drawing it away from me? But give it to me in the barn, and, be jabers! I'll hold it with anybody.'

.....In Montana, on a day fixed for a wedding, the bridegroom did not come to time. He was sued for breach of promise, and showed that all the hours of the day specified he was treed by a bear. The defence was deemed valid, he was forgiven, and that night there was a merry wedding.

.....In a recent tour the French minister of agriculture is said to have found that the only vines which had resisted phylloxera were those imported from this country by the Duchess of Fitzjames. He has therefore resolved on recommending state aid to assist their importation, which small viticulturists cannot afford.

....A grand exposition of the arts and industries of Siam was opened there in April The king's brother, Prince Damroksah, is president. The exposition was inaugurated by a religious fete, lasting six days, during which prayers were said in all the pagodas of the city. The king then made a circuit of the show, which is very rich and interesting, and declared it open.

.....Active interest is taken in Chicago in the celebration to be held there, in Ogden's grove, August 23, for the purpose of raising funds for the erection of a monument to the memory of John Brown. All the states of the union will be invited to co-operate in making the memorial a national one. Among the persons asked to make addresses at the gathering are Mrs. Harriet Beecher Stowe, Secretary Lincoln, ex-Secretary Blaine, Senator Logan, Governor Cullom and Messrs. B. K Bruce, Frederick Douglas, Wendell Phillips, Roscoe Conkling and Charles B. Farwell.

....Arthur Sullivan is a shrewd man notwithstanding the fact that he wears a "Dr" before his name. While in Alexandria he wanted a particular carpet which pleased him. He priced it and $500 was demanded. He offered $25. Cigarettes and coffee. A week later the dealer came down to $450 and Arthur went up to $30. More cigarettes and coffee. So they bickered for three months, at the end of which time the composet of "Patience" carried off the coveted carpet at $60. Americans, he says, are spoiling the trade, because they readily pay $1500 for articles which, had they known the laws of the country's trade, they might have had for a tenth of that sum.

.....Peter Helm was menaced by a mob near Fort Wayne, Ind., twenty years ago. He had killed a popular man in a drunken wrangle and was in imminent danger of being lynched. He had summoned John L. Farrar, a lawyer, but the crowd was inclined to hang the prisoner without listening to his counsel. In this emergency Farrar drew his client aside as if for consultation, and then advised him to run for the woods, which were close by. Helm did so and was not caught. The lawyer got no fee and narrowly escaped vicarious lynching. He never heard of Helm again until recently, when he received a letter from Mexico containing a draft for $500, with the information that the fugitive hap become a successful coffee planter.

....Six years ago the temperance women of Iowa started the crusade for prohibition, which has just been crowned with such wonderful success. The Iowa State Register says:—"It was pre-eminently a woman's contest, in origin, progress, conduct and result. With the three great weapons in the armory of women, faith, earnestness and love, these women never allowed this campaign of six years for the amendment to slacken, and never let a day pass without adding strength to its columns. They obtained nearly all the women of the state as their supporters. They allied the church and the schoolhouses in every neighborhood. They asked the press for its help and got it. They even weakened and half disarmed the saloon itself by appealing to it and its owner rather than threatening them."

....The other day King Louis of Bavaria's favorite secretary, Herr Zeigler, struck work for this reason: The king always turns night into day: that is to say, he gets up when the sun sets and goes to bed at sunrise; thus business is always transacted by him during the night. Poor Zeigler used constantly, therefore to be deprived of his natural rest. All the state business passed through his hands, as the ministers have always declined to read their different reports personally to the king, who would only listen to them lying in bed and concealed behind a screen. Zeigler has, however, taken up work again, but under conditions, the principal of which is that he is to be allowed to go to bed at 10 o'clock in the evening, and not to be disturbed before 8 next morning.

FOR AND ABOUT WOMEN.

"My dear," said a husband to his wife, "what kind of a stone do you think they will give when I am gone?" She answered coolly: "It might be brimstone, John."

Queen Victoria has announced her determination henceforth to have her birthday celebrations held on the actual anniversary of her natal day—May 24 of each year—and not as has often been the case, on other days arbitrarily selected for the purpose.

Miss Ella Sturgis, the daughter of General Samuel D. Sturgis, U.S.A., is at Saratoga with the family of Colonel Bridgland, and from there will accompany them on a tour to the Thousand Islands, down the St. Lawrence, and to other favorite summer resorts. The party will be gone until September.

The Princess of Wales does not let her charitable heart grow cold and exclusive on Sundays. On a recent Sunday she and her daughters attended the Children's flower service at Berkeley chapel, Mayfair, and then, laden with flowers and fruit, she went to the children's hospital and distributed her gifts among the patients.

And now comes forward an authority on fashion and deposes and says that neither mitts nor lisle thread gloves are suitable for wearing at the beaches or in country resorts, inasmuch as they afford no protection to the hands from the sun and do not prevent these members from becoming tanned. Kid gloves for summer wear at such places were long ago voted to be in bad form, so that now it is difficult to see what there is left for the fair sex for hand wear except plymouth buck gauntlets or boxing gloves. But doubtless even these would be willingly worn if only the fashion were to be set by the accepted authorities.

The demand for false hair has increased and the supply diminished to such an extent that the coiffeurs of London and Paris are on the brink of despair, such difficulties do they encounter in satisfying the requirements of their customers. "Europeans," says the Lancet, "will not sell their hair, or have no longer any hair to sell; and the trade has been compelled to travel further afield. The actual supply of false hair for the European markets is now for the most part imported, via Marseilles, from Asia Minor, India, China and Japan. But the hair imported from the countries is almost invariably black, and fails utterly to harmonize with the auburn and golden tints that so well befit a northern complexion. It has therefore been found necessary to boil the hair in diluted nitric acid to deprive it of its original color, and it can then be dyed to the tint most in vogue.

The Ras-el-Tin Palace.

This palace brought so prominently into notice by the bombardment of Alexandria is situated on the northern bend of the western harbor, and its frontage dips right down into the tide. The stories that have been told of the bowstring and mysterious caiques in the homes of Turkish voluptuaries on the Bosphorus are plentiful of this same palace on the water in Alexandria. Ancient residents looking across from the sandy shores on the opposite side, have seen veiled boats pushed off into the stream a heavy sack thrown overboard, and the slaves returning with their craft to the white palace, leaving behind them, enveloped in the silent, rolling and inexorable waters some tale of a sated pasha's disgust or the miserable mortal remains of a poor human amour. It is built, or was, upon the southern shore of the island of Pharos, and was surrounded by a series of forts, which were supposed to render it impregnable to attack from the mainland. Adjoining it were gigantic stables filled with horses, from the docile and diminutive Arab to the larger and less tractable English charger. In the building itself there was a series of magnificent rooms, representative of the principal European countries. The furnishing of the Paris, the Roman and the London rooms were especially remarkable for costliness and characteristic design.

Calico Dresses.

Most women like silk dresses. Few men care to pay for them. Every girl wants to see herself gorgeously attired, unless she is very sensible and her wisdom outweighs her vanity. Marrying men prefer to see the girl they hanker after attired n simple calico. They go in for beauty unadorned and have a penchant for women who have faith enough in their charms to trust them in a cheap and plain setting. From time immemorial calico has been pronounced by man woman's only wear, and therefore shrewd husband hunters should disport themselves in this light and inexpensive fabric whenever they can. If their natural outfit is so poor as to require silk to save it let them wear it.

Bald Heads.

In Europe some years ago a bald head was regarded as typical of wisdom when not the result of fever or scuff. In this country it is looked upon as the sure sign of roguery, slyness and wealth. New York is full of bald heads. There are more of them every evening in the front rows of the theatres than there are in the pews of churches on the sabbath. Yet this is no sign of depravity. Many an honest and guileless brain throbs beneath a shining pate. In attention to the hair, improper use of the hat and sundry other natural causes produce premature baldness. So do not call a man a rogue because his head is bald.

From the Leading Hospitals of France and England.

over twenty-five physicians and surgeons have connected themselves with Dr. Souvielle, of Montreal, and ex-aide surgeon of the French army, in founding an international throat and lung institute, which has been long needed in the Dominion of Canada, and the offices are 75 Yonge street, Toronto, and 13 Philips' square, Montreal, where specialists are always in charge. Physicians and sufferers can obtain free advice from the surgeon, and use Dr. Souvielle's spirometer, which is recognized in all leading hospitals of Europe as the only means of curing catarrh, catarrhal deafness, bronchitis, asthma and all throat and lung diseases. Parties unable to visit the institute can be successfully treated by letter. Consultation free. Call or write to the international throat and lung institute, 75 Yonge street, Toronto, 13 Philips' square, Montreal. 135

—Those in search of the latest novelties in photography should pay a visit to the establishment of J. H Lemaitre & Co. 324 Yonge street, two doors north of Edward. Their extra rapid process is a perfect success and so quick in its action as to produce in the dullest weather, negatives of the highest delicacy and quality. Cabinets $3 per dozen; tablets $5 per dozen. 135

—To All Strikers.—Strikers would do well to consider Guinane's liberal offer before going elsewhere. They are in sympathy with the present movement, and to show that they are they agree to supply from their splendid assortment—the largest in the city—of boots and shoes, trunks and valices, any goods strikers need at actual wholesale prices, which they will guarantee is 25 per cent below the retail price. Need we say Guinane's immense boot and shoe emporium is at 215 Yonge street, three doors south of Albert. 246

BY four months' use of Charles Clothe's Latest Spiral Truss. Patented in U. S. and Canada. POINTS OF EXCELLENCE: 1st, Weighs only one ounce. 2d, Perfect ventilation, air circulates freely under pad 3d, Constant pressure. In speaking the tongue acts as a valve in the mouth, which causes a corresponding pressure immediately on the hernia. The pad is so perfect that it instantly imitates the motion of the tongue when speaking. 4th, It will give to the slightest motion of the body. It is made of best brass, therefore rusting is impossible. The pad when pressed (as above shown) has a cumbing pressure, the same as by placing the hand upon the leg, extending the thumb and drawing together. This truss is the result of a life's study and is years' material experience. Twenty-four thousand adjusted in the last seven years by the inventor. Recommended by leading physicians. I defy the rupture I cannot hold with ease. Spinal instruments, most improved. A new apparatus for straightening Club Feet, without cutting or pain. Send 6 cts. Stamps for book on Rupture and the Human Frame (registered, by Chas. Clothe), valuable information. Address CHAS. CLOTHE, Surgical Machinist, 118 King Street West, TORONTO, Ont.
