British People Learn To Save

(Associated Press Correspondent.)

London, May 28—The British are saving money as they never have, notwithstanding the increased cose of everything.

Sir Robert Kindersley, chairman of the National War Saving Association, said that it is "remarkable" that there are 16,750,000 holders of British war securities and more than 18,000,000 accounts in saving banks.

"It may be safely alleged, not only that saving has been commenced by many millions who before the war never saved, but that there is every evidence that the effort of these savers increases in intensity as the war proceeds."

This situation is ascribel to the fact that thousands are receiving more pay than ever and thousands of women who prior to the war earned nothing are now engaged in remunerative war work. Also the incentive to spend money has been removed to a certain extent by the regulation of food and drinking purchases and curtailment of amusements.

LIEUT. JAMES B. DEVER WRITES HE IS ONLY SLIGHTLY WOUNDED

Mrs. Hugh Dever, Victoria street, has received a letter from her son, Lieutenant James Dever, formerly of the Times staff, in which he states that he has been but slightly wounded, and not seriously as reported in the casualty list. Lieutenant Dever is now in hospital in Trouville, France, and in his letter the young officer states that his wound is not serious enough to warrant his being moved to "Blighty."

Weddings at Stanley.

At the Methodist parsonage in Stanley, on June 26, Angus Tomilson of Tay Creek and Beatrice Viola Boultis were united in marriage by Rev. John B. Young. On the same day, at the residence of the bride's father, Almond Clayton, of Green Hill, Mary Sansom Clayton became the bride of Morley C. Merritt of Maple Grove, Rev. Mr. Young officiating.

Ration cards for smokers have been introduced in Austria, says a Vienna dispatch published in Berlin newspapers.

LEMON JUICE TAKES OFF TAN

Girls! Make bleaching lotion if skin is sunburned, tanned or freckled

Squeeze the juice of two lemons into a bottle containing three ounces of Orchard White, shake well, and you have a quarter pint of the best freckle, sunburn and tan lotion, and complexion beautifier, at very, very small cost.

Your grocer has the lemons and any drug store or toilet counter will supply three ounces of Orchard White for a few cents. Massage this sweetly fragrant lotion into the face, neck, arms and hands each day and see how freckles, sunburn, windburn and tan disappear and how clear, soft and white the skin becomes. Yes! It is harmless.

War Garden Bulletin

PRACTICAL DAILY GUIDE FOR VACANT LOT AND BACK-YARD GARDENERS ENLISTED IN GREATER PRODUCTION CAMPAIGN

Issued by the Canada Food Board in Collaboration With Experts on the Staff of the Dominion Experimental Farm

POTATO BUG.

One of the worst enemies the war gardener has to contend with is the potato bug. Where potatoes are well on by this time the over-wintered female potato beetles lay clusters of bright, orange-colored eggs on the undersides of the leaves. These soon hatch into the well known dark-colored grubs. There are several generations of the insect during the season and both the grubs and beetles continue to feed from spring to autumn.

The destruction of the beetles early in the season is important. As soon as they are seen to be present the vines should be sprayed either with paris green or arsenate of lead. At Ottawa, the following formula has given satisfaction: 8 ounces of paris green and 1 1-2 pounds of powdered arsenate of lead to 40 gallons of water. Both paris green and arsenate of lead may be used in Bordeaux mixture and if this is done the above proportions are suitable for 40 gallons of the mixture. Poisoned Bordeaux mixture such as this not only destroys potato beetles and grubs but also protects the plants from blight and rot. Applications should be made early in June, when the beetles are first seen; then early in July and again about August 1, 15 and 31.

REMARKABLE OBSERVANCE OF 4TH IN NEW YORK

Thirty-Four Nationalities Represented In Parade

75,000 TO BE IN LINE

America's Progress in War to Be Shown on Floats — Schuman-Heink, at Evening Exercises, to Sing the Swanee River

New York, July 2—With 75,000 persons in line, including groups of thirty-four different nationalities and several hundred floats depicting events in the history of the world and graphic demonstration of what America is doing in factory, shipyard, on the sea, in the trench, and in the air, New York City's Independence Day loyalty parade promises to be one of the most significant ever held here.

Altogether, 250,000 applications have been made for places in the parade, but the number of marchers has been limited to 75,000. According to the plans of Brig.-General George R. Dyer, the parade will leave Washington square at 9 o'clock on the morning of July 4. Behind a platoon of mounted men from the police department will follow "The Spirit of '76." Directly behind will follow "The Spirit of 1918," the New York boy, steel helmeted and outfitted for service abroad. Two Irishwomen and two Jewish women, all of whom have six sons in the service, will be next in line, and in a place of honor behind these women will be reserved for men who enlist on Independence Day.

Behind the young men will come Joan of Arc, surrounded with her legions of soldiers, followed by a standard bearer carrying an exact copy of her original helmet.

Considerable interest will attach to the delegation of the Friends of German Democracy. It was announced that Dr. Abraham Jacobi, the only prominent survivor in this city of the German democratic uprising in 1848, has accepted the appointment offered him as honorary chairman of the German racial unit to take part in the parade.

The Friends of German Democracy will have four floats. One of them will show the roll of honor of the men of German origin who have died in France. Another will depict the work being done for America in trade, art and science by men of German origin. In the enemy alien division will march those Germans who are entitled to wear service flags for relatives in the American army or navy service.

The nation's progress in the war will be visualized by floats exhibiting the work of the army, navy, and the War Industries Board. The part played by the navy in the war will perhaps be the longest section. A complete traveling wireless outfit, one of which will leave soon for the front, will head the division. Following will come a huge float on which will be mounted a miniature warship in the course of construction. Workmen in various branches of shipbuilding will demonstrate their work.

The ordnance department will exhibit several guns of the type which are mounted on merchantmen and troopships. Gun crews, just returned from abroad, will give an exhibition of loading and firing at an imaginary enemy submarine. An acetylene burning outfit, loaned by Admiral Usher of the Brooklyn navy yard, will demonstrate how the steel beams and plates of a warship are burned.

A series of floats showing the evolution of a country boy into a fighting sailor has been built at the Pelham Bay naval training station. Before each float there will be a navy truck on which recruiting officers will receive recruits at each traffic crossing. A completely outfitted and rigged miniature warship measuring fifty feet will be one of the floats. The different types of torpedoes, a speed airplane, a bombing airplane and a mounted dirigible will follow, all hauled on trucks.

Enlisted men of different nationalities will receive furloughs from their training camps and will march with their groups. An exact reproduction of a section of a base hospital behind the firing lines in France will be shown on a large motor truck, the rooms, fully equipped, with Red Cross nurses in attendance.

Evening at the Stadium.

Elaborate exercises at the Stadium of the College of the City of New York in the evening will wind up the celebration as planned by the mayor's committee on national defense. Josephus Daniels, secretary of the navy, is scheduled to deliver an address. Tableaux have been arranged in which prominent women of the mayor's committee of women and well known society women will appear. "America" will be portrayed by Mrs. Bourke Cockran on a gun carriage drawn by soldiers and sailors and followed by the "Thirteen Original States." Following this Anna Fitziu will sing national airs. Ethel Barrymore will read a prologue to a tableau in three scenes, showing "Army," "Navy," and "England."

Mme. Schuman-Heink, who is coming from California especially to appear in the pageant, will sing "The Swanee River," accompanied by Arnold Volpe's orchestra and the Pelham Bay Singing Sailors' Chorus. Italy, France, Japan, the Red Cross and the Allies will be represented in other tableaux. Mrs. Lydig Hoyt, surrounded by French sailors, will portray France, and Lucien Muratore will sing the "Marseillaise." Others who will appear in this group of tableaux are Otaki Mura, Dr. John Dynley Prince and prominent officers of the Allied countries.

FIRST FREDERICTON MAN TO BE DECORATED BY KING.

Lieut. J. Edward Hanning, who arried home from overseas last week, spent the day with his mother, Mrs. James Bird, St. John street, and left for Toronto to report for duty in the royal air force.

Lieut. Hanning is the first Fredericton man to be decorated by King George personally during the present war. He received the Military Cross at Aldershot on June 8. This was pinned on his breast by the king, in the presence of the queen, the Duke of Connaught, and thousands of people, who cheered the young Canadian to the echo, as he walked up to be decorated.

The deed for which Lieut. Hanning won the Military Cross was performed on March 27, three days after the big drive across the Somme battlefield. While endeavoring to shoot down an enemy balloon, he was attacked by a scout. His machine gun was twice put out of action and himself wounded in the leg, but he succeeded in firing into his antagonist, the pilot of which collapsed in his seat, the machine spinning to the ground. His own machine was greatly damaged, but he brought it down safely. He was taken to a hospital and had his wounds dressed. Twelve bullets were found in his clothing.

He refused to stay in hospital, as there was much to do, and re joined his corps. Two pieces of bullet still remain in his leg, as the result of his encounter with the enemy on that day.

Must Live More Simply; Save And Buy War Certificates

British Chancellor Gives Advice That All Allied Peoples Should Heed

London, May 29—(Correspondence of The Associated Press)—Urging the people of Great Britain to economize and invest all their surplus earnings in war bonds, Andrew Bonar Law, British chancellor, has given advice that may be heeded in every allied nation. He said in an interview:

"Lives must be lived more simply.

"Personal, household, and business expenses must be reduced to the minimum.

"The surplus of weekly or monthly earnings over necessary expenditure must be invested straightway in national war bonds or war savings certificates.

"Current balances at the bank should be kept as small as possible and the money invested in national war bonds.

"Private individuals with money on deposit in banks should draw as much as they can and invest in national war bonds.

"Busines people and firms with money on deposit should withdraw all not absolutely needed for their business operations and invest it all in national war bonds.

"I am confidently looking forward to the reinvestment in war bonds of a very large part of the £50,000,000 in dividends which fall due on Saturday," added the chancellor.

The chancellor does not contemplate another long-dated loan and is convinced that the method of continuous weekly borrowing is best from every point of view.

Outlining an agreement with the principal banks whereby the latter will reduce their high deposit rates and urge customers to place their surplus funds in war bonds, Mr Law said, "the importance of this cannot be exaggerated. The amount of deposits in the banks is steadily increasing. It is from the deposits that the subscriptions to the war bonds ought to come.

"To lend one's money to the country by buying war bonds is a national war service only in importance to actual participation in the armed conflict. Nobody's money can be neutral. I am confident that the good sense and patriotism of the nation will make it unnecessary to ration money.

"If every investor, big and small, throughout the country would make it a regular habit to set aside weekly a definite portion of their resources for immediate investment in war bonds, the £25,000,000 a week I am asking would easily be forthcoming."

The Grand Central Palace, New York, has been purchased by Alfred DuPont for $5,000,000.
