Fun and Fancy.

"Women seldom stop to think." True enough. But you might have added: "But they never fail to stop and talk."

"Debt," remarks Josh Billings, "is a trap which a man sets and baits himself, and then deliberately gets into."

The Examiner arrived at a girls' school. He began the examination. The Examiner solemnly: "I would like the most learned young lady of you all to go to the blackboard." Not a soul stirred. The Examiner, politely: "Then I will send there the prettiest of you young ladies!" Everybody arose.

Saxe, the joker and poet, was once taking a trip on a steamer, when he fell in with a lively young lady, to whom he made himself very agreeable. Of course he made an impression upon the damsel, who said at parting—"Good bye, Mr. Saxe; I fear you'll soon be forgetting me." "Ah," said the inveterate punster, "if I was not a married man already, you may be sure I'd be for getting you."

"My friend," said the keeper of an hotel to an over-voracious boarder, "you eat so much I shall have to charge you an extra shilling." "An extra shilling!" said the boarder, with his countenance the very picture of pain; "for goodness sake, don't do that; I'm most dead now at paying five shillings' worth, and if you put on an extra shilling I shall certainly burst—I shall!"

A THOUGHTFUL DAUGHTER.—"I don't see how I'd get along without Mary, now," Mrs. Blucher observed, pausing to wipe the perspiration from her aged features and putting another ladle of soft soap in the steaming suds, while her daughter's voice at the piano could be distinctly recognized, floating out from the adjoining parlor. "I don't see how I'd get along without that gal no how. I'es on these days when I hev the ringest work, she picks out the nicest pieces, like "Sweet Rest By-and-By," and "Mother's growing old," 'an sings for me 'afore she goes out on the lawn to play croquet with the other young folks. Saint every gal as 'ud be as thoughtful, I kin tell you. Now, most of 'em jist sing away with, "Jordan's a hard road to travel," or "Whoop 'em up Eliza Jane," but she ain't none o' that sort. She's a pile o' comfort to me—a pile o' comfort," and Mrs. Blucher fanned herself vigorously with her soiled apron, preparatory to running the clothes through the second water.

The diseased animals thought to have foot and mouth disease in Kansas and elsewhere in the West, were affected with foot rot caused by eating ergot in rye and feed. Ergot is a cause of sudden and premature birth and abortion in animals. Being more or less common on nearly all grasses in meadows and permanent pastures, and especially on rye grass and its numerous varieties, is almost impossible to calculate the damage and loss it sometimes causes.

Clover makes more valuable hay than any other grass, and is more profitable for the farmer to grow, for different reasons. It apparently does not impoverish the soil at all, will yield more than any other grass, and makes the best food for stock. Clover answers a purpose for the farmer that could not well be furnished by anything else, and the greatest trouble is that the farmess do not raise enough of it. The value of the clover is to supply nitrogen in a rotation of crops, bring up inorganic substances from the subsoil when they are valueless, and secure them in the surface soil, to meet the requirements of other plants, and always improve the mechanical condition of the soil.

THE SCOTT ACT.

Petitions for its Submission Circulating Throughout the Province.

The Temperance People Confident of Carrying Three Out of Every Four Counties.

For several days a NEWS representative has been seeking to learn what the temperance people are doing in regard to the proposed Scott Act campaign throughout the Dominion. This forenoon he noticed F. S. Spence dodge into a hallway on King street leading to the office of the Canadia Citizen, the organ of the Temperance party. Mr. Spence is editor of the Citizen, and secretary of the Dominion and Ontario alliance, and therefore well qualified to give the information sought for. On hearing the reporter's errand he cheerfully consented to be subjected to the pumping process in behalf of the cause and the public.

'Let me first give you briefly the history of the Scott Act,' he said. 'It was submitted to Parliament by the Mackenzie government in 1876, and became law. Its constitutionality was tested in the courts, and on the 22nd of June, 1882, was sustained by decision of the Privy Council. At the annual meeting of the Dominion Council of the alliance, held at Ottawa on January 31st and February 1st, a resolution was adopted in favor of an immediate agitation for the adoption of the Scott act in every county of the Dominion in which such action has not already been taken.

At the same meeting a deputation was appointed to wait upon the Dominion Government and urge the desirability of providing for the simultaneous polling of the different counties that may petition for the submission of the act. It was declared to be desirable that there should be formed, at once, in every county and city, a strong central committee of active temperance workers, including representatives from the different local organizations, to plan and direct combined and energetic action. A circular embodying the views of the Alliance was sent to all the temperance societies, the principal temperance workers, and the clergy throughout Ontario. Supplies were also sent to the secretaries of the provincial alliances throughout the Dominion.'

'What has been the result of your appeal?'

'The counties have responded in a very encouraging manner. Twenty-four counties in Ontario are getting ready to submit the act.'

'Can you give me the names of them?'

'Yes; they are as follows:

Stormont, Glengarry, and Dundas, Ontario, Norfolk.

Russel and Prescott, York, Perth.

Carleton, Peel, Lambton.

Leeds and Grenville, Simcoe, Huron.

Lennox and Addington, Grey, Bruce.

Prince Edward, Brant, Kent.

Northumberland and Durham, Elgin, Dafferin.

Brantford, St. Thomas Middlesex.

In Quebec, Arthabaska, Shefford, and Stanstead. In Nova Scotia, Lunenberg.

'What success do you anticipate in these counties?'

'We feel confident that we shall be able to carry three out of every four.'

'Is it your intention to try Toronto?'

'There has been no resolution adopted by the executive in regard to it, but there is no intention of submitting the act here at present. We suffered a severe defeat at the time the Dunkin act was voted upon, but that was largely due to the bad machinery by which it had to be operated. Temperance sentiment has grown wonderfully since then. The English church temperance societies and the Salvation army have each added strength to the cause. The way in which the people dealt with the grocers' licenses indicates very clearly the growth of temperance sentiment in Toronto. We prefer to try the counties first and not bring on a contest here at once, but it will not be long before we also begin operations here.

'Could you summarize for me the provisions of the Scott act?'

Yes, I think I can. It is a local option law, which can only be adopted by cities or counties. To secure the submission of the act in any city or county the signatures of one quarter of the total number of ratepayers must be obtained. The petition containing the names is sent to the Governor-General in Council, who issues a proclamation fixing the day of the polling. The election is conducted according to the regulations governing elections for the Dominion parliament. If a majority of the ratepayers vote for the act the Governor-in-Council issues a proclamation bringing the second part of the act into force. The act cannot come into force for at least five months from the date of polling, and cannot be repealed for three years. It prohibits the sale of liquor except by licensed druggists and wholesalers. Wholesalers may sell liquors in quantities of not less than ten gallons, also and beer not less than eight gallons. They can only sell to licensed druggists or to those who will carry the liquor outside the county for consumption. Licensed druggists are allowed to sell in quantities not less than one pint for sacramental, medicinal, mechanical and scientific purposes. If for medicinal purposes, a medical certificate must be produced; if for sacramental purposes, a clergyman's certificate; if for any art or manufacture, the certificate of two magistrates. The penalties for violations of the act are $50 for the first offence; $100 for second offence, and imprisonment for third offence.'

'How many counties and cities have already adopted the Scott act?'

'There have been forty contested, thirty-three of which were won by the temperance party. The total number of votes cast for the act in these forty contests was 49,103, and the total number against 26,944, giving a majority for the act of 22,159. That result, I think, justifies the hope that in future contests we will achieve great success.'

'When do you anticipate the voting will take place in the counties and cities you have mentioned?'

'That will entirely rest with the Governor-in-Council, who appoints the polling day. I expect the petitions from nearly all the counties will be presented in July, and the voting will probably take place in November. Before that time we may possibly decide to the feeling in Toronto on this question.'—[Toronto News.

Household Hints.

PICKLES WHICH WILL KEEP.—To 100 cucumbers add one pint of fine salt, dissolved in boiling water and poured on them hot. Let it stand 24 hours; turn off and rinse. Then dissolve in boiling water a piece of alum of the size of a small egg, and pour it on the cucumbers. Let it stand six hours, pour off and rinse. Then scald sufficient of the best cider ninegar to cover, spiced with half an ounce each of cloves, cinnamon and white mustard seed, with a cupful of sugar. Put this upon the cucumber boiling hot, and you have nice brittle pickles, with no more trouble than when they are packed in salt.

MERINGUE STRAWBERRY SHORT-CAKE.—Make a very light biscuit crust and bake in jelly-cake pans. After it is baked split it open and cover each half with berries; sugar them slightly. On top of the berries pile the whites of eggs beaten to a very stiff froth; sweeten, and set back in a quick oven to brown slightly. Allow the whites of two eggs to each cake, and a teaspoonful of sugar to each egg. If you like, make a soft custard with the yolks of the eggs.

LEMON PUDDING.—Take an ordinary sized sponge cake that has grown stale. Rub it into fine crumbs, add a coffee-cupful of sugar, one of butter, five eggs well beaten, and the juice and grated rind of one lemon. Two tablespoonsful of brandy improves it. In stirring in your cake crumbs be careful not to have it too stiff, as it is intended to be very light and puffy. Bake it and eat hot, with a lemon sauce, if you choose.

TOMATO CATSUP.

The Country Gentleman furnishes the following recipes for tomato catsups:

Skin one peck of ripe tomatoes; put into a kettle and boil, then strain through a sieve. Return to the kettle, take off the scum that rises, then add one teacupful of brown sugar, one-third of a teacupful of salt, a dessertspoonful of cloves, the same of cayenne pepper, and cook till quite thick, and then add 1½ pints of vinegar. Keep well stirred toward the last. It is excellent.

COLD CATSUP.—Chop fine a half peck of tomatoes, two roots of grated horseradish, one small cupful of salt, half a cupful of black and the same of white mustard seed, two tablespoonfuls of black pepper, one cupful of onions chopped fine, one tablespoonful of powdered cloves, one of mace, one of cinnamon, one of celery seed, one quart of nasturtiums, half a cuptul of sugar, and one quart of vinegar. Mix all together and put into jars. Cork tightly; it will keep until tomatoes come again, and is excellent.

Wash a gallon of ripe tomatoes quite clean; cut off all the stems and black spots, and put in a porcelain. Add a gallon of sharp vinegar; set them over the fire, and let them stand till soft enough to mash with a spoon. Then add four tablespoonfuls of salt, two of fine mustard and two of black pepper. Stir thoroughly very often, keeping a cover over it so the steam will not escape. Let it stew about six hours; then rub it through a sieve, and bottle it up while warm. Set it in a cool place and it will keep for years. Some like cayenne pepper, and more mustard than is called for in this recipe; they can be added to suit the taste.

A DERBY DEAD HEAT.

Harvester and St. Gatien Run in Together—The Favorite Two Lengths Behind Them.

LONDON, May 23.—For the first time since the establishment in 1780 the Derby resulted in a dead heat for first place. Harvester and St. Gatien were the horses. Queen Adelaide, who has been a hot favorite for a number of weeks, ran third. The result was a great surprise as far as St. Gatien is concerned, as he was not looked upon as even securing a place. At the start St. Gatien shot away to the front, closely followed by Walton's Richmond. St. Gatien held his lead until nearing home, when Harvester drew up on him, and there was an exciting finish, the two leaders passing the wire in a dead heat. In the meantime Queen Adelaide had crept up to third place, and finished two lengths behind the leaders.

The race did not excite as great interest as usual as many of the best horses took no part in it. St. Gatien was ridden by Wood, Harvester by Loates and Queen Adelaide by Webb.

The latest betting was 9 to 2 against Queen Adelaide (taken and offered), 7 to 2 offered against Harvester, 20 to 1 offered against St. Gatien.

SUMMARY.

Renewal of the Derby stakes of 50 sovs. each h. ft.; colts 8 st. 10 lbs., fillies 8 st. 8 lbs. The owner of second horse to receive 300 sovs., and third 150 sovs. out of stakes; about a mile and a half.

Sir John Willoughby's ch. f. Queen Adelaide, by Hermit—Adelaide. 3

Harvester is a brown colt, and was bred by Lord Falmouth, in whose colors he ran last season. Sir John Willoughby purchased him for 8600gs at Lord Falmouth's sale, and he carried his new owner's colors in the Two Thousand Guineas, in which he finished third to Scot-free and St Medard, and he won the Payne stakes at Newmarket May 17. Last year he was unplaced on his two first essays, the Richmond stakes and Rous' memorial at Goodwood, but he came out in winning form at the First October meeting, taking the thirty-sixth Triennial produce stakes from Knight Errant, Kinfauns, and half a dozen others. He next secured the Clearwell stakes, after a desperate race with Borneo and Coudor, and made his final appearance last year in the Dewhurst plate, in which he was unplaced to Queen Adelaide, Busybody and Fritz.

The Payne stakes, which Harvester won May 17 last, were worth £1045. He ran the 1 m. 2 fur. 13 yds. in 2.17 3 5.

St. Gatien is a beautiful bay colt, the property of F. E. Brau. St. Gatien has never distinguished himself before on the turf, although his owner has all along looked for something from him.

By the grand national steeplechase rules horses running a dead heat for a race or place shall be deemed winners of the race or place until the dead heat is run off or the owners agree to divide. And if the owners agree to divide, each horse which divides shall be deemed a winner of the race or place for which he divides.

In the present case the owners agreed to divide.
