GRAND TRUNK MONOPOLY.

The "cheek" of the Globe is perfectly amazing. This is part of what it said yesterday on the subject of Grand Trunk monopoly:

"When the amalgamation of the Great Western was in contemplation the Globe repeatedly warned the people of western Ontario of the inevitable result. Experience has proved the correctness of our forecast. Relieved of the pressure of competion the Grand Trunk has not only increased the rates of freight between those points where competition formerly existed, but the accommodation is restricted, local traffic is everywhere at a disadvantage, and the unpunctuality and carelessness which in bygone times were synonymous with Grand Trunk management have reappeared over the entire system. The late change is one which has worked adversely to the public interests in every way, and confirms all our predictions as to the danger of permitting any single company to establish a monopoly of traffic."

It almost takes one's breath away to read the above, after what the Globe did last winter, while the local house was in session. At that time the Grand Trunk and its allies were applicants for charters for new lines west of Toronto, on the ground that competition with the Great Western was necessary for the traffic of the peninsula. Application was at the same time made for power to amalgamate together the Midland system of railways, east of Toronto, it being well understood that all the roads included were virtually to become part and parcel of the Grand Trunk system. The Globe, under these circumstances, threw its influence in favor of competition west of Toronto, and in favor of amalgamation east of Toronto. That was rather a mixed kind of railway policy, to be sure, for a leading journal; but it was the policy of the Globe. The logic of it must remain an everlasting puzzle.

We cannot give the Globe credit for having been at that time so ignorant as not to know that the Grand Trunk's demands for competition west of Toronto were part of the strategy adopted for forcing the Great Western into fusion. The Globe now laments a result which itself very much helped to bring about. There was a crisis in the railway amalgamation business in Ontario last winter. Had the Globe then sturdily taken the ground that no railway amalgamation whatever should be allowed in Ontario, as far as the people of this province could prevent it; had it said boldly—"the separate identity and independence of the Great Western must and shall be preserved"—we doubt whether fusion would have been a fact to-day. But even this was not all. With startling inconsistency the Globe actually supported the Grand Trunk Midland amalgamation scheme, for the country east of Toronto, thereby making itself a Grand Trunk organ and advocate all through. In view of all this the Globe's present denunciations of "Grand Trunk monopoly" show a breadth of cheek and front of brass perfectly astounding to behold.

HIGH CLASS MUSIC.

An event in the art history of this city will be the concerts of Dr. Damrosch's orchestra two weeks hence. Those who have had the pleasure of listening to this unrivalled band in New York or Cincinnati know its merits. There is no other means equal to a well-trained orchestra like that of Damrosch's for the interpretation of the highest kind of music. Opera singers are good in their way but the truest art is mostly found in symphonic instrumentation. Damrosch is a born musician and was the friend and student of Liszt, of Wagner, and as violin soloist or conductor has been connected with all the best orchestras of Germany. His programs are made up of selections from the band music of Beethoven, Wagner, Gounod, Liszt Berlioz, etc. If we properly encourage his orchestra now we may have the pleasure of listening to it again; heretofore it has confined itself to New York, Brooklyn and Cincinnati, with an occasional concert in half-a-dozen of the large centres. Toronto has now been added to the list, and we therefore should appreciate the recognition. Such concerts are educatory and refining.

YOU PAY YOUR MONEY, &c.

(Globe of Nov 15.)	(Globe of Nov 17.)
There is no foundation for the rumor that a cabinet council has decided in favor of an early meeting of the Ontario legislature and a dissolution of parliament in February next.	We understand that the executive council of this province, at a meeting yesterday, decided that the provincial legislature should be called together for the dispatch of business on Wednesday, 13th December.

The World is a newspaper, not a party organ, and when it learns what is going on it publishes the information. On Wednesday, the World announced that the cabinet and prominent supporters of the cabinet had had the matter in consideration, all of which was true, and the Globe must have known it, yet on Thursday it published the first quotation above and yesterday the announcement alongside.

WILL THEY IGNORE IT?

We wonder if the two most noble gents who respectively edit the Globe and Mail have seen the Canada Presbyterian of this week, containing Rev Dr King's criticism of their editorial columns? For fear that they should have missed so good a sermon the secretary of the society for the suppression of vice should send each of them a marked copy.

MR. GOLDWIN SMITH'S ARTICLE IN THE PRINCETON REVIEW.

(To the Editor of The World.)

SIR: I find that an allusion made by you the other day to a passage of my article on the Irish question in the current number of the Princeton Review has created a mistaken impression which, with your permission, I wish to correct. Had I, as was stated in your columns, "announced that I would never set foot in England again." I might have been understood as speaking unkindly and ungratefully of my country. But what I really expressed was affection. I was pleading before American readers the cause of England against those who sought her dismemberment; and I said that I might do this with the better grace because, though an Englishman, "I was not likely to be inordinately rapacious on behalf of a country in which it was not probable that I should ever set foot again." Yours faithfully,

GOLDWIN SMITH.

 "Facts speak plainer than words." Proof:—"The Doctor told me to take a blue pill, but I didn't, for I had already been poisoned twice by mercury. The druggist told me to try Kidney-Wort, and I did. It was just the thing for my biliousness and constipation, and now I am as well as ever."—A P Sanford. Sold in both dry and liquid form.

Thurlow Weed and the Fruit Cake.

Wednesday was Thurlow Weed's 85th birthday. Ten years ago sixteen aged lady friends of Mr Weed, residing in the neighborhood of Rochester, met, and with their own hands made an immense fruit cake. They sent it to Mr Weed with their congratulations on his 70th birthday. Every year since, when the anniversary of Mr Weed's birth came round, his daughter Harriet has sent a piece of the cake to each of the ladies who were living. This time only a single slice was cut—all the givers having passed away but one.
