DRUNKENNESS IN SCOTT ACTOWN

From the Ingersoll Chronicle, Dec. 31.

Probably there never has been so much drunkenness on our streets as was the case on Christmas eve and Christmas day. Nor was it confined to men—but boys, mere boys of 12 years of age, were to be seen reeling on the streets on Christmas day. On Christmas night three boys, the oldest not over 14, had to be removed from one of our churches after their senses had become so charged with whisky, which they carried in bottles with them, that they repelled the load. At the G. T. R. station on Christmas day five boys, the oldest not over 14, were seen, each with a quart bottle of whisky. So great was the drunkenness that the hotels had to close up at 8 o'clock. Quite a trade is continually done on the streets by vendors of bottles. Whisky is brought down from London in quantities by men who club together and send one of their number up for it. There are, in this town, we are informed, eight low places outside the hotels where liquor can be procured, under guise of different trade. In the stables, on the streets, in the hotels, intoxicating liquors can be procured without the least attempt at secrecy. Nightly men are seen reeling on the streets. On Sunday last, in broad daylight, men were seen reeling drunk on the streets. In the face of all these plain truths, told by reliable witnesses, many of them Scott act supporters, we are forced to admit that the Scott act, so far at least as this county is concerned, is a lamentable failure. Would a high license law, with stringent rules and regular inspectors work any better is a question which should attract the urgent attention of temperance reformers and all who desire the welfare of their fellow men.

The Celebration of New Years.

—Notwithstanding the absence of snow the day was spent in a jolly manner. Calling was in order. As usual, lots of tea, coffee, wine, etc. Now that the boys have cultivated a taste for a fine Havana cigar they will not indulge unless they can get a General Middleton or our Brave Boys brands, union made, and registered. Manufactured only by W. E. Dobson, 159 King street east. 246 x

A Decidedly Clever Crow.

From the Woodstock Times.

Mrs. I. Stilwell, of Eden, has a crow called Joe that is a wonder in its way. It is not confined and will go miles away, calling on neighbors with whom it is acquainted, announcing its arrival, if it cannot get into the houses, by tapping on the windows and calling out, "Joe is here," "Joe is here," which it does quite distinctly. It never fails to return home in good time. Mrs. Stilwell has had the bird for two years and tamed it herself.

San Francisco Girl Lines.

From the San Francisco News Letter.

The San Francisco girl of 1885 is principally remarkable for her ability to express herself with a double-back-action combination of conciseness and volubility. She has a clever trick of economizing time and space by running two or three words together. She never pauses for the ordinary obstructions of grammar, and when clear, comprehensive English fails her she instantly resorts to words of her own coinage. The T. C. offers as an example the following intercepted conversation: "Lo! Whereyergoin?" "Lo! Jus downear to the dressmakers." "Dresfinishi?" "Mm—mm! Not quite; 'tgoinstube lovely." "Howshimakinit?" "Oh! I dunno; little iggers dowa the front and pleatingsroun the bottom—sorter sprangly effect. Mustburry—good by!"

A Dead Man Opens His Eyes.

From the New York Sun.

Emil Frenz, a Hoboken saloonkeeper, died suddenly on Sunday night at his home, 118 Park avenue, and his funeral took place Tuesday afternoon. Among the pallbearers was Frederick Eiper. As he was standing close to the open coffin, during the services, he startled all present by declaring that he had seen the corpse open its eyes and close them again. The burial services were stopped and a physician was summoned. He said, however, that the man was dead and that Eiper had been mistaken. The services were resumed and the body was buried. Eiper was so positive that he saw the dead man's eyes open that he declined to act as pallbearer.

Hard Times all Bosh.

If any one standing at the south corner of Yonge and Alice any night last week, and seeing the crowds of people eagerly purchasing holiday dry goods in The Waterloo House, could come away with the idea that money was scarce, he is not all there. Mr. McKendry reports holiday sales double those of last year, and is more than ever convinced that by keeping down expenses at the lowest niche, selling for cash, fulfilling promises, buying right and selling for the smallest possible margin of profit, there will never be any complaint of hard times at The Waterloo House, 178 Yonge street. 246x

King Milan's Pretty Forethought.

Vienna Letter to Paris Figaro.

King Milan ordered some time ago a Viennese armorer to make him a coat of mail that could be worn under his uniform. This chef d'œuvre of lightness, solidity and invisibility has just been sent to Belgrade, now that the battles are over. Prince Alexander of Bulgaria sent to Vienna an order of a totally different kind. A ribbon manufacturer a week ago received a telegram asking him to send on at once a thousand metres of ribbon for the Bulgarian military medal—a blue band with gold borders. The ribbon was not ready, and there was a great rush in the establishment to finish it. From this it is clear that Battenberg is as much astonished as everybody else at his own victories, otherwise he would not have neglected to have his ribbon ready.

Owing to my recent illness I have been unable to make a personal canvass. Having been your representative for seven years, a personal solicitation of your votes should not be necessary. You well know whether I am worthy of re-election or not. You know what my record has been, and that the interests of the ward have never been permitted to suffer in my hands. To the friends who offered to make a personal canvass for me I beg to said that it was unnecessary to inflict upon the electors the annoyance of ringing their bells and endeavoring to influence them by a personal interview, when their own good judgment is sufficient. Thanking the numerous friends who have volunteered to call on you, I will not put them to the trouble, but leave the decision in your hands. 55

CONFEDERATION LIFE ASSOCIATION.

HEAD OFFICE, TORONTO STREET.

FOURTEEN YEARS' RECORD.

The CONFEDERATION LIFE ASSOCIATION commenced business on Nov. 1st, 1871, so that the first FOURTEEN years were completed on Oct. 31st, 1885. The success which has attended the Association has more than fulfilled the expectations entertained at the outset, and its position to-day as one of the leading financial institutions of Canada, is most gratifying to its friends.

The following record of what has been done for the POLICY-HOLDERS is interesting and instructive:

Paid for Death claims	$467,095 00
Paid to holders of Endowment Policies	25,848 00
Paid for cash surrender values	77,118 00
Paid cash profits to Policy-Holders	170,452 00
Loaned to Policy-Holders on their Policies	38,012 00
Paid to Holders of Annuity Bonds	11,826 00
Premiums returned	320 00
Total	$790,271 00

In addition to the $170,452 cash profits already paid to the Policy-Holders, there will have accrued to the close of the present year (estimated) the further large sum of from $190,000 to $200,000; which will be still further increased at the end of the current quinquennium (31st Dec., 1886), to $250,000, and probably more, or about twice the amount of the Policy-Holders share of surplus at the close of the second Quinquennium (Dec. 31st, 1881).

Add to the above the fact that the Association holds One and a Quarter Million Dollars as a Policy-Reserve Liability, and some idea will be had of what one of OUR OWN INSTITUTIONS has done for its Policy-Holders.

These magnificent results have been worked out in a Home Company, conducted by a Board of Directors drawn from Canada's business men. Surely there is no good reason for the insuring public of Canada continuing to Impoverish Their own Country, by insuring in American Life Insurance Companies, and keeping up the constant drain upon our native capital. 246
