Madaline.

It fell when the crimson began to shine
In the round of the robin's breast,
That the feet of the maiden Madaline,
Came not to dance with the rest,
And when the splendor shone in the grass,
And the head of the rose was high,
She sang of love, though the song, alas!
Was only a lonesome cry.

But, ah! when the drifts of gold in the air
Betrayed where the broom was sweet,
She took the combs from her silken hair
And let it fall to her feet,
And in the days when the woods grew brown
And a red haze fringed the skies,
She wound it back, and wound it down,
From her poor bewildered eyes.

And by and by, when the snows were white,
And a shadow sat on the land,
She lay on her bed from morn till night,
And turned the ring on her hand.
The midnight moon was blind with storms,
But her heart with dreams was light—
For she cried, He has come! let me go to his arms!
And passed away from our sight.

We searched the valley, far and wide,
Got the print of a step—but no!
And we combed her hair like the hair of a bride,
And made her a grave in the snow.
And we took the smile with trust so sweet—
And we took the ring—for a sign,
And the name we graved at her head and feet
Was Faith—not Madaline.

—Alice Cray.

GLEANINGS.

—What ancient author is supposed to have written a treatise on plum-pudding? Suetonius.

—What trade did Master Jack Horner, of corner celebrity, subsequently adopt? Probably that of plumber.

—A Chinese thief, having stolen a missionary's watch brought it back next day to be shown how to wind it up.

—A Philadelphia paper suggests that the best possible use to which Alaska can be put is to make it a penal colony.

—During the frost the thermometer fell three times last week. Assistance was fortunately on hand on each occasion.

—The population of the City of New York as settled by the taking a second time the census in order to correct the first, is 943,-882.

—The following question is now being discussed before the Bungtown debating society: "Can a big man ache harder than a little one?"

— Gen. Sherman gives it as his opinion that the Krupp system of making guns of steel, adopted by the Prussians, is the best known.

—There is no better remedy for cold feet than to slap the leg briskly just above the knee after raising the foot. The increased circulation induces immediate relief.

—A reporter who attened a banquet concluded his description with the candid statement that "It is not directly understood by any body presen who made the last speech."

—An English writer says, in his advice to a young married woman, "that their mother, Eve, married a gardener." It might be added that the gardener, in consequence of the match, lost his situation.

—J. Horner writes: "I want a receipt for grouse pudding." By all means, by all means, replies an exchange. Nothing easier. Send the grouse pudding here, and we will return you a receipt by the bearer.

—A Detroit merchant having discharged a porter, is receiving semi-weekly epistles from him, pleasantly informing him, that the exporter is "bound to murder yew at the 1st faverable schance—deth is on yure trale."

—A St. Louis correspondent of the "World" says that President Grant is the owner of a flourishing farm in the neighborhood of St. Louis, and that he adds to his frugal store by selling milk to the inhabitants of that city.

—Michigan, as is now well known, is only a corruption of the name of Father Mike Egan, an Irish Catholic priest, who lived and toiled and was finally sacrificed by the Indians, on the site of the present city of Detroit.

—Military men have discovered a new remedy for intoxication. It is nothing more than raw potatoes, cut up into slices, and eaten without salt. An ordinary "murphy," it is said, will cure the most obstinate case in half an hour.

—Mr. Beckler, of Missouri, returning to his desolate hearth, found a tender note from his wife, saying, "I leave you mine and toma pictur. you had better brak up the hekse & live to hum. I luv tom better nor yu and that is why I hav gon."

—"My dear friend, said a gentleman to a bankrupt the other day, "I am sorry to hear of your misfortune. Your family has my warmest sympathies." "Oh, don't trouble yourself about my family, I looked out for them, you bet! Just save sympathies for the families of my creditors."

—A mathematical friend is bothering his head over the following problem: If four dogs with 10 legs can catch 80 rabbits with 27, in 14 minutes, how many legs must the same rabbits have to get away from eight dogs, with 32 legs, in 17½ minutes, allowing 365 days in the year.

— Advices from San Domingo state that Cabral has been driven to the Haytien frontier, and that his troops are in a bad plight. A fresh attempt has been made at revolution in Hayti, this time by the relatives and adherents of Salnave, who are reported to be marching on Port-au-Prince.

—The Trinity Tablet says, "How is this for poetry?

'Tis midnight, and the setting sun
Is rising in the wide, wide west,
The rapid rivers slowly run;
The frog is on his downy rest;
The pensive goat and sportive cow
Hilarious hop from bough to bough.'

—A French auditor of acounts in the seventeenth century was a great practical joker all his life, and even played a trick after he had lost the power of enjoying it, for he left four large candles to be carried at his funeral, which had not been burning fifteen minutes before they went off as fire-works.

— Something to be noted as curious in much early English is with great condensation of facts a remarkable redundancy of words. For instance, this from an old English ballad:

Two thousand heavy guns besides
Likewise they took also.

—A Minnesota man was called upon a few nights ago to lend his horse to go for a doctor, the wife of a neighbor being very ill. It was a matter of Life and death. The owner of the horse replied: "My horse cost $160, and may be hurt or killed in the night. If the woman dies, she didn't cost anything. The horse can't go."

—When a lady condescends to a practical joke, it is generally a very neat one. M. Boncort, the rich financier, was very stingy to his wife in the matter of pin money. One day a lady, closely veiled, and very anxious not to be recognized called upon him and borrowed a large sum, leaving her diamonds as a pledge. It was his wife.

—Mr. Isaac Solomnos, a feather dealer of New York, whose wife presented him with the second batch of twins, is charged with making this remark to his family physician: "Ov you bleeze, doctor, it ish petter dot a schtop be poot to dose dings. Non bair of quince I dinks is oller roight, but more ish plaid ovit, don't it. Dot's vots the matter mit me. You know how it ish myself."

THE ABBOTSFORD FAMILY.—Mr. Hope Scott, of Abbotsford, is again a widower. It will be recollected that Mr. Hope married the only child of Sir Walter Scott's only married daughter—in fact, the only surviving descendant of the great novelist. On his marriage with Scott's grandchild, Mr. Hope took the name of Scott, and occupied Abbotsford. His wife died leaving only one little girl.

—An old gentleman of the name of Gould, having married a very young wife, wrote a poetical epistle to a friend to inform him of it, and concluded it thus:

"So you see, my dear sir, though I'm eighty years old,
A girl of eighteen is in love with old Gould."

To which his friend replied:

"A girl of eighteen may love Gould, it is true,
But believe me, dear sir, it is Gold without U."

—A Quaker maiden of 50 accepted an offer from a Presbyterian deacon, and being remonstrated with by a delegation of Friends appointed to wait upon her for marrying, "out of the meeting," she replied, "Look here! I've been waiting just 30 years for the meeting to marry me, and if the meeting don't want me to marry out it, why don't the meeting bring along its young men?" The delegation departed in silence.

—At a certain college the senior class was under examination for degrees. The professor of natural philosophy was badgering in optics. The point under illustration was that, strictly and scientifically speaking, we see no object, but their images depicted on the retina. "The worthy professor, in order to make the matter clear, said to the wag of the class: "Mr. Jackson, did you ever actually see your father?" Bill replied promptly, "No, sir." Please to explain why you never saw your father." "Because," replied Mr. Jackson gravely, "he died before I was born, sir."
