SEA LORD AT LONG PRICE WINS HANDICAP FEATURE

Beating Slipper Day, Fair Montague and Good Field of Canada Breds at Fort Erie.

FORT ERIE, July 7.—The track was the best during the meeting for the fourth day's races. The weather was warm and threatening, but close to 5000 were in attendance. The fourth event, a handicap, for Canadian-breds, at six furlongs, featured the card, which furnished a genuine upset. Slipper Day set a hot pace to the last furlong, where Sea Lord came from behind and got up to beat the Hendrie filly a neck in the closing strides. The latter weakened in the final test. Fair Montague dropped into third place easily when Hearts of Oak quit in the stretch run. The latter raced in close pursuit of the pacemaker for the first half before retiring. Summary:

HERE IS REAL FAITH THE KING FREAK BET

Boston Fan Believes Braves Will Win — If They Don't, Good Night.

A wager made in Boston recently by William N. Jarvis and Fred Woodland ranks as one of the freakiest ever made. Jarvis is a Brave rooter. Woodland doesn't think very much of the Braves. An argument ensued, and this bet was made:

If the Braves win the 1915 National League pennant Woodland will pay $100 to Jarvis. But should the Braves lose, Jarvis will have to do this:

Walk from Boston to Philadelphia and back, accompanied by Lucy Lee, a pet mud turtle. Lucy must walk two-fifths of the way. The other three-fifths of the way Jarvis must carry Lucy on his back.

A very swift mud turtle could cover two miles a day. Owing to the fact that Lucy must amble two miles out of every five, and is not ranked as a speeding mud turtle, it looks as if Jarvis and his turtle will average about one and one-half miles per day.

From Boston to Philadelphia and back, a la hoof, is close to 700 miles. Covering an average of even two miles a day it would take Jarvis and his mud turtle companion just about one year to make the round trip.

Assuming that Jarvis gets about $40 a week when regularly employed, it would mean that he will lose about 50 weeks' salary—or $2000—if he makes the walk, in addition to losing weight and patience and his equilibrium.

Two thousand dollars to $100 that the Braves will win the pennant.

RAIN AT LISTOWEL.

LISTOWEL, July 7.—The circuit harness races were postponed today on account of the rain.

Worse Than Busher, But He Lands a Better Job

Ring W. Lardner breaks forth with the following yarn of a Nebraska State League athlete:

Not far from here there was a little bit of a baseball league; class Y would have been it if it had had any classification at all. Among the players trying for a job with one of its clubs was a catcher so chesty that he had to have his protector made to order. The youngster showed plenty of ability in practice, but was a horrible frost in a game. The manager decided to release him unconditionally and expressed this intention to some of the other players.

"Let's have some fun with him first," said one.

And so they faked a telegram from the manager of a club in the Nebraska State League:

"Buy your release for $100 and come at once for $150 per month salary."

The youth showed the telegram to the manager, who, of course, knew it was a fake.

"Better tell them," advised the manager, "that we will release you for $100. It looks like a good chance for you."

The recruit wired the Nebraska club as follows:

"Can get my release for $100 and will work with you for $150 per month. Wire railroad fare and $100 for release."

And that night the youth received by telegraph $100 to pay for his release, together with sufficient funds for his transportation; also a telegram accepting his terms.

Whereupon he handed over the $100 to the Y League manager, who was so shocked that he forgot himself and handed back $25 of it to the kid as a present. The players who had framed the first telegram did not receive a split of the remaining $75. The young catcher went to the Nebraska State League and is now in his third successful season there.

FELL UNCONSCIOUS MILE FROM TRENCH

Pte. Frank Egan Gives Interesting Account of Gas Encounter.

WAS AT HILL SIXTY

Canadians Fought Like Heroes and Hung on Despite Disadvantage.

Mrs. A. Harland, 74 Seneca street North Earlscourt, is in receipt of a letter from her brother Pte. Frank Egan, No. 13594, 2nd West Riding Regiment, who was badly injured thru gas and wounded in the engagement at Hill 60, and is at present in the Royal Infirmary, Manchester.

The following are interesting extracts: "As you will see by the above address I am back again in England from the front, suffering from gas poisoning. Maybe you will have heard about Hill 60. Well I was in the front trenches there when the Germans started firing their deadly gas shells. Oh, It was terrible. the retirement, I fell on my knees scores of times, but I got to my feet again somehow. I prayed to God to give me strength to keep on. I felt I had something to live for. My thoughts of Nelly and baby gave me strength to stagger on, for to stop meant death from the gas fumes, and the shot and shell they poured into us after they had driven us into the open.

"I was gassed on May 3, today is June 4. It has been a terrible fight but I am pulling thru fast now. The gas also paralyzen my left arm but the life is coming back into it again.

"The Canadians on our left were also gassed in hundreds. They fought like heroes that day: they were grand.

"I was able to stagger a mile away from the trenches before I fell unconscious. I was unconscious two days and was in the hospital at Boulogne, France, for three weeks, after which I was sent to England.

"I have seen some terrible things in Belgium. It is awful the way they have treated these poor people.

"I hope Arthur (Mrs. Harland's husband, now a prisoner in Germany) is not gone to France. I wasn't there long, but I have had enough to last me years. Anyway I do not regret volunteering. The gas seems to have shattered my nerves. I have seen enough and suffered enough to last me the rest of my life."

"From your affectionate brother "Frank."

DIFFICULT TO GET MAIL AT LAMBTON

Inconvenience Caused Thru Recent Fire is Subject of Comment by Citizens.

Lambton Mills residents want to get their mail with less trouble than they have had since the late fire. Those living east of the Humber River, have now to cross it into Etobicoke Township to get their mail matter.

They have petitioned their member W. F. Maclean to have their mail delivered to them as those living east of Langmuir avenue have had done for some time past. The old Lambton Mills Post Office was for over fifty years in York Township but has been removed to Etobicoke Township.

PETTY THIEVING GOING ON.

Petty thieving is still prevalent in the Earlscourt and Fairbank section, and is causing much annoyance among the residents.

Last evening the whole parcel of tomatoes from four lots in the Hampstead Park district were taken.

ARRANGE FOR PICNIC.

At last evening's meeting of the Toronto Heights Social Club, held in the clubhouse, Harvie avenue, it was decided to arrange a picnic, to take place at the Black Creek, on Civic Holiday, Aug. 2. President Alex. Harvie occupied the chair, and there was a large attendance.

FAIRBANK CONSERVATIVES

A meeting of the Fairbank and district Liberal-Conservative Association will be held in the club house, Harvie avenue, on Friday evening at 8 o'clock, when Albert E. Smythe will deliver an address on the "Canadian situation in the war." Other prominent speakers are expected to be present. President J. Badams will occupy the chair.

KEEN INTEREST SHOWN IN FRIDAY'S MEETING

Discussion of Transportation Question in Deer Park and North Toronto Districts.

The keenest interest is being manifested in Friday night's meeting in Deer Park School, to discuss transportation question, and Ald. Ball, Maguire and Morley Wickett will be present, together with other city representatives. The unsettled condition of the railway question north of the C. P. R. tracks is the one live topic in the northern end of Toronto, and Friday night's meeting is expected to be an important one.

There is a strong sentiment in the Deer Park and North Toronto districts in favor of the extension of the city system to St. Clair avenue, but the meeting on Friday night will give some definite basis to work upon.

EARLSCOURT MECHANICS GO.

Fifteen men from the Earlscourt district left yesterday for the old country to work at the manufacture of munitions of war, all the members of the party are skilled mechanics and will be away for at least six months. They leave Montreal on the SS. Metagama.

SILVERTHORN CONSERVATIVES

A meeting of the Silverthorn Liberal-Conservative Association will be held this evening in Miles' Hall, Silverthorn avenue, commencing at 8 o'clock. Members are particularly requested to be present as important business will be discussed.

BERLIN PROPOSALS YET UNANSWERED

President Wilson Studies Suitable Reply to Be Made to Germany.

NOT PLEASING TO U. S.

Tentative Draft of German Note Almost Sure to Be Rejected.

WASHINGTON, July 7.—Upon President Wilson tonight rests the decision as to what reply shall be sent to Ambassador Gerard's message outlining the tentative draft of a note submitted to him informally by the German foreign office as a proposed answer to the American communication of June concerning submarine warfare.

Secretary of State Lansing and other advisers of the president transmitted by mail and telegraph to him at Cornish, N. H., their views on the policy to be pursued. It was officially stated late tonight that no word had been received as to the president's position. Mr. Wilson may not be ready to act until tomorrow or Friday, as there are delicate questions involved which require the utmost care.

Von Bernstorff Sees Lansing.

Count Von Bernstorff, the German ambassador, back from his summer home at Cedarhurst, L. I., congratulated Mr. Lansing on his becoming secretary of state and asked informally concerning the negotiations conducted thru Ambassador Gerard in Berlin. The secretary outlined to Von Bernstorff what had been transmitted by Ambassador Gerard, but gave no intimation as to the course which the United States Government would follow. Count Bernstorff had no suggestions to make.

No Reply Necessary.

After the conference Count Bernstorff learned that Ambassador Gerard's message was not of a character which would necessarily require an answer. There is little doubt that the present German proposals would be unacceptable to the United States Government.

Concerning Ambassador Gerard's conversation with the German foreign office functionaries, it was said that his message did not make clear whether the German Government had asked him to obtain the views of the United States on the tentative draft, or whether in showing him a copy, the implication was that the American Government could, if it chose, comment on it before the note was completed.

SPIES GET TEN YEARS SOLITARY CONFINEMENT

Two Germans Interned in Italy Since Start of War, Tried to Help Austrians.

VENICE, Italy, July 7.—Capt. Liebsicher and Engineer Hoppe, of the German steamship Lemnos, under detension by the Italian authorities since the outbreak of the war, were today each condemned to ten years' imprisonment in solitary confinement. They were convicted by a military tribunal on the charge of spying. The other members of the crew were acquitted.

It was alleged by the Italian authorities that the captain and the engineer of the Lemnos had tried to obtain information regarding Italian batteries and submarines, and that they had signaled to an Austrian squadron when it attacked the port of Ancona on May 24.
