FRIDAY MORNING, JULY 20, 1888.

Is Canada a Farming Country?

A question which will strike most people as a new one in Canada, or at all events in Ontario, has now arisen amongst us. Is this really a farming country, with a surplus of grain and other farm produce to sell? Or is it, on the contrary, a country in which the farmer and his occupation are not of much account—a country in which the so-called "farmers" are actually under the necessity of buying their bread, also feed for their horses and cattle? We know what used to be the prevailing opinion on this point, as far at least as "old Canada" is concerned, before Confederation. It was believed that this was a country of farmers mainly, whose interest lay in getting good prices for their grain. A man maintaining that cheap bread was a blessing to Canada would have been accounted a fit candidate for the lunatic asylum. A dollar a bushel or more for wheat, with a fair crop of that valuable staple, was the Canadian farmer's idea of prosperity for the country. Did not our farmers laugh thirty odd years ago, when the Crimean war put wheat up from a dollar and a half to two dollars a bushel, with other stuff that they had to sell in proportion? Nor did they cry afterwards when the American war gave prices such a big lift, and sent them to an attitude from which they did not seriously decline until seven or eight years after the war was over. But, alas for the days which have been! —alas for the prosperity which the Canadian farmer once enjoyed!

Now the poor devil miscalled a "farmer" wishes that wheat were down to fifty cents, so that he might buy his bread from the baker at something less than twelve cents the four pound loaf. Times have changed, we should say. And how is he to put barely flesh enough on his cattle to get the butcher to take them off his hands, or otherwise how is he to get through the winter, unless he be allowed to buy American corn duty free? As regards food for both man and beast, Canada is in a sad plight. In times gone by she used to have enough of her own, and to spare, but now she has to buy for her pressing needs, and must look for supplies to that land of plenty, the United States.

Such, at all events, is something like the state of things in Eastern and Northern Ontario, as pictured by The Mail. It must be remembered, however, that the picture is one drawn by our contemporary for a political purpose—the purpose, to wit, of showing that commercial annexation to the United States, with political annexation to follow, is necessary to save our people from dire calamity. If The Mail's showing be half true, for the country as a whole—then we of this day and generation are brought face to face with a question which is a new one for Canada to have to "tackle." The question is this: Are we a nation of farmers, having a surplus of food for both man and beast to sell? Or have we as a farming community gone so far on the down grade that we no longer produce food enough for ourselves and our cattle, but must depend upon that fine farming country, the United States, for supplies for both man and beast to live upon? The Mail takes the latter view, and tells us that what this starving country most needs is the importation of cheap foreign food products duty free.

But, in spite of all the show and confidence with which this discouraging view of Canada's condition is advanced, The World fears not to take its stand on the old notion that Canada is essentially a farming country—a seller far more than a buyer of food for both man and beast. And let us remark that our opponents of the Wimanite press, whose doctrine it is that Canada's necessities render it desirable for her to import food products from the States, do actually contradict themselves in a remarkable manner. For their main argument against the N. P. is that it is devised to suit manufacturers only, while it does not help the farmers a cent's worth. And the farmers, remember, are the "bone and sinew" of the country. Their industry is the chief one of all; all others count but as a drop in the bucket compared with it. But if the farming interest be really of that overwhelming importance as compared with that of all the manufacturing interests put together, how do you at the same time argue that the free importation of cheap farm products from the States is the country's "long fels want," which only commercial annexation can fill? We rather think we have got you there; we would just like to see what you are going to do about it. In time gone by Canada was believed to be a farming country, to which "cash for wheat," and at a good figure, was a benefit. After coolly thinking it over, do you elect to affirm that it is no longer so now? We fear not to stand by our position. How do you feel as regards yours? Please now "come out of your shell," and let the public see where precisely you elect to take your stand. Enough on the subject for the present, but remember that it is a big subject—one which the public of Canada will bear to have pretty fully discussed.

An Old Scheme Brought to Nothing.

A number of years ago the Grand Trunk authorities determined that the Grand Western railway as a competing concern must be destroyed. With them it was a case of delendaest, like that of the spiteful old Roman against Carthage. Well, in 1882 (and probably before that) it was the policy of the Ontario Government to give the Grand Trunk its way to the full extent possible. So every company asking for a charter in order to compete with the Great Western go it, while at the same time east of Toronto the policy of helping the Grand Trunk to gobble up all the independent roads, built with the people's money between here and Belleville. Later the Canadian Pacific appeared on the scene in Ontario, and began to build a local road, apart from its main line. And not long thereafter, the new company got hold of the Toronto Grey and Bruce road, also of the Credit Valley, the latter creating for it an interest in Western Ontario. From that time forth it looked as if the C. P. R. had designs on Hamilton connections too. The Grand Trunk sternly forbade the Hamiltonians from encouraging any such designs; and to show them what might be done if they were disobedient, shops and men were removed to Stratford. The Grand Trunk laid down its heavy hand, and foot too, to stop the C. P. R. making connection between the Falls, Buffalo, Hamilton, Toronto, and the Detroit River.

But, as Burns says, "the best laid schemes of mice and men gang aft agley." The Credit Valley has been spreading itself considerably of late, and now we hear that the C. P. R. agents have secured property in Windsor for terminal facilities. And that the C. P. R. will "get there" are long is a foregone conclusion. And by getting there we mean that it will soon have its established connections with Detroit, Windsor, London, Hamilton, the Falls, and between the Falls and Toronto. And so the old Grand Trunk scheme for holding exclusive possession of the Hamilton-Niagara district is brought to nought, burst, and "gone up."

But it does not follow that because the Grand Trunk has failed in its big scheme for controlling Ontario that the country is not so well served by reason of the absorption of so many local lines into its system. The Midland service is better now than when it comprised four or five one horse roads; the Northern and Northwestern have already felt the impetus of Hickonization and even the people along the lines of the old Great Western have no reason to complain on this score.

The Air Clearing.

For some years now, the air has been filled with clouds and uncertainties in regard to strikes. Toronto as a city has been cursed for some years back with labour disputes. Business has suffered, men have suffered, progress has been impeded. But now the air begins suddenly to clear. Here are points showing the direction things are taking:

(1) Intimidation on the part of strikers has been declared illegal. There will be no more of that, and its lesser evil, that of picketing.

2. A newspaper that prublishes an advertisement such as the Globe, Mail and Empire printed on Tuesday, warning men not to come to Toronto as there was a lock-out on, lays itself open to action for damages. Already some of the papers have seen this, and they have issued orders refusing such announcements.

3. That no employer (of a newspaper office at least) is safe in the hands of a Union foreman. Such a foreman is liable to be called out at any minute, and the "boss" left without a single man at his back.

4. Boycotting is illegal, and any man or body that attempts it can easily be reached by the law and punished severely.

The law is beginning to assert itself; but once it starts moving it generally accomplishes something. Our neighbors, the Americans, have suddenly become terribly serious in starting the law against outrages of this kind as the daily dispatches go to show.

Workingmen have their right to organize, to unite, to try and improve their condition, but they are no more above the law than others; they must respect it and the rights and freedom that it secures to others, and they are fast coming to take this view of the matter.

Holloway's Corn Cure destroys all kinds of corns and warts, root and branch. Who then would endure them with such a sheap and effectual remedy within reach?

We are Moving Onwards.

Every year the demand for the better class of imported goods is growing greater. Our large importing houses are carrying equally as expensive and fashionable fabrics as the largest firms in London, Paris, or New York. This is most noticeable in gentlemen's hats, all the best makers in London are represented. You can now get in this city as good a hat as if you lived across the ocean. This is a bold sign and speaks well for our people. Dineen on the corner of King and Yonge-streets, is now importing the very finest qualities of London made hats and yesterday just received an advance shipment of Heath's silk and felt hats, just in time for the early fall trade. If any of the gentlemen want to get a hat in the fashion, this would be a good place to make a selection. Silks, $7.50; felts, $4.

Another respectable citizen arrested on King-street. His attention was fixed on a high coat and vest which he saw marked for $1.75 at the Army & Navy Store. He could not take his eyes off it, and when told to move on he was lost in admiration and stupefied with the price. Anyone can see the article by going to the Army & Navy Stores, 193 Yonge-street, corner of Temperance, and 135 King-st. east.

At Niagara-on-the-Lake.

The Believers' meeting for Bible study, at Gravelly Cottage, Mount St. Niagara-on-the-Lake. Friends are there from all parts. The addresses are of unusual interest and given by persons competent to speak on the topics assigned them. The singing is congregational and hearty, and is led by Mr. R. Swayne, with Miss Jones at the organ. A more delightful place for meeting could scarcely be imagined. On Thursday morning Rev. J. Hudson Taylor, known throughout Christendom in connection with the China mission, gave a most interesting talk on work in China and his personal experiences.

Sentenced to Six Months.

Wm. E. Hammond reappeared at the Police Court yesterday morning to stand trial on the charge of horse stealing. The evidence against him was not sufficient to convict, and he was therefore acquitted. He was convicted however on two charges of uttering forged paper, and was sentenced to six months in the Central Prison.

Much distress and sickness in children is caused by worms. Mother Graves' Worm Exterminator gives relief by removing the cause. Give it a trial and be convinced.

Lord Stanley on the Fishery Question.

Lord Stanley, who has been fishing on the Restigouche, is bringing to Rideau Hall a repertory of fish stories that will eclipse anything yet heard at the capital. That famous raconteur Sir John has yet to be heard from, but we will wager one of Ghiam's one-fifty flannel shirts that in the histoire de poisson line he will discount the Gov.-General.

Mrs. Lee's Condition.

Mrs. Sarah Lee, whom it was feared would die from injuries received when beaten by her husband on the 12th of July last, continued to improve during yesterday. Drs. Hagel and Strathy continue to attend her, and she is receiving every care and comfort. At a late hour last night she was considered almost out of danger, although still suffering severe pain.

He will feel the Lash.

Dr. Whiting of London, who was recently sentenced to two years imprisonment in the Central Prison, and 50 lashes for a criminal assault on his niece, a child of only eleven years of age, will receive his first term of 25 lashes at 8.30 this morning in that institution. Since his conviction it has been discovered that Whiting is a bigamist, and as soon as his present sentence expires, he will be re-arrested and charged with bigamy.

Charles' Wife.

A gentleman, accompanied by a lady wearing a handsome dress and bonnet, came out of a concert hall one night to find it raining, while they were without umbrella or waterproof clothing.

"Why, Charles," the lady cried, "it's raining!"

"So I see," replied Charles, calmly.

"Why, what shall we do?"

"I rather think we shall have to let it rain," replied the matter-of-fact husband.

Excited by the disaster awaiting her garments, the lady amused the by-standers greatly by saying, "Why, Charles, how can we, when I have on this light dress and bonnet?"

The Temple was crowded last night with Salvation lads and lasses and their friends for the purpose of welcoming Commissioner Coombes and his wife on their return from Britain.

Disgusted with the Job.

A little Auburn boy who looks after his grandfather's cuspadore for a moderate salary offers this philosophy, "When I grow up I shall chew tobacco and have my little boy look after the cuspadore. Then he will not chew."

THE OARSMEN AT SUNBURY

G. A. STRICKLAND OF THE DON'S WINS THE JUNIOR SINGLES.

Toronto Defeats Peterboro at Cricket—East Toronto wins from Sunderland—Racing at Monmouth Park—Ball Game Yesterday—Diamond Gossip.

SUNBURY, Pa., July 19.—The water was lumpy this morning, but large crowds of people lined the banks at ten o'clock to witness the trial heats in the National Amateur Regatta. The first heat in the junior singles was between H. H. Seaton of the Excelsior club of Paterson, N. J., Lee Covett of the Columbia club, Allegheny, Pa., and G. D. Strickland of the Don Amateur club, Toronto. Strickland won easily in thirteen minutes and 21 seconds. Seaton was 2nd in 13.9 and Covett 3rd in 13.40.

The first heat of the Senior Singles was won by Donohue of the Nautilus club, Hamilton, in 12.18; J. J. Ryan Toronto club, second, in 12.32; Pilkington of the Metropolitan Club dropped out at the half-mile and Mulcahy of Albany dropped out at the end of the first mile. In the second trial heat of the junior singles there were three entries, Shea of the Don Amateur Club of Toronto, Gugerty, of Cohoes, N. Y., and J. J. Berry, of Newark, N. J. Berry dropped out before the finish, Shea winning in 13.54, Gugerty sec, time, 13.55.

In the second trial heat, senior singles, Poole, of the Cornell College, won with ease in 12.06. Jerry Donohue, of Hamilton, and Gopfert of the Metropolitan of New York came along side by side near the finish, but Geopfert made a spurt and led Donohue for second place by a quarter of a length.

An Amateur Struggle on the Diamond.

A game was played on the Toronto Baseball Grounds yesterday afternoon between the Delamere & Co. and Masonic Buildings nines which resulted in a close contest. The feature of the game was Steward's batting and his work behind the bat while McLeod Harvey's fielding was very good. Williamson, who was in the box for the Masonic nine was very effective, while Eagen also did excellent work. The game was called at the end of the sixth with the following score:

Dust from the Diamond.

The Trojans will do battle with the Torontos on the diamond here to-day. Game called at 4 o'clock.

Ladies will be admitted free hereafter to all baseball games here.

Atkisson will be in the box for the home team to-day while O'Keefe will probably pitch for the visitors.

Manager Cushman was the Stars' Jonah at Hamilton yesterday.

Why does Umpire Sullivan always give the Toronto nine the worst of a close decision? No doubt because they are the Stars most dangerous opponents.

The New York Herald intimates that the St. Louis Browns may next season be removed to New York city, to take the place of the old mets.

Knox, late of the Rochesters, and now with Albany, has begun suit in the Rochester municipal courts to recover $75 alleged to be due him, and has subpoenaed Foy, Barr, Calihan, McKeough, Hayes and McHale, the entire battery strength of the Rochesters.

Chicago again took the lead in the National League race yesterday.

It is said that Sam Bittle will probably sign with Albany.

How many clubs does it require to protest an umpire before he is removed? Sullivan has been protested by no less than five clubs and yet he remains. This is no doubt owing to the fact that he has influential friends interested in the Syracuse Stars with which club he always seems to favor. It would be just as well for Mr. Sullivan to give Toronto a wide birth when the Stars play here, as he will not receive a very warm reception.

Clarkson has lost the last six games he has pitched for Boston.

Heard, the Syracuse short-stop, has already to his credit 100 hits this season.

Both Fentz and Alberts have been laid off by Cleveland.

It is said that Sullivan will not umpire a game again this season at Troy, as on his last visit there he had to seek the protection of the police.

At Millbrook yesterday the Mercantiles defeated the Carlmel team by 22 to 19.

The Cincinnati Enquirer well says—"In appointing umpires retired ball players should not be overlooked. They make the best officials and are entitled to the place."

A despatch from Wallingford, Vt., states that Mr. Hewitt is dying at that place, while a Troy paper states that he is in that city, looking into the affairs of the Troy Club. Which is which?

A Western contemporary well says:—"Pitchers who are continually finding fault with their field support stand in their own light. They would do better to attend strictly to their own business and let the fielders take care of themselves."

Of the Pittsburg batsman Dunlap has played in 19 games without a hit, Maul 21, Coleman 17, Kneihne 17, Dalrymple 13, Sunday 17, Carroll 17, Smith 23, Cleveland 4 and Beckley 2. No wonder Pittsburg can get no higher in the race.

TORONTOS AGAIN SUCCESSFUL.

They Defeat the Peterboro Eleven by Nine Wickets—Fleury Again Makes Top Score.

PETERBORO, July 19.—The match between Peterboro and Toronto here to-day ended in a victory for the latter by nine wickets. The Toronto team came up from Ottawa this morning, and were strengthened by Brown. Shanly and Winslow, who had come down from Toronto on Wednesday evening. The Toronto captain won the toss, and sent his men in, and the side totalled 123 before being dismissed. Out of this number Fleury made 32 in fine style, Guthrie 22, and Shanly 22. The fielding was decidedly loose, and several chances were thrown away that should have been accepted.

The Peterboro lanimen calls for very little description, as the total only reached 71. Stratton played finely for his runs and was loudly applauded for his display. The follow on was, of course, necessary, and the Peterboro men succeeded in making 87 before being dismissed.

Stratton again distinguished himself, but nobody else did much. The Toronto men hit off the requisite number of runs to win the match, just on the call of time with the loss of two good wickets. Score:—

HOW ACTORS ARE FLECCED.

Frederick Warde's Experience with a Bogus Professional.

From The New York World.

Actors are proverbially generous. Whatever may be said of their vanities and extravagances—and a great deal more is said than an actual knowledge will justify—they are always impressed by appeals for charity, and especially so to the call of an unfortunate fellow-professional. There is a brotherhood of humanity among them. The generally accredited fact that few have become prosperous who have not kept bitter company with disappointment and woe may have made their natures peculiarly sensitive to the blighted spirit and fortunes of a brother player so that their generosity is often abused by sharpers.

Frederick Warde had an annoying illustration of this the other day, and he is one of the many in the same calling who have been similarly duped since the summer began. A stranger called at his residence in Brooklyn one evening last week and asked to see the tragedian. The visitor appeared to be weak from a recent illness. His chin was sharp, his eyes set close together, and his clothing "a world too wide," with a view, perhaps, to indicating a recent and considerable loss of flesh. His manner was slow and apparently embarrassed, and "his gaze as wild as a woman's," said Mr. Warde. He said he had played small parts with Edwin Booth and Mary Anderson, and was getting on well when a bad cold developed the consumptive germs he had inherited and made it necessary for him to go to a hospital. He was prostrated in Buffalo for fifteen months, and as soon as he became well enough was sent to Brooklyn where he once had friends. When he arrived he found that his only relative, an aunt, had moved to Greenport, L. I. He had no money to go there, it was after 6 o'clock, too late to approach the Actor's Fund, and he was tired and in sore distress. At a theatre he obtained the address of Mr. Warde, whom he remembered as a resident of Brooklyn. If he could get to Greenport he was assured a shelter.

"There was an air of respectability about the fellow," remarked Mr. Warde, "from his simple, earnest words to the precisely folded cambric tie, that rather impressed me, and I was glad enough to fold a bill in his hand, which I thought would ease his way for a week or two at any rate."

The evening following this incident Mr. Warde and family went to Brighton Beach. Judge of the actor's amazement at seeing the drooping consumptive of the night before clad in an astounding assortment of colors and dudish garments, and accompanied by a vivacious companion of the gentler sex! He was to all appearance on the top wave of prosperity. His tale of misfortune and past professional engagements had evidently borne rich fruit, and he was now obtaining the recreation and rest which his crooked exertions made it possible for him to enjoy. Mr. Warde obtained a good mental portrait of the fellow, which he has imparted to a host of professional friends, and is awaiting the pleasure of another meeting with the imposter.

AN ANARCHIST'S CONFESSION.

Full Particulars of the Plot to Murder the Chicago Judges.

CHICAGO, July 19.—Frank Chleboun, the anarchist who with John Hronck and Frank Chepak schemed to murder Judges Gary and Grinnell and Inspector Bonfield, has made a full confession. His statement is to the effect that Hronck unfolded his plans for revenge and told of a bomb which he had invented. It was no larger than a base ball and was to be loaded with dynamite and broken glass. It was denied by Chleboun that the plot was to murder the judges and Inspector, that is, he heard of no such scheme. They were talked of as was Capt. Schaack, and he understood that he was to pay more attention to the captain than to any one else. There was no concerted plan of action, but it was agreed that when all preparations were made he and two others were to be informed by Hronck just what they were to do in the way of avenging the death of the martyrs.

He was visited by Hronck who brought him two bombs of the broken glass variety and two sticks of dynamite from which he was to make bombs of gas pipe after the usual pattern. The other two men were also supplied with bombs and dynamite. He had the stuff in his house for about a week and then grew so afraid that it would be discovered that he made away with it by throwing it in a vault.
