UP AT OSGOODE HALL.

The Cream of the Law Business in the High Courts Yesterday.

Since the first of the year 1600 writs have been issued from the office of the Clerk of the Process, over 500 writs more than were issued during the corresponding time last year.

The Court of Appeal sat yesterday and heard the argument in Saderquist v. Ontario Bank, in which the endorsement of a forged bank deposit receipt issued by the Ontario Bank at Port Arthur was called in question. A deposit receipt was issued to a Swede at Port Arthur, which by mistake was given to a party of the same nationality who rejoiced in a name corresponding to the plaintiff's, who sued for the balance at his banker's. Judgment was reserved.

The Court of Appeal will deliver judgment to-morrow in Can. Loco. Co. v. Copeland, Reddock v Sawyer, Mutual Hooper, Minnesota, Sunbury v. West, Rogers v. Wilson. The peremptory list to-day consists of Warnlock v. Kloepfer, Danks v. Durham, Connell v. Durham, Stuart v. Gough, Queen v. London, Cameron v. Cameron.

The Master in chambers made an interpleader order yesterday in Rice vs. Slade. This is an action arising out of the case in which Maria Brown, a notorious confidence woman, was arrested for stealing debentures and pawning them with Singer, the Queen-st. pawnbroker. The defendant, Stark, chief of the detective force, traced the bonds to the pawn office, and the present action is brought by one of the owners of the debentures who is fighting the pawnbroker. The legal battle will accordingly be between the owner of the debentures and the pawnbroker.

Mr. Hands has a petition before Judge Falconbridge, sitting in high court to-day, against the benchers' decision striking him off the roll of solicitors.

A certified copy of pleadings in Jones v. Johnston was passed in the Queen Bench yesterday. This is an action which will be tried at the next Toronto Assizes, in which Inspector Johnston and Policeman Kernighan are defendants. The plaintiff, a horse trader, was arrested at the instance of one Canick, for illtreating a horse on Cecil-street. The plaintiff was discharged by the presiding magistrate, and brings action for $2000 damages. Mr. N. Murphy has charge of the plaintiff's case and Bicknell & Morson appear for the defendants.

In the Chancery Divisional Court yesterday Hunter v. Ross, an appeal from Judge Ferguson's decision, occupied the Court all day. It appears that O. G. Hughes mortgaged a large amount of property to the father of Judge Ross, among which are parcels on which the present C. P. R. shops at West Toronto Junction are located. The plaintiff sues as an assignee of Mr. Taylor, and the present judgment is to set aside the power of sale under the mortgage, which, if the judgment is reversed, will upset the title to probably a very large amount of Toronto real estate.

Mr. Justice McMahon handed out his judgment in Commee v. Ontario Bank yesterday. This is a case in which the plaintiffs, the well-known C. P. R. contractors, in 1884 were the owners of certain tug boats which had been tied up for an alleged infringement of the Customs Act. They claim they gave the defendants authority to pay the Customs the amount of their liability which was covered by a note given to the bank as collateral. The defence set up a counter claim for the balance of an overdue draft of $10,000. His Lordship gave judgment in favor of the bank for $2,300.

The St. Clair Flats Canal.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 10.—A letter was transmitted to Congress from the acting chief of engineers to-day stating that complaints had been made to the department of the temporary blocking of commerce through the St. Clair Flats Canal by the grounding of vessels passing through the canal. He says he understands the grounding of these vessels to be due to the carelessness or obstinacy of the pilots or masters of the vessels and their failure to observe the rules and regulations for the navigation of the Canal established by the Secretary of War. It is recommended that the River and Harbor Act be amended so as to include the St. Clair Flats Canal in the list of navigable streams over which the Secretary of War shall have jurisdiction, with power to provide penalties for the violation of the rules prescribed by him.

Fashionable Furniture.

G. W. Tickell & Co., 108 King-street west, (nearly opposite Rossin House), carry an extensive stock of fashionable and reliable furniture. They are constantly introducing new designs and respectfully solicit an inspection of their show rooms. 26

Bold Daylight Burglary.

ST. CATHARINES, Sept. 10.—When Mr. Holmes went home on Saturday he discovered that an entrance to his house had been effected and immediately began a search to see if anything had been stolen. He found that a bureau drawer had been ransacked, and a gold watch valued at $250, and about $12 had been taken. From the description of a man seen by some children prowling around, a man known as "Gumption Cute" was suspected and searched for. "Gumption" had in the meantime taken to the woods and search is being made for him.

A Guardian of the Peace Disturbs it.

POINT ST. CHARLES, Sept. 10.—A policeman named McAllesse got drunk Saturday night and was insulting passers-by and acting in a brutal manner when the police station was notified. Two men went at once to arrest him, but found they had a tougher job than they had bargained for, as the belligerent "bobby" showed fight, and despite their utmost endeavors they could not apprehend him. A further relay was telephoned for and four more men quickly arrived and assisted their confreres. A serious combat ensued. McAllesse, who is a powerful man, used his baton to some purpose, and in the melee that ensued several of the policemen received wounds, and had their clothes torn. Finally they overpowered and conveyed him to the station where he was locked up.

Final Decision—An Important Case.

Millichamp vs. High Prices. The jury in this case being largely composed of the leading builders brought in a verdict for plaintiff with a strong recommendation to all requiring mantels and over mantels to patronize the firm of Millichamp, Sons & Co., the leading show case and mantel manufacturers of the Dominion. Telephone No. 667. 31 Adelaide-street east, Toronto. 246

The Prince of Wales at Vienna.

VIENNA, Sept. 10.—The Prince of Wales arrived in Vienna to-day. His visit is made in response to the Emperor's invitation to witness the manœuvres of the Austrian army. The Prince was received by a guard of honor and by the members of the English Embassy this afternoon, repaid a visit to the Emperor and thanked him for appointing him Honorary Colonel of the 12th Hussars. The Emperor later returned his visit. A dinner in honor of the Prince of Wales was given at Hofburn Castle this evening.

They Held Their Meeting.

PARIS, Sept. 10.—Five hundred strikers and fifty women in Alsace, near Limoges, started to hold a meeting on Sunday. Finding the way to the meeting place blocked by infantry with fixed bayonets, the men rushed forward telling the men to follow. Six were wounded, but the infantry fell back. The victorious strikers then held their meeting. Afterwards further conflicts arose and several more strikers were wounded, the soldiers again falling back. The Mayor offered to mediate between the masters and the strikers.

Kingston's Show Promises Well.

KINGSTON, Sept. 10.—The fair from all appearances will be an unqualified success. Never before has such a display of stock been seen here. The rush of entries was so large that nearly 2,500 feet of temporary shedding had to be erected to meet the demands of exhibitors. Sir John Macdonald will deliver the opening address to-morrow afternoon followed by Hon. C. Drury and Hon. H. G. Joly.

A Forger Surrenders Himself.

LYNN, Mass., Sept. 10.—J. Colby Drew walked into Marshal King's office this morning and gave himself up, stating that he was a forger to the amount of $18,000 or $20,000. He has had charge of financial matters for W. F. Monroe, a grocer. Drew told the marshal he had plenty of time to skip to Canada, but he preferred to give himself up.

"OLD PROBS."

Conspicuous in Manitoba By His Absence—A Narrow Gauge Railway.

WINNIPEG, Sept. 10.—In your Winnipeg despatch printed Friday last it was said: The air is decidedly softer and milder to-day, and a Government report would probably show an extensive warm movement for the west of this but no one here knows. As a matter of fact the warm wind set in at Regina on Friday, the day after the above was written.

Now let Mr. Tupper and Mr. Dewdney lay their heads together and give the Northwest her probabilities which she very much wants and which she deserves as much as any of the rest of us.

This week the wheat talk opens rather better than it did a week ago. It is generally said now that allowing for some falling off in quantity the higher prices will more than make up to the farmers for the smaller quantity. But if you have any influence with "Old Probabilities" just remind him that Northwest people think they have as good a right to his attentions as have those of the East.

Mr. E. S. Galt, son of Sir Alexander, took the east bound train to-night. He goes to England and will be absent a few months. He is General Manager of the Galt or Lethbridge Coal Mines which are on the Belly River south of the Canadian Pacific Railway track. The nearest Canadian Pacific Railway station is Dunmore, which is 651 miles west of Winnipeg and 6 miles this side of Medicine Hat. The mines are reached by an independent narrow gauge railway running 110 miles south from the Canadian Pacific Railway. I have heard it talked of but not mentioned by any one connected with the company that the narrow gauge will soon be replaced by a broad gauge, after which cars will run from the mines to points of delivery without transhipment. I have also heard, though from quite another source altogether, that the narrow gauge was imposed in the first place by Old Country shareholders who seemed to have formed exaggerated ideas as to the suitability of the narrow gauge to Canadian requirements. Now it has to be done over again, as in some other cases of narrow gauge we know of.

There was excitement last night when Lord Stanley stopped the procession to buy one of East's unbreakable Saratoga trunks.

A Pastime That Will Cost His Life.

ORANGE, N.J., Sept. 10.—James Bredamus, a boy 14 years of age, who works in a hat shop, was fooling around a horizontal shaft running 250 revolutions a minute. He had on a rubber apron and held one end on the shaft to show how quickly it could be pulled off when it caught. He did this several times successfully. Notwithstanding the warning of his companions he tried to do it just once more. The end of the apron caught firmly and wrapped tightly around his fingers, and in an instant the poor fellow was whirling through the air. One piercing shriek was all he had time to utter before he was hurled with frightful velocity to one end of the room. When picked up he was unconscious. One arm was completely torn off at the elbow and the hand and arm thrown to the other end of the room. The other arm was mangled almost out of all shape and hung to the stump by a few shreds. His clothes were completely stripped off. On his breast were several gashes caused by projecting nails on the floor when he fell, and he suffered severe internal injuries. He was taken to the Memorial Hospital and the mutilated limbs amputated, and he is in a dying condition from shock and loss of blood.

Cycloramas.

One of the principal attractions in the city during the exhibition is the Battle of Sedan. Open from 7 a.m. till 11 p.m. Thousands of people will visit this great war scene during the fair.

Burglary at Port Rowan.

PORT ROWAN, Sept. 10.—T. B. Dedrick & Co.'s store was broken into last night, their safe was blown open, books and papers were burned and scattered over the office floor. The Dedricks receive a large amount of money every day from the bank to pay out for grain, but there was only $10 in the safe, which the robbers carried off. The plate glass windows were broken by the concussion.

Had His Wife Arrested.

EAST SAGINAW, Mich., Sept. 10.—George Bowden, a business man of London, Ont., came here yesterday in search of his wife who left him last April. He found her living with Thomas Hartley, street-car driver, and had both locked up on the charge of adultery. Hartley formerly lived at London. Mrs. Bowden is 28 years old and the mother of two children, whom she abandoned.

The Relief of Lucknow.

A meeting of members of the Highland Brigade was held at the residence of Mr. James Gibb, No. 1 Wellington-street east, on Saturday, when it was decided to celebrate the anniversary of the first relief of Lucknow by Gen. Havelock and Gen. Outram. A committee was formed consisting of J. Gibb (78th Highs, Rosshire Buffs), A. Eddington (78th), R. Bone (78th), Secret. Major Cook (R. H.), C. H. Wilton (Princess Louise's Highr) and C. Wilson (Black Watch), to arrange a dinner for Sept. 25 to celebrate the event.

There are a number of varieties of corns. Holloway's Corn Cure will remove any of them. Call on your druggist and get a bottle at once.

Accidentally Killed by Her Son.

BLOOMINGTON, Sept. 10.—Mrs. Dr. Zera Walters, one of the most prominent women of this city, was accidentally killed yesterday by the discharge of a pistol in the hands of her son.

Death of a Goderich Octogenarian.

GODERICH, Sept. 10.—D. B. Hodge, a well-known resident of this town, dropped dead on the corner of West-street and the Square this morning. He was in his 80th year.

Sworn to Resist all Whites.

LONDON, Sept. 10.—A despatch from Zanzibar says: The natives again to-day fired upon an Algerine carrying the British flag. Afterwards they allowed an interpreter to land, to whom they declared that they were banded together to resist all whites.

The Whitechapel Murderer at Large.

LONDON, Sept. 10.—The police have made a number of arrests in connection with the recent brutal murders of women in Whitechapel. In each case, however, the prisoner has been discharged, the evidence being insufficient.

Dominion Organ Co.

Attention is called to the announcement of the Dominion Organ Co. Their display at the exhibition is ahead of all competitors.

Struck for Back Pay.

OBAN, N.Y., Sept. 10.—No trains have been run on the Lackawanna and Pittsburg Railroad to-day, the employes of the road having struck for several months' back pay due and promised to-day. The wages were not paid and a tie-up occurred. The men say no trains will be run until they are paid in full.

Musical Mems.

The Philharmonic commences the season to-night in Victoria Hall at 8. The music of "Samson" may be had at the hall.

The talented and experienced musicians and teachers who have so successfully cast in their lot with Mr. Torrington's new undertaking, are, in themselves, ample security for the thorough and efficient education of all the students who may enter their names at the College of Music. These gentlemen have been led to take this step, no doubt, by the respect which they entertain for the Director, who has ever been foremost in every great musical undertaking, and who has had such signal success as a teacher and conductor. The College opens on the 17th inst.

One and the Same.

"Who is that cross looking man, Adelaide, who calls so often?"

"Oh, that is the grocer."

THE CATASTROPHE AT SEVILLE.

The Country that Could Not Save the Grand Old Cathedral.

A lady correspondent of The London Daily News writes: Nearly two years ago the architect and local authorities of Seville called the attention of the Government to the dangerous condition of different parts of the cathedral. It will seem hardly credible that a country which devotes every year more than four millions sterling to its public works could not spare enough to avert the catastrophe that every one now laments. The Minister of Public Works, true to the custom of his race, put off till to-morrow—the inevitable "manana" the doling out of money. So small were the sums supplied that the Government engineers and the chapter again and again pointed out that not enough was done to preserve their noble pile. The inhabitants and the press of Seville pleaded in vain for prompter measures, and their complaints were often ridiculed as being the expression of their too impulsive Andalusian imagination. A painful surprise was caused in Madrid, and particularly so in official circles, when telegram after telegram came in to tell of the disaster that had taken place. It was about three o'clock in the afternoon when the people of Seville who lived near the cathedral were suddenly startled by a loud report. They at first fancied that it must be a repetition of the earthquake of 1884. Soon a cloud of dust filled the air, and those that rushed out were told that some terrible accident had taken place in their beautiful cathedral. This bad news astonished nobody, as it had been expected. Many, indeed, for some time past never entered the church without some misgivings. The first question was whether anybody had been hurt, but fortunately no one was in the building at the time. It happened to be the hour of the "siesta," when only those who have something very particular to do are in the streets. It was some time before the Governor and architects arrived and the real state of affairs could be discovered. It was ascertained that one of the stone columns that had long been in a dangerous state had given way at last, bringing down with it a considerable portion of the nave over the choir. The fine organ and all the beautifully carved "Sillería," once the glory of the Carthusian monastery before it was transferred to the Cathedral, were also much damaged. The architects say that they had repeatedly called attention to the condition of this part of the cathedral, but that, not expecting any immediate collapse, they had paid more attention to the other parts of the church, which are in an equally dangerous condition. Even the lovely Giralda tower is reported to be in a very unsatisfactory state. The cathedral has been closed by order of the authorities, and it will probably be some years before strangers can again visit the greatest attraction of the Andalusian city.

Mrs. M. Stephens, of Albany, N. Y., writes us as follows: "My stomach was so weak that I could not eat anything sour or very sweet, even fruit at tea-time would cause Heartburn, fulness or oppression of the chest, short breath, restlessness during sleep, and frightful dreams of disagreeable sights, so that I would often dread to go to sleep. With the use of Northrop & Lyman's Vegetable Discovery this unpleasantness has all been removed, and I now can eat what suits my taste or fancy."

He Was Born That Way.

From The New York Tribune.

"Bishop" Oberly, the "Oily Gammon" of the Civil Service Commission, has a theory of the way military titles are got by the Southerners. Some years ago when Mr. Oberly was a member of the Illinois Legislature, there was among his colleagues an Egyptian, who was known as Colonel Ghilson. The military member was every inch a soldier—in looks. He weighed 300 pounds and had more than the usual amount of the fat man's pomposity. One day Mr. Oberly casually introduced to Colonel Ghilson a person who was anxious to have his help on some pending bill. The seeker after legislation was very deferential, and at once began to pour on some of the oil of flattery. The talk ran something in this wise:

"Colonel, did I understand Mr. Oberly to say? Then I suppose Colonel Ghilson you probably commanded a regiment in the late war?"

"No, Sir."

"Ah, I presume then it must have been in the Mexican war. You were pretty young for so responsible a command, weren't you."

"D——d young, sir. Never been in Mexico in my life."

"Oh I see now. You belong to the State militia. Fine body of men they are, too."

"No, Sir; not at all, sir. I have nothing to do with the militia."

"Perhaps you are on the Governor's staff?"

"No, sir."

"Then, Colonel, might I ask where you got your title?"

"I——n it all, man, I was born a Colonel, I'm from Kentucky."

No one need fear cholera or any summer complaint if they have a bottle of Dr. J. D. Kellogg's Dysentery Cordial ready for use. It corrects all looseness of the bowels promptly and causes a healthy and natural action. This is a medicine adapted for the young and old, rich and poor, and is rapidly becoming the most popular medicine for cholera, dysentery, etc., in the market.

Why he Gave Up The Law.

My friend, Senator Cullom, tells a good story, says the Washington correspondent of The New York Tribune—and not being given to practising law much himself, I suppose he can afford to do so—of a prosperous storekeeper in a small Illinois town, the name of which has escaped me, who once practised law, but who had long since abandoned it. Being met by an old acquaintance, he was asked for all the particulars of his giving up the profession.

"Didn't it agree with your health?"

"Oh, yes," answered "Uncle Joe," as he was familiarly called by his friends.

"Didn't it pay?"

"First-rate."

"Meet with sufficient favor from the courts?"

"All I could ask."

"Then what was it compelled you to quit it?"

"Well, I'll tell you—I was too honest."

A loud laugh from the bystanders aroused "Uncle Joe" into earnestness, and he repeated the strange statement and nailed it to his shop-counter with his huge fist. But his cross-questioner went out:

"When did you find this out?"

"In my very late case."

"What was that?"

"One in which I was retained to prosecute a neighbor for killing a dog."

"And he was acquitted? So you lost the case and gave up your profession discouraged?"

"No, he was convicted."

"Then he was guilty?"

"No, he was innocent."

"But didn't the evidence prove his guilt?"

"Certainly it did."

"Then why do you say he was innocent?"

"Because I had killed the dog myself a few nights before for trespassing on my poultry, and I came to the conclusion that any business that would aid a man to convict a neighbor of his own crimes wasn't the business for me, so I gave it up."

Handicapped by His Wife.

Ambitious Citizen—"Woman, you'll be the ruin of me yet. When I try to rise in public life and become an eminent statesman you invariably interfere, and yet you nearly drive me wild by comparing my slow progress to the great success of my rivals. Simply because I announced that I was going to shave off my mustache you have raised a storm about my ears. How under the canopy can I get as many votes as Mr. Greatman if I don't keep my face smooth, say?"

Wife—"I know Mr. Greatman has no mustache or beard, but what difference does that make I'd like to know?"

"Huh! Pretty politician you'd make. When Greatman kisses his constituents' babies the little ones smile and the fathers are delighted, but when I kiss the same youngsters my mustache tickles their dirty little noses, and the little imps yell like forty cats."
