Last week we wrote about an aggregation of attractive bargains that was to come this week. We present the list. Cold type does not throw that livid glare which the brilliancy of these goods as bargains would warrant, and one has to revise what is generally done, that is multiply by 5 and divide by 2 before arriving at the full force and meaning of the following:

Wool Dress Goods (not all wool) 7 1-2 cts.
Large size Linen Towels (sample) 9 cts. each.
Ladies Mackintoshes (made by Mackintosh) $3.75.
Bordered Dresses $2 80.
Twelve Dollar Costumes $6.
And a double attraction,
Black Silk Merveilleux 57 1-2 cts.

EXMOUTH STREET CHURCH.

It Has Been in the Hands of the Painters for a Month and now Presents a Very Handsome Appearance.

The Exmouth street church has been undergoing great improvements during the past four weeks. Repairs have been made wherever necessary and Messrs. Wilkins and Sands have been busily engaged in painting and decorating it. They will finish this work before the present week ends so that the church will be reopened next Sunday. The painting and decorating of the interior of the church is very fine. The excellent combination of warm, quiet colors on ceiling and walls together with the artistic and finished style of the decorative painting gives the body of the church an appearance of comfort and attractiveness which is very becoming to such a large place of worship. The pews and woodwork of the gallery fronts have been grained in light oak with walnut trimmings, and are nicely varnished. The walls are painted a terra cotta color of slight reddish shade, having a green and white border just above the wainscotting, and a deep crimson and gold border of a highly ornamental design running around just below the ceiling. The main panel of the ceiling is painted a pleasing color something between green and blue in shades. In the centre of this panel is the large circular ventilator which is finely decorated with ornamental designs in crimson and gold on terra cotta and stone color. The large green panel is surrounded by smaller panels ornamented in crimson and gold and finished off in a handsome border. The lower ceilings or those formed by the projecting galleries are painted a light tint of terra cotta, and have crimson frescoed borders. The wall back of the choir stand has been decorated with a fine archway supported on square columns and finished up in stone color, blue white and other shades with crimson ornaments. All that is needed to give the interior of the church a most handsome appearance is the lining of the pews with some suitable material. This will probably be done soon and then the interior of Exmouth street church will compare favorably in appearance and comfort with any of the new and costly churches of the city. The outside of the edifice is being painted a sort of yellowish terra cotta shade, with dark heavy trimmings and light stone color window frames.

Hawk vs Duff.

A short time ago a rising young business man of the city entered the store of another equally popular young merchant. The party of the second part had just purchased a small revolver, for what purpose does not appear. It was plentifully covered with nickle and looked very nice indeed. "What will you take for the shooter?" asked the visitor. There was no hesitation on the part of the questioned party who although his line of trade is more of the nature of wadding has no objection to turn an honest penny in another line. "Three dollars spot cash" was the reply. "All right, here's your money; give me the gun," observed the buyer. The party of the second part pocketed the lucre and he of the first part the gun.

Next day the purchaser of the revolver exhibited to a friend in the hardware business to whom he confided the purchase price. "Well," said the hardware man, "you have had your leg pulled thoroughly. I sold that revolver to the person you bought it from for $1.50." "Is that so?" asked the purchaser; "well, I'll get even some how."

A week or two later the young man who had become the purchaser of the revolver at a handsome profit to the seller also became the owner of a horse. The animal aforesaid was fair to look upon, but he had the heaves very bad and the owner desired to part with him. Driving up to the store where he had bought the revolver he inquired for the proprietor. That gentleman stepped out on the sidewalk.

"Want, to buy a horse?" asked the visitor.

"Yes, how much?"

"Fifty."

"Give you twenty-five."

"Make it forty and he's yours."

"No, give you thirty."

"All right."

The money was paid and the young merchant drove his newly acquired treasure to a livery stable.

Yesterday he met the young business man from whom he made the purchase, and after greeting him kindly, observed in a somewhat dispirited tone, "He's dead."

"Who's dead?"

"The horse I bought from you. Had two spavins, a ringbone and the heaves. Couldn't survive them all and had to die this morning."

"Sure you didn't kill him with a $1.50 revolver?"

Then they parted.

CAUGHT KISSING CORINNE.

A Kind of Fun that Did Not Suit Mrs. Kimball.

[Boston Herald.]

BALTIMORE, Md., Oct. 12.—There was quite a scene behind the curtain during the performance of "Carmen" yesterday at the Holiday Street Theatre. One of the cast is a young man whose stage name is Kingsley, but who is the son of Sig. Broccolini.

Kingsley was unfortunate enough, it is said, to have fallen in love with Corinne, and the pair were quite smitten with each other.

Mrs. Jennie Kimball, the mother of the petite Corinne, happened to catch Kingsley and Corinne fondly hugging and kissing each other, and asked Kingsley why he was embracing her daughter, and the young actor, for want of a better reason, replied that he was doing it "for fun."

That kind of "fun" did not suit Mrs. Kimball. Several members of the company assert that she squared off and struck the love-sick swain in the face with her clenched hand, and then discharged him from her company.

Mrs. Kimball gives a somewhat different version of the trouble. Said she: "Sig. Broccolini, whose real name is Clark, was discharged by me sever weeks ago, and I heard that he had said he would get even with me for it. I had just received a letter from my husband, in which he told me he had learned that Broccolini had vowed that his son would marry Corinne within three months.

"I questioned Corinne, and she said that some of the members of the company had told her that Kingsley had declared he would make love to her and marry her. I asked him whether he had made that boast and why he did so. He replied: 'Oh, just for fun.' I replied: 'Well, we won't have any more of that kind of fun. Here is your money and you can go.' I did not strike him, but I was terribly angry all the same."

WHOLESALE MARKETS.

Flour Dropping a Shade; Oatmeal Firmer; Sugar Stocks Being Worked off; Fish in Good Demand; Changes in Prices of Canned Goods; Beans Will go Down, etc.

Ontario millers have reduced the prices of flour this week about ten cents lower than last week's quotations. Prices are firm at this reduction, however, as they expect higher rates before spring. It is expected by the Americans that they will be able to make the English and French buyers pay high prices before next May and this feeling gives a strong tone to Chicago and New York markets, keeping their prices a little above the exporting prices to Liverpool. Ontario holders having a plentiful crop at their doors feel like selling it at the present good prices, but later in the season some think when the English and French buyers appear in the field their presence may have a tendency to put prices up. Prices generally, for good flour, run from $5.50 to $5.60, Manitoba patents $6.50 to $6.60. Flour stocks in this city are perhaps a little below the average at present.

Oatmeal has not receded in price since the harvesting of the crops as was at first expected by some, but is firmer in price than it was two weeks ago.

Cornmeal remains unchanged.

Sugars are active for all grades. The large stocks bought up at the low prices existing in August are being worked off and as holders have to stock up at the higher rates the market will probably grow firmer and retail lots will be higher.

Molasses ranges at 35 to 36 for Barbadoes, Antigua and Nevis, 33 to 34, Trinidad and Demerara, 31 and 32.

Fish of all kinds continue in good demand and prices firm. Cod sell almost as quickly as they arrive. Prices are for large cod $4.60 to $4.85 per quintal, according to quality; mediums $4. to $4.40. Pollock are in large supply with lower prices. They retail at $1.60 to $1.70 ex store, which is a decline of 20 cents on previous quotations. Bay herring are scarce at $2 per half-barrel. Labrador herring are in good demand at $5.50 per bbl. halves at $2.90. Shelburne's sell at $5 per bbl, Canso's $6.25 to $6.50. Smoked herring show a decline of one cent a box on account of the McKinley tariff.

Canned goods show a decided change, and have gone up in price especially in tomatoes, which owing to the short crops have advanced 20 cents per doz. Canned peaches are virtually out of the market the Ontario peach crop being a failure. Canned corn has advanced about 5 cents per dozen. Lobsters are scarce and high. Canned salmon are arriving in large quantities and are selling at about 30 cents per dozen less than a year ago.

Pork is steady at the following prices: American mess pork $15.50 to $16. Armour's clear mess $16.50 to $17; short cut clear $16 to $17. P. E. I. mess $12 to $12.50.

Cheese is steady at 9 to 10 cents a pound.

Beans sell at $2 to $2.10 and a fall in prices is looked for in the near future as an effect of the McKinley tariff.

Provincial Points.

A Halifax man named Walsh, while intoxicated last Friday afternoon fell into a north end dock and when fished out he wanted to fight his rescuers. It took the combined efforts of the unexpected cold bath and the persuasive eloquence of a policeman's club to pacify and to induce him to go home.

J. R. Reed & Sons, manufacturers of furniture, Bridgetown, N. S., have assigned to Hector McLean and Robert Bath. The business was established in 1858, and gradually enlarged, until they were making leading styles of furniture. It is stated there are preferences of $8000—the principal creditors are in New Brunswick.

A few boats out at Malpeque, P. E. I., on Saturday found cod plentiful, but there was a heavy gale Monday which prevented fishing. There was no fishing yesterday at Lagoonish, C. B. but at Louisburg boats got plenty of squid and averaged 1½ quintals of cod each. Along the southern shore of Nova Scotia the weather has been very rough and little done.

W. H. Ringer, of Sable, Shelburne, left his home at 3 o'clock on the morning of the 30th ult., went to Port LaBear, shot a moose, placed it upon his waggon and was home again at 4 o'clock. Peter Paul, the great Indian hunter of Sable, shot a large moose at Blue Hill, on the morning of the 2nd inst. Mr. Edward Harrington, also shot one on the same morning.—Shelburne Budget.

One evening last week, a young married woman, living on Grafton street, had a quarrel with her husband, who had been drinking, and she took a dose of poison. Happily, the quantity taken was not sufficient to kill her, and a couple of physicians, who were called in administered emetics which weakened the effects of the poison, and she is now recovering from the effects.—Halifax Echo.

The diving schooner Thistle, Captain Perry, from Cape Sable via Liverpool, N. S., with a cargo of scrap steel for this port foundered on Friday night last, when seven miles from Betty's island light. The crew took to the vessel's two diving boats, and landed at Lower Prospect that night. They had been at the pumps, continually, but the leak gained on the vessel, and she had to be abandoned.—Halifax Herald.

Burned Out Again.

Linus Seely, of Jacksontown, Carleton Co., was so unfortunate as to lose his buildings by fire again last Thursday. It is only a year last August since he was burned out before, and three years in July since his buildings on the site of the recent fire were burned, thus making the third time he has been burned out in a little more than three years. He had succeeded in putting up a barn 40x50 and a comfortable house; he had moved into the house on the Tuesday preceeding the fire, and only occupied it two days. The fire caught in the barn, which with all its contents was destroyed. The barn contained forty tons of hay, 150 bushels of oats, a horse rake, pitching machine, a hog, plow, barrow, harness and other farm utensils. The fire soon caught in the house and shed, and totally consumed them both. Most of the furniture was saved, but his potatoes were in the cellar and were destroyed, The shed contained a year's wood, which was destroyed. The buildings were new and cost $1400; the contents lost were worth $400; a total loss of $1800. Mr. Seely had an insurance of $300 on the buildings, and $200 on the contents of the barn.—Woodstock Press.

The Bachelors' Ball.

The ball in the museum room of the Mechanics' Institute last night was a grand social success. About 300 hundred ladies and gentlemen were present. The room was finely decorated, Harrison's orchestra furnished good music and the bachelors and their friends were in the mood for enjoyment. Dancing was commenced about 9.30 and it was almost three o'clock when the ball closed.

The committees of management of the affair were as follows:—

Gentlemen's committee—Mr. I. Allen Jack, chairman: Major Tucker, Messrs. W. H. Thorne, J. Roy Campbell, R. R. Ritchie, C. J. Coster, V. J. R. Vickers, F. P. Starr, M. B. Edwards, C. F. Harrison, H. H. Godard and Dr. F. Esson.

Ladies' committee—Countess DeBury, Mrs. W. H. Tuck, Mrs. Geo. E. King, Mrs. Geo. F. Smith, Mrs D. B. Warner, Mrs. Bayard, Mrs. R. P. Starr, Mrs. C. W. Weldon, Mrs. F. E. Barker, Mrs. W. L. Busby, Mrs. J. V. Ellis, Mrs. Thos. Walker, Mrs. John McMillan, Mrs. G. Sidney Smith, Mrs. D. McLellan.

We have again this season made a special purchase of the celebrated

ST. HYACINTHE
Gray
Flannels.

Our customers have found they are the best Grey Flannels in the Market.

St. Hyacinthes do not shrink or harden in washing and keep their color perfectly.

A good satisfactory flannel is not always to be found; but by several seasons' tests, we can fully recommend the St. Hyacinthe Grey Flannels.
