Health as an Investment

(Dr. David H. Reeder, in Toronto)

The Bible speaks of that "all a man bath will he give for his life," and the Bible in this speaks truly, as it does in all things. In speaking thus and in a general way when speaking of "a man," it refers to man generally, and not each specific individual. Of "all" it refers to property, money material things. Otherwise I would take issue with the statement. Men frequently give their lives for principle, for love, for country or for family, but when he is calmly given the choice of parting with his worldly goods or giving up his life, the goods must go. That is, when the choice is put to a practical and sane man. Without the life, of what value are the goods? Property, the gold and silver and what it is true that man may be miserably and be killed in trying to save his property, but in that chance there is supposed to be a chance for both life and property.

I have known men who have worked themselves down to a most pitiful condition of ill-health for the sake of dollars, even after they were too ill to have any hope of recovery they would keep working, scheming, planning how to get more dollars, more property. I know of one couple who had by having (yes, slaving, for they were slaves to greed) accumulated what to most people would be considered quite an independent fortune. They had numerous well-stocked farms, money loaned out and in the bank; when their daughter married the hired man they gave her 150 acres of land which was worth $100 per acre. It had good buildings upon it and was capable of earning lots of money for the young couple, but because this sensible daughter saw fit to employ a hired girl to cook for the farm help and because the young husband was sensible enough to get a good comfortable buggy for his wife to ride in, the old folks worried themselves sick to think they had given away that valuable farm to those proud and stuck-up young spendthrifts. They became more slavish than ever, and the old man, not old in years, but body, decrepit and old, worked harder than ever to care for the stock and save the expense of a hired man. Usually cold weather, heavy snows, and slush caused extra work, and his aching bones and starved body could not stand the worry and strain combined. A cold was followed by pneumonia and that was followed by a coffin. The wife, although not old, was thin and broken-down. She wrote to me when her husband was first taken, but, as I advised a nurse and other things that would cost money, my advice was not taken. After her husband's death she came to see me for herself. I told her that rest and careful diet, with proper nursing, would in time restore her to a fair degree of health, but when I told her it would take from three to six months she promptly said she was going back to the farm, as she couldn't afford the time nor the expense. I asked her what she and her husband had been working and saving for all these years if not to take care of themselves when old and feeble. I tried with all my power to get her to see the utter worthlessness of her farms and cattle and money as compared to her health and comfort, but, weak and suffering as she was, she could see nothing but the expense, and so she too went back to the farm and a coffin.

The young couple got all of the farms. Their home is now modern. They have learned a lesson, and with out being at all extravagant they live in comfort and in hygienic surroundings. Their children are strong healthy and sensible. They know the rules of health and consider them of more importance than dollars. Now, I am going to say something to you personally. You are old enough to know better than to allow slops from the kitchen to be thrown within 100 feet of the house or well. You have enough money to get screen doors and windows for your house, and thus keep out the flies and mosquitoes. You also could well afford to get a few pounds of permanganate of potassium and several gallons of kerosene and to use these simple means to kill off the young flies and mosquitoes at their breeding places around the house. A teaspoonful of kerosene poured into the rain barrel after each rain will prevent its becoming a breeding place for mosquitoes; a pint in the pond will do the same. For that place and will not hurt the ducks and geese, or pigs. A spoonful of the permanganate of potassium dissolved in a quarter of water and sprinkled in, the outhouses and around the waste places near the house will destroy millions of flies, apart as you can with safety, as far as you can with safety, as the chief breeding places for flies are the manure heaps around the barn.

Recent scientific investigations have disclosed fecal matter laden with typhoid and brought directly to the table on the feet of the flies. Go out to the filthiest place around your home and see the swarm of flies, and you would find them a few hours after you could catch and mark them. Towards at your door slipping in at the first opportunity; they alight on the food of your table, and upon your sleeping babies' sweet lips.

Keep out the flies! Kill them! The money and time you spend will be the purchase price of longer life and better health for yourself and your loved ones.

From the standpoint of an investment pure and simple, it pays to keep screens on all the doors and windows of your home and to scatter disinfectants with a liberal hand over every place of filth.

I once had a patient who had gotten into the habit of hard work. The habit was so firmly fixed that it was almost a disease. This patient, unlike those first mentioned in this article, was not stingy, but simply loved to do her own housework. She simply could not bear to see it done in a slipshod manner by a hired girl, so she did it all herself. I told her repeatedly that she must stop; her constitution would not stand the strain of continuous work of one kind, and she must either let a girl help her or in time the girl would have it all to do, while she lay in bed suffering and causing others to suffer. She would not stop, and the hospital and surgeon's fees which came later would have paid the wages of two girls and painted the house besides. It's much better to be moderate, temperate in all things. Good health is the best investment one can secure.

The longevity of the human race is increasing even if the birth rate is not. Families are not so large, but a higher percentage of the children born are living to maturity. Labor-saving machinery shortens the necessary hours of labor and cheapens the product, making the use more general. It does not, as erroneously supposed, throw men out of their positions; it simply changes their line of work into more pleasant lines, and as a rule into surroundings more congenial and healthful. A medium-sized city with a pure water supply and good sewerage system is a more healthful place to live in than the average farmer's home from the kitchen door of which slops are thrown to the ground, and where the barn is not over 100 feet from the kitchen. The farmers are beginning to realize the commercial value of hygienic surroundings, and are putting in water and sewerage systems as well as heating plants, and I predict that the day is not far distant when the majority of the farm homes will be strictly modern, and with all of the modern conveniences, and this will be as it should be.

BOWEL COMPLAINT IN CHILDREN

When six months old the little daughter of E. N. Dewey, a well-known merchant of Agnewville, Va., had an attack of cholera infantum. Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy was given and effected a complete cure. This remedy has proven very successful in cases of bowel complaint in children and when given according to the plain printed directions can be relied upon with perfect confidence. When reduced with water and sweetened it is pleasant to take, which is of great importance when a medicine must be given to young children. For sale by W. A. WARREN, BRIDGETOWN; A. E. ATLEE, ANNAPOLIS ROYAL; and BEAR RIVER DRUG STORE.

STRIKERS SEEK THEIR OLD POSITIONS.

Inverness, July 14.—The strike situation here remains unchanged. A number of U. M. W. men are asking for their old places in the mine, and it is expected that a number of them will join the working force tomorrow. The Company are running a special train carrying men from points along their line to and from work and in this way they can obtain as many men as they need for surface work. The output today was 557 tons, and 300 tons loaded from the stock pile. Manager Beaton expressed himself today as well pleased with the situation, and said it was even better than he had anticipated.

ECZEMA CURE A MIRACLE? —NO, JUST SOUND SCIENCE

Physicians now admit the superior value of simple medicines for all diseases.

For eczema and other skin diseases certainly nothing in the world could be simpler than oil of wintergreen, carefully combined with such well-known healing and anesthetic substances as thymol, glycerine, etc., as in the D. D. D. Prescription. The use of this simple remedy, though, accomplishes results that look like miracles completely cured in a few weeks.

Read the experience of Mrs. John Sanders, of Griswold, Manitoba: "When I sent for six bottles of D. D. D. I had one of the worst cases of Eczema in my legs. I only used two bottles when they were clear of Eczema. The four bottles I have left or even thirty years' standing have aces. Cures of eczema of ten, twenty will keep for hives and insect bites. It is a useful remedy to have in the house at all times. Wishing you all success with D. D. D."

QUEEN REFUSED THE DOCKED HORSES.

London, July 13.—S. H. Terry, speaking at the Anti-vivisection Congress told a story of long-maned, long tailed horses presented by Canadian infirmities to the Queen, which prior to their despatch were docked by the veterinary surgeon. The Queen is an opponent of docking. Eventually the horses were returned to Canada, and were replaced at the veterinary's expense by undocked animals. "thus closing what the veterinary had turned from a pleasant incident into an unpleasant one."

CHAMBERLAIN'S COLIC, CHOLERA AND DIARRHOEA REMEDY THE BEST AND SURGEST.

"It affords me pleasure to state that I consider the preparation known as Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy the best and surest of good results of any I have ever used in my family," says P. E. Herrington, of Mount Aerial, Ky. This is the universal verdict of all who use this remedy. Its cures are so prompt and effectual that people take pleasure in recommending it. For sale by W. A. WARREN BRIDGETOWN; A. E. ATLEE, ANNAPOLIS ROYAL; and BEAR RIVER DRUG STORE.

A NOTED NOVA SCOTIAN.

(From the Boston Herald.)

The career of a man like Professor Simon Newcomb is an illustration of the rewards that come from having vital interests in life. Born in Nova Scotia, he came to the United States when 18 years old. He was always active because he was always interested. And his studies did not, as sometimes happens, limit his life to the walls of the laboratory or the study. He loved to travel and to mingle with his kind. His researches and his attendance at Scientific Congresses took him to all parts of the world. Everywhere he was honored. The list of his degrees and distinctions would be too long to record. And it is not the least of his distinctions that in Washington, where he spent so many years of his life, he was generally beloved.
