Catalogues containing printed forms or order lists can now go through the mails at the same rate as catalogues, namely, one cent for four ounces. Postage at the rate of one cent per copy will be charged on every copy containing such enclosures.

Minard's Liniment Cures Dandruff.

The officials of the Montreal city hall were thunderstruck on Wednesday when a Superior Court bailiff, who was possessed of the necessary documents, proceeded to seize the furniture, carpets and everything movable in and around the building, to satisfy a thousand dollar judgment secured against the city by a man named Anderson, whose wife had been injured by falling on a broken sidewalk.

Moncton Times: W. C. Fillmore, of Westmorland Point, sowed three bushels of oats on a piece of land measuring 135 yds. long by 31 yds. broad and thrashed from the same this fall 80¼ bushels, machine measure, weighing 41 lbs. to the bushel. The land had grown hay until it was considered exhausted. This spring it was plowed, top-dressed, and harrowed with a disc-harrow, with the result as above.

Keep Minard's Liniment in the house.

Says the Berwick Register: Notwithstanding the fact that the celebrated Gravenstein tree, the property of Councillor Joseph A. Kinsman, lost a branch estimated to contain at least five barrels, it beats its record this year by yielding twenty-six barrels of choice shipping apples. But for the loss of this branch it would have yielded thirty-one barrels. A fair sized orchard in one tree and which has never received the slightest cultivation.

50 Years of Cures

In Logan county, Kentucky, the fall term of the Circuit Court was the first one in 40 years on the calendar of which there was no murder case.

Mrs. Vincent, a middle-aged woman of Rome, Georgia, died recently of joy. A son, long absent and given up for dead, returned home without warning; and when his arrival was announced, she with a cry of joy arose to her feet, staggered forward and fell heavily to the ground and died instantly. The young man is almost wild with grief over the sad and tragic result of his homecoming.

PRICE.—At her home in Ludlow, North. Co., on the 19th Oct., Mrs. Mary J. Price, wife of Leonard Price, in the 70th year of her age.

FLEET.—At Lower Granville, N. S., Oct. 18, Eliza A. Fleet, aged 88 years. Our sister was a patient sufferer and was glad to go when the messenger came. her end was peace.

HARTLEN.—At Oyster Pond, East Jeddore, Sept. 25th, Lottie Leconie, the little daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Peter Hartlen, aged one year and eleven months. They miss their lamb very much and need the sympathy and prayers of all.

CARTY.—At Amherst, N. S., Oct. 6th, of pneumonia and heart failure, Wm. A. Carty, aged 58 years. Bro. Carty when a young man united with the Canard church under the ministry of the late Rev. A. S. Hunt, and during all the intervening years adorned the doctrine of his profession by a godly walk.

CANN.—At Beaver River, Yarmouth Co., N. S., Oct. 12, Mrs. Susan Cann, aged 92 years. Our sister was a consistent christian and a member of the Bay View Baptist church. Her last years have been a period of waiting in readiness to depart and be with Christ. Blessed are the dead that die in the Lord."

APPLEBY.—At Burton, Queens Co., Oct. 14., by fire, Amelia aged 15 years, daughter of Capt. John and Mary Ann Appleby, of Upper Gagetown, N. B. Amelia was one of the two who lost their lives the night Mr. Henry Estabrook's house was burnt to ashes, our brother and family merely escaping with their lives. May the Lord comfort and sustain these who mourn.

PERRY.—At Port Maitland, Sept. 26, John G. Perry, of typhoid fever, aged 20 years and six months. Our young brother was led to Christ and baptized six years ago under the ministry of Rev. D. H. Simpson. He had been away from home for some months, and his friends and young companions write to his bereaved mother, and among other things of like testimony,—"John was a good boy."

RAWDING.—At Clementsport Ann. Co., N. S., Laura, wife of Bro. Charles Rawding, after four months of sickness, borne with patience and fortitude, fell asleep. She was a member of the Episcopal church—had fixed her trust in Jesus—in her dying hour brightness was upon her face and joy in her soul. Most beautifully she talked to the friends who gathered at her bedside. After tender words to her husband, a mother's blessing upon her three children and a farewell to friends, she said, "is not heaven beautiful," and was gone. May the blessing of God be upon a sorrowing husband and motherless children. Funeral services were conducted by Rev. J. T. Eaton.

WILLIAMS.—At Upper Clements, Ann. Co., N. S., Sept. 30, Deacon Frederic Williams, in the 84th year of his age, passed onward. His sickness was short and his end peaceful. He was born in Exeter, England, came to Nova Scotia more than fifty years ago, was shipwrecked and landed penniless. He came of a good family and his early education was not neglected. For a number of years he was a teacher in the public schools and many a captain can testify of his ability to teach navigation. He was brought up an Episcopalian, was converted and united with the Baptists. One son and two daughters survive him. The church which he faithfully served mourns its loss and the pastor a true friend.

YERXA.—At Fredericton, Sept. 6, Mrs. Michael Yerxa, aged 88 years. Mrs. Yerxa who was before marriage Miss Temperance White, was born at Keswick, July 28, 1808. She was married in 1828, and had twelve children; her husband and five children proceeded her to the home beyond. Some six years ago, owing to partial paralysis, she was compelled to forego the pleasure of public worship, and has been most of this time confined to her home,—here her constant companions were the Bible and her religious paper. Sister Yerxa was a good woman. She was a member of the Baptist church, Keswick, of which church her husband was for many years a respected deacon. In her home many of God's servants tasted the sweets of friendship. In good hope of the glorious resurrection her body was laid away in the family lot at Keswick. We expect to meet her beyond. May we all be prepared for that meeting. Funeral services were conducted at Fredericton and at the Keswick Baptist church, by Rev. F. C. Hartley, of Fredericton, and Rev. Geo. Howard, of Keswick.

PENNFIELD.—I settled with the Pennfield and Beaver Harbor churches in August last. I found them sustaining their regular prayer and social services besides their Sunday school which are carried on in good order and efficiently. At Black's Harbor—a mission station of the Pennfield church—that is where the church does mission work every Sabbath by some of its members, in the way of holding a Sunday school and social services. At this station there is a prospect of good being done; some are anxious about their soul's salvation. In the near future we shall hold some special meetings in that community. We are hoping for good in these churches. Our congregations are fine. All our meetings are interesting. We have quite a large number of young people. The C. E. S. hold their meetings regularly on Monday evenings. They are quite active. What we need most is the soul saving power of the Almighty Saviour and Lord. We are praying for this. On the 18th inst., the Pennfield church gave license to Bro. A. Calder to preach the gospel. He is a young man of some ability and deep piety. Our prayer is that he may be very useful in the denomination. May the Master go with him. I find the people kind and helpful. T. M. MUNRO.

DYKEMAN.—At Jemseg, Queens Co., September 14th, Clarence D. Dykeman, aged 39. Our brother had for the past three or four years been greatly afflicted, suffering from parcels, or incomplete paralysis, which rendered him latterly unfit for any usefulness and caused life to become a burden. When in health and able to follow his calling he had been regarded as one of the most proficient men in his profession, and was a universal favorite on account of his kindly and genial manner. It was, therefore, the more painful, for his many friends to witness the decline of his powers, and they could not but feel his departure to be one of release. Death was indeed gain to him; for he had long since given evidence of preparation for the great change. On September 17th, 1876, he was baptized by the Rev. J. W. S. Young, and united with the Jemseg church. Thus there were almost twenty years between his symbolic and his actual burial. And as he was buried with Christ in baptism, so now we believe he sleeps in Jesus until the morning of the resurrection. In 1894 he joined by letter the Main St. church, St. John, with which he remained in membership until the end. His funeral, which was numerously attended, was conducted by Revs. Charles Henderson and G. W. Springer, the former preaching a suitable sermon from 1 Peter, 1:24-5. The deceased leaves a widow and two children. Among others who mourn his loss are an aged mother and four brothers, one of whom is the Rev. A. T. Dykeman, the well known pastor of Digby Baptist church.
