The Herald has received from C. F. Byrne, of the cable station at North Sydney, C. B., formerly of this city, a comic song, "Mind the Baby Mary Ann," a creation which does credit to Mr. Byrne's ability at composing, and at the same time shows that his domestic experiences are precious and impressive.

St. Ann's church parishioners have elected the following office bearers for the current year: Sir John C. Allen and Harry Beckwith, church wardens. Vestrymen—W. H. Quinn, C. Sterling Brannen, W. H. Anderson, Edward Wilkinson, C. A. Miles, A. D. Thomas, Archie McDonald, A. R. Tibbitts, Dr. Henry.

George's lease, and also to lease a lot of land just below Mr. George's premises to the bicycling and boating club for the erection of their proposed new building, and will meet in regular session tomorrow night to confirm the action of the committee.

THE ICE HAS STARTED,

And Some Damage the Result of Yesterday's Jam.

The ice in the river started shortly after 2 p. m., yesterday, and ran for two hours, the water rising rapidly during the time. A jam at the Short Ferry, however, stayed its further progress, and the weight of ice from up river piled the ice high on the highway and railway bridge piers. Late in the afternoon and in the evening hundreds of people walked out on the highway bridge and the sight of the ice piled up in fantastic shapes was quite an unusual and attractive one.

The water fell over a foot last night, but this morning is almost stationary. There is an extensive jam on the islands above town and when that is released, it is thought the force of it will start the whole body again. The water will probably come up rapidly then but no serious danger is anticipated.

Yesterday the run of ice at the head of town caused some destruction to property. Quite a large lumber shed belonging to Hill & Berry, standing on the wharf occupied by them above R. A. Esty's mill, was completely wrecked. The ice ran up on the wharf and in a moment mounted the building, which fell with a crash from the great weight upon it, and now lies almost out of sight except the gable ends. About 8,000 feet of lumber, stored in the shed, is also under the wreck. The Scott house, standing on nearly the same site, was destroyed by the ice some forty years ago.

At the County Court house landing, a boat house belonging to a number of gentlemen around town, was very badly shattered, the annex, belonging to Capt. Wadmore, being sliced up into small pieces.

He Swallowed the Bait.

The Herald condemned Mr. Foster for voting against free corn, and now the Tory organ comes to the rescue and alleges that if we open our markets to this product, the Americans will come in and deluge us with corn, and the effect will be most disastrous to the farmers who are raising corn for Hoegg's canning factory. We may explain to our esteemed Tory friend that what Mr. Foster did was to vote against the free admission of corn meal, which our lumbermen and farmers use so extensively, not green corn.

Our esteemed Tory friend fell into the trap we laid for him, clean up to his neck, and his wonderful deliverance in last night's paper raised a broad laugh even in Toryism. Somebody ought to take the Tory editor aside and post him, before he attempts to discuss matters of which he knows absolutely nothing. We suppose if Mr. Foster voted against free pickles, his editor would justify it on the ground that the removal of the duty would crowd our market with green American cucumbers. We submit there should be some protection against green editors. Incidentally we may mention that while Mr. Foster voted against free cornmeal Mr. Temple voted for it, and therefore must come under his editor's displeasure. Mr. Temple should ask for an explanation.

A Very Stupid Lie.

Mr. Blair, F. P. Thompson, ex-Ald. Farrel and Frank I. Morrison, spent part of the afternoon yesterday in The Herald office.—Saturday's Gleaner.

As a matter of fact, neither Mr. Blair nor Mr. Thompson were in The Herald office Friday afternoon, nor have either of the gentlemen visited this office within the past two years. If they came every day, it would be nobody's business but their own. This is certainly very small business for a newspaper claiming the smallest respectability and we mention it merely to show the utter unreliability of the Tory organ, even in its news columns.

The Easter services at St. Paul's Presbyterian church, Sunday, were of a most interesting character. The pastor, Rev. Willard Macdonald, preached two powerful services appropriate to the occasion, and the choir rendered a programme of special Easter music. At the evening service solos were taken by Mrs. R. Blackmer and H. V. Bridges, both acquitting themselves most admirably. The pulpit platform was beautifully decorated with Easter lilies and other potted plants, giving an excellent effect. This work was done by Miss Neill, Miss Gregory, Miss Johnston, Miss Sarah McKee, Miss Christina Cameron and other young ladies of the church.

The Truro Daily News is one of the smartest and most interesting of our Nova Scotia exchanges, and is edited by W. D. Dimock, one of the popular M. P. P's for Colchester. It is the first daily established in the thriving town of Truro, and while we have been unable to discover its politics, we admire its enterprise in furnishing its readers with all the news written up in a spicy and interesting manner. The editor's name is prominently mentioned in connexion with the Conservative nomination in Colchester for the Commons.

It is said that Mr. George will repaint his office and storehouse on the bank of the river this summer, and if he has not decided on the style and color, The Herald would suggest that he first consult Mr. Gibson and Mr. Temple, and secure from them the secret of the combination which so beautifully adorns the Canada Eastern station in this city. This effect reproduced on Mr. George's buildings would no doubt set off the premises and adjoining grounds in a most entrancing manner. It might be somewhat expensive, but it is what the public expect.

A St. John gentleman who is in the city, smiled when the report was mentioned to him regarding the alleged intention of Hon. R. J. Ritchie, Police Magistrate of that city, to join the Protestant faith. He said that while Mr. Ritchie attended the Hunter and Crossley revival meetings, often turned up at Protestant church socials, and generally is a gentleman of broad religious views, it was not seriously thought in St. John that he has any intention of leaving the church of his fathers.

Mr. Fenety has secured the Castle Square Theatre Company for Monday and Tuesday evenings next. The company have been doing a fine business in St. John and are highly spoken of by the press. They have with them Zaida, a celebrated dancer, who is capable herself of entertaining an audience. The Two Orphans will be presented Monday evening, and A Barrel of Money Tuesday evening. Reserved seats at W. H. Fenety's.

Wm. Lamont, who returned recently from New York, during his stay in that city visited the New York Herald office and had the pleasure of meeting there a former resident of Fredericton, John Henderson, who worked as a printer in the Royal Gazette office. Mr. Henderson has prospered in New York, and is now the night manager of the Herald, a very responsible position.

Parties having old mahogany furniture, old silver or brass candlesticks or candelabras, old china or delf, if but a single piece; old tea urns, tea caddies or caddie spoons, old pewter pitchers or mugs, old castors for decanters, or brass or copper andirons, may find a purchaser by enquiring at the office of Frank I. Morrison.—3i.

Word was received Monday night of the serious illness at his home in Everett, Mass., of John C. O'Brien, formerly a well-known citizen of Fredericton, and an old time cricketer. His son Edward O'Brien, employed at Dever Bros., left yesterday morning for his father's sick bed.

Collector Street spent the Easter holidays with his brother, E. Lee Street, at Newcastle, returning home Monday evening. He says the ice is still firm in the Miramichi and that on Monday six inches of snow fell in that locality.

Mr Temple M. P. went to Ottawa yesterday.

Thomas Briggs, of Little settlement, died of consumption on the 31st ult. He caught a severe cold during the great storm of Nov. 6 last, when his barns were blown down, and over exerted himself in rescuing his cattle from the wrecked buildings; his health steadily declined from that time until death ended his sufferings. The funeral, which took place on Tuesday, was one of the largest ever seen in this place. Rev. J. A. McLean conducted the services. The members of Court Harvey Glen, I. O. F., of which deceased was a member, turned out in a body and marched in procession with regalia on; the Foresters burial service was also read. Deceased was widely known and much esteemed by all who knew him. He leaves a widow and seven children. He was in in the 41st year of his age.

We also have to record the death of W. B. Morrow, which occured at his residence in Tweedside on the 2d inst.. He had suffered from cancer on the jaw since last summer, and went to the Victoria hospital for treatment about Nov. 1st. He underwent two severe surgical operations for the removal of the cancer, but without success, as the dread disease steadily continued its progress despite all the care and skill which could be given, and he came home about six weeks ago to die. Mr. Morrow was a native of the north of Ireland and came to this place about thirty years ago; he had previously served as a soldier in the British army and was at one time stationed in Fredericton where he attained the rank of sergeant. At the beginning of the American war, he, with a party of soldiers, was stationed at Brockway to watch and capture deserters from the garrison at Fredericton who were induced to join the American army, and he made himself somewhat famous by his captures. Deceased was about 63 years of age and leaves a widow and grown up family to mourn their loss. He was much esteemed by all who knew him and was an honest man and a Christian.

MANITOBA SCHOOL QUESTION.

Rev. A. J. Mowatt Talks Very Plainly From His Montreal Pulpit.

At the evening service held at Erskine church, Montreal, Sunday night, Rev. A. J. Mowatt, the pastor, formerly of Fredericton, made an emphatic reference to the Manitoba school question. Taking his text from Hosea viii. and 5, he made a comparison between the worship of the Golden Calf by Israel and the condition of religious affairs in Canada.

Samaria he likened to the government of to-day, and said that the folly of calf worship to day in Canada was as ridiculous as it had been hundreds of years ago in Samaria. It was an utter folly and nothing but evil could come from it. The calf of Israel to-day might be found in the Manitoba schools question, through which the government might yet be very badly thrown. He approached the subject with diffidence; the responsibility properly rested upon other shoulders; men in authority were sacred in a way, but sometimes it was necessary to speak. After reviewing the historical aspect of the question, he stated that the original act granting separate schools had been cleverly manipulated by a hand working in the dark. The present law passed in 1890, he was informed, was then acceptable to nineteen-twentieths of the population of the province; it was steadily growing in favor, and would be perfectly satisfactory if it were not for outside interference. From the statements of Dr. Bryce, an authority on the matter, he believed that the Remedial Order commanded would result in an upheaval. It was a move to retrogression. If a gross injustice had been done certainly the government should interfere, but something less than so complete a reversal of existing conditions should be done. The people of sister provinces might be doing the people of Manitoba a cruel wrong if they stood up with folded arms and saw it done. The people of Manitoba deserved the sympathy and encouragement of those of other provinces. They had grappled with many difficult questions, and if, in the matter of the school question, just as they were beginning to see light, they were to be thrust back into darkness, it was not only unwise but an injustice to stand by and look upon it. If the conditions of the case were as he had been informed, it would be to the hurt and dishonor of the people of Canada to look on while the Act was enforced. He concluded his reference by stating that Egyptian calf worship, which was the entering wedge of idolatry into Israel, had ended in the nation being entirely cut off by God.
