LINER LOST OFF ALASKA; ALL SAVED

Passengers and Crew Taken Off Princess May in Safety.

A C. P. R. COAST SHIP

Ship Goes on Reef at Point Where Course Is Between Rocky Points.

Juneau, Alaska, Aug. 5.—The Canadian Pacific steamer Princess May, which left Skagway, Alaska, southbound for Vancouver at 9 o'clock last night with 80 passengers and a crew of 68, struck the north reef of Sentinel Islet at 4 o'clock this morning in the dark, but not foggy weather, and in a smooth sea, and sank two hours later.

All the passengers and their baggage were taken to the lighthouse on Sentinel Islet, whence they will be brought to Juneau by steamers that have gone to their relief. None of the passengers or crew are injured.

A boat's crew of six was picked up by a fishing launch and brought to Juneau. Later a second boat's crew with Pilot Richardson arrived. The members of the crew who are here say the steamer will be a total loss, the bottom being torn open so that it will be impossible to raise the vessel. Capt. McLeod and a number of the crew will stand by the ship.

At the time of the accident Capt. McLeod was in his berth, and Richardson was on the bridge.

A Perilous Spot.

The approach to Sentinel Rock at the southern end of Lynn Canal is one of the most perilous stretches of water in Alaska. A ship must clear rocky islands on both sides, the smallest variation from the course entailing destruction. The walls of the canal are precipitous, and the waterway deep and in many places narrow.

Sentinel Islet, about four miles north and east of Shelter Island, is the key to the narrow passageway by Shelter Island. This passage is strewn with reefs, and at some points is less than half a mile in width. Sentinel Islet is a jagged rock about 250 yards long, with long, tooth-like reefs projecting at the north and south ends.

Richardson, it is supposed, in trying to pick up the islet in the night, failed to observe the light, and struck head first on the north reef.

Sentinel Islet is about 45 miles from where the steamer Islander founded with a loss of 64 passengers after striking ice in August several years ago, and almost opposite where the Clara Nevada blew up and was lost with all hands during the Klondike rush.

APPLE-GROWING IS ON THE DECLINE

And for Fifteen Years the Quality of the Fruit Has Been Deteriorating.

Niagara Falls, N. Y., Aug. 6.—That the apple industry of Ontario is on the decline and that for fifteen years the quality of the fruit produced has been slowly but surely deteriorating is the opinion of James Crow, professor of pomology at the Ontario Agricuture College, Guelph, who spoke on Canadian apples at the International Apple Growers' Convention over the river yesterday. Some fifteen or more years ago the apple industry of Ontario was at its best, declared Prof. Crow. Since that time for various causes there has been a general decline of interest in apple-orcharding, a general increase in the percentage of defective apples, and a general falling off in the quantity of good apples finding their way to market.

At the present time the industry is coming to life in a few localities, but over the province generally orcharding is still on the decline. There are many localities of inland Ontario where orchards are to be found. In most sections, however, orchards are small in size. Good growers in the inland districts are few and far between. In the Niagara district and Essex and Kent Counties some planting of early summer varieties is being made. These are intended to supply the Northwest market during the early part of the season. There is probably no better apple-growing proposition than this but at the present time only small quantities of this early fruit are available.

CRIPPEN DEAD IN A FEW WEEKS

Inspector Dew Reported to Have Made That Prediction.

London, Aug. 5.—When questioned today regarding the defence of Dr. Crippen, Arthur Newton said: "I know as a fact that it is not true that he has confessed, and I am now busily preparing for the defence.

"I have written for the usual permit to inspect Crippen's home at Hilldrop Crescent, and examine the remains. I shall take a doctor with me when viewing the remains. I am confident the prosecution cannot prove that they are the remains of a woman, as there are no bones.

"I have also written for copies of the deposition made by the witnesses at Bow street police court. I anticipate no difficulty in getting them.

"My opinion is that unless there's evidence beyond what has been suggested in the newspapers there is no case against Crippen. He is charged with the murder of a woman. What evidence is there that these are a woman's remains? You cannot convict a man of murder if you cannot produce the body, unless, of course, he has been seen actually committing the murder. I shall not go to Canada, but as soon as Crippen lands at Liverpool I shall see him."

As to Inspector Dew's alleged prediction that Crippen would be dead inside of two months, Newton said: "I cannot understand what it means, unless Crippen is in bad health. I certainly do not believe Dew intended to convey the idea that Crippen would be hanged in two months. That would be impossible, even supposing he should be found guilty. The police court proceedings will last until the middle of October, and if he is committed, his trial cannot take place before December. I do not believe Dew ever made such statements. He is quite an unemotionable man, and most unlikely to say anything of that kind."

Newport, R. I., Aug. 6.—A hair curler may play an important part in identifying the remains found in Dr. Crippen's cellar as those of Belle Elmore. The police found a curler and part of the hair of the dead woman. Mrs. Robert Mills, of Newport, half-sister of Belle Elmore, was in London three years ago, and she and Mrs. Crippen bought curlers that were identically alike. She will go to London at the request of Scotland Yard, taking her curler for purposes of comparison.

Won't Tell Story.

Quebec, Aug. 5.—Ethel Clare Leneve yesterday received a cable from a London daily offering her $250 for an exclusive story of her flight with Crippen. The girl refused to answer the cable.

"Why can't people leave me alone?" she asked. "God knows I have had trouble enough. I will certainly not tell anything to anyone."

Crippen received two cables yesterday, one containing an offer of financial help from friends. Crippen, when arrested, had just $10 in his possession, besides the diamonds. His companion had $60, forty of which she spent on a new dress.

The statements that Crippen has confessed are officially denied.

"If there was anything done in London," cried Ethel Leneve to Mrs. Phillips, matron of the provincial prison, yesterday, "I never knew it."

QUEBEC OFFICERS CLIP DEW'S POWER

Will No Longer Let Him Open Cable Messages to Crippen.

Quebec, Aug. 6.—Conflict between Inspector Dew, of Scotland Yard, and the Quebec provincial authorities may follow the action of the latter yesterday in discontinuing a privilege the inspector heretofore has enjoyed—that of supervising personally the delivery of cable messages to Dr. H. H. Crippen and his fellow-prisoner, Ethel Leneve. The local authorities took this action during the absence from the city of Dew.

It was learned by Premier Gouin that two messages, addressed one to Crippen and the other to Leneve, were held at the jail, not to be delivered until the inspector could first censor them. Orders were issued to Gov. Morin, of the jail, to deliver the messages to the prisoners at once, and it was done. The inspector did not return tonight from his trip, so that his views could not be learned. He is expected today.

The messages delivered to the prisoners were supposed to be from friends in London. That these friends continue their interest was shown by the receipt at the local telegraph offices of instructions from London to accept from Crippen and Miss Leneve messages to be paid for by the receivers in England.

The papers under which Dr. Crippen and his fellow prisoners are to be released from Canadian custody at the end of the 15 days prescribed by law were forwarded to Ottawa to be signed. But as Governor-General Earl Grey and Chief Justice Fitzpatrick of the supreme court are absent they will be forwarded to Murray Bay for the signature of Associate Justice Girouard, of the supreme court.

WILL DEL VAL RESIGN?

Rome, Aug. 6.—The report is again in circulation that Cardinal Merry Del Val has expressed his intention of resigning from his post as papal secretary of state, after the settlement of the controversy between the Spanish Government and the Vatican. This, however, is without confirmation.

CANALEJAS FEARS SERIOUS UPRISING

Spanish Premier Gives Views On Proposed Sunday Manifestation.

Madrid, Aug. 5. — Simultaneously with the rushing of troops to San Sebastian to cope with an uprising which the Government fears may grow out of the holding there Sunday of the interdicted demonstration of the clerical forces in protest against the Government's stand in its dispute with the Vatican, Premier Canalejas today issued a statement outlining his policy in the premises. The statement follows:

"I would have allowed the manifestation if it had been announced to be held elsewhere than at Bilbao, where a strike of coal miners is in progress, or at San Sebastian, which is crowded with visitors on Sundays.

"I know that priests are distributing arms, and also that the manifestants intend to bring women and children with them to prevent military intervention. But I am determined to enforce respect for the law. Troops will be distributed at strategic points and the railroad will be held for reinforcements.

"If my adversaries want a lesson they shall have it. They will be responsible for whatever happens.

"The manifestation has only been adjourned. I desire that it shall occur that its strength may be shown; but it must occur elsewhere and without constraint or threats."

Senor Felin, the chief of the Carlists, has invited the Carlists throughout Spain to send delegates to the demonstration at San Sebastian Sunday.

El Liberal today demands the expulsion of Monsignor Vico, the papal nuncio to Spain, on the ground that he is inciting Catholics to rebellion.

Canalejas said today that the violence of the telegrams he was receiving warranted the prosecution of their senders.

WONDERFUL CAREER OF MOTHER EDDY

By Followers Held To Be One of Greatest Women of History.

Pittsburg, Aug. 5.—There was nothing to startle the world in the brief item of news that came out of Brookline, Mass., recently, announcing that Mrs. Mary Baker Eddy, founder and leader of the Christian Science denomination, was quietly observing the 89th anniversary of her birth, surrounded by a few friends at her modest home.

The item itself was characteristic of the subject. Probably Mrs. Eddy herself would have preferred that nothing at all be said about it.

But there is a great deal in the plain fact that this remarkable woman is now rounding out her ninetieth year, of which the people everywhere may well take note.

Seldom do we have presented a subject more replete with valuable suggestion, ennobling inspiration or general uplift.

Mrs. Eddy stands among the foremost women of her time and generation. Whether or not we subscribe to the doctrines which she has founded and maintained, we cannot take from the credit which rightfully accrues through her position as one of the world's workers, as one who has been devoted to the welfare of others, who has all but given her life to the cause of humanity.

By the sheer force of her personality, her untiring energy, and unfaltering faith in the correctness of her beliefs, this woman has succeeded in doing what tens of thousands of men fail to do.

Under her leadership and wise counsel, a religion which must be classed among the principal faiths of civilized nations has taken root, and is in a most flourishing condition.

Its devotees are as earnest and sincere and as eager for the advancement of humanity toward the ultimate goal as those of any other religion.

Hundreds of thousands of believers have found comfort in the teachings of Mrs. Eddy. Men and women, racked with physical and mental pain, have found peace under the soothing influence of the Christian Science doctrines.

They have built up a great and influential property, they have made themselves a factor in the progress of the nation, and they have made the world eager to know more about the wonderful woman who has been their inspiration through it all.

She appears to the observer as one who has been inspired with a mission to bring salvation into a sin-ridden world. To her, self-sacrifice seemed an acceptable portion, and wherever it has been required of her she has made it willingly and cheerfully.

Throughout it all she has been moved by a single desire, to do something for suffering humanity and to advance the spiritual welfare of the people.

Where is it possible to find any greater work than this?

Mrs. Eddy's lift has been one of constant effort for her fellow-beings. She has had no selfish aim to accomplish, no unworthy aims to attain, no ulterior motives to shield with the cloak of religion.

Everything was done for others, and when she has finally passed to her reward those who are left behind will reap the full benefit of her labor of love.

Mrs. Eddy is a staunch advocate of prayer. She believes in the efficacy of prayer, and upon this belief the religion she has founded bears more strongly than anything else. Belief in the efficacy of prayer is a strong pillar in all the best-known religions today. But Mrs. Eddy and her followers, perhaps, exemplify this belief to a greater degree than is done by the people of other denominations.

From a handful of original supporters, Mrs. Eddy increased the number, until the Christian Scientists are now a power in the religious world.

They met with many rebuffs. Critics were not sparing of the tender-hearted woman's feelings, and who can tell the pain she must have felt when the sharp thrusts of the public lance often reached their mark?

But she was resolute and undaunted. She was firmly founded in her belief, and she heeded not what her detractors said of her or her ideas.

Mrs Eddy worked and prayed on. At times it seemed that the discouragements with which she met must in the end be too severe for a frail woman, but she conquered them all. It is Mrs. Eddy's faith that affords the world the most inspiring example in connection with her career. She could not acknowledge defeat. She believed that a Supreme Being was the rock on which everything else was founded, and that so long as she could cling to the rock no harm could come to her or her work.

That is what has made Mrs. Eddy one of the world's greatest women. No other attribute is so marked as that of unswerving faith in her principles, and in the mission which she was sent into the world to perform.

Mrs. Eddy will not be classed as "great" in the same manner as other women of her time. She has not filled the public mind with those things that are of earth earthy.

Hers is a greatness of love, of heart, of mind, of faith, of all the higher elements that are too often crushed beneath the overpowering weight of mundane things.

She will always be known as the contemporary of such magnificent women and world's workers as Harriet Beecher Stowe, Queen Victoria, Jane Addams, Helen Gould, and their kind, of which there are few.

Who can estimate the real value of such a woman's work? It is as illimitable as the universe itself.

Herself the staunchest advocate of continued prayer, Mrs. Eddy doubtless will be the subject of thousands of fervent petitions to the Throne of Grace at this time.

And the burden of these prayers will be that her useful life may be spared to the people for other anniversaries such as that which took place at Brookline recently.

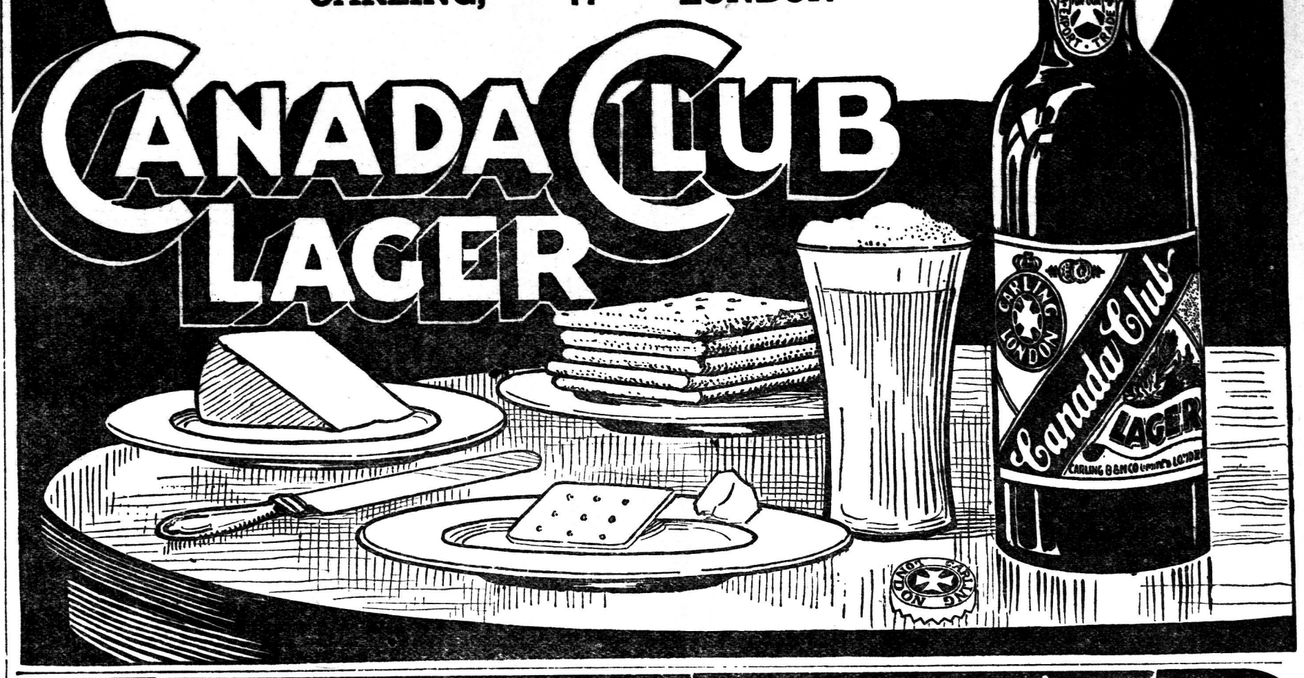
CARLING, LONDON



A $15,000 HOUSE FOR $200

The house is a magnificent 22-roomed, solid brick residence, with oak floors, large verandahs, furnace, water, three-piece bathroom, in excellent repair, spacious lawns, fine shade trees, close to the cars—an ideal home. The reason for this astonishing price lies in the fact that it was not deemed wise to move the house when our survey was made, so it was left with about two acres of land around it, and it will cost the lucky person who gets it just two hundred dollars. Think of it—you could not build the verandah on it for $200; but we are placing it within the reach of everybody.

There is also a fine seven-roomed solid brick residence, valued at $2,500, which you have the chance to own at a cost of $200. Both these houses will be transferred free from all encumbrance to the parties who get them, and at a cost of only $200.

We could not possibly afford to make this extraordinary offer were it not for the short time covered by our sale. These sales are all cash sales, and therefore we believe in giving our subscribers something which has never before been offered—a special chance to get from $200 to $15,000 value for their $200 cash investment, with no risk.

The stately residence stands amid a grove of fine trees, in the most beautiful location you could wish for. Go out and see it. It would cost you $200 to sod the grounds around it. This is the bona fide, straightforward, clean-cut offer that the Madden Realty Company are making you. It doesn't take any figuring—it's plainly before you. A $15,000 mansion for a $200 bill. Phone No. 2482 and learn where you may see this property. Do it today. This opportunity is open only for a limited time. Don't miss it.
