The cargo of bark Affecione (Ital), about 704,000 feet of spruce lumber at this port in distress, is advertised for sale. The bark will be sold on Friday by auction.

Turks Island, March 9—Schooner Carrie A Lane, Messenger, which arrived here 3d from Ponce (P R), was leaking badly. A diver examined her bottom and reported as follows: "From the stern to about the mainmast found the bottom in fair condition; at the mainmast the scarf of the keel is open, the after end about three quarters of an inch. The forward scarf is in the same condition; forward garboard strake open on the starboard side from the stem; the garboard strake open and oakum hanging out; the cutwater from the stem half an inch; can stop leaks sufficiently to enable vessel to proceed in ballast to nearest port." ## ANOTHER IMPORTANT DECISION IN YORK LOAN CO. WINDING UP

Toronto, March 19—Again Referee Kappele has given judgment in the York Loan winding up proceedings, directing certain shareholders to pay the money they owe on their stock or lose everything. The class dealt with today is known as Class 16—Holders of shares, the payments on which were in arrears at date of liquidation, but which had not lapsed; and holders of shares which had lapsed at date of liquidation, but which under a by-law of the company had a right to revival.

Kappele holds that the former claimants may rank with the general body of shareholders, provided they pay what is yet owing on their shares. As to those whose shares had lapsed, he denies their right to pay any revival fee, once liquidation proceedings have commenced. So these shares will be valueless.

IMPORTANT FOR MEN

If you suffer from any secret weakness, you can be easily and quickly cured, if you will write in confidence to Dr. G. H. Bobertz, 564 Woodward avenue, Detroit, Mich.

You will receive by return of mail, in plain sealed envelope, important information that will with certainty lead to a positive cure.

Champlain's First Winter and Spring in Quebec.

(Parkman, "Champlain and His Associates," Chap. IX.)

THE WINTER.

September bade the sail of Pontgrave
God-speed, and smil'd upon the infant nation;
October deckt the shores and hills with "gay
Prognostics of approaching desolation."
Ere long, the forest, steep'd in golden gloom,
Drop'd, rustling down, its shrivel'd festal dress,
And chill November, sombre as the tomb,
Sank on the vast primeval wilderness,
Inexorable winter's iron vice
Gript hard the land, funereal with snow;
The stream was fill'd with grinding drifts of ice;
A fell disease laid twenty Frenchmen low
In death, and left the dauntless leader eight
With whom to hold the New World's fortress gate.

THE SPRING.

The purgatory pass'd—the stalactites
That fring'd the cliffs fell crashing to the earth;
With clamor shrill the wild geese skim'd the Heights,
In airy navies sailing to the north;
The bluebirds chirrup'd in the naked woods,
The water-willows don'd their downy blooms,
The trim swamp-maple blush'd with ruddy buds,
The forest-ash hung out its sable plumes,
The shad-bush gleam'd a wreath of purest snow,
The white stars of the bloodroot peep'd from folds
Of rotting leaves, and in the meadows low
Shone saffron spots, the gay marsh-marigolds.
May made all green, and on the fifth of June
A sail appear'd, with succor none too soon.
—W. M. Mackeracher, in Montreal Witness.

ST. JOHN MARKETS

Since last week, sugar has gone up twenty cents a hundred pounds. The last advance of ten cents was made yesterday. Standard granulated is now quoted at $4.80 to $4.90, Austrian granulated at $4.70 to $4.80 and other kinds in proportion. Dealers in molasses now say that the Porto Rico variety is permanently out of the market. The reason given is that all the plantations on the island have replaced their old-fashioned molasses mills with modern sugar plants, the owners claiming that they are much more profitable. The only kinds of molasses which will in future be offered in the market, it is said, will be Barbados fancy and Barbados ordinary grocers'. The Porto Rico variety was esteemed to be superior to either of these, having a heavier body and finer flavor. Fancy Barbados has advanced one cent a gallon.

In the produce line, hennery eggs are now selling for from eighteen to twenty cents a dozen while the case variety wholesales for from seventeen to eighteen cents. There is not a great deal of stuff coming in just now. Tub butter is dearer at twenty-five to twenty-seven cents a pound and rolls are quoted at twenty-eight to thirty-two cents, also an advance on previous figures. The following were the principal wholesale quotations Thursday:

Aspiration.

I sat one day beside the flowing river
And watched it as it glided on its way,
So smooth and placid in its onward motion
Avoiding all delay.

Within its bosom was a moving purpose.
A long wish to reach the mighty sea,
And all its strength it gave to that one object,
But yet how noiselessly.

And I have learned that somewhere in the distance
Beyond the mountain and the spreading lea,
Still moving with that calm majestic sweetness,
The river found the sea.

A three mile timber berth of the North Branch of Cain's River was sold at auction in Fredericton on Wednesday to the Miramichi Lumber Company, at the upset price.

THE BAREFOOT MAID

(Words by Will H. Ogilvie, set to music by James Chapman Craig, and Dedicated to John McKane, Miramichi, N. B.)

Her lips made rebel laughter.
Her locks fell gypsy free.
She was a queen of summer time,
And stole my heart from me.
Her merry eyes were bluer than
The cornflowers in the wheat,
And like brown birds in the heather
Were her brown bare feet.

Her skirt was grey and dusty
And her purple plaid was torn
But her laughter, Oh! that laughter,
How it rippled through the corn.
You may search the wide world over,
You will never find so sweet
A laugh as led the measure
For those brown bare feet.

She danced away before me
And I followed well content
To watch the bluebells dipping
On the mountain way she went,
And where the baby Teviot
Came crooning through the peat
She charmed the mountain minnows
With her brown bare feet.

She danced away before me
And I followed her again
The mist was on the carter
And a warm grey rain.
The mist was on the carter,
When I kissed her lips so sweet
And the wet bells of the heather
Kissed her brown bare feet.

But there came an end of summer
For brightest summer ends
We clasped our hands and parted
With the loving clasp of friends.
Her laughter haunts the city
And all down the crowded street
I am dreaming always dreaming
Of the brown bare feet.

Oh, Scotland! Bonny Scotland!
In your purple robe arrayed
You're my laughing barefoot lover
And my tattered gypsy maid.
And I'd give my chance of fortune
If the fates would let us meet
With the billows of the heather
On your brown bare feet.

DREAMLAND TOON

(A lullaby, words and music by James Chapman Craig. Dedicated to Mrs. John McKane of Miramichi, N. B.)

Wa' to the ferry o' Dreamland Toon,
That lies in the howe o' sleep
Wi' the gloamin' grey we arp on our way
When the mune begins to peep.

When the drowsy sun sinks slowly doon,
An' shimmers the sea wi' gowd,
An' the bairns are a' in their hushie-ba'
An' sung in their blankets row'd.

Awa' faur oot on the wide, wide sea,
The boat rocks up an' doon,
An the plashin' waves, the dim shore laves,
Wi' their moanin', croonin' soun.'

An' Oh! sae cannie the wee boat sails
To the haven a-yont the mune,
Owre the waters wide we slowly glide
To the faur off Dreamland Toon.

The auld grey man wi' the stoorie pock
Has command o' the "sleepy boat"
An' he guides its way past the waukrife fay
Awa' to the land remote.

An' the stars shine oot like burnished gowd,
To airt the captain roun'
The bonnie bend at the journey's end
In the harbor o' Dreamland Toon.

An' the win' adds a sough to the mither's
Like the echo of a sigh
An' it kisses the hair o' the voyagers fair
As it wanders idly by.

An' fainter still frae the distant shore
Comes a soothin', singin' soun'
An' is borne to the ears o' the drowsy dears
On the boat for Dreamland Toon.

The mune grows dim an' ane by ane
The stars fade frae the sky,
And in stillness deep o' mystic sleep
Lies the soun' o' the lullaby.

The voyage is past and the fairy crew
Let the anchor gently doon,
And angels glad watch roun' the bed
O' the bairns in Dreamland Toon.

POORLY PAID LIGHT KEEPERS

To the Editor of The Telegraph:

Sir:—Probably you have noticed in the auditor general's reports the very meagre salaries paid to the light keepers of the Maritime Provinces, ranging from $150 to $400 per year, about the same amount as was paid fifty or sixty years ago, while the cost of living has increased from 100 to 150 per cent. Petitions have been circulated by the light keepers this winter throughout Nova Scotia, and some of them have been sent in to the M. P.'s at Ottawa asking for a generous increase.

The calling attention of the department and the public to this matter by the Press will do more good than a thousand petitions and I would call the attention of the government to the inadequate amounts received by these many responsible persons. Thanking you in anticipation I am yours very sincerely
