The Literary Revolution.

What Is It? It is a method of placing literature, of the best class only, within reach of every one. Books are reduced in price to but a fraction of their cost heretofore. July is supposed to be the Dull Month of the year. Booksellers close shop and go fishing, because book buyers are supposed to have done likewise. The Literary Revolution has made the past July one of the busiest months of the year for dealers handling our books, because the people believe in it. Letters have come to us like a flood; telegrams from dealers have come like the day before Christmas, calling for more books, and quickly. Our bindery is now taxed for the production of 5000 volumes a day, not counting pamphlets, and we are taking immediate steps to double its capacity, to keep up with orders. All Revolutions seek volunteers, and it has been the policy of The Literary Revolution from the start to give special reward to early volunteers in its support. It offers special terms to all whose orders, with cash, are received during August, as follows;

July Victories.

August Opportunities.

Chambers's Encyclopædia.

A verbatim reprint of the last English edition, in 15 beautiful volumes, clear nonpareil type, handsomely bound in cloth for $6.50; the same printed on finer, heavier paper, wide margins, and bound in half Russia, gilt top, price $12.00. The first eleven volumes are ready for delivery. Volume 12 will be ready Aug. 15. The remaining volumes will be completed by October.

AN AMAZING OFFER.

To all whose orders and money are received during the month of August, we will supply the 15 volumes, in cloth, for $6.50, and in half Russia, gilt top, for $12.00. The volumes issued will be sent at once by express, and the remaining volumes when complete.

A sample volume in cloth will be sent, postpaid, for 50 cents, or in half Russia, gilt top, for $1.00, and may be returned at once, if not satisfactory.

The "Chambers's Encyclopædia" comprises the first 15 volumes of our "Library of Universal Knowledge," and the remaining volumes, complete in themselves, will be sold separately when published.

Curiosities. To illustrate and demonstrate the superior literary and typographical character of our books, notwithstanding prices are low beyond comparison with the cheapest books ever before published, we publish twelve books in pamphlet form and send postpaid as follows. As mere curiosities they are worth obtaining by every one, even if they were not intrinsically valuable. As might be expected, they are selling by the million. All the following are unabriged, and none of them are in type smaller than brevier. Nearly all of them have heretofore been published by other houses at from $1.00 to $1.25 each. Macaulay's "Life of Frederick The Great," Carlyle's "Life of Robert Burns," Thos. Hughes' "Manliness of Christ," John Stuart Mills' "Chapters on Socialism," Mary Queen of Scot's Life, by Lamartine; "Leaves from the Diary of an Old Lawyer"—short, thrilling, laughable, pathetic stories—each complete, price three cents. "The Light of Asia," by Edwin Arnold; "Baron Munchausen's Travels and Surprising Adventures;" "Vicar of Wakefield," by Oliver Goldsmith; "Stories and Ballads for Young Folk," illustrated, by Ellen Tracy Alden, each five cents. Closing the list is Bunyan's "Pilgrim's Progress," price six cents; and "Private Theatricals" (humorous stories, not plays), by author of "Sparrowgrass Papers," price, two cents.

6 Cents—2 Cents.

Notwithstanding the amazingly low prices of these pamphlets, they pay us a good profit. The Literary Revolution does not humbug people by pretense of philanthropy. People who have sense enough to appreciate good books are generally honest enough to be willing to pay for them, and they can afford to pay when prices are low as the Revolution makes them. In this connection it is proper to mention a few facts. Some millionaire publishers have been adding to our fame and multiplying our friends by calling us pirates. They pay (when they please!) foreign authors a copyright. One of them charged you $1.00 for Hughes' "Manliness of Christ"—we sell it to you for 3 cents. How much of the 97 cents difference did Hughes get, do you think? Another published Giekie's "Life of Christ" for $5.00—our price is 50 cents. How much did Dr. Giekie get of the $7.50 difference? His letter to us says "nothing." Scribner's Monthly attacked us recently, calling us Cheap John Publishers. The same electrotypers and printers that do their work are working also for us, and you want no books more beautiful than are some of ours. The great Methodist Book Concern has refused us space even in the advertising columns of its several Christian Advocates. Why? Our books are so cheap they contrast with and injure the sale of theirs. We reduced Smith's "Bible Dictionary" from $3.00 to 50 cents; Kitto's "Cyclopædia of Biblical Literature" from $10.00 to $2.00; and Young's "Analytical Concordance to the Bible," "the Webster Unabridged" of religious literature, the greatest work of the kind which the century has produced, from $15.00 to $2.00. The people may pronounce the verdict who is guilty of wrong-doing—we, or the millionaire publishers.

Stop Thief!

Who Is He?

General Grant. General Grant once said that the best way to get rid of a bad law is to enforce it. If the want of an international copyright is a wrong to foreign authors, American publishers are to blame that there is none, and could influence the passing of such a law quickly if they chose to do so. We believe that the author of a book is as much entitled to absolute property in it the world over as is the author of any other product of the hand or brain. We vote for a law to give him such ownership, and The Literary Revolution more than all other influences is forcing the consent of millionaire publishers to the passing of such a law. But there is plenty of humbug in the talk of high prices being the necessary result of copyright. Five cents copyright on a book would give an author $5,000 on a book that would sell 100,000 copies; and a book intended for the masses that will not sell 100,000 if put at a reasonable price does not deserve to be published at all. And the really standard book that the masses want ought to sell and will sell a million copies each easily when The Literary Revolution has achieved its final victories and made the masses readers of good books. And a million books, paying copyright of even one cent each would give an author $10,000, which is more than ten times what the average successful author now gets. But Bunyan, Goldsmith, Milton and Virgil are no longer wanting copyright, and Macaulay, Carlyle, Gibbon, De Foe, Plutarch and Æsop ceased to receive it long before the days of The Literary Revolution. We do pay five to fifteen cents copyright on several of our books to American authors who have the right to it, and we are paying regular salaries, many thousand dollars a year, to writers in our service.
