RHEUMATISM KEPT HIM IN BED

Suffered Tortures Until "Fruit-a-tives" Cured Him

McMILLAN'S CORNER, ONT., SEPT. 30th. 1910

"Your remedy, "Fruit-a-tives" is a perfect panacea for Rheumatism. For years, I suffered distressing pain from Sciatica or Sciatic Rheumatism, being laid up several times a year for days at a time. I went to different doctors who told me there was no use doing anything—it would pass away. They gave me mustard plasters and other remedies that did no good. Plasters took no effect on me—except to blister me and make raw spots. I took many advertised remedies without benefit, but fortunately, about two years ago, I got "Fruit-a-tives" and they cured me.

Since then, I take "Fruit-a-tives" occasionally and keep free of pain. I am satisfied "Fruit-a-tives" cured me of Rheumatism and they will cure anyone who takes them as directed. If this letter would be of value to you, publish it" JOHN B. McDONALD.

Indeed, this letter is of value to us and to the thousands of sufferers from Rheumatism, Sciatica, Lumbago and Neuralgia. It points the way to a certain cure. 50c a box, 6 for $2.50 trial size, 25c. At dealers or from Fruit-a-tives Limited, Ottawa.

This is a Fair Sample.

A certain man was in a bar-room, complaining loudly of the high cost of living. Among other things he mentioned milk. 'Just think of it,' he said, 'milk costs nine cents a quart! How is the poor man to buy milk for a family at such a price as that?' And yet shortly after he began to inquire of the bartender the price of different grades of whisky. Well, the best grade was $1.50 a quart, another grade could be got for $1.25, while a cheaper one was only $1.00 a quart. The customer thought a few minutes, and finally settled on that at $1.25. Milk nine cents a quart; whisky $1.25 a quart. No doubt the milk is high, and wages are low enough, but we venture to say that the man who pays $1.25 for a quart of whisky, when his children could get fourteen quarts of milk for the same money, is a poor father.

Drunkenness.

Behold the image of God as he comes forth from the drinking saloon where he has pandered to the meanest, vilest, and most degrading of the senses—the sense of taste. He has laid down his soul upon the altar of the poorest devil of them all—the devil of gluttony. Upon that altar he has left his reason his affections and his freedom. Behold him now as he reels forth, senseless and debauched, from the drinking house! Where is his humanity? Where is the image of God? He is unable to conceive a thought. He is unable to express an idea with his babbling tongue, which pours forth feebly, like a child, some important outrageous blasphemy against heaven. Where are his affections? He is incapable of love: no generous emotion can pass through him; no high and holy love can move that degraded, surfeited heart. The most that can come to him is the horrible demon of impurity, to stir up within him every foulest and grossest desire of animal lust. Finally, where is his freedom? Why, he is not able to walk, not able to stand! He is not able to guide himself! If a child came along and pushed him, it would throw him down. He has no freedom left—no will. If, then, the image of the Lord in man be intelligence—in the heart and in the will—I say this man is no man. He is a standing reproach to our humanity.—Father Burke, O. P.

Declare War on Colds.

A crusade of education which aims 'that common colds may become uncommon within the next generation' has been begun by prominent New York physicians. Here is a list of the 'don'ts' which the doctors say will prevent the annual visitation of the cold:

'Don't sit in a draughty car.'
'Don't sleep in hot rooms.'
'Don't avoid fresh air.'
'Don't stuff yourself at meal time. Over eating reduces your resistance.

To which we would add—when you take a cold get rid of it as quickly as possible. To accomplish that you will find Chamberlain's Cough Remedy most excellent. Sold by all dealers.

After he has failed to make good a week's spends all the rest of his time explaining that he didn't get a square deal.

Do One Thing Well.

Haven't you noticed that those who have succeeded best in life have been earnest, dilligent workers, and have confined themselves to certain well defined lines? They have known what they were doing, and fully realized that they would be rewarded according to the effort put forth.

The dilletante who enters first upon one line and then upon another, and then drops out to enter upon another that is yielding richly to some one who is capable of working it properly, is flirting with failure.

The world is full of these, comments a student of life, and you may be one of them. If so, break away and set yourself to the task of learning to do something well.

No man can farm, run a sawmill, operate a coal bank, and play politics, and succeed, although either calling when followed industriously will pay well.

Choose a trade or profession to your taste, and then bend your best energies toward success, and you must succeed, for under these conditions success is coming to you, and you will get it sure.

PILES Do not suffer another day with Itching, Bleeding, or Protruding Piles. No surgical operation required. Dr. Chase's Ointment will relieve you at once and as certainly cure you. 60c. a box; all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Limited, Toronto. Sample box free if you mention this paper and enclose 2c. stamp to pay postage.

MINARD'S LINIMENT CO. LIMITED.

GENTLEMEN—I have used MINARD'S LINIMENT on my vessel and in my family for years and for the every day ills and accidents of life I consider it has no equal.

I would not start on a voyage without it if it cost a dollar a bottle.

CAPT. F. R. DESJARDIN,
Schr. 'Storke,' St. Andre, Kamouraska.

During courtship a man easily makes a dollar look like thirty cents. After marriage he tries to make thirty cents look like a dollar. This is less easy.

A Word of Gratitude.

'In justice to humanity I want to tell you that I was a great sufferer from itching piles, and have found Dr. Chase's Ointment the best treatment obtainable' writes Mr. Fred Hinz, Brodhagen, Ont. 'It gives instant relief and I can recommend it to any sufferer from this dreadful disease.'

'Did you take the cold plunges your doctor ordered?'

'Yes. I didn't think I'd have the nerve, but I managed it.'

'How?'

'Bought myself a canoe.'

Nothing Like It for Colds.

Mrs. Holland Ferguson, Sheffield, N. B. writes: 'Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine has cured my children and myself of severe colds. We are never without it in the house. There is nothing like it for colds and throat trouble, and it is so soothing and pleasant to take my children would drink a whole bottle if they were permitted.'

'Do you have as much trouble finding your cuff and collar buttons as you used to?'

'No; I always find 'em in one place now!'

'Indeed!'

'Yes; I go to the vacuum cleaner.'

SUFFERED EVERYTHING

For Years, Restored To Health by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Canadian women are continually writing us such letters as the two following, which are heartfelt expressions of gratitude for restored health:

Glanford Station, Ont.—"I have taken Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and never found any medicine to compare with it. I had ulcers and falling of womb and doctors did me no good. I suffered dreadfully for years until I began taking your medicine. I also recommend it for nervousness and indigestion." — Mrs. HENRY CLARK, Glanford Station, Ont.

Chesterville, Ont. — "I heard your medicines highly praised, and a year ago I began taking them for failing of womb and ovarian trouble.

"My left side pained me all the time and just before my periods which were irregular and painful it would be worse. To sit down caused me pain and suffering and I would be so nervous sometimes that I could not bear to see any one or hear any one speak. Little specks would float before my eyes and I was always constipated.

"I cannot say too much for Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and Liver Pills, for there are no medicines like them. I have taken them and I recommend them to all women. You may publish this testimonial." — Mrs. STEPHEN J. MARTIN, Chesterville, Ontario, Canada.

Crowds and Business.

Having a soul in business pays, not because it affords a fine motive power; but because it affords a practical and conclusive method of driving the devil out of business.

The value of a piece of land is the number of footsteps passing by it in twenty-four hours. The value of a railroad is the number of people near it who cannot keep still.

If two great shops could stand side by side on the main street of the world and all the vices could be put in the show window of one of them and all the virtues in the show window of the other, and all the people could go by all day and see the winnowful of virtues as they were and the windowful of vices as they were, all the world would be good in the morning.

A man's success in business to day turns upon his power of getting people to believe he has something that they want.

It is superficial for a comfortable man with a bun in his pocket to talk to a starving man about having some higher motive than getting something to eat.

The problem of modern industry is to be not the distribution of money supply but the distribution of man's supply. Money follows men. Free men. Free money.

When we admit that business success to day turns or is beginning to turn on a man's power of getting work out of people, his business efficiency turns on his power of supplying his people with ideals.

The way to lift one's employer off one's back is to make one's back so efficient that he cannot afford to be on it.

It is because when people do right they do it in a kind of general, pleasing, abstract way, and when they do wrong they always do something in particular that they are so wicked. —Extracts from Gerald S. Lee's book 'Crowds.'

Useless Extravagance.

A patched shoe, a course jacket, a cheap garment that you can afford, are admirable. Costly clothing for which you are in debt to the merchant, the dressmaker and the tailor is a badge of shame in the character. The boy or man, girl or woman, who lives beyond his or her income, and is always dragging a chain of debt, is pitiably weak. Vanity is a small and weak sort of fault, not worthy of a sensible person, but decent self-respect is a thing to cultivate. Meanwhile, there is no harm in a bright ribbon, nor a pretty gown or a becoming tie, but we need not emulate our ancestors, who were always snubbing their juniors lest they become self conceited.

Little Bertha was invited out to dinner, with her father and mother; before she went, however, it was firmly impressed upon her mind that she must not speak unless spoken to. All went smoothly for a while, but when some time had elapsed, and no notice was taken of her, she began to get uneasy.

Finally, the hostess, seeing something was wrong, asked her what she would like next.

'I should like to have you begin to ask me questions,' was the polite reply.

Love.

Love is the greatest word in any language—because it means more than any other word. It is elemental. It is something felt though undefined—something known though unseen.

Love is always adjourneving.

Love is Cumulative.

The greatest argument ever presented for belief in God is the one written briefly that 'God is Love.'

Love is Cumulative.

Love a man and he at once becomes your Friend and would likely lay down his life for you; Love a worthy Cause and at once the Cause becomes your life and you would sacrifice your fondest dreams in its favor; Love your Work and the sordid in life disappears and is gone as the dew disappears under the heat of the early Sun.

Love is Unselfish.

If there is Love left somewhere, then Hope is there and no matter what the disaster, the vital germs of Joy and Success remain. If someone still Loves you or you still Love someone, hopelessness for you must die. For the light of Love is the light of Life, because—

Love is Life.

Love your friends, Love your lot in life, Love Nature, Love everything that is, for back of everything that is, is a divine Purpose—itself reflecting Love.

Love is all!

A Night of Terror.

Few nights are more terrible than that of a mother looking on her child choking and gasping for breath during an attack of croup, and nothing in the house to relieve it. Many mothers have passed nights of terror in this situation. A little forethought will enable you to avoid all this. Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is a certain cure for croup and has never been known to fail. Keep it on hand. For sale by all dealers.

The hurricane, that swept Lakes Superior, Erie and Huron on the 9th and 10th, was the cause of the loss of at least 67 lives, and property was destroyed that will run up into the millions. By the loss of a big freight steamer that went down in Lake Huron scores of lives were sacrificed and the bodies have been washed ashore at different places. Tales of hardships on the Lakes are told on every side. In Ohio the gale raged with terrific force and in Cleveland 21 inches of snow fell. Many lives were lost and the destruction of property is very great.

Digestibility of Meat.

Meat is an excellent food from the standpoint of digestibility. The method of cooking has much to do with the digestibility of meat. Theoretically raw meat is more digestible than cooked, but cooking tends to develope the flavor and make it more palatable.

There is a difference in the digestibility of different meats. Pork is considered less digestible than beef because of the great amount of fat it contains and the way it is closely mixed with the lean. The fat in bacon is in a more granular form which makes this part of pork more easily digested. Mutton and lamb are more easily digested than veal in which the muscle fibres are long and soft and easily escape mastication. Veal also is lacking in the extractives which give flavor.
