This is to certify that fourteen years ago I got the cords of my left wrist nearly severed, and was for about nine months that I had nd use of my hand, and tried other liniments, also doctors and was reeciving no benefit. By a persuasion from a friend I got MINARD'S LINIMENT and used one bottle which completely cured me, and have been using MINARD'S LINIMENT in my family ever since and find it the same as when I first used it, and would never be without it. Scots and Descendants in America

The first volume of an unique work on the part performed by the Scotch and Scotch-Irish in developing the United States and Canada has just been issued We cannot do better than quote a few paragraphs from the Editor's preface:

"The early Scottish immigration to America began in the latter part of the seventeenth century and reached its climax about the middle of the eighteenth. The Scots came in ship loads from Scotland and the north of Ireland to New England, New Jersey and New York, but the majority to Pennsylvania, North and South Carolina Delaware and Georgia. From estimates of the white population of the colonies in 1775, it appears that the early settler from Scotland, directly or indirectly, outnumbered any other nationality.

"Many of these rose to positions of of trust and responsibility. They served as colonial governors, generals and as chief justices, ministers, educators, physician, scientists, inventors, ets., and as leadng members of the Constitutional Convention helped to frame and signed the Declaration of Independence.

"Canada, like the United States, is greatly indebted to her early Scottish settlers and present-day Scots. They have been among her foremost citizens, and were the pioneers and explorers of the great North-West, and today hold one-half of the important posts of the Dominion.

The book is, of course, of special interest to Scotsmen and men of Scottish descent, but its interest and value are not limited to any particular nationality. It is a record of achievement and progress bassed upon personal character and worth, which is fitted to stimulate the youth of our land to noble endeavor.

THE PROVINCIAL EXHIBITION

Bigger, Brighter, Better and Busier Than Ever.

The Provincial Exhibition opens in Halifax September 12th, and will continue until September 20th. Manager Hall is bending effort to make it a Maritime Show that will be worthy of the Maritime Provinces it will represent

There promises to be a swing and gladsome frolic and novelty to the Midway this year, that will leave all previous shows far in the rear. Absolutely no get-rich-quick schemes will be tolerated.

Live stock enthusiasts are going to have the liveliest competition ever furnished by the big show. The management has increased the prize list in this department a cool twenty per cent. It will be one of the biggest features of the show.

And the racing, too, promises to be the most exciting yet. Astonishing reports are coming in of the times being made in training and the indications are that it will be a gala burst of speed from start to finish

Bigger, better, brighter and busier than ever is the promise of the Big Show of 1917.

Watch for Zebra Caterpillar

A yellow and black striped naked caterpillar appeared last year, attacking turnips and other garden crops. This insect is known as the "Zebra caterpillar." The first brood are now beginning to appear and in some cases may become numerous enough to do much harm. Dusting with Paris green or arsenate of lime will destroy them.

British Troops Parade New York

New York, July 16.—For the first time in more than a century, armed troops of the British Empire, under their own regimental colors, paraded to-day in New York city. The parade which was for the purpose of stimulating recruiting of British subjects for the British army, consisted of a detail of eleven officers and one hundred and fifty men of the 48th regiment of Canadian Highlanders.

A strong strain of religious devotion verging on religious mysticism, is one of the outstanding characteristics of Dr. Michaelis, acording to those acquainted with him. The new Chancellor believes in the direct guidance and inspiration of the Deity in daily affairs and endeavors to base his actions and policy upon his interpretations of the Divine will.

Weed Out the Male Birds

(Experimental Farms Note)

The worker bees put their house in order by killing off all the male bees as soon as their services are no longer required. What a great benefit it would be to the poultry producer and the poultry product consumer if the hens of the flock would likewise dispose of the male birds in those flocks that are indifferently managed. The worker bee permits no star boarder to loaf around and consume the product of her labour. The hen is not like the bee in asserting her rights If she were, then her verdict would be, "Rooster. you must die."

There are over two million five hundred thousand roosters of the various breeds of chickens kept for breeding purposes by the people of our country. Of this vast army perhaps one hundred and fifty thousand have a right to live for another year of service. One hundred and fifty thousand may be good enough as individuals and in breeding to be used in the increase of their kind. What of the two million three hundred and and fifty thousand that are usually permitted to live,birds that consume feed, worry the hens and reduce the quality of market eggs?

The function of the rooster is to develope and distribute germ cells. during a short period of three months, February. March and April. These germ cells should be distributed only to such egglaying individuals as are desired to perpetuate the breed The germ cell is a living organism capable of starting a chain of development and here is wher the mischief lies if they are distributed where they do not serve their proper function in race perpetuation.

The function of the modern hen is to produce eggs, ten per cent of which may be desired for the increase of the breed and the remaining ninety per cent for human food. Nine eggs are used for human food where but one is used for hatching. Only one-tenth of the eggs that a hen lays require fertilization. Why fertilize the nine-tenths of the product that is used for human food? The addition of a living germ cell to an egg that is produced for human food does not add anything to its value and may set up a chain of embryo development that will make the egg quite unfit for human food.

Eggs gathered from flocks where the roosters are permitted to run after the hatching season is over, are not desirable for storage. They are not desirable in the pantry during periods of warm weather at high temperatures will start incubation. Eggs in the first stage of decay are not desirable for human food.

It is an easy matter to prevent the fertilization of eggs. If the male bird is just an ordinary one an axe and a block of wood will prevent further mischief. If the male bird is possessed of such merit as would warrant his being boarded for a year to be used in the next season's breeding operations, then give him an enclosure of his own see that he stays in it.

The cost of the feed consumed by an ordanary rooster is about twenty cents per month. Can you afford it? If you keep poultry with profit as your object, can you afford to keep a star boarder for nine months and perhaps have him doing mischief all the time.

The two million three hundred and fifty thousand odd, unnecessary male birds are costing the country about three and a half million dollars per year while enjoying life. These unnecessary birds are at the same time doing about ten million dollars damage to the egg-producing business. If every person owning a rooster would manage him as a male bird should be managed the poultry industry would be benefitted by additional profits many million of dollars.

WHAT CATARRH IS

It has been said that every third person has catarrh in some form.

Science has shown that nasal catarrh often indicates a general weakness of the body; and local treatments in the form of snuffs and vapors do little, if any good.

To correct catarrh you should treat its cause by enriching your blood with the oil-food in Scott's Emulsion which is a medicinal food and a building-tonic, free from any harmful drugs. Try it.

IN MEMORIAM

(To a Soldier Buried in France)

He sleeps beyond the silvery channel wide
Far, far away from friends and native land;
Between us roll the surging, foam-fleecked tide,
Which ebbs and flows away neath Nature's hand.
Across the sun-kissed ocean's bounding wave;
Sweet songsters there may treble, who can tell?
Around the fallen soldier's silent grave,
That resting place of one we loved so well.
Ah! friend may welcome heroes back again,
And revel in reunions blessed sweet:
But broken hearts are aching sore with pain
And life can ne'er again be all complete.
For him our fond ambitions all are crushed,
Our tender dreams forever all laid by;
His precious name we speak with voices hushed:
So young he was—so beautiful to die!
We watch with envy birds that flutter past,
O'er land and sea to where our darling lies
'Mong comrades who have fought unto the last,
Who've yielded up the grandest sacrifice;
And oft we've wondered if the grass grows green
Where he is laid apart from war's turmoil,
For God, who all our depth of woe has seen,
Keeps vigil o'er that hallowed blood-stained soil;
They tell us now that time will heal the sore,
That life's enchantment soon will soothe our care;
That trouble cannot last for evermore
And thro the rain the sun will filter fair,
But ah! the storm cloud shows its darkest line
When life without him seems so hard to bear;
And tho the timid sun-rays softly shine
They sympathize, but do not comfort give.
But soon the Dawn—the wondrous Dawn shall break,
When worldly pomp and earth's imperious pride
Shall fade away, and we, united take
Our places there, across the Great Divide.
