LOVE BEATS MONEY

Louisiana Girl Renounces a Fortune for Her Fiancee.

Cottontown, La., Sept. 11. — Renouncing a handsome fortune and the possession of one of the finest estates in Plaquemines Parish, Miss Florence Elston, a lovely belle, has disregarded the provisions of the will of her grandmother, and married the man of her choice. And the wedding was performed aboard a tugboat in the Gulf of Mexico, this being the idea of the beautiful bride, who desired to get as far away as possible from her former surroundings, where everything would tend to remind her of the sordid tastes of the world.

The groom is Eugene Durabb, a member of a well-known family of Plaquemines Parish. Against him the grandmother of Miss Elston entertained a dislike, not because of any lack of social standing or mental attainments, but simply for the reason that the grandmother had selected someone else to claim the heart and hand of fair Miss Florence.

Mr. Durabb and Miss Elston have been lovers since childhood, when they formed an attachment, and pledged, each the other, that they would marry. The bond grew stronger as the youth developed into manhood and the maid into womanhood. Nothing could divert them.

The grandmother was well aware of the plighted troth, and in her will, made shortly before her death, which occurred several months ago, there was a provision that Miss Elston should become the sole heir only on the condition that she should not marry Eugene Durabb. Otherwise Miss Elston was to be cut off without a penny. The estate involved in the will embraces one of the finest orange groves in the south, together with other real estate and a comfortable bank account.

When Miss Elston was made acquainted with the contents of the will she did not hesitate one moment in declaring the course the would pursue, and, after the period of grief had passed, she gave her consent to Mr. Durabb for an early ceremony.

To get well away from all surroundings that would remind her of a lost orange orchard, the bride-elect was seized with a fancy to have the ceremony performed at sea. With the consent of her fiance, she accepted the offer of the bar pilots to use their steam pilot boat, the Underwriter, and on last Saturday afternoon, just as the sun was dipping into the horizon, the merry party, without a thought of the fortune, that was soon to be sacrificed, boarded the trim little vessel and put down the Mississippi River. Leaving the course of the Father of Waters, which plows directly by the bride's home, the tug Underwriter steamed well out to sea and hove to within the three-league limit, the destination being reached shortly after 7 o'clock.

And there, with a gale serving as musical accompaniment, and a heavy sea dashing snow-white spray over the bride in place of forfeited orange blossoms, the girl who was true to her first love was united for life to the man of her choice.

The beautiful instrument, which is one of the attractions at the Exhibition, was designed by Jones, of New York, one of the most famous designers of the present age.

A duplicate of it was exhibited at Toronto and attracted the admiration of the most discriminating connoisseurs, and was pronounced by them as being truly a work of art. It is built on Sheraton lines and finished in richly-figured mahogany (from the gold coast of Africa), and inlaid in beautiful patterns with satinwood.

HEARST'S PARTY TO GO IT ALONE

Decides Not to Fuse With State Democrats.

INDEPENDENT OF THE BOSSES

Comes Out for Public Ownership fo Utilities—Vitriolic Attack on Attorney Jerome.

New York, Sept. 11.—The first two sessions of the Independence League, headed by William Randolph Hearst, were held in this city today, the first being called to order in Carnegie Hall at 1 o'clock in the afternoon and the second at 9 o'clock tonight.

Temporary and permanent organizations were perfected, and amid much enthusiasm tonight a lengthy platform setting forth the principles of the league was adopted.

The convention declared positively tonight in favor of the nomination of a full state ticket, and instructed the committee on resolutions to draft a suitable reply to W. J. Connors and other delegates to the Democratic state convention at Buffalo, Sept. 25, who presented a memorial, asking the Independence League to defer nominating a state ticket until a conference could be had with the Democrats.

A feature of the night session was a demonstration following the mention of Mr. Hearst's name, lasting half an hour. Mr. Hearst did not attend either of today's sessions. There was much disorder in the convention tonight, when a motion to adjourn until tomorrow night, was made after the routine business had been concluded.

Many of the delegates did not want to adjourn, and protested, half a hundred or more clamoring for recognition, while just as many cried for adjournment.

The motion was finally gotten before the convention at 11 p.m. and was carried with cheers.

The committee on resolutions and platform reported through Clarence J. Shearn, its chairman. The platform sets forth the fundamental idea of the league as independent of "boss" rule, or corporation control, and of any party subject to these.

It declares for "a free vote and an honest count," and demands "a revision of the present dishonest and complex election law, a simplified ballot and law providing for a recount in cases of fraud or mistakes, in terms so plain and mandatory that they can be neither disregarded nor circumvented in the courts"; demands also that the attorney-general be stripped of his present control over proceedings to test title to public office.

The recent life insurance scandals are referred to at some length. Governor Higgins is denounced for failure to reorganize the state insurance department and a new election of the insurance companies is favored in case the present officials in the coming election maintain control through connivance of the insurance department
