MURDER IN BOSTON.

FRED NELSON, A SAILOR, KILLS LENA JOHNSON.

He Was Just in Port From a Voyage and a Fellow-Sailor's Attention to The Woman Made Him Jealous—He Stabs Her With a Sheath Knife—Now Under Arrest.

Fred Nelson is locked up in station 1 on the charge of murdering Lena Johnson.

Fred was a seaman on the schooner A. C. Bean of Portland, which arrived here a few days ago. He secured board in the home of J. J. Johnson, in the rear of No. 30 Fleet street.

Soon after being paid off he made the acquaintance of and fell desperately in love with a girl known in the town by the name of Lena Johnson. He lavished his money on her, and became desperately jealous of any one whom she recognized.

He had for a shipmate Frank C. Hooper, who happened to meet him in company with Lena, and Fred introduced them. Hooper is a handsome man, the beau ideal of an American seaman of the old school, and Lena became infatuated with him.

Nelson's jealousy was aroused at their friendliness and forbade her associating with him.

Last evening Hooper showed up and invited Lena to accompany him to the Boston Theatre. She accepted the invitation, and when Nelson heard of it he threatened to kill her if she went. She laughed at him, and accompanied Hooper to the play.

When they returned, Nelson was in wait for them, and as they turned the corner of the court leading to her home, he stepped out and commenced abusing her for disobeying his commands.

The woman was quite proficient in repartee, and the result of the word quarrel was that Nelson drew an old-fashioned sheath-knife from his pocket and plunged it into the left side of the woman who had incurred his enmity. As soon as she was stabbed, she dropped to the sidewalk and commenced screaming.

Her assailant started up the street on the run, pursued by Hooper and several citizens who witnessed the assault. Before he started he threw away the weapon with which he had assaulted her.

He outstripped his pursuers and gained the shelter of station 1, where he burst in upon Lieut. Hanley and told his story, supplementing it with a desire to be locked up quickly to avoid the fury of the parties pursuing him. His wild manner led the lieutenant at first to doubt his story, thinking that the man was laboring under the effects of too much alcoholic stimulants; and after locking the fellow up, he sent Sergt. Howe out to investigate.

The sergeant, upon his arrival at the scene, found Patrolmen O'Brien, Jones and Wise there. They had secured the weapon with which the crime was committed, and had made the injured woman as comfortable as possible. The ambulance was summoned, and the injured woman taken to station 1, Drs. Elliot and Dunn being summoned to attend her. She was rapidly sinking from loss of blood, and despite the utmost efforts of the physicians, she gradually sank, and at midnight expired.

Nelson, the murderer, is a Swede, 28 years of age, and has been sailing for some time from American ports. He is given a good character by his employers, and the crime which he committed last night was inspired by jealousy.

At the time of his arrest he was perfectly sober. He does not appear to recognize the enormity of the crime he has committed, and was very cheerful as far as that is concerned. He displays a bitter hatred against Hooper, and the latter named personage being brought into the station before Nelson was consigned to a cell, he jumped on him, bearing him to the floor, and was rapidly choking the life out of him before the officer could remove him. But for the prompt work of Patrolmen Phelan and Kerr, Nelson would be credited with a double murder.

An examination of the girl's wound showed that the knife had penetrated some two inches into her left lung. On her person when she was brought into the station were found a half-pint of whiskey $5.10 in money, an unusual amount of funds to be found on a girl of her class residing in that neighborhood.

Medical Examiner Harris was notified, and the remains of the unfortunate girl were removed to the North Grove street morgue.

The murdered girl has a romantic history. The name under which she is known is one that she adopted after her downfall. Some eight years ago she left her home on an Island in the Kennebec river to accept a situation as domestic in a family in this city. She was a bright vivacious girl, fond of company and excitement, and, at a party at the South end soon after her arrival here, formed the acquaintance of a young man, who, under the promise of marriage, accomplished her ruin. She gradually sunk in the social rank after her betrayal, and drifted step by step into sailor town.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., May 18.—Estella Morris aged 16 years was arrested yesterday for poisoning her family and an old man named Beckley who boarded with them. Beckley had been paying attention to the girl, but she despised him and decided to get rid of him by putting poison in some food to be served to him. The whole family however ate of the food and were all taken violently ill but excepting two boys, are now out of danger. The girl says she did not intend to poison her family.

ATTEMPTED MURDER.

A YOUNG WIFE TRIES TO KILL HER HUSBAND.

She Wounds Him with an Axe—The New License Law—Recovered Damages—Political—Rail Cars Seizure.

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)

QUEBEC, May 18.—A report comes from St. George de la Beauce that a young woman there made a determined attempt to kill her husband. She tried to get him to go down a well pretending she had dropped something, when he refused she attacked him with an axe. She was disarmed after having wounded him.

The New License Law.

WINNIPEG, May 18.—The new license law, which has just come into force, is being strictly observed. The bars now close at 11, which is half an hour earlier than under the old law, and on Saturday at 8.30, two hours earlier.

Recovered Damages.

ORANGEVILLE, May 18.—Mrs. Hollinger was struck by a yard engine on the C. P. R'y here July last and the doctor found it necessary to amputate four of her toes. On Saturday at the assizes she recovered a verdict of $800 against the company.

Political.

WINNIPEG, May 18.—J. N. Kirchoffer has been unanimously chosen by the Conservatives of South Brandon for the general elections. The name of Mr. Cliffe of the Brandon Mail is mentioned as a probable opponent of Attorney General Sifton.

Rail Cars Seizure.

QUEBEC, May 18.—Twenty cars, which have been built by the Iron Car Company of New York, for a local railway, were seized at Levis by the creditors of the builders, who are now bankrupt. They will be sold on the 26th inst. in the shops of Carrier, Laine & Co.

Boston Lumber Market.

[Herald 16th.]

There is a better movement in spruce lumber, especially in car lumber. The market on car spruce is firm at: Mill randoms, $13,50@14; yard orders, $14@14.50; dimensions $15@17.

At the eastern mills the position on spruce is very dubious. There is a lack of water. The snow is about gone. There has been very little rain, and the streams are so low that the drives are "hung up" on many of the smaller streams with very little prospect that the logs will be got down to the mills this spring. Of course a very heavy rain would start the logs, but the old lumbermen say that it it is rarely that the logs ever get down if not carried down by the snow water. If the logs are stranded this year, the situation on spruce is bound to be very firm. The old logs were thoroughly used up last year.

On cargo spruce the quotations are firm at: Random cargoes, $13@13.50; ordered cargoes, $13.50@14; dimensions, $14@15; frames, $14@16.50.

Boards are firm, especially hemlock boards. The quotations are: Dry rough spruce, $12@13; planed, $13@14; hemlock boards, $13@14.

The position of hemlock lumber is very firm indeed. The fires in the New York and Pennsylvania hemlock lumber region have destroyed a vast amount of lumber, as well as mills and unsawn logs. In a single section some 2,000,000 feet have been destroyed, considerable of which was expected to come on to this market. The season has been unusually good for getting logs down to the mills in the hemlock regions mentioned, but now the fire has destroyed the logs and the mills to the extent that the cut of lumber must be very small. The quotations on hemlock lumber here are at; Dimension, $13,50 @14; frames $15,@16. Pennsylvania hemlock is quoted at $13@14.

Shingles are actually a little scarce, and the market is very firm. The very low water is preventing the shingle stock from getting down, and some of the mills are stopped. The quotations are very firm at: Extra sawn cedar, $3,50; clear. $3; second clear, $2@ 2.50; extra No. 1, $1.75@2; No. 1. $1.25@1.50.

Clapboards are very firm, with the offerings being taken readily: Eastern spruce, extra, $34@36; clear, 32@34; second clear, $26@27; No. 1. $26@22; pine sap, extra, $48; sap clear, $45; heart extra, $50@55; heart clear $45@50.

Laths continue in small supply, with the market firm. Car laths, $2.25@2.30; cargo, $2@2.10.

Death of the Secretary of the Board of Health.

The somewhat sudden death of Mr. R. W. Thorne, secretary of the Board of Health, which occurred on Saturday, was heard of with deep regret by his many friends. Mr. Thorne was 80 years of age, but up to within a week of the time of his death he continued quite active for a man of his advanced age. He leaves a widow and eight children who feel their loss keenly. Mrs. Thorne was a daughter of H. Hennigar of the Royal Engineers Department, and the children are R. W. Thorne, Stephen S. Thorne and J. Lefferet Thorne of Thorne Bros., and Mrs. W. F. Fleming of Boston; Mrs. F. W. Snyder, Mrs. E. T. C. Knowles, Mrs. Robert C. Thorne and Mrs. J. S. Marnie of Moncton.

THE GRAVE ROBBERS

HAVE LEFT NO CLUE TO GUIDE THE DETECTIVES.

The Late Mr. Purcell's Body Towed Across the River—The Desecrated Grave Visited—Indignant People—Important Arrest.

SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.

CORNWALL, May 18.—Although detectives have been working steadily on the case since Friday night, there is yet no clue to the miscreants who stole the body of the late P. Purcell.

It seems from the evidence collected that the coffin was unearthed, taken to the river side, there the cover was torn off and the body removed, but not taken into a boat in waiting. Instead of this it was tied with a rope to the stern of the boat and thus towed to the opposite bank of the river on the American side. Then the boat was set adrift. There is no doubt that the body was stolen in order to get the reward which, it is supposed will be offered for its recovery should the efforts of the detectives fail to locate it.

Yesterday hundreds of people visited the desecrated grave and the feeling of indignation and excitement throughout the community bodes no good for the thieves if they are caught.

LATER.

It is currently rumored that an important arrest in connection with the stealing of the body will be made this afternoon by detective Grose of Montreal who has charge of the case.

Two of his comrades who were in the boat with him narrowly escaped a similar fate. The body was recovered about half an hour after the accident. An inquest was held by Dr. Coulthard, coroner; the verdict of the jury was accidental drowning. The remains were forwarded to Halifax this morning by the 11 o'clock train, the I. S. corps attending the funeral to the train headed by their band playing the Dead March.
