CONMEE IS ENTHUSIASTIC.

He Says Mining Will Have a Great Boom

IN NORTHWEST ONTARIO.

The Owner of the Sultana Will Soon Pull Out $1000 a Day.

Many New Developments Around Rat Portage—New Stamp Mills Being Erected—A Company That Will Buy the Output of the Smaller Mines—The Mines Already Show Good Returns—The Rainy River Railway.

Mr. James Conmee, M. L. A. for Algoma, has been in town for the past few days on mining business. At the Rossin House yesterday he gave The World his views as to the prospects of Northern Ontario as a field for gold mining enterprise. "There is no doubt," he said, "that there will be immense development up there thi season. Thousands of prospectors have come in from the American side, some by way of Tower and Mine Centre, some by Duluth and Port Arthur, and a great many Canadians from both Eastern and Western Canada have flocked into the gold fields, which stretch from the Lake of the Woods eastward. There is apparently no lack of capital to take up properties where sufficient development work has been done to prove their value. Not only is foreign capital coming in, but Canadian capital has also wakened up in to the fact that in Northwestern Ontario there is a most promising field for investment.

New Stamp Mills.

"One of the latest developments around Rat Portage is the taking up of the Dick & Banning water power at Keewatin by an Ottawa syndicate. They are erecting mills of forty stamps to treat the ore from their own properties and also to do customs work, and they expect to enlarge it before the season is out to one hundred stamps. They have contracted for the building of a large number of barges to tranship the ore from the mines to Keewatin. They have secured the services of an eminent specialist, and are prepared to buy ore from the miners at the pit's mouth. This will be a great help to small miners and will, no doubt, give a great impetus to mining in the Shoal Lake and Lake of the Woods districts.

Mines Show Good Returns.

"The mines working, so far, all show good returns where development work has been prudently done, and where such development has been sufficient to test the property. Reports from the Sultana, Regina, Mascotte, Foley, Saw Bill, Hawk Bay, Ferguson, Olive, Yum Yum and Cornucopia are all favorable, and better results are being got as sinking proceeds. Latest news from the Sultana is most favorable. This mine is the king of them all. The workings are now at a depth of 380 feet, and the vein has widened to 60 feet, showing fine pay ore all through. The plucky owner, Mr. John T. Caldwell, has come into his reward. After years of hard work he is now the possessor of one of the richest mines on the American continent. He is putting in 20 more stamps, and when the new machinery is started up there is no doubt that he will realize a clear profit of over $1000 per day. I have every confidence in the northern country and have no doubt that in time it will prove to be probably the richest field for mining enterprise on the continent. The experience has been that where properties are well selected and the development work prudently done there are but few failures."

Rainy River Road

"What about the Rainy River Railway?"

"The Rainy River Railway will likely be built this summer and fall. A syndicate of Canadian capitalists have associated themselves with the enterprise, and work, I understand, will be commenced almost immediately. This will open up the country and help mining immensely, as supplies will be got in at small cost. It will, I understand, touch the Saw Bill and continue westward to Mine Centre and Rainy Lake. The Government are also helping road-making along. A gang of 130 men will start work in the next 10 days to put a road in from Bonheur to the Saw Bill. Other important roads will also be built."

Mr. Conmee stated that he had been called here to attend a meeting of the Toronto and Western Mines Development Company's shareholders, at which it was decided to take over the holdings of the Canada Mines Syndicate. The details have been completed and he was leaving in the afternoon to take the field management of this company. He has already started development camps at Saw Bill and will begin opening up at Shoal Lake, near the Mikado mine.

CANADA'S MINING BOOM.

How Mining Pays Big Dividends on Money Invested—Company Promotion in British Columbia.

The Revelstoke Herald says: It has been a common saying for years that mining is a "gamble," and that no man knows how a mine will turn out. In a degree this is true. But not wholly so. There was a time when certain surface indications were accepted as positive evidence of the value of the ore beneath them, and sales were made based upon such indications; but science has stepped in, and ore supposed to be worthless has assumed a new value. Consequently the old surface indications are not considered infallible guides by the prospector of this day, and are sometimes entirely ignored by the mining expert.

"Gold is where you find it," has become a modern prospector's axiom, and not without good reason, for valuable mines are now being worked which have been tramped over for months by supposedly well-posted mining men, and carefully turned down in the past by the experts.

When a man puts his money in a mine now, he not only knows he is buying a mine, but he knows just about how much ore is in sight and about what it is worth per ton. He therefore takes not so great a risk in reality as many merchants do who credit goods a thousand miles from their homes. When the returns from a paying mine are compared with the investment the risk becomes of no moment, and some mines are so productive that they pay dividends as regularly as, and much larger than, bank stock or any first-class security.

In any well-managed mine the risk is out of all proportion to the returns, for where it may cost $20,000 to open and develop a mine so that it pays expenses and finally dividends, the returns frequently run as high as $100,000 in a single year. There is no other legitimate business that pays such profits.

Mining Company Promotion.

News-Advertiser, Vancouver, B.C.

The absence of any notices of the incorporation of new mining companies in the current number of The British Columbia Gazette is a clear indication of the speculative character of the activity which has prevailed for many weeks past in the promotion of such companies. Of course the immediate cause for the incorporation of the scores of companies which has taken place for several months was the anticipation that the provisions of the new Companies' Act would raise the registration fees and in other ways make the incorporation of companies more difficult and costly. While this will be the case to some extent, the promoters of joint-stock mining companies find that the legislature has so framed the new act, in respect to some of the provisions of which it is in the interest of such companies to take advantage, that little has been gained by registration before the act became law. It is to be hoped that the new act will exercise a very salutary effect on the promotion of mining and other companies and put an end to the abuses which have become manifest.

They Know a Good Thing.

Kootenay Mail.

Mr. Warburton Pike, who got such a sweeping and monopolistic charter on Cassiar for the construction of a narrow gauge railway 70 miles in length, has transferred to Mr. Hirschel-Cohen, acting on behalf of the Transvaal Goldfields, Ltd., of London. A survey of the line is to be made at once, it is said, as the holders probably realize fully the great privilege given to them. This inquitous piece of legislation came up for discussion in the legislature towards its close and, though several important amendments were made, still there is enough left to throw Cassiar into the hands of a big corporation that will extract tribute from every man who goes in there.

SALE OF THE REGINA.

Alberni Claim Said to Have Been Sold for $60,000.

Nanaimo Free Press.

It was reported from Alberni last evening that all is well up there, business and mining operations being satisfactorily active. Mr. R. Wilkinson, who has just returned from Uclueletwit and Anderson Lake, reports that still more discoveries of ledges in the western copper belt around that district are being made and development is being started. On Mr. Pemberton's claim, in which the lead is 100 feet wide, and can be traced through five claims, a tunnel has been started and is going ahead most satisfactorily. Several other properties are also being opened up on the lake. Around Alberni there is some stir over the reported impending sale of the Regina for $60,000. The Westwood Bros.' claim near the Regina is also looking well, and, it is said, is one of the best-looking properties in the Alberni district. The claim covers a ledge of free gold and copper-impregnated quartz, which is quite 100 feet wide. Work is still progressing on the claim.

O'Farrell Knocked Down.

P. A. O'Farrell, the writer on mining matters, was knocked down by a stranger in Spokane recently. He claims that his assailant was an emissary of B. C. Kingsbury, who has a grudge against him.

THE THREE STAGES

Through Which a Prospect Must Pass Before It Becomes a Mine.

Rat Portage Miner.

On Saturday evening Mr. Bernard Macdonald of Butte, Mont., continued his journey east after spending two weeks in our gold fields. He went up to the Seine River country, and had an opportunity of seeing much that has been done by way of development. To a Miner reporter he freely expressed a favorable opinion. He had made a careful examination, and said he, as far as indications were concerned, believed this district was a rich one. It showed all the signs of a gold producing country. How rich it may be it would be impossible for him or anybody else to tell at the present time. It required development to a state of production from a number of mines, then capital would flow in without stint. English capital in particular would not take expert opinion. The ore bodies must all be blocked out, and it must be known what they are actually worth. The way to bring capital is results.

But, said our reporter, how are you going to get results without capital?

Mr. Macdonald said there were three stages through which a prospect must pass before it would become a mine.

First—The discovery and location by the prospector and his associates.

Second—The promoter, whose business it is to interest a sufficient amount of capital to organize.

Third—The development company, which must produce results.

Then capitalists would be ready to pay big prices, giving a handsome margin to all. Said Mr. Macdonald, the property and owner must deal liberally with the promoter and development company, because a mining location is valueless if never developed. It was the speculative men who risked their money in development, and would have to be allowed a wide margin. A mine with a large body of free-milling ore, which would turn out $10 per ton, would make a rich mine.

When asked as to booming the country, why, said he, make as much noise as you legitimately can. Where there is a lot of smoke there must be fire. The louder you talk the more attention will be paid to you.

Mr. Macdonald has had a wide practical experience in mining, in which he has made a lot of money. He also represents large capital, and will return during the present summer to take a hand in developing the country.

White Bear Strike.

Rossland Miner.

The strike on the White Bear seems to be all right. The strike was not in the west drift, as first announced in The Miner, but in a crosscut which has been driven from the west drift.

It will be remembered that solid ore was first encountered in large masses on the 100-foot level of the White Bear. There appears to have been a break in the ledge at this point and the ore chute had been thrown out of its original position. A drift was started to the southwest and was run 70 feet along the south side of the ledge. Under the belief that the ore was on the north a crosscut was started from the end of the 70-foot drift and was run 30 feet when the ore was broken into. This occurred Wednesday night. The ore taken out was from the footwall and carries some copper. Another will open it up and show better what it is.

It is reasonable to suppose that the ore chute now encountered is connected with the ore body found in the shaft on the 100-foot level, and that it runs all the way from the crosscut back to the shaft. The plan of development is to crosscut the vein and then go back to the shaft and resume sinking until the 200-foot level is reached, when another drift will be run on the ore. The mine is just now in a most satisfactory condition

MINING AT RAT PORTAGE.

Ontario Government Appoints the Chief of the Bureau of Mines—Other Selections for the District.

Mr. Elisha Stewart, P.L.S., of Collingwood, has been appointed by the Ontario Government as chief of the Bureau of Mines Department, to be established at Rat Portage.

Prof. Coleman leaves on Monday for that thriving town to commence exploratory work for the Bureau of Mines. He will be accompanied by Prof. Willmott of McMaster University as assistant. Mr. Archibald Blue will also go out for a short time on work in connection with this department.

YOUNG MINER SHOT.

A Drunken Row on the Outskirts of Dubois, Pa., Ended Fatally.

Buffalo, May 28.—A special from Dubois, Pa., says, during a drunken row on the outskirts of the town, Wednesday evening, John O'Grady, a young miner, was killed by a shot in the region of the heart. His assailants placed him up on the railroad track, with the expectation that a passing train would destroy the evidence of crime. O'Grady revived sufficiently to roll off the track, and was found by a man who was passing. He refused to reveal the names of his assailants and died without giving any information on the subject. Some members of a band of gypsies, camped in the vicinity of the tragedy, heard four shots fired and soon after saw two men rushing through a patch of woods. One of the men appeared to be wounded, and was being dragged along by his companion.

GETTING READY FOR THE FRAY.

Liberals of East Victoria Selected a Candidate Yesterday.

Fenelon Falls, Ont., May 28.—The Reformers of East Victoria met in convention here this afternoon in Dickson's Hall. The attendance was very good and representative, all the municipalities in the riding being represented, except one or two of the more remote. The principal business was the selection of a candidate to contest the riding at the next provincial election. Several nominations were made and, on the names being balloted for, Mr. John Austin of Fenelon Falls, who is also a member of the lumbering firm of Craig & Austin of Kinmount, was chosen on the first ballot. Short addresses were delivered by the candidate, Mr. John A. Barron, Mr. R. J. McLaughlin of Lindsay, and Alex Smith, Toronto, Provincial Organizer, on the necessity of organization and the revision of the voters' lists. Resolutions of confidence in the leaders and policy of the Provincial and Dominion Governments were passed and the meeting closed with cheers for the Queen.

Mr. Austin is a native of the constituency, and has a business connection with a large portion of the electorate, extending over twenty-five years
