Consul-General at Canton Says There's a Falling Off of Over a Million.

Washington, Aug. 28. — In a review of trade operations in 1905 of the Canton consular district, Consul-General Julius G. Lay says that the imperial customs show a slight increase of foreign imports, while there was a pronounced decrease in foreign exports. Mr. Lay continues:

"The boycott of American goods as a protest against the alleged unjust treatment of Chinese in the United States was started here in July of 1905, and though the movement was denounced from the throne and forbidden by imperial edict and vice-regal proclamations, it has taken firm hold of this province, and nowhere have the effects been more pronounced than in and around Canton.

"I am of the opinion that the end is not yet in sight, and feel assured that the Cantonese, who contribute 95 per cent of the Chinese en route to America, will not be friendly disposed toward us, and be willing purchasers of our goods as long as the exclusion laws remain in force. Any broad and general deductions as to the figures of imports and exports have nothing to do with the question of national feeling. The import tables in the customs returns do not indicate any serious decline of American products, and are therefore somewhat misleading; for it must be understood that, though shipments to Canton of American goods do not fall far behind the quantities of previous years, unusually large stocks, especially of kerosene oil, are on hand.

"The effect of the boycott will probably be far more evident in the returns for the current year. The staple American imports into South China are kerosene and flour, and, to a minor degree, cotton goods. Since July 1, 1905, the local Standard Oil Company reports that its importations of oil were reduced over 50 per cent, or about 125,000 cases, for Canton alone. The total importation for all South China suffered a loss conservatively estimated at 500,000 cases, valued at $350,000 gold. This company is by far the most serious individual sufferer as a result of the boycott, the local organization's efforts being especially directed against that company.

"The American flour interests have never been as serious losers as reports current on the Pacific coast of America would indicate. This fact is proved by statistics furnished by the American flour concerns here. The importation of flour into Hong Kong for redistribution to Canton, Wuchow, and other West River ports for the last six months of 1904 was about 750,000 barrels, while the importation for the corresponding period of 1905 aggregated 550,000 barrels, thus showing a decrease of about 200,000 barrels, valued at approximately $830,000 gold.

"Cotton cloths have nearly held their own, 240,000 yards being imported from July to December, inclusive, during 1904, while 180,000 yards were imported for the corresponding period in 1905. These figures show a total loss, by reason of the boycott, for South China, of over $1,250,000 gold. In cotton goods, the most noticeable increases are in plain lastings, stripped flannel, velvets and Japanese towels.

"There was a very large importation of copper ingots for the mint, which was overstocked, and considerable quantities were re-exported toward the end of the year. Foreign raw cotton recovered considerably at the expense of the native article. In foodstuffs there was a marked increase in salt fish and a heavy decline in rice.

"The over-supply of paper, especially printing paper, accounts for the large decrease in importation this year. The trade, however, shows signs of improving. Railway materials represent but a small value this year in consequence of the difficulties that have arisen over the Hankow line. The value of machinery was about the same as last year, or $95,000 gold.

"There was a decrease of over $1,500,000 in the value of the foreign export trade of this port, principally on goods intended for European and American markets. An advance may be noticed under the heading of bristles, chinaware, firecrackers, and brown sugar, the last named item having recovered after two bad years. Cassia decreased slightly. Palm-leaf fans, the quality of which has deteriorated to such an extent that orders from abroad have dwindled enormously, show a further decrease of over 9,500,000 pieces.

"Tea calls for remark only by reason of the former importance of the trade. The once flourishing tea trade between Canton and America and Canton and London is now practically extinct. During the year not one pound was sent to America, and shipment to other countries only amounted to some 600,000 pounds, which is about one-tenth of the export figures for 1895, and these again only half of the export of ten years earlier. I am informed that the main cause of this marked decline is the steadily increasing demand for the leaf made in the form of pouchong for native consumption, i. e., green tea. An interesting item among exports to Hong Kong is native-made cigarettes, the manufacture of which received an impetus owing to the refusal of boycotters to purchase American cigarettes.

"The revenue of this port for the year 1905 exceeded $2,200,000 gold, which is some $36,000 ahead of the figures for 1904. The increase was due to imports and opium, export and coast trade duties having declined. The net value of foreign imports was $19,000,000 gold, an advance of more than $180,000 over the 1904 figures."

GUARD OUR COUNTRY AGAINST MILITARISM

Sir William Mulock Makes Stirring Plea for Peace.

Toronto, Aug. 28.—A strong address against militarism in Canada was given by Sir William Mulock this afternoon at the opening ceremonies of the Canadian National Exhibition in replying to the address of welcome of the board of directors.

Sir William spoke eloquently of the victories of peace in Canada. "The strength of the nation," he said, "lay in its peaceful and happy homes." There were no battleships or engines of destruction in Canada, for its people were building upon a better and surer foundation, the products of peace. He would ask the people of the country to guard public opinion that it would not lead their public men into the mistakes, which in other countries had resulted in the people staggering under the burden of debt incurred by ruinous warfare and militarism.

"This Canada of ours," exclaimed the speaker, "is the only country in the world worth living in that is not burdened with great military debts handed down to them by previous generations. Keep it on those lines. Watch carefully every tendency towards militarism, for we know that preparation for war leads to war. Remember that this is the last spot of refuge on God's green earth where men have not to pay tribute for the sins of their ancestors."
