SECOND EDITION.

THE SUGAR BILL.

WHAT A MEMBER OF PARLIAMENT SAYS ABOUT IT.

A Convention of Foreign Powers may Dictate to England where she shall Purchase Sugar.

BY TELEGRAPH TO THE GAZETTE.

NEW YORK, May 7.—A London special to the Herald signed "Member of Parliament" on the political and free trade problems in England says, "What is the sugar bounties bill doing in the land of Cobden and Bright?

Here is a measure placing restrictions on imports, on an article of food of the people, on an article, moreover, which enters largely into a new and growing manufacture. A few years ago very little confectionery was made in England. It nearly all came from France or Germany. Now in consequence of the cheapness of sugar we actually export some confectionery to France and make the bulk of the supply for the home market. Restrict imports of raw material for this industry and it must soon begin to languish. England may be called upon to shut out the sugar of the United States and of France, and by a majority of the Foreign powers entering into a convention, England being one, that is to say that the initiative will not rest even with England as to the countries from which she shall receive sugar. The convention is to settle that question for her.

What sort of an arrangement do you call this? Germany, Spain, Italy or Russia may say to England "you shall not receive any sugar from the United States or from France; because in those countries they pay bounties. You are welcome to buy from us because we will sell you dearer sugar than these bounty paying powers," and England is expected to say "yes" to this arrangement. Will she do so? I should say that it is not very likely. At first the people did not see through this precious bill; now they begin to understand that it will make sugar dearer, it will offend some of their best customers and probably give rise to retaliation, and smash up the confectionery trade and play the very mischief all around. There is a split in the conservative camp over it. Lord Hartington's followers declare they will not vote for it and a stiff breeze is springing up against it. Out of doors meetings are being called all over the country. There is to be another Hyde Park demonstration and altogether a very ugly prospect, indeed, is before the ministry.

What will they do? To go on with the bill would be to court defeat. They must probably struggle with it quietly out of the House and strangle it. It has no friends except its fond parents, who have lavished a world of misdirected care on their rickety offspring.

QUICK WORK.

The New Suspension Bridge at Niagara Falls Opened for Travel To-day.

BY TELEGRAPH TO THE GAZETTE.

NIAGARA FALLS, N. Y. May 7.—The New Suspension bridge, to replace the one carried away by the cyclone last winter was opened for travel this morning. The bridge which was commenced March 21, is 1260 feet long, 17 feet wide, and 197 feet above the water.

Railroad Suit Decided.

BY TELEGRAPH TO THE GAZETTE.

CONCORD, N. H. May 7.—In the suit of the Boston, Concord and Montreal vs the Boston and Maine, brought by the directors of the former to recover possession of their line leased through the Boston and Lowell road the following order was reached by the Supreme Court this morning:—

"Judgment for plaintiffs, writ of possession in 30 days unless otherwise ordered.' This is the decision of a majority of the court.

The Hopkin's University Opened.

BY TELEGRAPH TO THE GAZETTE.

BALTIMORE, Md., May 7.—The John S Hopkins Hospital was formally opened this morning. It is one of the finest and most complete institutes in the world embracing seventeen buildings which cover four acres of ground, and is surrounded by ten acres more of beautiful parkage. Its construction was begun more than 10 years ago and its total cost was $25,000,000.

It is a gift to this city by the late John S, Hopkins.

Banker Fish to be Released.

BY TELEGRAPH TO THE GAZETTE.

AUBURN, N. Y. May 7.—Jas. D. Fish ex-president of the defunct Marine Bank of New York will be released from the State Prison here on Saturday next in accordance with the commutation of his ten year sentence granted by the President Cleveland. It is generally believed he has no money but will go into the world again 76 years of age and penniless.

A Fitting end to Libby Prison.

BY TELEGRAPH TO THE GAZETTE.

MARYSVILLE, Ky., May 7.—A freight train on the Chesapeake and Ohio Road which was transferring the famous Libby Prison from Richmond to Chicago was wrecked seven miles east of here yesterday. The remains of the old prison were scattered about and people flocked to the scene all day to rescue the old bricks and lumber as momentoes. No one was hurt.

A Destructive Cyclone.

[BY TELEGRAPH TO THE GAZETTE.]

FARGO, Dak., May 7.—A cyclone yesterday did serious damage in the way of unroofing buildings and demoralizing telephone wires.

The Weather.

WASHINGTON, May 7.—Indications.—Warmer, fair, winds shifting to south westerly.

A FATAL FIRE.

A Dwelling House Burned and Five Persons Perish in the Flames.

BY TELEGRAPH TO THE GAZETTE.

WESTCHESTER, N. Y. May 7.—The dwelling of Watson Bownes was burned at 1.30 o'clock this morning and five persons perished in the flames. Bownes was awakened by a crackling of the flames which had then gained much headway that the house was almost a mass of fire.

He heard his mother who had her two grandchildren, one 5 and the other 3, in her bed, screaming for help at the time he was trying to get his wife out of the burning building. Mr. Bownes was badly burned about the feet and body and his wife about the neck and shoulders. Mrs. Bownes, the elder, and two grand-children were suffocated and perished in the flames. Kate Dunn, the servant girl, and her sister Annie who came to visit her last night also perished in the burning building. The house was burned to the ground. It is feared that Mrs. Bownes injuries will result fatally.

Theatrical.

The Wood St. John Dramatic Company made their bow to a large audience at the Institute last night in the popular play "David Garrick." Mr. Wood in the title role was an excellent impersonation and justly earned the applause bestowed upon him, and it was a real delight to see Miss St. John in the part of May Vanstone the daughter of Alderman Vanstone a director of the East India Company. This character is a comparatively quiet one but it gave Miss St. John opportunity to show at intervals her great powers as an actress. It was not alone in the speaking part that this lady's power was manifested but her work was as forceful and expressive in her acting when silently manifesting all the horror and agony she suffered in discovering that her idol was clay; as well as in her delight on learning that Garrick was only acting a part. She is undoubtedly a good actress and one of the best that has ever appeared here. She was called before the curtain at the close of the second act and was received with a burst of the heartiest applause. Mr Wood also received a similar compliment. It will be of special interest to the ladies to know that Miss St. John has a number of beautiful toilettes which she will wear during her engagement and which are the creation of the famous modiste Roderique, of Paris. The support last evening was quite satisfactory and the Poet's Acte music by Harrison's orchestra contained several delightful novelties.

To-night "As in a looking-glass" will be presented and in the character of Lena Rivard, Miss St. John is said to excel Mrs. Langtry who has made a specialty of the part. There is no doubt another large audience will be present to night.

None of the Bodies Found.

ST. ANDREWS, May 6.—All day yesterday and to-day crowds of men were engaged grappling for the bodies of the unfortunate men who were drowned on Saturday, but with little result. They found the location of the boat and succeeded in getting hold of her with the grappling hooks, but had not sufficient power to raise her to the surface. It is believed that when the boat is raised two of the bodies will be found in the cuddy, for the reason that, it is stated, when the boat left here two men were then below, and when seen from the shore at Holt's Point only four men were in view, and these facts, coupled with the finding of only four hats, would seem to show that two of the men may have been in the cuddy when the terrible accident occurred. Efforts have been made to secure the services of the cruiser Dream to assist to-day to search for the bodies and raise the boat.

A Railroad Deal.

ST. PAUL, Minn., May, 5.—Private advices from Montreal show that the rumor of an agreement between the Manitoba and Canadian Pacific railroads has strong foundation. Sir Donald A. Smith and Sir George Stephen, the Canadian Pacific railway's two biggest men, have become directors of the Manitoba, and it may be stated with authority that J. J. Hill either has or will at once become a director of the Canadian Pacific Railway. Another rumor apparently with good foundation is that the Burlington is "on the deal."

What Outlaw Morrison Looks Like.

[Montreal Star.]

Morrison was seen at the Sherbrooke gaol yesterday by Detective Arcand. He says: "Morrison looks very sick and delicate, though there is no apparent danger from his wound. He suffers little and complains little. I expected to find a robust and hardened looking fellow, but I found everything but a desperado. His eyes are sunken and have an unnatural expression. He seems to be reconciled to his situation, and to have his eyes opened as to his actions. There is still a hope in him that things will turn out well for him."

FOREST FIRES.

THEY ARE RAGING IN ALL DIRECTIONS.

Hundreds of Thousands of Railroad Ties, Thousands of Cords of Wood, Dozens of Buildings, and Some Outlying Stock Have Been Destroyed.

BY TELEGRAPH TO THE GAZETTE.

DULUTH, Minn. May 7.—The reports of the destruction by forest fires continue to come in. The fires are still raging in all directions but in many localities they have burned out. They have attacked the heavy pine woods in many places and the loss of timber will be immense. All the train men on the roads leading from every direction tell of the long lines of fire passed through. The greatest loss is in the destruction of railroad ties, telegraph poles o cords of wood, several hundred thousand and ties and thousands cord wood have been burned. So far the destruction of a dozen buildings is reported. From a score of small places come accounts of fighting fire to save the villages or mills Some stock has been destroyed in the out lying districts. Most of the destuction has been on the lines of the St. Paul, Duluth and the Northern Pacific Roads.

Religious Rioters

MANISTEE, Mich., May 6. All was quiet in Polish Church circles yesterday. The vigilance of the authorities overawed the disturbers. Twenty-five arrests had been made up to Saturday evening but all of the prisoners were liberated the same night. Almost every prisoner has had a lawsuit instituted for imaginary wrongs against the pastor, Rev. Father Grochowski, who will leave town for Chicago on Wednesday providing the law suits are cancelled. The priest's defenders do not want him to leave and say they will not accept any other pastor. The rioters are arming themselves and preparing for another outbreak unless the priest leaves town.

Prince Henry's Baby.

BERLIN, May 5. The imperial party arrived at Kiel at 8:30 A. M. today to attend the christening of Prince Henry's son. The route from the station to the palace was lined with guilds and various societies. The baby, which was held by the Emperor during the ceremony, was christened Waldemar Wilhelm Ludwig Friedrich Victor Heinrich.

Overpowered by Robbers.

BY TELEGRAPH TO THE GAZETTE.

LAKE CITY, Mich May 7.—Three unknown men who entered McGovern's hotel offered a ten dollar bill in payment for cigars. McGovern opened the safe for change, when the men overpowered him. They took $1,300 from the safe and escaped, leaving McGovern insensible.

THE GREAT EXHIBITION.

The Opening in Paris Yesterday.

PARIS, May 6.—At two this afternoon surrounded by his ministers and many distinguished guests, President Carnot stood under the great dome of the exposition building formally to declare it open. The presidential cortege arrived at the exposition grounds, escorted by a brilliant corps of Cuirassiers. At two the entire assembly under the dome arose to its feet. The spectacle was worth remembering. The surprise of the day was the presence of all the diplomatic representatives now in Paris. While their governments declined to permit them, officially, to assist in the opening of the exposition, personal good will and possibly private curiosity overcame the prohibition. All were un-officially present. All except the Japanese, who have adopted the European garb, were in the dress of their respective courts. There was only one foreign representative in austere black, Robert McLane, retiring minister of the United States. Trumpets sounded and the president entered the great hall, walked to a chair and stood while the assembly cheered and waved their hats. After the Marseillaise had been played by a picked orchestra and sung by a chorus of men's voices, Premier Tirard rose to deliver the opening speech. The speech made an excellent impression. At its close the audience cheered enthusiastically. He declared that the exhibition exceeded all expectations and proved that the French people still preserved all the qualities for which they had been noted. He extended a greeting to strangers now in Paris and said that Republican France would show itself hospitable and generous, treating them not as rivals, inspiring jealousy, but as fellow-workers laboring for the happiness of humanity.

President Carnot followed with his speech—safe, prudent and generous. He spoke magnanimously and justly of the foreign nations. He did not glorify France unduly, while he had words of praise for peace, science and the brotherhood of arts. It was several minutes before the president was permitted to take his seat. The musical programme was then proceeded with. President Carnot walked down the main aisle of the gallery of fine arts toward the centre, where he touched several electric buttons. In a moment the great engine of machinery palace was in motion. Three or four hundred thousand people outside and inside cheered. Every portion of the grounds of the universal exposition of 1889 was then open.

The exhibitors number 30,000. To-night Paris is ablaze with illuminations. No vehicles are permitted in the streets. The city is the people's.

THE COST OF IT.

Receipts and Expenditures in Connection With the Centennial Celebration.

What did the centennial celebration cost?

That is the question a Herald reporter asked Elbridge T. Gerry, of the centennial executive committee, and Clarence W. Bowen, the secretary and general man of affairs of all the committees

Both of these officials said they were unable to answer this conundrum just yet. "I couldn't give an approximate guess," said Mr. Bowen, "and would rather not try. We are just about taking measures to find out."

"We began as far back as a year ago to make appropriations to the committees, but the celebration has grown to so much greater proportions than we anticipated that the expenses will be very heavy."

Both Mr. Bowen and Mr. Gerry thought however, that when the books came to be balanced there would be no deficit.

The centennial committees have probably had the disbursing of about $400,000, counting in the receipts from stands, ball and banquet tickets and various privileges which they sold. The state and city appropriations amounted to $225,000, of which $125,000 was for the expenses of the New York National Guards' participation in the military parade and of which the committee did not have the handling. It is estimated that the appropriations by the various states for the care of their troops and other representatives, in addition to what the centennial committees expended in the entertainment of these visitors, was about $300,000. Then out side of the committee's expenditures there were the costs of preparing the elaborate floats which were so striking a feature of the German-American portion of the civic parade, the decorations of private houses, stores, offices and public buildings. Altogether it is certain that the money cost of the celebration was over $2,000,000.

Colonel Cruger said, in answer to a question, that he thought the disbursements of the army committee would be from $100,000 to $120,000. Their revenue as a partial offset, came from the sale of 28,000 seats for the two days' parades, at an average price of about $2 per seat.

The Danmark's Passengers.

NEW YORK, May 5.—The balance of the passengers of the ill-fated Thingvalla line steamer Danmark, were landed at Castle Garden to-day by the Hamburg steamer Wieland. The Wieland left Havre April 23 and made the Azores four days later. All the ship-wrecked passengers on the Wieland were men as all the women came over on the Missouri. Friends were in waiting, and before noon many were on the way to their homes in the West. On Saturday morning, Rasmas Andersen, 32 years old, died of apoplexy on board the Wieland. Anderson's wife lives at Gowen, Mich. She has been notified by telegraph.

A Subsidy Scheme.

NEW YORK, May 6. Congressman Farquhar of New York, intends to make a serious effort to get through the new congress his bill granting a subsidy of one hundred and thirty cents per ton to American vessels engaged in the foreign trade. He will modify his bill somewhat from the form it bore in the last congress the most important change being a gradation of the subsidy on a diminishing scale from the tenth year to the end of the twentieth.

NOT DEAD, BUT SLEEPING.

MANY CASES OF PERSONS THAT ARE BURIED ALIVE.

Dr. Tanner Talks About the Case of Wilhelmina Stahl, and Cites Many Instances of Suspended Animation—People in Constant Danger of Becoming Live "Corpses."

CHICAGO, Ill., May 5.—Dr. Tanner, the famous faster is in this city. He is interested in the question of suspended animation, and this led to a conversation with him in regard to the case of the young woman, Wilhelmina Stahl of Jefferson Park, whose body showed no signs of decomposition when buried yesterday, though, according to scientific tests; she had been dead 10 days.

Dr. Tanner said: "There is positively only one sure test of death, and that is decomposition, and an advanced stage of that. Any other test applied by a physician is absolutely useless and proves nothing. I see that the doctors who had been waiting on Miss Stahl cut the tibial artery to slow the relatives that circulation had stopped and to prove conclusively as they supposed the death of the patient. Well now, if that girl happened to be in a trance, as we say, suffering from suspended animation, why then, so soon as she revived, she would bleed to death in a few minutes, and the doctors who perpetrated the fiendish outrage would be virtually murderers. I take it that what I may say on this subject would have little weight because the enlightened public is aware of the utter unreliability of a doctor's decision that a person is dead. The cases of suspended animation in which the facts were discovered too late are entirely too numerous. They speak for themselves. Here this young woman in Jefferson has been apparently dead nine days' and still no sign of decomposition appears. What can this mean? But one thing, and that is from some cause decomposition has been kept off. Life is all that would do that outside of the use of embalming fluids, which have not been used in this case, so I am told. I have a case in mind where the body of a young man was buried in a vault, and in three years the body was removed and found to be not decomposed. The physician considered that fact strange, and laid the body on the dissecting table to study it. An incision was made with a scalpel, and instantly the man arose, being thoroughly resuscitated. He lived for years too.

"I had the pleasure last fall of interviewing a lady near Indianapolis, who came to life after 14 days of suspended animation. Her little brother clung to her against the will of the parents. Six doctors came in and made their usual tests, and at last it was considered foolish to keep the body any longer. But the boy threw himself on his sister, and said they should not put her under the ground. Mind you, six Indianapolis physicians had shaken their heads, and said she was dead. "No, no; Sadie is not dead,' cried the brother. Accidently, he pushed aside the bandage which held her jaw in place. It fell and the people in the room saw it. The brother saw it, too, and noticed that his sister's tongue slowly moving, 'See, see," he cried, 'She is alive! They all saw and were horrified.

"What do you want sister?" asked the boy.

"'Water, water,' came the answer from the woman supposed to be dead. They gave her water, and she revived, and is still living, having since married. I had a talk with her shortly after.

"I am making this subject my special study, and I tell you it horrifies me to learn all that is going on. It is impossible to tell what person is so constituted as to be liable to fall into a trance. Therefore friends ought not to rely on the word of physicians. It does no harm to wait a few days. As long as the body maintains a good appearance, it will hurt nothing to delay the burial. From the beginning of the year I kept account of the cases of suspended animation discovered and reported in the papers. They averaged one a week in the United States. That is why I think it should cause physicians to be very careful when they pronounce patients dead."

THE CAPTURE OF OKLAHOMA.

United States Marshals Again Accused of Illegal Action.

WASHINGTON, D. C. May 4.—Mr. George W. Cole of Chicago, who was in Oklahoma when the territory was thrown open to settlement, had a conference with Atty. Gen. Miller this afternoon in regard to the conduct of government officers on that occasion. According to his statement, Marshal Jones of Kansas and nearly all of his 700 deputies took illegal advantages of their official position to get possession of choice land. Mr. Cole said he was on the spot and was prepared to substantiate his charges against Marshal Jones and his deputies. He said, further, that Marshal Needles and his deputies of the Oklahoma district were alleged to be equally culpable in the matter, but as he was not personally cognizant of the facts so far as these officials were concerned, he did not care to be responsible for the charges against them. He had seen enough, however, during his stay of three days in the territory to convince him that certain persons had been given unfair advantages in securing claims, and he deemed it his duty to bring the matter to the attention of the proper authorities. He said he had talked with Secretary Noble in regard to the matter, and it was at his suggestion that he had called upon the attorney general. The latter thanked him for his information, and assured him that the matter would be thoroughly investigated. He said he had already heard enough to satisfy him that some crooked business had been perpetrated in Oklahoma, and he was determined that the offenders shall be brought to justice, if possible.

Inspector Frank D. Hobbs of the general land office, in a letter dated Guthrie, Oklahoma, April 28, says: "The crowds at the office door have been very great, but the most perfect order has prevailed throughout, and in my experience I have never seen a better class of settlers at the opening of a new land office."
