GINGER IN COOKERY.

"Yea, by the mass, and ginger shall be hot i' the mouth, too."—Falstaff.

Ginger goes into so many of the Christmas dainties—especially the old-fashioned dainties, that we feel it should have an article to itself. It is the root of a tropical plant. Preserved or crystallized, this plant is classed among the high-class sweets, but they are not included among these recipes as they will appear in the article on Christmas candies. These recipes deal with ground ginger:

Ginger Pudding.

2 tablespoons butter or oleomargarine.
2 tablespoons of sugar.
1 level teaspoon of grated preserved ginger.
2 tablespoons of cake or bread crumbs.
2 eggs.
½ teaspoon of salt.
1 cup of milk.
1 teaspoon of vanilla extract.

Mix the butter, eggs and salt together, stirring with a wooden spoon for five minutes. Then add the sugar, ginger, cake or bread crumbs, milk and the vanilla. Have six small butter pudding molds ready and fill three-quarters full. Set molds in a roasting pan, pour boiling water to half the depth of the molds and place in hot oven for thirty minutes. Remove and serve with sauce.

Ginger Sauce for Pudding.

½ cupful of sugar.
¼ cupful of molasses.
1 teaspoon of butter.
2 tablespoons of water.
2 tablespoons vinegar.
½ tablespoon of ginger.

Mix and boil together five minutes and serve hot with pudding. This is delicious.

Ginger Snaps.

One cupful of molasses; 1-4 teaspoon of pepper; 3-4 cupful of sugar; 1 teaspoon of salt; 2 teaspoons of ground ginger; 6 tablespoons of melted lard; 1 teaspoon of soda; 1-2 cupful of warm water; 4 cupfuls of pastry flour.

Dissolve the soda in the warm water. Mix together the sugar, lard, pepper, soda, molasses, ginger and salt. Then add the flour, using as much more as will be needed to roll the dough out, keeping it as soft as possible. Roll thin, cut with a cookie cutter and bake for about eight or 10 minutes in a quick oven on a baking sheet.

Ginger Gems.

One-half cup of molasses; 1-4 cup of brown sugar; 1-4 cup of butter, 1 1-2 cups of flour; 1 egg; 1 teaspoon of soda; 1 teaspoon of ginger; 1-2 teaspoon of cinnamon; 1-4 teaspoon of salt; 1-2 cup of boiling water.

Sift the dry ingredients together; add the molasses, water and the beaten egg and beat well. Pour into greased muffin rings and bake for 20 minutes in a moderate oven. If desired, these can be iced with a chocolate icing or a white frosting.

FRIENDS.

Off Devon coast, where grey waves ride,
Beneath a star-strewn sky;
Up hoary Severn's tide-bound tide
Deep laden ships go by.

From Milford, Landy, black-tanged Nore,
The steady lighthouse eyes
Beam like true friends along the shore
Where rock out spindrift flies.

The moon and stars, the clouds may hide,
But friendly eyes will be
To every man upon life's tide
Lights of eternity.

Pastor Elopes With Wife of Colleague

Flees in Automobile, Says Deserted Husband's Flock.

Marion, Ohio, Jan. 19.—It has been fully established that the Rev. W. W. Crabtree, deposed pastor of the Free Baptist Church at Green Camp, eloped last Monday with the wife of his friend and brother minister, the Rev. H. A. Rough, pastor of 20th Church, near Mount Gilead, Morrow county.

This announcement was made today in an official statement by the trustees of the Green Camp Baptist Church. Chas. G. Bitzler, one of the trustees acting as spokesman.

Charges looking to the unfrocking of the Rev. Mr. Crabtree will be pressed, it is said, at once.

Head Stuffed By Catarrh or Cold? Use Healing Cream

If your nostrils are clogged, your throat distressed, or your head is stuffed by nasty catarrh or a cold, apply a little pure, antiseptic, germ destroying cream into your nostrils. It penetrates through every air passage, soothing inflamed, swollen membranes and you get instant relief.

How good it feels. Your nostrils are open. Your head is clear. No more hawking, snuffing, dryness or struggling for breath. Get a small bottle of Ely's Cream Balm from any druggist. Colds and catarrh yield like magic. Don't stay stuffed up. Relief is sure.

WOMEN URGED TO ENROLL IN SOME PARTY

Most Influence Can be Exerted Through Means of Political Affiliations.

New York, Jan. 18.—Activity in political parties was urged upon women by Mrs. Warren G. Harding, wife of the President of the United States, in a letter sent to the Women's National Republican Club, to be read at a luncheon in honor of the club's first anniversary. Mrs. Harding wrote that she was sure that women would not permit it to be said that because they came into the full obligation of citizenship, their contribution served to lower the standard of civic responsibility. On the contrary, she urged, women must seek credit for attaching the nation more firmly to the fundamentals of sound policy, the verities of good government and the ideal of the greatest service to the greatest number.

Mrs. Harding said that the Republican Party had always stood for those things and it was for the women of the United States to make sure that their full participation in public affairs should not become responsible for any departure from the high purposes of the past, the maintenance of which required that they devote their utmost energies to organization, education and advancement.

Alice M. Robertson (R.), Representative from Oklahoma, attacked nonpartisan organizations, such as the League of Women Voters, and urged women to get out of them and into party work. John T. Adams, chairman of the National Republican Committee, also attacked nonpartisanship and urged women to enroll and work in some party, as did Mrs. Medill McCormick, formerly an active workers for woman suffrage, who said that the time had passed for a separate woman's organization, that no sex line should be drawn.

Mrs. McCormick, who is Republican, said that if the men would turn over to women the organization of the party education of the workers, and share the politics equally with them, they would do for the party what they did for the suffrage movement, which would give the men an opportunity and time to develop statesmanship and leadership, to the advantage of the country at large.

Marshal Petain Will Occupy High Position

Paris, Jan. 19.—The Cabinet has decided in principle, according to a semi-official announcement, that Marshal Petain shall occupy a high position, analogous to Major-General in certain armies, at the same time retaining his functions as Generalissimo. In this capacity he will assist the Minister of War.

M. Maginot, discussing his intentions on taking up the War Department, recalled that he had already dealt with military matters in the Chamber when he was Under Secretary to War Minister Etienne. At that time he defended the three years' military service; now, however, he considered 18 months sufficient to secure the safety of the country. Duration of service, he said, seemed to depend largely on the efficiency of the Franco-British pact, which the Government would have to examine.

With regard to the black troops, M. Maginot remarked that native contingents would form an appreciable contribution, as this would lighten the military cost imposed on the country.

Children Cry for Fletcher's

CASTORIA

Fletcher's Castoria is strictly a remedy for Infants and Children. Foods are specially prepared for babies. A baby's medicine is even more essential for Baby. Remedies primarily prepared for grown-ups are not interchangeable. It was the need of a remedy for the common ailments of Infants and Children that brought Castoria before the public after years of research, and no claim has been made for it that its use for over 30 years has not proven.

What is CASTORIA?

Castoria is a harmless substitute for Castor Oil, Paregoric, Drops and Soothing Syrups. It is pleasant. It contains neither Opium, Morphine nor other narcotic substance. Its age is its guarantee. For more than thirty years it has been in constant use for the relief of Constipation, Flatulency, Wind Colic and Diarrhoea; allaying Feverishness arising therefrom, and by regulating the Stomach and Bowels, aids the assimilation of Food; giving healthy and natural sleep. The Kidneys

The office man and the outdoor worker suffer alike from derangements of the kidneys.

Backaches and headaches are among the symptoms. In some cases Bright's disease soon develops; others suffer from high blood pressure until hardening of the arteries sets in.

In order to forestall painful and fatal diseases prompt action should be taken at the first sign of trouble.

Mr. A. D. MacKinnon, Kirkwood, Inverness county, N.S., writes:

"I can highly recommend Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills to all suffering from weak kidneys. I suffered from kidney disease for a long time. I may also say that for three years I was nearly always troubled with headaches, and no treatment seemed to do more than afford temporary relief. I was finally told of Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills, and after using a few boxes was completely relieved. I have also used Dr. Chase's Ointment with the best results, and never fail to recommend these wonderful remedies."

Outlaw All War, Demand of Women

State League Wants World Co-operation in Place of Old Alliances.

Albany, Jan. 16.—Resolutions outlawing war and calling for "world co-operation" in place of old treaties and alliances were adopted today in the final session of the annual convention of the New York State League of Women Voters here this afternoon.

The league went on record in favor of the plans recommended by the port authority for development of the Port of New York and urged their adoption by the Legislatures of New York and New Jersey. Another resolution declared that the high cost of living in the port district was due in large part to lack of facilities, such as are provided in the port authority plans. Home building in the outlying sections would be encouraged if such a plan were in operation, the resolution states.

The league thanked Gov. Miller for his recommendation for equal representation for women in political parties. It also indorsed the plan for a State-wide juvenile court, provision for which is now being made in a bill being prepared by the Children's State Code Commission.

The league authorized the drafting of letters to President Harding asking him to favor American participation in the conference at Genoa, "designed to bring some measure of economic order in the world."

Another letter to the President expressed appreciation for the gifts of $20,000,000 to famine stricken Russia.

Relations between Gov. Miller and the league were much discussed today by the women. Gov. Miller was asked if it were true that the league had withdrawn its invitation to him to attend the annual dinner after he had stated that he had not changed his mind since last year when he said that there was no reason for their organization. He declined to discuss the question but said that he would have no objection to the league giving out its correspondence with him.

Mrs. Frank A. Vanderlip, declined to give out the letters. She denied the invitation to Gov. Miller had been withdrawn.

"It's a good story, but it does not hold water," she said. "The relations between the Governor and the league are quite friendly. That was shown at the reception at the Executive Mansion when Gov. Miller received the women."

Mrs. Vanderlip was reelected president of the league. The other officers chosen are: First vice-president, Mrs. Gordon Norrie, New York; second vice-president, Mrs. Samuel Bens, Utica; third vice-president, Mrs. Frederick S. Greene, Port Washington, L. I.; fourth vice-president, Mrs. Melvin Porter, Buffalo; fifth vice-president, Mrs. Casper Whitney, Irvington; treasurer, Mrs. Charles Noel Edge, New York; corresponding secretary, Mrs. Jesse Lynch Williams, New York; recording secretary.

(Aids to Beauty)

Here is a home treatment for removing hairs that is quick, painless and inexpensive: With some powdered delatone and water make enough paste to thickly cover the objectionable hairs, apply and after 2 or 3 minutes rub off, wash the skin and it will be hair free, clean and smooth. But to avoid disappointment, be careful to get real delatone. Mix fresh as needed.

LAWS NEEDED FOR PROTECTION OF CHILDREN

Courts Said to be Hampered by Statutes That Are Obsolete.

New York, Jan. 19.—Much needed power to safeguard the rights and protect the interests of neglected or ill-treated children may be bestowed upon children's courts and courts of domestic relations under the recently passed amendment to the state Constitution, according to Franklin Chase Hoyt, presiding justice of the Children's Court of this city, who told a representative of The Christian Science Monitor that the laws under which the court was now obliged to work were obsolete and greatly hampered it in its operation.

At present a child brought into court no matter how young, is proceeded against for lack of proper guardianship or on other charges under a section of the criminal law. It should be just the other way, that the State would bring charges in behalf of the child, he explained. Also under the present statutes the court has no power to appoint guardians but can only parole the child or commit it to an institution; it should, he says, have power to appoint a guardian after thorough investigation. The passage of the amendment is very gratifying, Judge Hoyt said, because it opens the way to the establishment of modern standards of social justice for the children of the community.

"The Legislature, which was formerly prohibited by the Constitution from granting equity or chancery power, (and the care of wards of the State is a function of the court of chancery), may now establish children's courts and courts of domestic relations as separate courts, or as parts of existing courts hereafter to be created, and may confer upon them such jurisdiction as may be necessary for the correction, protection, guardianship and disposition of delinquent, neglected or dependent minors, and for punishment and correction of adults responsible for of contributing to such delinquency, neglect or dependency, and to compel the support of wife, child or poor relative by persons legally chargeable therewith who abandon or neglect to support any of them," said Judge Hoyt, quoting from the bill which he himself drew up.

"In conferring such jurisdiction the Legislature shall provide that whenever children are committed to an institution or are placed in the custody of any person by parole, placing out, adoption or guardianship, it shall be committed, when practicable to an institution governed by persons, or placed in the custody of a person, of the same religious persuasion as the child. In the exercise of such jurisdiction such courts may hear and determine such cases with or without a jury except those involving a felony.

"The children's courts have accomplished a great deal during the last decade," continued Judge Hoyt, "but there remains much to be done. Under the new law I hope that it will soon be possible to wipe out the practice of trying children, especially in cases of neglect, as criminals. Also I hope that the court will be granted the right of appointing guardians after proper investigation. Lack of this power has greatly hampered our work for parole carries with it no authority on the part of the person in whose care a child may be paroled, a fact which frequently militates against the child's welfare. Another needed reform is the remodeling of the procedure so that technical trials for criminal offenses may be done away with, that is, that the general conduct of the children be inquired into instead of the technical details of their offenses.

"The State Commission for Child Welfare is at work trying to coordinate laws affecting children and to work out a program of suitable revision, a reform of legal procedure which will bring about closer relations between our court and the court of domestic relations.

"Children's courts have already accomplished much in keeping children out of institutions and in preserving the family as a unit of society. They have helped children in general by handling cases as individual problems and by giving each child as large an opportunity as possible to develop under favorable conditions. Also millions of dollars have been saved to the taxpayers annually by the reduction of commitments to institutions."

WILSON TELLS 2,500 LEAGUE WILL SURVIVE

"Those Who Don't Believe in It Had Better Get Out of the Way," He Warns.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 18.—Woodrow Wilson, wrapped in a heavy black cape, appeared on the steps of his residence in S street tonight to greet 2,500 admirers who, headed by a band, had marched two miles to pledge their loyalty as the climax for the launching of the Woodrow Wilson Foundation.

The former President made his first public utterance about the League of Nations since the time that he left the White House. Undaunted by its rejection, first by the United States Senate, then by the people in the 1920 elections, he expressed confidence in the instrument negotiated at Paris.

"Such a demonstration of friendship and confidence is indeed gratifying," Mr. Wilson said, amid cheers. "As for the vitality of the League of Nations I have no fear. It will take care of itself and those who don't believe in it had better get out of its way.

"My only anxiety is to have our people headed in the right direction. This demonstration—I don't deserve it, but I enjoy it nevertheless.

Mr. Wilson's remarks were prompted by those of Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor, who acted as spokesman for the crowd. Mr. Gompers had spoken at some length on the work of the conference for the Limitation of Armament, referring to the results as having been born in the idea of the League of Nations.

"They may call it a four Power treaty or a five Power treaty," Mr. Gompers said, "but, whatever the name, it has come about from the germ of the League of Nations."

The Wilson demonstration came after the adoption of a resolution by a mass meeting in the National Theater this afternoon for the purpose of establishing a fund for $1,000,000, to be known as the Woodrow Wilson Foundation, the revenue of which is to be bestowed as a prize each year, as is the Nobel Peace Prize, to that public man who is regarded as having done most for the furtherance of peace and good government.

Hails Booze Deaths As Help To Prohibs, Says Lord's Day Man

Declares That Bootleg Drinkers Ought to Die, Earth No Place for Them.

Albany, Jan. 19.—Persons who drink bootleg liquor ought to die. This is the substance of a statement made tonight by Robert G. Davey, representing the Lord's Day Alliance.

Considerable alarm for the prohibition cause had been felt as a result of numerous deaths from poisonous whiskey, but Mr. Davey takes the position that this fear is not warranted. He says anybody who drinks illicit beverages is no good anyway.

"The public should not get nervous over the prohibition situation," Mr. Davey declared. "Let drinkers of bootleg liquor die. Any man who has so little moral fibre that he will drink the poison which is now being illicitly sold to the public is of no worth to society. He is better off dead."

Johnny Spills the Beans.

Johnny was entertaining his sister's caller and said: "Helen told ma yesterday you were a born politician."

"Indeed!" said the young man pleased as he could be. "Why does she think that?"

"That's just what ma wanted to know, and Helen said it's because you can do so much talking without committing yourself."—Boston Transcript.

WAS TROUBLED WITH HER STOMACH FOR FIVE YEARS

Mrs. Samuel Ward, Millerdale, Sask. writes:—"I feel that I must write to you before another day passes I am so happy and so grateful to your splendid medicine, Burdock Blood Bitters, for after an illness of five years I am better.

I had stomach trouble so bad, I could not bear the smell or taste of food of any kind, and got so thin and weak I could not work. I had four doctors attend me, but they did me no good. I was in no pain, but felt so ill, at times, I thought I would die. In fact, all my friends were sure I could not live many weeks.

This time last year I saw where a man was relieved of stomach trouble by Burdock Blood Bitters, so my husband got me two bottles, but I had no faith in it after all the different medicines I had taken, however he insisted and after the first two days I must say I began to feel better, and after the first bottle I felt so much better I went out a little every day, but could not go alone I was so weak, but I got so I could walk and eat, and I got quite stout.

I am nearly seventy years of age and I feel better than I have for years and can now do all my housework.

You may make use of this letter if you wish, as it may be the means of making others as well and happy as I am."
