FROM ALL OVER THE MARITIME PROVINCES

Saturday, June 25.

Generally speaking, there has been very little going on in society this week. Few hostesses have remained in town and they spend much of their time in the country. The responsibility for this going back and forth is in great measure due to the increased number of automobiles in the city, the owners of which realize that it takes but a short time to exchange the dust and turmoil of the city streets for the green fields and invigorating breezes to be found in the suburbs of St. John. That automobilists prefer the routes dotted by lakes and rivers and on which hotels have been established, is not to be wondered at, as the prospect of a well served dinner and chances for boating and fishing add much to the enjoyment of a day's ride. Consequently, it is on roads offering these inducements that oftenest the toot of the "buzz wagon" is heard.

What was in all probability the most interesting news item of the week was the paragraph in the daily papers announcing the appearance in St. John in the early autumn of Madame Melba, the world's greatest singer. Although yet some distance off, the date will be looked forward to with ever increasing interest.

Wedding bells pealed right merrily at Rothesay on Wednesday afternoon, when, in the beautifully decorated village church, the nuptials of Miss Grace Elizabeth Robertson, daughter of the late Mr. David D.
