Poets' Corner.

AUTUMN.

To the Editor of the Signal:

Now Autumn's yellow shades o'ercast
You lately gay green bowers,
And drear October's chilly blasts
Have withered leaves and flowers;
Yon giant maple's ragged limbs
Are now disclosed to view,
Her lately bright and verdant leaves
Assume a golden hue.

No more the woody glades resound
With feath'red songsters' lay,
Save rustling winds no sounds are heard
Throughout the weary day;
No more the shepherds with their flocks
Do roam the grassy plain;
And now the farmers work is done,
Amongst the waving grain.

That mellow breeze which play'd around
The gladsome summer past,
Will soon be gone, and in its stead
Comes winters biting blast;
And those green fields and flow'ry plains,
Through which the streamlets flow,
Will soon be given a winding sheet
Of wintry frost and snow.

But in this dreary deathlike state,
They shall not long remain;
But a short time of frosts and snows,
And spring shall come again;
And with its winter conquering smile,
Congenial suns and showers,
Will give fresh verdure to the trees
And fragrance to the flowers.

And thus we note while chance and change
Unceasing onward fly
God's works but fade to bloom again,
Man' fourish but to die;
And this we trust that when we pass
The terrors of our common doom
We'll rise and flourish bright and fair
Beyond the dark and silent tomb.

J. C. E.

Written on a Photograph of Miss—

Lasting token of affection
Cherished and kept by me,
Dearest Gem of my selection
Kind remembrancer of thee:
Lifelike picture of thy features,
Of thy sweet, seraphic face;
Oh thy comely form bewitching,
Model of angelic grace;
If the sun had power to picture
Half the beauty of thy mind,
Then 'twould show to every gazer;
Queen of Beauty there Enshrined,
Let this token thou hast given,
Seal thyne image to my heart;
There if thou my love returnest,
Death alone us two can part.

North Riding Agricultural Society.

FALL SHOW AT CLINTON.

On Tuesday and Wednesday, 27th and 28th inst, this exhibition was held on the agricultural grounds at the enterprising village of Clinton. The first day was devoted to the arrangement of the inside department and the decisions of the judges thereon, and comparatively few visitors made their appearance. The second day the outside department began to claim attention and a steady stream poured through the gates from early in the forenoon till dusk, when exhibitors thought of looking after and removing their articles We could not wait until the receipts were reckoned up; but, from an approximation; there must have been 3000 or 4000 spectators. The inside show was not nearly as large as last year, but the prize specimens in Fruits, vegetables, Ladies' work &c., were very good, and quite up to the old standard. The scarcity of Ladies' work might likely be partially attributable to the fact that a Wesleyan Bazaar, with just such work as should have appeared at the show, was being held and largely attended, up the village. The outside show was really very superior. Cattle, horses &c., &c., &c., doing great credit to the enterprising breeders who have gone to the expense and trouble of importing through-bred stock.

As far as we could ascertain, in the absence of the Secretary who was at the Assizes in Goderich, the judges were as follows:—

HORSES. Messrs McDonough (Klineburg) Hingston and Falconer.

CATTLE. Messrs Hyde, Crerar and Hadwyn.

SHEEP Messrs Gibson, Proctor and ——,

IMPLEMENTS. Messrs Bell and Wilson

The display of buggies was very, credit able to the village builders, and if a neat hearse could do anything to reconcile a man to the last public journey, the one constructed by Stevenson would. The proceedings of the day were closed with a grand torch-light procession, of the Hook and Ladder Co. About 30 well built muscular youths in gay jackets of blue with red facings, and white helmets paraded the streets, torch in hand, and presented a fine appearance; especially when at a distance, and when forming into double line, marching in a circle, or with their lights glimmering through the trees. Of course it was to Signal-ise our departure that they marched to the R. R. Station, and we regretted much that, the train being unfortunately "on time," we were cut short in our efforts to clear our throat to make a speech, duly acknowledging our pleasure at the sight and our gratitude for the honor. This will answer instead.

N. B. in copying the prize list we found in the entry-book that the number 41 was opposite the names of both H. Ford and James Landsboro; so that wherever the name of either occurs in the prize list it may be that it should be the other. We shall be obliged if some one who knows will send us a correct statement in reference to these articles exhibited by these gentlemen. Subjoined is the

The War

GREAT BRITAIN AND THE WAR.

LONDON Sept. 28.—An armistice of 48 hours was concluded at Mazieres on Monday for the removal of the wounded.

The Duke of Wurtemburg was wounded in an action at the outposts of St. Cloud.

The Mobiles are deserting in crowds a Paris. Two hundred have been shot for insubordination.

London, Sept. 28.—All the democratic papers in France which were suppressed under the Empire have resumed publication.

The mob at Nantes removed the statute of Billault from the principal square of the city a few days ago Instead of tearing it down and smashing it, they packed it up and considerately sent it to his family.

People residing in the suburbs of Paris have returned to their homes, whence they had been driven by the lawlessness of the Mobiles.

The Times this morning says: France may be serious and heroic in refusing to cede her territory to Germany; but it is rather inconsistant with her constant avidity in seizing the territory of others.

The Prussians opened fire on the gunboats while passing St. Cloud recently, killing and wounding several of the French.

The Prussians are erecting batteries at Severes. A lively fire was opened on them from Fort D'Issy while they were at their work.

London, Sept 28.—The British Cabinet meet on Friday to consider the question of intervention.

The Prussian corvette Bertha was sunk in the Euxine after a protracted engagement with three French frigates.

London, Sept, 28.—A special to the Times says:—The fall of Strasburg will, it is considered, make but little difference in the question as to the power of resistance of France. Everything turns on the ability of Paris to defend itself three months. That time gained, the Prussians will never retain a fort in French territory. The whole country is rising in arms.
