In a prayer-book lying in a church I noticed, written in quite an educated-looking hand, the following sentence: "Nula [sic] eclesia [sic] sine episcopo." And this suggests to me to observe, by the way, generally, that in passing along through the streets in various towns, I notice many unscrupulous cacographies deliberately painted on signs and posted up on walls.—Perchance the solitariness of the b and the c in the above excellent but ill-treated maxim, may have arisen from the Websterian horror of repeated consonants—a horror most un-English, and happily dying away.—Thus, on the authority of Webster, you used constantly to see, and still here and there do see, such unknown terms as droping, wining, traveling, sining, &c., &c., for dropping, winning, travelling, sinning, &c., &c.—But a better day in general education is undoubtedly in the very act of coming in; and we may confidently expect that each successive set of young men sent out into the ministry will, for the future, in addition to sound Theological science, have also the advantage of accurate and disciplined scholarship. You will be gratified to know that Kerchever Arnold's books are reprinted here as fast as they appear in England, and are getting extensively into schools. This is a wholesome sign.

After all there are a few more "waifs and strays" of my sojourn here, which I must enclose to you in another epistle, before I finally pack up for Long Branch, on the New Jersey shore, en route for Washington.

Yours always, A. C.

The Rev. Thomas Smith Kennedy, Rector of Darlington and Clarke, requests that in future all letters and papers for him may be addressed "St. George's Parsonage, Newcastle Post-Office, Clarke."

INSTANCE III.

"The 'Second Book' after having been carefully revised was adopted by Parliament in the year 1559, and in this new edition proper first Lessons were appointed for Sundays—some modifications were made in the Commmunion Service, to soften, if possible, the rancour of the Catholics. From the introduction to the Book of Common Prayer, with notes, practical and explanatory, by the Rev. H. Stebbing, D. D., M. R. S. L." London, 1840.

[By "Catholics" he means "Romanists." The Catholics of England are the members of the Church in England and no others; and these had no "rancour" against the Prayer-book. He should also have stated more clearly, that the "First" and "Second" Books of Edward VI., as well as the "revision" in Elizabeth's reign, proceeded first from the proper ecclesiastical Authorities: the adoption of them by the Parliament simply made them the Law of the Land. Parliament, of course, could not and did not originate the Prayer-book. Dr. Stebbing, it is pleasing to observe, is more careful and accurate elsewhere in his notes. The above passage would have been better, had it been worded thus:]—

CORRECTION III.

The "Second Book," after having been carefully revised by competent ecclesiastical authority, was adopted and made Law by Parliament in the year 1559, and in the new edition, proper first lessons were appointed for Sundays—some modifications were made in the Communion Service, to soften, if possible, the rancour of the Romanists.

Murder and Arson.—About four o'clock on the morning of Friday last, we were aroused from our slumbers by the ringing of the fire bell. On arriving at the scene of conflagration we perceived a small house or shanty, occupied by Mr David Frew and family, completely enveloped in flames, which were communicated to an adjacent building, the property of Mr. Duncan M'Keeler, which was also completely consumed.—When the shanty was burnt to the ground, the horrifying spectacle of the mutilated and calcined remains of a human being were distinctly seen by the spectators. On enquiry, it began to be strongly suspected that the relics of another individual must be somewhere amongst the ruins, which, unfortunately, proved to be but too true. Upon examination, the corpses of Jane Norman and Hannah Frew, were found, the latter being the wife of the said David Frew, the whole affair being the result of intemperance,—certainly a loud warning to all who indulge in the use of intoxicating liquors. From the circumstances of the drunken and riotous proceedings which had been witnessed during the night, and from the fact that Frew had saved himself and two children from the fire, leaving his wife behind, suspicions began to point towards him as a murderer and incendiary. On the inquest, which was held on the bodies by John R. Benson, Esq., Coroner, sufficient evidence was produced to induce the Jury to return a verdict of Wilful Murder and Arson against David Frew, in the case of Jane Norman. With respect to the death of his wife, though it was strongly suspected that she had been deprived of life to cover the murder of Norman, still no evidence was produced to prove such a diabolical act, and the Jury could do no more than state that her death was the result of his riotous conduct and drunkenness. He was committed to take his trial at the present assizes.—Peterboro' Gazette.

Canada Postage.—Our Post-masters along the Canadian frontier have been charging the exorbitant and retaliatory rates of foreign postage established for the British Steamers on the Atlantic, in violation of the Laws, as appears by the following letter from the Assistant Post-master General Hobbie which we find in the Chicago papers:

Post Office Department,
Contract Office, 2nd Oct., 1848.

Sir,—In answer to your letter of the 25th ult., which has been referred to this branch of the Department, I have to say that no mails being carried by any foreign packet ships, or other vessels between Canada and the United States, the provisions of the act of 28th June last, do not apply to letters to and from that portion of the British Provinces. Inland postage only should be charged on these letters.

The 24 cents charge authorized by the act of Congress referred to, is to be made on letters to Halifax and other places in Nova Scotia, sent by the Cunard steamers.

Respectfully your obedient servant,
R. Hobbie, First Assistant P. M. Gen.

Mr. H. N. James, Chicago, Illinois.

The rising village of Smith's Falls and Merricksville I was unable to look at during my journey to Bytown; but on my return I have been more fortunate. The reader can have little conception of the very great advances which both these places have made towards wealth and consideration during the past five years. They have really become towns in every sense of the word. At Merricksville, in particular, the ample water power has been taken full advantage of in the erection of Mills and Factories of various descriptions, chiefly by the Merrick family. I regret that the detention of the steamer in passing the locks was not sufficiently long to allow me to cross the river, and inspect the new Cloth Factory, which I was assured was fully equal, if not superior to any thing of the kind in Canada West. At Smith's Falls the general improvement consists in the increase of houses, stores, shops and inhabitants, and consequently in business; although like other places, the villages on the Rideau Canal are suffering from the fearful and calamitous pressure of the times.—Whig.

It is understood that the Government are preparing to bring in a Bill at the approaching Session, making great changes in the judicial system. The Ottawa, it is said, will be erected into a separate district, and by means of regular circuits, increased jurisdiction will be given to all the country parts.

Galt has become incorporated by a vote of the Inhabitants, 34 to 2, under the act of conferring limited corporate privileges on towns in Canada. From the Reporter we learn that Messrs. A. Ainslie, Sidney Smith, Isaac Sours, John Davidson and Morris Chatz, were elected Trustees.

County of Ottawa.—A Public Meeting of the inhabitants of the County of Ottawa was held at Aylmer, on the 9th September last, presided over by John Egan, Esq., M.P., at which it was resolved to petition the Legislature to set off that County from the District of Montreal, as a separate Judicial District. The reasons given for this step appear to us wise and cogent, and such as should influence our Legislators in the decision of the matter.—Statesman.

Melancholy Accident.—Three Persons drowned in the St. John.—It is with extreme regret that we have to announce this morning, one of the most melancholy casualties that ever occurred in this Province. Four young gentlemen belonging to this City—viz. Mr. Wm. Fairbanks, Clerk in the "London House," Mr. Richard Magee, recently from Dublin, and cousin of Miss Magee, Market Square, Mr. John Smith, Clerk in Miss Magee's Store, Mr. Albert Venning, of the firm of Beard & Venning—left this City on Tuesday in a pleasure boat, on an excursion up the River St. John, intending to return on the Saturday following; but meeting with adverse winds they laid to on Sunday, near the head of Long Reach, until about 3 o'clock, when they again started, the wind rather more favourable, although blowing almost a gale. A heavy squall struck the boat, when she instantaneously filled and sunk, and melancholy to add, all were drowned except Mr. Venning, who clung to the topmast, which was about three feet out of the water, and was finally rescued by a boat from the shore.—The bodies of Mr. Fairbanks and Mr. Magee were recovered and brought to the city yesterday.—Halifax News.

A Persian in Canada.—There is at present in Montreal, staying at the residence of the Rev. Mr. De Sola, the Rabbi of the Jewish Synagogue, a Persian gentleman, and we think the fact worth noticing, as he is probably the first native of the dominions of the Shah who has ever visited Montreal. We are told that he attracted great attention at the Synagogue on Saturday, being dressed in the full costume of his country, with flowing robes and a turban, and a long black beard down to his girdle. We have not heard what his object is in visiting Montreal.—Montreal Courier.

The Halifax and Quebec Railway.—The survey of this great and important railway line having been completed, the plans and final report were dispatched from Halifax to London, by the steamer of the 2nd inst. The Commissioners are to follow very shortly, but we presume some time will elapse ere we shall be furnished with copies of these valuable documents.—New Brunswicker.

Emigration of French Canadians.—We yesterday ascertained a fact of much importance, and one that we believe to have met with but slight attention from the Press. We allude to the increased emigration to the States of the French Canadian population. Last night on board the Montreal, there were one hundred Canadians on their road to Chicago, former residents of the Parishes below Quebec, who had sold their property, and with the produce of the sale were emigrating west-ward with their household chattels. From enquiries made we have ascertained that this refugeeism has been for some time past actively and numerously followed up, by families not only from the settlements of the St. Lawrence to the eastward of the city, but others in the immediate neighbourhood, and to the westward of Quebec. A feature in this movement is of infinite moment, as proving a systematized scheme among the Canadians to try their lot in another land, and among a people unacquainted with their language, their habits, and their peculiar prediliction, a people trained in a different school of politics and hostile to the form of Government under which these emigrants and their forefathers have lived; it is that pioneers have been sent on before to obtain information respecting the "land of promise," to which they destined themselves, and that upon the report of the avant couriers the abandonment of home and their native land has taken place. By these individuals samples of the produce of the place visited have been brought thither, in proof of its desirability,—nay even the soil itself has undergone examination in Canada, by the intending absentee; this latter fact has occurred lately at Pointe aux Trembles. The statements we have made are undeniable, and they furnish food for serious reflection. Is it that the burthens and oppressive exactions incident to the feudal tenure have at last proved too onerous for their victims to endure; is it that the parishes in which this defection has taken place are over populated; is it that the climate to which they have been inured from the cradle, and under which they have toiled, has at last overmastered their industry; is it that a newly awakened spirit of adventure or of enterprize, has stimulated them to repair to the land of the stranger, where "nos institutions, notre langue et nos lois" will neither be tolerated nor respected, or what are the causes of this sudden growing movement? Perhaps some of our French Canadian contemporaries, possessing better sources of information on the subject, will consider the question, and account for it. It is one eminently meriting their enquiry.—Quebec Mercury.

Death of Col. DeLatre.—It is with regret that we allude to the death of Lieut. Col. Philip DeLatre, which took place suddenly on Friday morning last, on board the steamer Chief Justice Robinson, while on her passage from Toronto.—Col. DeLatre was seventy-one years of age, and had always been a healthy, active man—a large portion of the earlier and middle part of his life being passed in active service, in the West Indies, in Egypt, under Sir Ralph Abercrombie, and in India, where he was severely wounded in the arm, for which he enjoyed a pension of £200 per annum. He served for some years as Deputy-Quartermaster-General in Ceylon, and enjoyed the entire confidence of the military and civil authorities, and was highly complimented also on his retirement from that post.—Col. DeLatre emigrated to this country in 1832, and resided principally on his farm in Lundy's Lane. He was a magistrate of the district, and took an active part at the time of the disturbances in 1837. On being appointed president of the Niagara Harbour and Dock Company, he sold his farm and came to reside among us fifteen months ago. In every relation of life he was much esteemed; and as a companion, those who knew him intimately speak in the highest terms of his intellectual attainments and extensive information. His faculties remained perfect till the last hour of his life. He was a great student. The classics, some volumes of which he prized very much as having been the constant companions of his long and varied life; and works on scientific agriculture, and all the correlative departments of science, being his constant companions. He leaves six children—three daughters, of whom the wife of Mr. Justice Sullivan is one, and a son in this country, and two sons in India; one following his father's footsteps in the military service of his country.—Niagara Mail.

Precautions against Cholera—Order in Council.—A communication has been received by the Commissioners of the Customs' department, through their Secretary, from Mr. Greville, one of the clerks of the council, stating, that with reference to his communication, dated the 15th June last, directing all vessels arriving in the United Kingdom, having foul bills of health, (with reference to cholera,) to be released from quarantine without any medical visit, provided that no case of cholera had existed on board any such vessel for a period of ten days previously to her arrival, he (Mr. Bathurst) has been directed by the Lords of the Council to state, for the information of the Commissioners of the Customs, that it is the express desire of their Lordships that the before-mentioned regulations should still continue in force. Mr. Bathurst has also to state, that he was now further directed by the Lords of the Council to inform the commissioners that their Lordships are of opinion that instructions should be forthwith transmitted to the different ports in the United Kingdom, directing that in the event of the arrival of any vessel on board of which a case of cholera shall have occurred, such vessel shall be detained under the restraint of quarantine until the clothing and bedding of the following persons shall have been thoroughly immersed in water, under the direction of an Officer of the Customs, viz:—1. Of all persons who shall have died of cholera on board of such vessel at any foreign port, or on shore at such port. 2. Of all persons who shall have died, or who shall have had an attack of cholera on board of such vessel during her homeward voyage. And that should any vessel arrive with cholera actually on board, such vessel should be detained under quarantine at her port of arrival until further orders from the Lords of the Council are received. In pursuance of this communication from the Lords of the Council, with a view to prevent the introduction of cholera into this country by vessels arriving from abroad, express orders have been forwarded by the Commissioners to the officers of the customs' department at the several ports and places in the United Kingdom, as well as to the ports of London, to take care that their Lordships' orders be duly obeyed.

We have received from M. M'Pherson, Esquire, of the Hudson's Bay Company's service, a letter dated Portage La Roche, July 26, 1848.

The letter contains the following information relative to Sir John Richardson, who, it will be remembered, is seeking Sir John Franklin by land, while Sir James Ross is engaged in the same service by sea. The last dates from Captain Ross are by way of England to the 29th July. At that day he was in Davis' Straits, in lat. 69 N.

Mr. M'Pherson says:—

"I have great pleasure in informing you, that Sir John Richardson, Dr. Rae, Mr. Bell and party, met us on the 11th July, as far advanced as Athabasca Lake. They appeared in good health and spirits; and I should suppose that Sir John would reach the coast about the 27th or 28th of the same month. I have, little doubt, however, but they will, on account of the lateness of the spring in this quarter, meet with considerable detention from ice.

The latest news from Peel's River brings reports that the Indians who frequent the coast had met with Esquimaux, who shewed them files and knives, which they said they had received from Whites in 'two very large canoes,' to the eastward of the M'Kenzie. Indian rumours are so problematical, that it is utterly impossible to vouch for their accuracy; but, at the same time, it is not improbable that such should have happened."

We have further advices by other channels from the West, and regret to learn that the Hudson's Bay Company's Barque Vancouver was wrecked on the bar of the Columbia River, on the 7th May last; and that her valuable cargo, consisting of English manufactures, was lost. It is satisfactory however to know, that the crew and passengers were all saved; and that the ship and cargo were covered by insurance.

The testimony of thousands who have been relieved and cured by this valuable article, will show that it stands unrivalled—at the head of all other medicines for the cure of diseases for which it is recommended.
