MAY HAVE TO RANSOM THE MISSIONARIES

Chinese Bandits Still Hold Them

Troops Sent to Rescue Them Making Slow Progress

Child of One of the American Captives Murdered and Other Foreigners Are Being Maltreated by the Brigands—U. S. Consul Has Little Faith in Government's Sincerity.

(Canadian Press.)

Peking, Oct. 2—The American legation here received a report from J. Paul Jameson, vice-consul general at Shanghai stating that an American child had been killed and other foreigners were being maltreated by Chinese brigands at Tsaoyang.

The legation fears that the Chinese government troops are neither capable nor zealous enough to accomplish the release of the American and Norwegian missionaries in the hands of the bandits at Tsayang, and that ransom alone can save the lives of the foreigners still in captivity.

It is believed that the ransom demanded may not be heavy as Chinese ideas in monetary matters are not extravagant.

By the efforts of the legations and consulates the missionaries have been kept out of unsafe districts during the past two years, but the missionaries were not restricted from going to the northern part of the province of Hu-Peh which hitherto had not been considered dangerous.

At Hankow, General Li-Yuen Heng, vice-president of the republic, states that everything possible is being done. Nearly 3,000 Chinese troops are advancing on the town of Tsaoyang.

A former communication to the American consulate reported that the missionaries, the Rev. C. Stokstad and the Rev. Mr. Johnson, were proceeding to Tsaoyang from Siang Yang-Fu, but their expedition evidently failed as the Rev. C. Stokstad telegraphed today as follows:

"The robbers still hold Tsaoyang, where they compel the Chinese citizens to guard the walls. It is feared that the surrounding force will be insufficient to prevent the bandits from escaping. The little son of Rev. Harman Fauske, attached to the mission of the Lutheran brethren, has been killed. The Rev. Geo. Holm was seen on Saturday bound. A foreign rescuing party is again proceeding to Tsaoyang."

A telegram from Chung King says that the province of Sze-Chuen has agreed to pay the troops of the province of Kwei-Chow $100,000 and that peace is assured. The Kewi-Chow troops originally crossed the border when the southern part of the province of Tse-Chuen revolted. They captured and held Chung King and other important cities until the present, in spite of the fact that the loyal government troops operating in the province of Sze-Chuen also have defeated the rebels.

CROTHERS BACK FOR EAST MIDDLESEX BYE-ELECTION

Ottawa, Oct. 2—Hon. T. W. Crothers, minister of labor, got home today from his old country tour, but declined to comment on the criticisms directed at him during the trade and labor congress in Montreal last week. "I am not familiar with the statement made by the labor men," he said. Mr. Crothers will figure in the East Middlesex bye-election campaign.

Women Make a Dollar Go Farther

Ever notice how much more the average woman will buy for a dollar than a man?

She seems to know how to make every cent count.

A woman is naturally inquisitive. She wants to know. She is not afraid to ask questions.

A woman likes "to shop round."

Today the large percentage of the advertising in the daily newspapers like The Telegraph and Times is written to women.

That speaks well for the character of advertising—both as to fact and phrasing.

Women are severe critics. They would not be fooled twice.

Advertising to appeal to women must be strong enough to strike their unerring sense of values.

SEES BETTER DAYS FOR TEACHERS

Chief Superintendent of Education Says Prospects Are Good

NEW OPENINGS SOON

Vocational Education Will Afford Opportunity for Advancement—Charlotte County Teachers Association Also Addressed by Other Educationists.

(Special to The Telegraph.)

St. George, N. B., Oct. 2—The twenty-ninth session of the Charlotte County Teachers Institute was opened in the high school building in St. George this morning with a large number of teachers in attendance.

Chief Superintendent Carter, Inspector McLean, R. P. Steeves, of the agricultural department, and Director Fletcher Peacock and Miss Eleanor Robinson, of the Educational Review, were also present.

Enrollment was proceeded with and seventy-eight teachers became members of the institute. An audit committee was appointed, consisting of George B. Carpenter, B. A., principal of the St. Andrews Grammar school; Miss Annie L. Richardson and Miss Gertrude Coughlin.

The president, Miss Emma Veasey, of St. Stephen, delivered an admirable address. After referring to the pleasure it gave the executive to have been able successfully to plan for a meeting of the institute at St. George, she went on to speak of the loss to the province of New Brunswick through the ever increasing exodus to the west. The fact that the west appreciated the material received from the east was evident from an expression which is sometimes heard out west: "Some are born great, some achieve greatness and the rest come from New Brunswick."

The remedy of course for this exodus west is increased salaries, but attention was called to the fact that there are good opportunities for ambitious teachers even in the east, and that what we need here in the east is more of that spirit of splendid optimism which emphasises the advantages instead of calling attention to the unsatisfactory conditions of one's native province or town.

The tendency on the part of the teachers to take advantage of the summer school was remarked on and the very creditable showing made by Charlotte county teachers at the examinations this summer.

Literary clubs and travel also were referred to in this connection.

The human side of teaching and the humorous side also were touched upon.

The president also referred to the loss to the province through the death of the late chief superintendent, Dr. Inch, and also paid a tribute of respect to the late Doctors Brittain and Hay, whose deaths occurred within the last few months.

Good Prospects for Teachers.

Chief Superintendent Carter in addressing the institute was warmly received. He spoke of the changes that are taking place in the personnel of the teachers in the institute from year to year. He feelingly referred to the loss sustained in the death of Dr. G. U. Hay and Dr. John Brittain. The changes from annual to biennial sessions perhaps was not a good one, for teachers should meet often to talk over their experiences and difficulties.

He said there are good prospects for teachers in this province. Vocational education is demanding much attention today. Scientific agriculture is demanding considerable attention. Director R. P. Steeves is the first appointment by the agricultural department and there is no doubt but that others will soon be required.

He also said that teachers are very scarce, and will no doubt be, until better paid. The situation will be met and must come through local support. Teachers themselves are often much to blame for accepting salaries that have been paid in the past. Put a fair value on your services and demand it.

There is a feeling abroad in the country districts for five hours per school day. It would be difficult to teach successfully a school of five or six grades in that time. It will be more difficult in future for third class teachers to get schools in rich districts, for it is unfair to the higher licensed teachers.

Ventilation in Schools.

Dr. Carter would strongly urge the teachers to see that the pupils have plenty of fresh air, sunlight and cleanliness. These are great factors in the prevention of tuberculosis. The best means of ventilation is by means of windows and doors. Physical exercises are of great importance in the schools and out of this has grown the cadet movement and boy scouts.

Inspctor McLean briefly addressed the institute and strongly urged the teachers to send in reports of their nature study work.

Director Steeves, in addressing the institute, thought scientific agriculture should receive greater attention. There could be no real civilization without agriculture. Although the establishment of Arbor day was thirty years ago in this province, yet there were many dis-

RIVALS McMANIGAL'S DYNAMITING OUTRAGES

Iron Worker Caught, Confesses

George E. Davis Trailed For a Long Time, Makes Clean Breast of his Work in Blowing Up "Open Shop" Structures—Implicates Secretary of International Association, Who is Also Arrested.

(Canadian Press.)

New York, Oct. 2—Dynamite outrages that rivalled the exploits of the McNamara brothers and of Ortie McManigal were confessed today by George E. Davis, a union iron worker. Davis, who was arrested here today, was the George O'Donnell who figured in the trial at Indianappolis that resulted in the conviction of Frank M. Ryan, president of the International Association of Bridge and Structural Iron Workers and thirty-seven of his associates. His arrest and its consequences round up the work the federal government started more than two years ago when the dynamiting of bridges and steel frame buildings all over the country became a national scandal.

All the explosions that Davis says he caused were touched on and testified to at the dynamiters' trial in Indianapolis, but the fact that Davis caused them remained unrevealed until he himself revealed it today.

Iron Workers' Secretary Arrested.

Davis' confession resulted today in the arrest in Indianapolis of Harry Jones, secretary-treasurer of the Iron Workers Union. His confession supplements the evidence presented at the Indianapolis trial and makes fresh charges against some of the men there convicted, and now in prison. Some of his revelations concern President Ryan, who is now out on bail pending appeal from a prison sentence of seven years.

Davis says that he was the man chosen to kill Walter Drew, attorney for the National Erectors Association, in December, 1911, after Drew was charged with kidnapping John J. McNamara. It was suggested also that he try to "get" William J. Burns, the detective employed by Drew and his associates to unearth the dynamite conspiracy. The price on Drew's head at that time, Davis said, was $5,000. "I told them," his confession continues, "that I didn't want to mix up in such business."

Davis consented to return to Indianapolis without extradition. His bail was fixed at $10,000.

The conspiracy thought to have been broken up by the conviction of Ryan and others still exists, according to Davis' confession. With the exception of Harry Jones, the men he mentions in connection with his various dynamite jobs already had been arrested although his confession indicated that the government had not obtained all the incriminating evidence against these defendants when they were tried at Indianapolis.

Apprehension of this "McManigal of the east," was due to Robert Foster, a Louisville detective, who shaddowed the iron worker through eastern cities. Finally, several weeks ago, when Davis was displeased with his treatment by the union, Foster persuaded him to make a full confession. This was on September 16.

For a week Davis had been working in Pittsburg for the Thompson Starrett Company. Then the local delegate of the Iron Workers' Union told him he must pay a $26 initiation fee to the local union or quit work. Davis quit. The detective told him he knew all about his deeds anyway and Davis, accompanied the union had deserted him, accompanied Foster to New York. Here in the presence of representatives of the federal district attorney and the National Erectors Association he dictated and swore to the long detailed confession which was given out by the district attorney's office today.

Davis' Confession.

Davis said he had been an iron worker since 1900 and had been employed at Denver, St. Louis, New York, Washington, Providence, Cleveland, Pittsburg, and Birmingham. In the early days of the troubles between the union and the bridge builders he was a member of the entertainment committee, whose duty it was to assault non-union workers. He began his career as a dynamiter at Trenton (N. J.)

In careful detail, the confession describes how he blew up or tried to blow up buildings and bridges in various cities and towns of the east. It was during his preparation of plans to destroy a new building at Fall River on April 26, 1908, that Davis first came into communication with Harry Jones. He says he got Jones at Indianapolis on the telephone and asked him for money. Jones, he adds, sent $50. Davis asserts that Jones was familiar with the work he was doing.

Under the name O'Donnell, Davis was arrested for the Fall River job and served two years in prison. During his prison term, he says, his friends "made a couple of noises" in other parts of New England to convince the authorities that Davis, or O'Donnell was not the only person doing dynamite work. After he left prison, officers of the union gave him money and he went to his home in Coffeyville, Kansas. John J. McNamara wanted him to take up his old trade in Oklahoma, but he refused because it was too near home.

THE PRINCE OF WALES' TOUR ON THE CONTINENT

In the course of his continental tour, which has just come to an end, the Prince of Wales spent a night in Berlin as the guest of Emperor William, who personally showed him over the historical rooms of the castle. On the following day his royal highness left for Friedrichshafen, where he was the guest of the King of Wurtemberg.

U. S. TARIFF BILL PASSES SENATE

Carried By a Vote of 36 to 17 After a Listless Debate—President Expected to Sign the Bill Saturday, When It Will Become Law.

(Canadian Press.)

Washington, Oct. 2—The Democratic tariff revision bill probably will be in the hands of President Wilson for his signature by tomorrow night. The senate at the end of a listless debate passed the conference report at 8.30 o'clock tonight by a vote of 36 to 17, only four more than the necessary quorum of the senate.

Senators La Follette, Republican, and Poindexter, Progressive, voted for the conference report, as they did for the bill on its passage, and Senators Ransdell and Thornton, Democrats, voted against it, as they did against the bill. Otherwise it was a strict party vote.

Immediately after the passage of the conference report, acting on motions made by Chairman Simmons, of the finance committee, the senate rejected the Smith-Lever compromise cotton futures tax amendment passed by the house on Tuesday; and then receded from its own amendment known as the Clarke cotton futures tax plan. Both of these motions were carried without roll calls and their effect is to leave the cotton futures question out of the tariff bill so far as the senate is concerned.

The bill will be returned to the house early tmorrow.

Bill Likely Law Tomorrow.

It was thought at the capitol tonight that the bill would become law Saturday. Anticipating such a conclusion to the tariff revision fight, the treasury department was busy today making final preparations to put the new rates of duty into effect on all foreign merchandise on the day following the signature of the bill by the president. It is expected that millions of dollars worth of imported goods now held in bond will be withdrawn for distribution in this country within two or three days after the new tariff rates become effective.

FAVORS BRIDGE ACROSS THE ST. JOHN RIVER

International Commission Recommends That Railway Structure From Van Buren to St. Leonards be Built—Will Not Obstruct Navigation and be a Benefit to Maine and New Brunswick.

(Special to The Telegraph.)

Bangor, Oct. 2—In a report to the secretary of war of the United States and the minister of public works of the Dominion of Canada, which has just been made public, the international commission, pertaining to the St. John River, favors the building of the proposed railroad bridge connecting Van Buren in Maine with St. Leonards in the province of New Brunswick. The commission holds that it is for the best interests of the inhabitants of both countries along the river and is not in violation of the terms of the treaty of 1842 between Great Britain and the United States.

The report is signed by all members of the commission, M. G. Teed, K. C., John Keffe, of St. John; Hon. George Murchie, of Calais, and Peter Charles Keegan, of Van Buren. The matter of spanning the St. John river with the railroad bridge was referred to the commission by the United States war department.

The report says in part:

"In the opinion of the commission the promotion of the interests and the encouragement of the industry of all inhabitants of the countries watered by the River St. John and its tributaries, whether living in the State of Maine or the Province of New Brunswick, will be served by the construction of the said bridge.

"Notwithstanding the restrictive provisions contained in Article III of the Treaty of Washington, 1842, in respect to the navigation of that portion of the River St. John, where it forms the boundary between the State of Maine and the Province of New Brunswick, the commission is of opinion that the erection of a bridge across the St. John river between Van Buren in the State of Maine and St. Leonards in the Province of New Brunswick, such as is contemplated by the plans submitted and as provided by the act of legislature of the State of Maine if authorized by the parliament of Canada and by the congress of the United States of America, would not be an obstruction to the navigation of the said river within the true spirit of the said treaty and adapted to modern conditions, and the commission recommends that said bridge be permitted to be built, provided the authorization above mentioned has been or shall be obtained, and further provided that the exact site and plans of such bridge be approved by the proper departments of the respective governments of the United States and Canada."

The commission is at present working upon its final report and the next meeting will be held in this city in the near future according to the present plans.

BETTING EVEN ON WORLD'S SERIES

CHAMPIONS LOSE IN GOLF TOURNEY

Mrs. Barlow, the American Contender, Defeated by Miss Scott

GREAT CONTESTS

Miss Dodd Downed Miss Ravenscroft After An Exciting Struggle — Miss Pooley of Victoria Beat Miss Harrison of Ireland—Matches Played in a Pelting Rain.

(Canadian Press).

Montreal, Oct. 2—In a pelting rain and over a water-soaked course, the third round of the ladies' golf championship was played off at Dixie today. Two of the English players and the American champion, Mrs. R. H. Barlow, of Philadelphia, were eliminated from the first competition.

The surprise of the day's play was the defeat of Mrs. Barlow by Miss Florence Scott, of Hamilton, who scored an easy victory with seven up and five to play. Miss Scott assumed the lead early in the match, and maintained it until the game finished in thirteenth green.

Miss Dodd, the English champion, defeated Miss Gladys Ravenscroft, four up and two to play. The golf played by this pair was exceptional. They played par for the greater number of holes, Miss Dodd equalling Bogey going out, and well up with it on the seven holes on the inward journey.

Of the sixteen holes played, ten were halved. Miss Dodd winning four and Miss Ravenscroft two. There was no advantage until the sixth, where Miss Dodd won.

The meeting of Miss Florence Harvey, of Hamilton, and Miss Henry Anderson, of Royal Montreal, was of particular interest to Canadians. They were all square on four occasions, Miss Harvey finally winning by two up and one to play.

Miss Pooley's Great Game.

Miss Violet Pooley, of Victoria, was the only winner forced to play over the whole course to defeat her opponent, Miss Mabel Harrison, the Irish champion. The Irish player had all the advantage in the first half, being four up at the end of the sixth and three at the turn. On the tenth Miss Pooley seemed to gather herself together and through her opponent's mistake in putting gained an advantage. After this she forced the play. They were all square at the fourteenth, the fifteenth being won by Miss Harrison by her better judgment on the green. The sixteenth went to Miss Poley, which squared the score again. On the seventeenth they halved and Miss Pooley won on the eighteenth by one up. The gallery waited for the starting of the two English players, the other couples being allowed to start out almost alone.

In the consolation competition the majority of the matches went by default.

The semi-finals will be played in the morning, while the executive in charge have arranged for the playing of the final on Saturday afternoon.

EMPRESSES TO CUT OUT ST. JOHN

C. P. R. Company Issues Statement Confirming Previous Reports.

(Canadian Press.)

Montreal, Oct. 2—The C. P. R. Atlantic liners Empress of Britain and Empress of Ireland will sail to and from Halifax direct throughout the winter, according to an official statement handed out at the company's steamship offices here today.

The call at St. John, which has been customary with the Empress boats during previous winters, will therefore be eliminated. The first sailings made under the new arrangements will be those of the Empress of Ireland from Liverpool on November 29, and from Halifax on December 18. The Empress boats will await the arrival on Saturdays, on which they sail from Halifax, of the special train which will leave Montreal with passengers on the previous day. The remainder of the C. P. R. Atlantic fleet will continue to sail to and from St. John direct, as usual.

Baseball Sharps Are Much Puzzled

Believe the Contests Will Be Close With Low Scores

Majority of Scribes Who Follow the Game Believe Giants Will Win—American League Managers Like Athletics Chances the Best.

(Canadian Press.)

New York, Oct. 2—Opinion regarding the outcome of the world's series appears to be unusually divided this year. Prominent baseball players and writers are predicting a very close series of games with low scores predominating. All speak of the luck or break of the game being an important factor in the ultimate winning of the championship.

The same situation has developed in the betting. Outside of the home cities of the two competing clubs the wagering is at even money. In Philadelphia the Athletics are slight favorites over the New York team, and here local supporters are quoting odds of ten to nine on the Giants to defeat the American league representatives.

Expressions of opinion on the part of managers and players of other clubs are beginning to be heard here with the gathering of the advance guard for the opening game next Tuesday. Among those favoring the Athletics are Frank Chance, Napoleon Lajoie, Clark Griffith and Umpire Billy Evans.

Some of those who are naming the Giants as probable winners are George Stallings, Johnny Evers, Fred Clarke, and Ty Cobb. Hughey Jennings and Bill Dahlen have stated that the teams are so evenly matched that the outcome of the series is a toss up with luck playing a leading part.

A concensus among thirty of the leading baseball writers of the big league circuits shows that eighteen favor the Giants to win against nine for the Athletics and three undecided. Almost without exception, however, they qualify their predictions by stating that the series of 1913 will be very evenly contested and that the slightest break in the luck of the game will swing the championship one way or the other.

The chief advantage accorded the Giants is there strength in the pitching department. The Athletic's adherents conceded this point but contend that the superior batting ability of the Philadelphia club will more than offset the slight difference in the twirling form of the two staffs.

VESSEL BOUND TO ST. JOHN WITH COAL CARGO, LOST

(Special to The Telegraph.)

Boston, Oct. 2—A despatch to the chamber of commerce announces the loss of the three-masted schooner Aetna, New York for St. John with coal, on Western Egg Rock near Pemaquid, Maine. The schooner struck early Wednesday morning, the crew rowing ashore.
