Invigorating Rain.

Most persons have noticed that the first rain after a long drought has an almost magical effect on stunted vegetation. Part of this effect is now believed to be due to the fertilization power of the ammonia that collects in the air during a drought.

Samples of the first rain water after a drought have contained as much as 525 of a grain of ammonia in each gallon, or about seven times the amount in normal times of rainfall. According to the Lancet, this indicates that the amount of ammonia in the air increases in spite of winds, and that rain alone removes it.

Thus a delayed rainfall apparently carries to vegetation a specific stimulant.

HELP FOR WORKING WOMEN

Some Have to Keep on Until They Almost Drop. How Mrs. Conley Got Help.

Here is a letter from a woman who had to work, but was too weak and suffered too much to continue. How she regained health:—

Frankfort, Ky.—"I suffered so much with female weakness that I could not do my own work, had to hire it done. I heard so much about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound that I tried it. I took three bottles and I found it to be all you claim. Now I feel as well as ever I did and am able to do all my own work again. I recommend it to any women suffering from female weakness. You may publish my letter if you wish."—Mrs. JAMES CONLEY, 516 St. Clair St., Frankfort, Ky.

No woman suffering from any form of female troubles should lose hope until she has given Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a fair trial.

This famous remedy, the medicinal ingredients of which are derived from native roots and herbs, has for forty years proved to be a most valuable tonic and invigorator of the female organism.

All women are invited to write to the Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., Lynn, Mass., for special advice,—it will be confidential.

Grasshoppers Flying Feats.

The grasshopper would seem to have nothing in common with the sea-gull, yet they have been picked up in swarms at sea in some cases no less than 1,200 miles from the nearest land.

The African grasshopper has been known to cross the Red and Mediterranean Seas in destructive numbers, and even to fly to the Canary Islands. For the most part they are of a migratory species noted for its great flights. The bodies are about 2½ in. long, and equipped with large air sacks in addition to the usual breathing tubes. These sacks have on the effect so that it is able to stay in the air for days at a time exerting practically no effort at all. During flight its speed varies from three to twenty miles an hour. When it is tired it rests on the water and is borne along by the waves.

Enthusiastic.

Under the heading, 'There's an Orchard a Hundred Miles Long in Nova Scotia,' The Maple Leaf published in Oakland, California, say:

'Grandmothers of all orchards on this continent are those of Nova Scotia, between two great rolls of mountains that use to be lava when the world was young, and now play at wind breaking for the hundred-mile long Annapolis Valley, with the bright blue Annapolis River flowing down the center of it. The Acadian French planted the first trees back in 1605, trees they brought over in Normandie in little sailing vessels we'd be afraid to trust out of sight of the pierhead.

Who doesn't love apple blossoms—miles of 'em, with a salt ocean breeze shaking out the sweetness, and a June sun flirting with every perfect tree at the same time? Who doesn't love a baked apple, too,—a big, red, juicy, baked apple like a melting island in a sea of cream? The Nova Scotians assert that there are no apples to compare with theirs, because the salt air gives them a taste that no inland grown fruit can boast of.

Apple growing is a good proposition in Nova Scotia, for the trees live from 40 to 60 years in the valley as compared with 20 to 60 years in more trying climates. Cranberries, raspberries, strawberries and all other small fruits do well, to say nothing of the Digby chickens which make the most wonderful pies you ever tasted.

A motor trip through Nova Scotia is an ideal summer holiday. The little towns nestle into their orchards like violet under its leaves; the sparkling basin is an infinitely extended, sun warmed bathing beach; all the farmhouses are painted white, and, as these are old pictures, they stay that way; the stage accounts against the wild Nova country. And finally, there is all the game and all the fishing you'd want in the rough country over South Mountain, where the shooting boxes late their September guests with a promise of moose.'

A Builder of Health.

Nothing can be of greater assistance in building up the system than Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, for this food cure forms new, rich blood, and nourishes and restores the feeble, wasted nerve cells. Gradually and naturally the body and mind regain vigor and energy, and you feel again the joy of living which comes only to people in good health.

A Link With the Past.

SO YEARS SINCE PILLORY WAS ABOLISHED IN BRITAIN

It is just eighty years ago since the pillory was abolished in Britain. The pillory as a form of torture is known all over Europe, and, from all accounts, it had a larger history in Germany than in England.

Its form is, of course, familiar to all. The culprit, generally a criminal—though men were often put in the pillory for political offences as well—was placed on a platform, and his head and hands were secured in a small [illegible] against the culprit, his fate was often a terrible one, for the enraged populace often beat and stoned him.

Readers of Besant's novel, 'The Orange Girl,' will know how this torture was dreaded by all classes of criminals. Occasionally a prominent and influential personality would be sentenced to detention in the pillory, as was Lord Cochrane, but, fortunately for his lordship, the punishment was never carried out. Strange scenes were witnessed at the pillory, as in 1739, when the offender was supplied with refreshmenes during his imprisonment, and protected from the weather by means of an umbrella.

Necessity For Sleep.

RESULT OF TEST BY SCIENTIFIC INVESTIGATORS.

The question of how much sleep is necessary for the health of human beings has for long been of interest to scientists. In order to test the effects of wakefulness on the system, a number of scientific men some time ago agreed to be forcibly kept awake for ninety hours, or nearly four days and nights, and to be watched by colleagues throughout that period. At intervals of six hours various tests were applied to the experimenters to determine the condition of their memory, vision, motor capabilities, and so on.

Only three 'victims' were able to endure to the end, but, curiously enough, it was discovered that all three maintained a steady increase in weight during their time of trial, although after they went to sleep at the end of the experiment their weight decreased very perceptibly. Those who have ever suffered from insomnia will thoroughly appreciate the courage of these investigators who wilfully abstained from 'Nature's sweet restorer' for nearly four days and nights!

Ich Dien or Eich Dyn.

Which is accurate as the motto of the Prince of Wales—Ich Dien or Eich Dyn? The one is German and the other Welsh. The one means 'I serve,' the other 'Behold the man' or 'Behold your man.'

'Ich Dien' was the motto of John, king of Bohemia, whom the Black Prince slew at Crecy. 'Eich Dyn' are the words supposed to have been used by Edward I. when presenting his infant son to the Welsh assembly at Caernarvon.

Welsh tradition has adhered naturally to the Welsh form. The other has been more popularly accepted.—London Lady's Pictorial.

Weak Boys and Girls.

It is a mistake to think that anaemia is only a girl's complaint. Girls probably show the effect of weak, watery blood more plainly than boys. Delayed development, pale faces, headaches, palpitation, and a feeling of listlessness, call attention to weak blood in the case of girls. But many boys in their teens grow thin and "weedy" and have pimples on the face, showing that they have not enough blood. The anaemic boy is just as likely to become a victim of consumption as the pale, breathless girl with her headaches and worn-out look. Let the boy in this condition catch cold and he will lose his strength and his health becomes precarious.

To prevent serious disaster to those of the rising generation, let both boys and girls be given the new, rich blood which Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are famous the world over for making. When giving these pills watch how soon the appetite returns and how the languid girl or the weak boy becomes full of activity and high spirits. Remember that the boy has to develop, too, if he is to make a strong hearty man. Give both the boys and girls a fair chance to develop strongly through the new, rich blood Dr. Williams' Pink Pills actually make. You will then see active boys and girls instead of weakly children around you.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are sold by all medicine dealers or may be obtained by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Severe Headaches and Pains in the Back

Resulted From Deranged Kidneys and Constipation of the Bowels.

It is in vain to try to regulate and restore the healthful action of the kidneys until the liver and bowels are set right.

And just here is where so many kidney medicines fail. Kidney derangements almost invariably begin with constipation and torpidity of the liver. The whole work of filtering the blood is thrown on the kidneys, and in time they fail to stand the strain. The poison in the system gives rise to severe headaches, pains in the back and tired, depressed feelings.

Because they act directly on the liver and bowels, as well as on the kidneys, Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills are eminently successful in the treatment of kidney derangements.

Mr. William Loney, Maryville, N.B., writes:—"I am glad to recommend Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills to anybody who is suffering from kidney trouble or constipation. I suffered for a long time from kidney disease and pains in the back, but have found that by using one pill a week the kidneys and bowels are kept in good order, and I do not have any more pains in the back or head like I used to have. I was also a great sufferer from piles, and could get no relief until I used Dr. Chase's Ointment. This ailment is entirely cured now, but we always keep both the pills and the ointment in the house for use when they are needed."

This statement is endorsed by Mr. F. Saunders, Town Marshal, who writes that Mr. Loney's letter is true and correct.
