MUSIC AND DRAMA

TONIGHT AT THE GRAND

This evening at the Grand Opera House the Pollard Juvenile Opera Company open a five nights' engagement in repertoire. During Old Boys' week in August last this talented company of juveniles appeared at the Grand, and created a favorable impression, so much so, in fact, that Manager Turton hailed with delight the opportunity offered by Lessee Small in the re-engagement of the company for this week. That the business will be enormous goes without saying, so many inquiries for seats for the different operas having been made since the sale opened on Friday last. Tonight "The Belle of New York" will be the bill, and Managers Turton and Pollard have added as an extra attraction the sight of 300 London newsboys as their guests They will occupy the gallery, and will doubtless appreciate to the fullest extent the treat offered by their juvenile friends of the Pollard Company, to say nothing of the compliment paid them by the management. The repertoire for the balance of the engagement is as follows: Tuesday, "A Runaway Girl"; Wednesday matinee, "Pinafore"; Wednesday evening, "The Geisha"; Thursday, "A Gaiety Girl"; Friday, "A Lady Slavey." The engagement is at popular prices, and none of our readers should miss this last opportunity of witnessing the clever performance of the Pollard Australian Juvenile Opera Company.

WILL HAVE HORSE RACES

Dorchester Fair Management Deny That Contests Have Been Cut Out.

The management of the Dorchester Fair announce that the speed programme for this year's show will be much more interesting than at former fairs. One event which in the past has invariably been captured by the same person, has been cut out, and in its stead there will be a race that will attract a larger number of competitors.

For some days past the statement has been circulated that the horse races had been abolished for this year. This the fair management desires to contradict.

The fair is to be held on Wednesday, and with fine weather it is sure to attract the usual large crowd.

The Pennsylvania railroad was chartered in 1846. Construction was begun in the following year, and the road was opened in 1854. Trains to Chicago were first run over this road in 1858.

The little Doctor, in your Vest Pocket

SEE the thin, round-cornered little Enamel Box below! When carried in your vest pocket it means Health-Insurance.

It contains Six Candy Tablets of pleasant taste, almost as pleasant as Chocolate.

Each tablet is a working dose of Cascarets, which acts like Exercise on the Bowels and Liver.

* * *

It will not purge, sicken, nor upset the stomach.

Because it is not a "Bile-driver," like Salts, Sodium, Calomel, Jalap, Senna, nor Aperient Waters.

These waste Digestive Juices of the system needed tomorrow, in merely flushing-out the Bowels today.

* * *

Neither is it like Castor Oil, Glycerine, or other Oily Laxatives that simply lubricate the Intestines for transit of the food stopped up in them at that particular time.

These emergency drugs relieve the immediate trouble, but do not relieve its Cause.

The same trouble will therefore recur again till that Cause is removed permanently.

The chief cause of Constipation and Indigestion is a weakness of the Muscles that contract the Intestines and Bowels.

Cascarets are practically to the Bowel Muscles what a Massage and Cold Bath are to the Athletic Muscles.

They stimulate the Bowel Muscles to contract, expand, and squeeze the Digestive Juices out of food eaten.

Cascarets do this naturally, without purging or discomfort.

They don't help the Bowels and Liver in such a way as to make them lean upon similar assistance for the future.

This is why, with Cascarets, the dose may be lessened each succeeding time instead of increased, as it must be with all succeeding doses of other Cathartic and Laxatives.

* * *

Cascarets act like exercise.

If carried in your Vest Pocket, (or carried in My Lady's Purse,) and eaten just when you suspect you need one, you will never know a sick day from the ordinary Ills of life.

* * *

Because, nearly all these Ills begin the Bowels, and partial Constipation paves the way for all other Diseases.

"Vest Pocket" box 10 cents.

Be sure you get the genuine, made only by the Sterling Remedy Company, and never sold in bulk. Every tablet stamped "CCC."

A sample and the famous booklet, "Curse of Constipation," Free for the asking. Address Sterling Remedy Company, Chicago or New York. 670

SULTAN'S BUTCHERS AT THE OLD GAME

Troops Massacre Innocent Men, Women, Children.

FRESH CRY FROM MACEDONIA

Lord Lansdowne Says the British Government is Investigating—Englishman Tells of Deeds.

London, Oct. 1.—W. A. Moore, secretary of the Balkan committee, who has returned from a two months' tour of Macedonia, said to the Associated Press today: "The wanton slaughter of Christians in Macedonia continues today under the eyes of European representatives.

"Crossing the Bulgarian frontier, the first news to greet me was that of an unpardonable massacre in Konopnitza, three days before my arrival. On visiting the village I found the bodies of a man, two women, a girl and three children still unburied, the last four in the Christian Church. The women had been shot, but I saw one child whose head had been crushed, probably with the butt of a gun.

"The story of the affair is a repetition of the oft-told tale: An insurgent band visited the village, and, on departing, demanded food. The Turkish authorities, learning of the visit, dispatched a body of troops, which, discovering no insurgents in the place, dealt out their revenge on the Christians.

"The observation of the European officers seldom deters the Mohammedans from slaying Christians. The Austrian officer in the Koumanova district has charge of 119 villages, where most brutal murders are of daily occurrence and are not noticed by the authorities. In the Monastir district the Italian officrs sleep with the Turkish army in order to observe its methods of suppressing insurgents. This, however, only prevents special detachment from perpetrating crime.

"The village of Mogla, in which an Albanian brigand was assassinated, was punished by Turkish troops. Nine unarmed peasants were killed, arms were placed beside them in a cornfield in order to deceive the Italian officers, who were invited to inspect the insurgents, but the rifles were of a pattern used by troops in the Monastir district.

"Brigandage continues flagrantly, and life and property are less safe than before Austria and Russia were given the mandate to reform the country two years ago. The gendarmerie officers admit their inability to protect the population, and several of them told me they had so reported to their Governments.

"The Macedonians have no hope left."

London, Oct. 1.—Noel Buxton, M. P., chairman of the Balkan committee, wrote to Foreign Minister Lansdowne with reference to the massacre by Turkish troops.

Lord Lansdowne replied to the effect that the Government was already investigating.

POLISH AUTHOR SHUT UP IN FLAT

Writer of "Quo Vadis" Gets a Unique Sentence for Patriotic Activity.

Warsaw, Poland, Oct. 2. — As cable grams from Warsaw already will have informed readers, Henryk Sienkiewicz, the novelist, who makes his home in this turbulent city, has recently been experiencing the displeasure of the Russian authorities. The distinguished author of "Quo Vadis" recently joined several of his fellow citizens of Warsaw in drawing up and publishing a vigorous protest against the Russification of Polish schools, and for so doing was arrested and sentenced to a fortnight's detention in the unpretentious flat which he occupies in Hoza street.

Sienkiewicz's Warsaw home is of modest dimensions and plainly furnished. Although situated in the best part of Warsaw, Hoza is not an inviting street. One end of it resembles a street in the Ghetto of New York, badly paved with huge cobblestones and lined with small shops of uninviting appearance, kept by slatternly women whose children, playing in the roadway, are none too clean.

Further down, however, where Sienkiewicz lives, the street is much better, and the neighborhood is a favorite one for the professional classes known in Poland and in Russia also as the "intelligents."

Here in Warsaw, as in his country home at Oblengorek, the author lives a quiet and regular life. He is not an early riser, at least not in the city, and it is usually 10 o'clock or later before he sits down to the ordinary continental breakfast of coffee and rolls, supplemented perhaps with eggs. After breakfast he reads the Warsaw papers with the keen interest of the Polish patriot that he is. Following the custom here, he dines about 1 o'clock. "Barszch," a delicious Polish soup, a kind of bouillon with essence of beetroot, and "bigos," a Polish stew prepared from cold meats and cabbage, are two of his favorite dishes.

After dinner a walk, usually into the city, tea, and then a light supper, and Sienkiewicz is ready for work. Almost invariably he works at night and often far into the early morning. Recently, however, his health has interfered with this practice and compelled him to keep more reasonable hours.

Spending his winters and most of the spring in Warsaw, the author and his family go off to Oblengorek as soon as the weather begins to get warm. Oblengorek is a fine estate in the Province of Kielce, Southern Poland, and was presented to Sienkiwicz in 1900 as a mark of the admiration and esteem felt for him by his fellow-countrymen. It cost $40,000, and the money was raised by public subscription. Many friends sent articles of furniture, china, bric-a-brac and other things, both useful and ornamental for a household, so that Sienkiewicz found his new home to a large extent ready for his occupation.

The house has an imposing exterior and is one of the type usually occupied by the Polish landed gentry. Surrounded by extensive park lands, it lies in a beautiful hilly and wooded country. The soil however, is rocky, poor and unproductive. Indeed, if the truth must be told Oblengorek has proved a sort of "white elephant" to the novelist, who, it is said, has put his hand in his pocket pretty deeply to keep up the home presented to him by his admiring fellow-countrymen.

In spite of his great literary talent and the undoubted success of his books, the distinguished author of "Quo Vadis" is not believed to be rich. His works have brought him more fame than money. While they have been translated into many tongues and published in many lands, they have never yielded him anything like what might reasonably have been expected. Russia's lack of copyright laws makes it difficult for her literary men to protect their work abroad.

At the present time Sienkiewicz has arranged to have his books appear first in England, a course which has greatly offended the patriotic sentiments of the Poles, but it is only fair and reasonable, after all, that he should do everything possible to get the best remuneration for his toil.

When in Oblengorek, Sienkiewicz rises much earlier than in town, spending a considerable part of the day in the open air. He walks, rides and drives a great deal, delighting in exercise generally. Shooting is his favorite pastime, and there are few days in the season when he does not go out with his gun in hand. He is a remarkably good shot, too. On his own estate there is only small game, such as hares, pheasants and partridges; but he is constantly invited to big shoots in Lithuania, where bears and wild boars abound. Slendiewicz has shot much bigger game still in British East Africa, and has written delightful stories of adventure in those lands.

ANARCHIST AFTER PRES. ROOSEVELT

But U. S. Executive Was Surrounded by Guards and He Escapes Attack.

New York, Oct. 1.—President Roosevelt and his party, while traveling Saturday from Oyster Bay to Washington, were guarded by a small detachment of secret service men, owing to the receipt by the Government officers that Mari Emil Serven, an insane anarchist and murderer, had escaped from the State Insane Asylum at Farmington, Mass., and had been seen in New York City early Saturday.

As Serven is known to be closely affiliated with anarchists of the violent stripe, the secret service men sent word Saturday morning to the New York police that the President and his family must be protected by every man on the uniformed and detective force.

The President and his family, however, reached Long Island City, crossed to Jersey City on the ferryboat Nassau and started on his special train to Washington in safety.

That Serven planned an attack on the President was borne out by information received first by Detective Leonard, of the Central office, and later by J. A. Graham, chief of the detectives of Jersey City.

Serven made his appearance in Long Island City before the police had been notified of his escape, and long before the arrival of the President's train. The man was well dressed and his manner attracted attention. Then, too, he limped perceptibly in the left leg, and his constant walking showed that he was nervous.

When the President arrived he had never before been under such a guard. A cordon of police was formed from his train to the Nassau, which carried him to Jersey City. A score of detectives formed a circle about him and he was hurried to the boat. He stopped long enough to shake hands with the engineer and fireman, and then the detectives pressed about him and he was carried forward.

The instant the President was inside the gate leading to the boat, Inspector of Police Nally closed the gate. It was not opened again until Mrs. Roosevelt, the Roosevelt children and servants of the family came up.

Serven, according to a report that reached Detective Leonard, boarded a Twenty-third street Pennsylvania ferryboat. He took a seat in the upper deck and was there when President Roosevelt arrived. In Jersey City, Chief Graham said he learned that three men had joined Serven in Jersey City. All of them pressed against the fences to see the President.

That one of the men was Serven the police were convinced. They began a search for him and the guard about the President's car was made stronger. Leonard expressed the belief that Serven was hiding in New York. He communicated with the secret service agents without delay.

RUSSIA TO BURY HERO

Remains of the Brave Kondratenko Reach Odessa from Far East.

Odessa, Oct. 1. — The remains of Major - General Kondratenko, commander of the Seventh East Siberian Rifles, who was killed December last during the siege of Port Arthur, and who is honored throughout Russia as the foremost hero of the war, arrived here today on a steamer from Port Arthur.

The body was received with a great civic and military demonstration in striking contrast with the indifference displayed on the arrival of Lieut.-Gen. Stoessel.

Deputations brought wreaths from many cities and from the Russian army in Manchuria.

A special train tomorrow will convey in state to St. Petersburg, where, in the presence of Emperor Nicholas, it will be interred in the Alexander Nevsky Monastery, the resting place of the empire's most celebrated men, including Russia's militant saint and national hero, Alexander Nevsky, Prince of Novgorod, Grand Duke Vladimir and patron of St. Petersburg; Count Alexander Suvaroff, the celebrated Russian field marshal, and of the composers Peter Itichtschalkowsky, Anton Rubinstein and Mikhailivanovitch Glinka.

Five hundred Russians from Port Arthur arrived on the steamer which also brought the body of Paul Lessar, who died while minister at Pekin.

It's a man's outgo that plays havoc with his income.

INTERRED AT WOODLAND

Remains of the Late H. T. Smith Laid at Rest.

Impressive ceremonies marked the funeral of the late Mr. H. T. Smith, claims agent of the London Street Railway, which was held to Woodland Cemetery yesterday afternoon. Citizens of all classes turned out as a mark of respect to the deceased. Rev. Dyson Hague, rector of the Memorial Church, of which deceased was a respected member, conducted both services, and made a very appropriate reference to the worth of the late Mr. Smith. Employes of the London Street Railway attended the funeral in a body, as did also the members of the Sons of England and St. George's Society.

Many beautiful floral tributes were offered, and the casket was draped in a large Union Jack.

The pallbearers were Messrs. W. Skinner, A Warp, N. Smith, C. Bart, John Bedal and H. Wellbourne.

HIS COUNTRY DISGRACED

This Jap Thought So and Committed Suicide at New York.

New York, N. Y., Sept. 0. — A well-dressed and educated Japanese, who registered at the Delaware Hotel, Third avenue and Thirty-fourth street, as K. Nakamer, committed suicide tonight by slashing his throat from ear to ear and then jumping from the roof to an extension, a distance of four stories.

Both legs and several ribs were broken, and he was dead when found.

He had been brooding over the Japanese-Russian peace terms, and had told the hotel proprietor that his country had been disgraced.

JOYS OF MATERNITY

A WOMAN'S BEST HOPES REALIZED

Mrs. Potts Tells How Women Should Prepare for Motherhood

The darkest days of husband and wife are when they come to look forward to childless and lonely old age.

Many a wife has found herself incapable of motherhood owing to a displacement of the womb or lack of strength in the generative organs.

Mrs. Anna Potts

Frequent backache and distressing pains, accompanied by offensive discharges and generally by irregular and scanty menstruation indicate a displacement or nerve degeneration of the womb and surrounding organs.

The question that troubles women is how can a woman who has some female trouble bear healthy children?

Mrs. Anna Potts, of 510 Park Avenue, Hot Springs, Ark., writes:

My Dear Mrs. Pinkham:—

"During the early part of my married life I was delicate in health; both my husband and I were very anxious for a child to bless our home, but I had two miscarriages, and could not carry a child to maturity. A neighbor who had been cured by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound advised me to try it. I did so and soon felt that I was growing stronger, my headaches and backaches left me, I had no more bearing-down pains, and felt like a new woman. Within a year I became the mother of a strong, healthy child, the joy of our home. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is certainly a splendid remedy, and I wish every woman who wants to become a mother would try it."

Actual sterility in woman is very rare. If any woman thinks she is sterile, let her try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and write to Mrs. Pinkham, Lynn, Mass. Her advice is free to expectant or would-be mothers.

THEY NEVER KNEW FAILURE.—Careful observation of the effects of Parmelee's Vegetable Pills has shown that they act immediately on the diseased organs of the system and stimulate them to healthy action. There may be cases in which the disease has been long seated and does not easily yield to medicine, but even in such cases these Pills have been known to bring relief when all other so-called remedies have failed. These assertions can be substantiated by many who have used the Pills, and medical men speak highly of their qualities.
