THE MOVEMENT AGAINST FOREIGNERS CONTINUES.

The Government Apparently Powerless to Prevent the Spreading of Uprising Documents.

BY TELEGRAPH TO THE GAZETTE.

NEW YORK, Oct. 27.—A despatch from Shanghai says the anti-foreign movements continue in Hunan province. The government is apparently unable to prevent the spreading of the uprising. Documents are displayed on the walls everywhere urging the people to "prevent the violation of our country and drive from the province the devil mouthed European pigs."

COUNTY COURT.

Congratulations to Judge Peters—His Reply of Thanks—Court Business.

The St. John county court opened at 11 o'clock this morning, the new judge B. Lester Peters, presiding. Before the proceedings of the court were commenced, Mr. Allen O. Earle, president of the St. John Law society, rose and addressed Judge Peters as follows:—

On behalf of the members of the bar of this city, comprising the St. John law society, of which I have the honor to be president, I have the pleasing duty of tendering your honor congratulations on your elevation to this important and dignified position. Since the establishment of this court it has been presided over by but one judge, the memory of whose conduct during the long period which he held office, will always be of the most satisfactory character to reflect upon. And I may add that he will have in your honor no unworthy successor, and that we feel that the cordial relations which existed in such an eminent degree, between the deceased judge and the bar, will find their copy in the relations which will no doubt exist between your honor and the bar. In conclusion I may wish that your honor may for many years preside in this court, and maintain, I will not say add, to the reputation which your honor has already secured.

His honor Judge Peters spoke in reply as follows:—

"Mr. President and members of the Law and Barristers society of St. John, I thank you very heartily for the cordial congratulations which you have been kind enough to extend to me upon my elevation to the position of judge of the county court of the city and county of St. John.

"On this morning our hearts are all full, of the thought of sad remembrances to which you have referred, as we dwell on the sudden and lamented death of my predecessor in office, the Honorable Judge Watters. At the last term of this court he was among us, enjoying his full intellectual capacity and ability, and so far as ordinary expectation could forecast, likely to endure many years of honored life. But he was suddenly called away from the many duties which for so long a period of years, he had performed, not only in connection with the judicial position that he held with so much honor to himself and so much satisfaction to the community and the people at large, but also in many private positions and positions of civic importance, to all which he lent the energy, the ability, the constant care and attention for which he was so eminent in all the positions he held. The sorrow of this community at his death, the strong feeling to which expression was given not only here but in every part of the province, were the best evidences of the esteem in which he was held. And when you refer to my succession in this office and convey your congratulations to me in so many kind words, there are none I can echo with a heartier feeling than the hope, that it may be my privilege as time passes along to prove myself here not an unworthy successor of that distinguished judge. Again I thank you very much, for this gathering and your cordial congratulations to myself, and I hope that it will be the result of my efforts, as it will be my earnest endeavour, in every way to act so as to be a worthy successor of the judge who has passed away."

At the conclusion of Judge Peters' address, the members of the bar present stepped up one by one, and shaking hands with him tendered their congratulations individually.

The following is the jury panel:—Frederick A. Peters, Timothy J. Brown' Edward A. Everett, Richard Whiteside, Frederick W. Dorman, Charles L. Ramsay, James H. Carnall, Frederick L. Scribner, Conoley Robertson, Isaac Stevens, James Simpson, John Hammond.

GREEN GOODS MEN.

IMPORTANT ARRESTS MADE BY THE NEW YORK POLICE.

"Pretty Frank" Brooks and "Poodle" Murphy Under Arrest and Their Whole Outfit Confiscated—Thousands of Names of Intended Victims and Piles of Circulars.

NEW YORK, Oct. 27.—Inspector Byrnes says he is determined to break up the green goods industry in this city. As evidence of his earnestness in carrying out this intention he has arrested Frank Brooks, alias "Pretty Frank," and Terence Murphy, alias "Poodle Murphy."

Both men were found at their homes late on Saturday night by central office detectives. Brooks lived at 201 East Eighteenth sireet, and Murphy at 212 East One Hundred and Fourteenth street. Both are old-time crooks. Hitherto their crookedness has been principally in the pocket-picking and small sneak-thieving business.

Murphy once gained some notoriety by being caught while attempting to steal Secretary Robeson's gold watch in Philadelphia. Both are ex-convicts, and have served sentences for larceny. The inspector has been watching them for a long time.

On Saturday afternoon he gave orders to arrest the men at the first opportunity. That night while the detectives were watching Brooks' house, they saw him enter it. They followed in a few minutes. Brooks was found seated at his desk addressing a batch of green goods circulars. He had had too much experience to make any resistance when he was arrested. When he had been locked up at police headquarters Murphy was as quietly arrested.

A search of the rooms of Brooks and Murphy revealed a stock of green goods literature.

Brook's outfit was more extensive than his associates. In his room were found 46 note books containing the names and addresses of more than 60,000 business men scattered throughout the United States. Most of the names had the cipher designation by which the swindlers had classified their intended or their real victims. The inspectors think the list had been made up mostly from Bradstreet's and Dun's books, and from lists obtained from postmasters on some pretext.

With these books were two tin boxes in which were nearly 6000 letters and telegrams from persons who had received the circulars and prospectuses of the green goods men. Letters of announcement and caution, the regular stereotyped circulars and telegraph forms were found in profusion.

In Murphy's rooms were found a complete outfit of circulars and letters and telegrams, and a hektograph.

Inspector Byrnes says that this gang has been working for about a year and a half. Unlike some other gangs, this one had money to start with. It bought for $1000 a complete little printing office. Then it printed a stock of circulars big enough to last a lifetime. They got out 500,000 telegraph forms, letters and circulars, and such other little things as are incident to the trade. A tremendous supply of bogus newspaper clippings was one of their strongest cards.

When they had printed enough stuff to run 100 ordinary gangs they sold their printing office and began work on a big scale. The first circular the gang sent out was a long one. It dealt principally with the ease with which some agents of the gang had accumulated independent fortunes, told a great deal about the surprising merit of the supposed counterfeits, and included a moving appeal to the person receiving the circular not to be a "traitor" and betray the sender, but to take the circular as it was meant—an earnest, sincere effort to be of service to the victim, who had been recommended to the swindler by warm personal acquaintances.

The receiver was to send an inclosed telegram, simply giving the correct name, all the rest being in cipher.

In the supply of answers from victims found in Brook's tin box was a telegram dated at Ramer, Ala., Oct. 23. It read: "Send instructions provided with 404," and was signed by J. M. Talbot, Troy, Ala.

This telegram was what is known as the "first" telegram. It is one the firm enclosed in the first circular, and asks for instructions how to come for the goods.

On receiving this telegram, these swindlers sent out "second" circular. It enclosed a "sample," which was really a good bill cut into two pieces. It quotes scripture and gives prices of green goods.

Brooks and Murphy will be arraigned at the tombs court to-morrow morning. It is probable that other arrests will be made.

DEATH FROM RABIES.

Pasteur Treatment Fails to Save a Hydophobia Victim.

BY TELEGRAPH TO THE GAZETTE

COLUMBIA, S. C., Oct. 27.—Robert D. Morton, a well known young engineer on the Richmond & Danville road, was bitten by a mad dog on Aug 6, and 25 hours thereafter he was among the patients of the Pasteur Institute in New York city.

He was inoculated twice daily for 25 days, when he was discharged as cured, returned to this city and resumed his duties.

Last Friday he was attacked by severe pains in his side, where he had been inoculated, and Saturday morning he showed every symptom of hydrophobia.

At 6 o'clock this morning he died in horrible agony. Morton's family severely condemn the treatment of the Pasteur Institute, and it is stated that official notice of the case will be taken by the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers.

THE QUEBEC BOODLE.

PACAUD UNDER CROSS-EXAMINATION.

A Strange Tale of Rascality Among the Liberals—The Little Boodler Still on the Stand.

SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.

QUEBEC, Oct. 27.—The Royal commission resumed its work at 10 o'clock this morning.

Ernest Pacaud, the little boodler who has kept the governmental structure on its base for the last five or six years, through his ingenuity in supplying funds was again on the stand.

Judge Jette questioned the witness at length as to the way he cashed his cheque in different banking institutions. One thing that was noticeable in Pacaud's boodle manipulation is that he so mixed his own money with Mr. Mercier's funds, and the Baie des Chaleur's $100,000 with Mr. Chas. Langelier's brotherly gift, that the honorable commissioners and the solicitors are puzzled as to which is which.

It was hitherto believed that only Pacaud, Langelois and Armstrong had been mixed in the banking manipulation, but Honorable Judge Jette managed to get out of Pacaud the fact that there had been some one else who had endeavored to cash some of the famous five cheques of $20,000.

Of course Mr. Pacaud would not divulge the name but after considerable hesitation and after having been ordered by the president of the commission, Mr. Pacaud came out reluctantly with "Hon. Mr. Robidoux."

It appears that not having been able to convince the bankers here of the propriety of accepting his cheques, Mr. Pacaud went straight to Montreal where Mr. Robidoux offered himself to have the cheque cashed in some of the institutions there.

Pacaud declared that after having, of his own accord, solemnly sworn that nobody, not even his friend Chas. Langelois, knew of his boodling transactions, and now he himself avows having given the cheque to Mr. Robideaux, who of course could not be expected to ignore its origin.

Mr. Casgrain has the task of examining the witness this afternoon and it is expected that something interesting will be extracted from Pacaud.

The Hatch was waterlogged and in a sinking condition and had everything moveable swept from her decks. The Carrol rescued the crew. An unknown schooner was seen to go alongside the wrecked vessel and put a crew aboard.

It was arranged to settle the dispute with a fight after 5 o'clock and McDonald was the first to go to the shed. take off his coat and clean up the floor in readiness for the scrimmage. Croxen assisted him and when they faced each other McDonald assumed the defensive. After some sham blows Croxen struck McDonald and he fell. As McDonald's jaw was broken the fight was stopped. THE TIMES BRACE.

BY ROYAL LETTER PATENT.

The Times Brace remedies a fault which has been long apparent in manufactured braces, a fault which the public and manufacturers themselves have been equally sensible. Many years experience as a Brace manufacturer has taught the patantee that braces are rarely worn out, but simply destroyed by the cutting of the leathers, caused by friction. In The Times Brace this has been entirely obviated by placing a Metal Bush inside the leathers, so that friction being removed, cutting becomes impossible. A pair of these Braces wear twice as long as an ordinary pair, and so virtually places in the hands of the public a strong, neat and elegantly finished brace at half the usual price, and for a sample pair full 36 inches long, 55 and 65 cents a pair.
