In this issue will be found the advertisement of the Tea Party at Cardigan Bridge on Tuesday August 1st. As this date coincides with the closing of "Home Comers" Week, the tea party will afford an opportunity to all for general reunion and exchange of courtesies. Those in charge of the arrangements will leave nothing undone to minister to the comfort and amusement of all visitors. Don't forget the date Tuesday August 1st.

In the House of Commons, Ottawa, on Friday evening last, Mr. McKenzie, brought up the question of the embargo placed upon Canadian cattle, which was discussed by the Agriculture committee during the present session. Mr. Bickerdike: "I have been doing business with John Bull for thirty years, and find there is no sentiment in him at all. John Bull would deal with a Hottentot or Zulu as soon as with a loyal Canadian. The time has arrived when Canada should respectfully but firmly demand its rights and this stigma of disease removed, so that Canadian cattle may be sent wherever the British flag floats."

A Paris dispatch of the 7th inst. says: M. Thompson, Minister of Marine has issued a bulletin announcing that the French submarine boat, Farfadet, was lost on Thursday morning at the entrance to Port Sidi Abdalah, Tunis, under the following circumstances, Commander Butler at the moment of plunging, noticed one of the flaps not closed properly and rushed to readjust it hermetically. He was too late. The water rushed in with force throwing out the commandant and two men. The boat sank in ten minute, and is now lying in mud at the bottom. Twelve men are encased in the boat. Powerful tugs and a strong contingent of engineers are working in an attempt to bring up the entombed crew and its contents. Advices of the 9th from Tunis to Paris say the boat has been raised and that those so heard were still alive notwithstanding their being several days under water. They are suffering considerably but will recover. The boat has been pumped out and found to be little the worse for her adventure. She has been towed into the harbor.

LOCAL AND OTHER ITEMS

The town of Albert, Albert County, N. B, was swept by fire on Friday evening last and damage to the extent of about $40,000 was done. Twenty-eight buildings were destroyed and about twenty families were left homeless. There was little insurance.

A dispatch of yesterter's date from San Jose California says: Mountain forest fires are threatening the Lick Observatory on Mt. Hamilton. The Professors at the Observatory telegraphed asking the Government to call the militia to fight the flames. The fire is now within eight miles of the Observatory.

W. T. Sherwood, Manager of the Imperial Packing Company at Woodstock, N. B., came to his death very suddenly Saturday evening. He went out in a canoe and intended to return in time to meet his son who was coming home from the Military Camp at Sussex. When he did not return neighbors went in search and found the canoe on the shore and a short distance away Sherwood's body in three feet of water. It is thought he was stricken with heart failure and fell out of the boat. He was fifty-five years old.

A woman who came from Boston to Yarmouth via the Dominion Atlantic Steamer Boston, and proceeded by rail towards Halifax had with her a girl child about four months old. At Windsor she got off the train, on the pretence of seeing about her ticket, and asked another passenger to hold the child until she returned. She never came back and when the train reached Halifax, the other passenger was tied down to the care of a child of whose parentage she knew absolutely nothing. Rather awkward.

Fire broke out in the Borrisia coal mine at Dartmund Prussia yesterday. It was caused by the careless handling of a lamp by some boys. The lamp exploded igniting the timber supporting the shafting which burned rapidly. Two hundred and fifty miners escaped through the air shaft. But 39 were cut off and their death is regarded as certain. The work rescue is attended with great danger owing to the escape of poisonins gases and six of the rescuers are reported missing. The ground over the mine is sinking gradually with a sound like thunder as the supporting timbers are burned away. Great crowds of women and children are standing about the mine in the drenching rain hoping for the rescue of their husbands and fathers.

Kniaz Potemkine Surrendered in Roumania.

Kustenji, Roumania, July 9.—The Russian battleship Kniaz Potemkine arrived here at two o'clock Saturday. She soon entered into communication by signals with the Roumanian authorities and it was learned that the crew of the battleship wished to surrender. They desired to accept the terms offered by Roumania on the previous visit of the battleship here, that they be treated as deserters. The members of the crew would take this chance rather than cast in their lot with the revolutionists. The authorities demanded the breech blocks of the battleship's guns as evidence of good faith, and these were handed over. Later the crew were brought ashore and have been sent in small parties to different places in Germany. The mutineers did not want to have the Kniaz Potemkine restored to Russia, but Admiral Kruger's squadron was communicated with and arrived here to lay and took charge.

Kustenji, Roumania, July 9.—Admiral Kruger this afternoon boarded and took possession of the Russian battleship Kniaz Potemkine, which was on Saturday surrendered to the Roumanian squadron, King Charles of Roumania, having sent instructions to the commander of the Roumanian squadron, that the vessel be delivered to the Russian authorities without raising difficulties. The torpedo boat which accompanied the Kniaz Potemkine, however, left for Odessa without surrendering, declaring that she had not mutinied, but that the Kniaz Potemkine had forced her to follow. Admiral Kruger arrived with his squadron this morning and after exchanging the customary salutes intimated that he had come to arrange for the transfer of the Kniaz Potemkine. Admiral Koslinsky, commander of the Roumanian squadron, boarded the Russian battleship Tchesme and informed Admiral Kruger that King Charles had ordered him to turn the vessel over to the Russian admiral. The formalities of the transfer were completed this afternoon and Admiral Kruger boarded the Kniaz Potemkine. The Associated Press representative inspected the Kniaz Potemkine after the withdrawal of the Roumanian guard. Despite the efforts of the Roumanians to get things in ship-shape order aboard, the battleship was still in a state of wild disorder. The officer's cabins were stripped of everything of any value and bloodstains were everywhere. There was sufficient ammunition aboard the Kniaz Potemkine to have enabled the mutineers to make a desperate resistance. It is said that during the last few days the vessel was navigated by two engineers and an officer with revolvers at their heads. All of the sailors wished to surrender with the exception of Matouchenko, the leader of the mutiny, who resisted for some time and wanted to blow up the ship. Seven officers were prisoners aboard the Kniaz Potemkine. They were in a pitiable condition from ill treatment. They declare that Matouchenko himself killed ten officers of the battleship. All the papers and books belonging to the vessel were destroyed. It appears that the decision to surrender the Potemkine was made when it became evident that no other vessels would join in the mutiny. The crew of the battleship seemed to be unaware of the surrender of the Georgi Pobledonosets and expected that she also was coming to Kustenji to capitulate to Roumania. Twenty married sailors from the Kniaz Potemkine have applied to the Russian consul here to be sent back to Russia. The crew of the torpedo boat No 267 were given half an hour in which to surrender or leave port. A considerable number of the crew of the Kniaz Potemkine surrendered to the Russian squadron, alleging that they had acted under compulsion. The coal supply of the mutinous battleship was nearly exhausted, but there was ample food on board. The Russian priest after the transfer held a service of purification on board the Kniaz Potemkine sprinkling the vessel and her flags with holy water. Admiral Kruger's squadron, which brought a crew for the Kniaz Potemkine, sailed with her for Russia this evening.

St. Petersburg, July 10, 2 a. m.—The government is awaiting a report from Admiral Kruger before making representations to the Roumanian government for the return of the mutineers of the Kniaz Potemkine. It was stated at the foreign office yesterday that no official information of the attitude of Roumania towards the mutineers had been received. A despatch from Theodosia states that during a parade of the Volna regiment a shot was fired from the ranks at the colonel, but missed him. The shot was a signal for an outbreak, which was quelled after an officer and a private had been severely wounded. The trouble was evidently a reflex of the mutiny on the Kniaz Potemkine.
