1,000 Cases Liquor

SEIZED IN ONTARIO ON STEAMER FROM MONTREAL — DISGUISED MOUNTED POLICEMEN SEIZE $64,000 WORTH OF LIQUOR.

OGDENSBURG, N.Y., Aug. 9.—Ontario License Inspectors on Saturday removed from the Montreal stmr. Samuel Marshall more than 1,000 cases of American and Canadian whiskey and gin, valued at between $35,000 and $40,000.

The vessel, seized by the Canadian officials on Saturday night at Cardinal, Ontario, on a charge of violating the Canadian Customs Laws, yesterday was taken to Prescott, Ontario.

It was en route from Montreal to Lake Ontario ports when it was held up.

Its owners last night were arranging to furnish bonds for its release.

WINNIPEG, Aug. 8.—In an effort to stop the illegal liquor traffic from Saskatchewan into Montana, Inspector Stewart, of the Mounted Police detachment at Swift Current, Sask., with three men, drove over to a town not far from the border line in Montana, where they dressed up like cowboys, secured Montana licenses number plates for their autos, a few hundred dollars in American money, and went to Govanlock, Sask., where a large liquor warehouse is being operated by Jews under the name of the Regina Spirit Company.

"Can we land a flock of booze," the disguised Inspector asked the manager of the place. "Sure you can; just drive back into the alley and load up." The transaction completed, the Inspector placed the manager under arrest and seized $50,000 worth of liquor.

The police then drove to Hatton, Sask., another border town, where the same operation was repeated, and $10,000 seized in liquor in one place, and $20,000 worth in another, and all the managers placed under arrest.

TO-NIGHT'S GAME.

The management of the All Stars respectfully request the presence of the fans at the final tryout of the City team to-night, at St. George's Field at 7 o'clock. There will be no admission fee, and it is felt that with a well filled bleacher the boys will exert themselves more than if playing to empty benches.

As a matter of fact beyond selecting the batteries, it is going to be quite difficult to pick the "nine" who will face the "Sydney Millionaires" on Monday evening, as while some players have the edge on the batting, others outdo them in fielding their respective positions. One thing is manifestly certain, and that is, that the St. John's team this year will be easily the finest that ever stepped out to defend the honour and glory of this little old burg.

Speaking to a gentleman who has seen the "Millionaires" play two or three games this year, he states that while he thinks the visitors faster in the field, still they do not bat as consistently as our sluggers do. Both Hall and Callahan are in the very finest fettle, but it is feared that their fast straight one will not be effective against the Sydney lads. That is why it is hoped that Jack Canning can be induced to participate in the series. He has the best assortment of stuff ever produced here, and the proof of this is that when pitching against the All Stars in practice the other night not one of them could hit his offerings. He would surely be mighty good stuff on the slab.

On Monday night the Millionaires will be the guests of the Jazzola Orchestra at their dance in the C. C. C. Hall. On Tuesday night the visitors will be entertained at Woods' by the League, and on Wednesday night they will be the guests of honour at the B.I.S. Outing at Donovan's.

There are till some reserved tickets left at Chesman's, and all is needed is fine weather to make the series a success. The games are scheduled to start at 6.30 and the whole three contests will be a full nine innings each. In other words you will get nearly two hours of the fastest kind of baseball.

It will indeed be interesting to note how the visitors' brand of ball compares with ours.

The St. John's team will invade Grand Falls in an effort to bring back the R. G. Reid trophy captured from them by the Papermen last year. They will leave here on Thursday, September 2nd, and play three games in the interior, and the Grand Falls team will come back with the home team and finish the series at St. George's Field.

Take me out to the ball game,
Take me out with the crowd,
Give me some peanuts and crackerjack,
I don't care if I ever come back. . . .
For 'tis root, root, root for the home team.
If they don't win it's a shame,
One—two—three strikes, Yer Out,
At the old ball game.

GET THOSE TICKETS TO-DAY!

Will the players who have not returned the City uniforms kindly bring same to St. George's Field tonight before 7 p.m.

American Aristocracy.

The celebrations marking the tercentenary of the sailing of the Mayflower come very appropriately at a period of alleged rapprochement between America and ourselves, but there is an appalling amount of "tosh" talked about "Pilgrim Fathers," "Mayflower Families," and "Knickerbocker Families" by American would-be genealogists. The names of the people who set sail in the Mayflower are known. From all I can gather, I don't suppose there are more than about 20 families who can show proved male descent from a passenger in the Mayflower. They are families of no importance and take no stand of aristocracy in the States. They would like to consider themselves the equivalent of the Norman houses in Britain, but they are nothing of the kind. The great bulk of those who claim Mayflower descent in the States only allege it through female ancestors, and how little that amounts to can be realised when it is remembered that whilst the former Duke of Cumberland and his son, the former Duke of Brunswick, are the only descendants in the male line of any Sovereign of Britain earlier than Queen Victoria, there are by female descent over 50,000 people of proved royal descent, proved, docketed, printed, and published. The "Knickerbocker" families are the descendants of the early Dutch settlers who founded New Haarlem and New Amsterdam, which is now New York. That crowd has much greater importance. The "Pilgrim Fathers" is a kind of omnibus term, originating with the Mayflower people, but extended colloquially to include all the early settlers who emigrated for conscientious reasons, real or alleged—chiefly the latter.

Broken in the Civil War.

The real aristocracy of birth, so far as such a thing exists in the States, belongs to the Southern planters. A large bulk of these families—not the modern farmers, but the old slave-owning planters—were, when they emigrated, of aristocratic birth and belongings—men of substance accustomed to life as land-owning magnates and translated the life and habits they were accustomed to to the new homes they founded. They kept their ideas and lived accordingly—exclusive and haughty until they were broken in the Civil War. Few of these families have survived in their former importance. When half your capital was invested in slaves, their liberation meant your ruin. The bulk of those old families were ruined. They were of Spanish, British and French origin. But America's "smartest" are a different class from all of these. The so-called "Four Hundred" is based on wealth and wealth alone, and such refinement and education as wealth can and does produce in the next generation. The "next" generation is now passing, and the young men of the original "four hundred" are a useless decadent crowd, and the young women are, and have been, tumbling over each other to marry European titles. — Glasgow Weekly Herald.

If Poland Sovietized.

The success of Soviet propaganda and Soviet arms in Poland will strengthen the hand of the pro-Bolsheviki in the labor parties of Italy, France, England and every other non-Soviet power. The Soviet military campaign will stop, for the moment at least, with the reduction of Poland to servitude. Its pause will, however, be a momentary one, and while new military ventures are being planned, the world will be deluged with Soviet propaganda as never before.—Boston Transcript.

A Flood of Cognac.

A message from Basle states that extraordinary scenes were witnessed when the whole village of Marienthal, consisting of several hundred inhabitants, near Strasburg, became drunk for three days and nights. A motor omnibus, which was transporting 1280 gallons of cognac in casks from Nimes to Strasburg had an accident in the village, and while the chauffeur was away trying to obtain assistance the inhabitants pillaged the vehicle, and men, women, and even children became inebriated with the free drinks, which were placed in the village square. The sequel was seen later before the tribunal at Strasburg, where 28 leading villagers were sentenced to terms of imprisonment ranging from one to six months and heavy fines, while the village has to pay nearly £2000 sterling to the proprietors.
