Niagara Power in Eighteen Months The City Must Solicit Consumers

When the Municipalities Know Amount of Power Required Work Will Proceed.

The Niagara power question having reached another stage, arrangements are in the hands of the power commission and the municipalities.

The cities interested in the matter of cheap power have spoken twice authoritatively on the question, and it will be the duty of the commission to deliver the power to London and the other municipalities at the price agreed upon.

So far, all that has been done by the Government is to have the proposed transmission line surveyed, and the contract with the electric company at the Falls ratified.

How Much Power?

It is now the business of the municipalities to find out how much power they will need, and submit the figures to the hydro-electric commission to be used as a basis upon which contracts for the supply of power to the several municipalities may be drawn.

Until the Government is informed as to the requirements of each municipality, and the contracts are entered into, no further steps can be taken by the commission.

Solicit Consumers.

This means that the city council will have to solicit consumers of power, and make contracts with them before the hydro-electric commission can deal with the city or make a contract. The council will have to make a selling price of electricity to the consumer, based upon the figures submitted by the hydro-electric commission. The exact amount to be used will have to be ascertained and then a contract will have to be entered into. The council will have to get these figures, and find out what is needed.

Depends Upon Municipalities.

On the basis of the amount of power sold the contract will have to be framed. When the contract is entered into, the hydro-electric commission will furnish the power at the price agreed upon. The sooner the contracts are entered into the sooner the power will be brought to the city. The time to be made depends altogether upon the councils in the various municipalities.

Distribution.

The matter of distribution is also to be decided upon. The power bylaw gave the city the authority to build a distributing plant of its own, provided no better or more advantageous methods of distributing could be found It is supposed that negotiations will be resumed with the London Electric Company, if the latter is willing to dispose of its plant.

Within Eighteen Months.

Hon. Adam Beck and Assistant Engineer Richards expect that Niagara power to be brought to the municipalities within eighteen months or a year from next July.

The transmission wires will be laid according to the amount of power to be transmitted. The size of the wire will not be known until the contracts are made.

TAILORS, MODISTE AND GEM SHOP FOR NEW GIANT ATLANTIC LINER

New York, Jan. 8.—The Times says: Among the innovations which Herr Balin has planned for the new Hamburg-American liner Europa, now being built at Belfast, are a tailor-shop and modistes' parlor, which will be under the direction of first-class artists from London and Paris.

American tailors will also be on board to please those who like English cloth, but not the cut.

Whether women will feel spry enough to try on dresses in mid-ocean is yet to be proven, but Herr Balin thinks that the great size of the Europa, 40,000 tons, will preclude the possibility of rolling to any extent, and permit women to keep their feet while being fitted.

There is also to be a jewelry store on board, in which passengers may select diamonds and precious stones at their leisure, without the trouble of ransacking London, Paris, or Berlin for them.

The Europa is to have a Ritz-Carlton restaurant, and tanks on deck in which to bring over live soles from Dover and Stettin. If the experiment is a success the Europa will bring over soles for New York restaurants and hotels, as well as for her own passengers.

A BIG STEAL FROM YUCATAN BANK

Mexico City, Jan. 8.—Seven hundred and forty thousand dollars are missing from the Bank of Yucatan, according to reports received here from Merida. Following the disappearance of the money, Fernando U. Rodriguez, sub-director and Mateo Ponce, ex-cashier of the bank, P. G. Ponce, a lawyer, and Edward Ponce, son-in-law and son respectively of the cashier, and eight others are reported to have been placed under arrest.

All of the money missing is said to have been new bank notes and was taken from a strong safe to which there were two keys, one in the possession of the sub-director and the other with the ex-cashier.

Contracts for the Hygienic Institute

The successful tenderers for the work of building the new hygienic institute will be announced in a few days.

With the exception of certain portions of the stonework, the contracts are all in, and it is expected that the one for which the committee are waiting will be in this week.

It is said that Jones Bros. will secure the carpenter work, and George Everett the brick and stone work.

The Good Roads Bylaw Is Likely To Be Passed

Deputation Returns From Interview With Minister of Public Works.

The deputation from the county council, which yesterday held a conference with the Minister of Public Works for Ontario, re the good roads bylaw, which was passed at the last sitting of the council, is back from Toronto, and reports that the bylaw will in all likelihood be passed by the executive council of the Provincial Government.

At the December session of the county council the bylaw was amended somewhat, and it was necessary for the deputation to visit Toronto and explain the reasons for the changes.

If the bylaw meets the approval of the Provincial authorities it will go into effect on April 1.

The deputation was composed as follows: Mr. S. F. Glass, London Township; Mr. D. D. Graham, of Mosa Township; County Engineer Talbot, and Warden Hodgins, of the county council.

IS ALICE THAW STILL SINGLE?

Technicalities Declared To Make Her Marriage To Yarmouth Illegal.

Pittsburg, Jan. 8.—"Miss Alice Thaw and the Earl of Yarmouth were never legally married," is the startling statement made here yesterday.

Certain lawyers and attaches of the marriage license office confirm the statement. While they admit that the illegality of the marriage is based on technicalities, they declare that the English courts must see there is no need to annul such a marriage; that Harry K. Thaw's favorite sister is a single woman and always has been, whether or not the mercenary and effeminate earl fulfilled his maitral duties.

Besides these, lawyers point to certain facts as proving that Yarmouth has always known that the marriage was not legal; that, indeed, he slyly made it so in order that the separation of the couple might be easier when he should desire it.

Didn't Sign Name.

When the marriage license was taken out Yarmouth went to the office unaccompanied by any member of the Thaw family. The law states distinctly that the bride-to-be must either be present or be represented by her guardian or a parent. The languid Yarmouth seemed profoundly bored while he answered the license clerk's questions, and often asked, "Have I got to answer all this?"

He gave his name as George Francis Alexander Seymour, but he signed the docket only with his courtesy title—"Yarmouth." So the lawyers argue that he never signed his name to the docket, as the law requires, and that the license was issued illegally.

License Irregularity.

Further on this point: On the day of the wedding a clerk in the marriage license office took the docket to Lyndhurst, where Miss Alice Thaw signed it. The attorneys claim this would be ample ground upon which to declare the marriage void, for under the Pennsylvania law a minister cannot marry a couple unless the license has been properly taken out.

Attaches of the marriage license office admit that such lax methods would not be permitted today. They likewise admit that every one about the office was so excited over his part in the marriage of the wealthy Pittsburg girl to a real nobleman that they did not take the precautions they should have taken.

On his wedding day Yarmouth came precious near going to the Allegheny County Jail instead of to the altar, according to William J. Morris, constable in Ald. McMasters' office. As it was, the noble earl was incustody two hours while the wedding guests were gathering.

Clad for Wedding.

When some of the earl's English creditors learned he was to marry the wealthy Miss Thaw they transferred their claims to a legal firm here. Under an old English law a debtor can be thrown into jail; a man is in prison here now under that law. The lawyers to whom the earl's debt's were assigned got a judgment from Ald. McMasters, and it was given to Constable Morris to serve.

The earl had completed his financial arrangements with the Thaw family, which for a time threatened to delay the ceremony, and was hurriedly driven to the Hotel Schenley to dress. Constable Morris was there, but Yarmouth got past him and into his room. Finally Yarmouth, clad for the wedding and accompanied by A. D. James, a London barrister, came downstairs.

Constable Interrupts.

"The Earl of Yarmouth, I believe?" said Morris.

The earl turned pale and admitted his identity.

"I have a paper to serve on you," continued Morris.

"Not now," answered Yarmouth.

"Yes, now," answered Morris. "You either pay this bill of $4,500 or you go to jail."

"This is an infernal outrage," cried the earl, trying to push past Morris, who grabbed him and told him the police patrol wagon was waiting.

Mr. James, of London, perfectly understanding the situation, said he would go out and try to get the cash. Yarmouth took a seat in the lobby of the hotel, Constable Morris on one side of him and Deputy Constable Barry on the other. Finally Yarmouth invited them to his rooms, where they would be less conspicuous.

Lost Nerve Quickly.

It was two hours before Mr. James returned with a check for $4,500, signed by one of the Thaw family; then Morris released Yarmouth, who hurried away to be married.

"I never saw a man lose his nerve so quickly as the earl," said Morris today. "The thought of going to jail took all the starch out of him."

Giuseppe Equizio has been in jail here since August under the law that applied to the earl. A man sued Equizio for running away with his wife, and damages were awarded him. He refused to pay and was sent to jail. He can be released only through habeas corpus proceedings.

Earl's Purpose.

As to the earl's purpose to leave a loophole to escape the charming American when he so pleased. Some time ago a local law firm took a copy of the page of the docket containing the record of the Yarmouth license and a photograph was made of the page. It was rumored at the time that this was to enter into proceedings to be instituted by Yarmouth for a separation because of testimony at Harry Thaw's trial that there is insanity in his family.

COURE ORDERS TENANTS OUT

Disposes of "Rent Strike" Cases in a Block, Fooling Lawyers.

New York, Jan. 8.—Judge Sanders disposed of nearly 500 dispossess cases in the second municipal court this morning and his action in settling the cases in a block except where the proceedings have nothing to do with the strike has upset the calculations of lawyers who expected that such a batch of cases would tie up the work of the court for weeks and incidentally bring more money from the strikers into their pockets.

Judge Sanders delayed the serving of the dispossess notices issued on Monday until tomorrow and he thought that with eviction staring some of the tenants in the face and with possibly no place in which to move they would come to their senses and make satisfactory arrangements with their landlords.

At the Socialists' headquarters on Grand street things were very busy. The committee of ten was trying to devise means to help those who have not made peace with the landlords and who will have to move. They were considering a plan to hire trucks to move the goods of ther tenants to other houses where the tenants were still undisturbed, but there are 1,500 cases already and many more are on the calendar for tomorrow, so that it will be a hard matter to find room for all.

At the Madison Square Police Station it was said that threatening letters purporting to have been sent by striking tenants had been received by some landlords. These letters had been sent to police headquarters and the detective bureau is now investigating. According to the police the letters contain such language as "Yes, we will move out, and when we have left your tenement the fire department will visit you."

LATEST STOCK MARKET REPORTS

H. C. Becher, stockbroker, received the following by private wire from Bartlett, Frazier & Carrington today:

New York, Jan. 8. — Noon. — The London bank rate is expected to be reduced. The selling from abroad came from Germany and London, but not in large volume. We should get a good bank statement Saturday. Erie acts heavy, and did not go up with the rest of the anthracite coalers. Its April notes are selling on a very high return basis. At a Great Western meeting at London it was decided to apply for a receiver.

The Havemyer policy seems to still govern the Sugar Company, and if Mr. Spreckles wants details he may have to go to the court and get the authority. The banks have lost so far this week to the sub-treasury against a gain last week.

Time offerings, neither in offerings or bids, is active in large amounts. Call money has ruled from 6 to 7 per cent.

Southern Railway, common, did not act well this morning, rumors undoubtedly affected it, but rumors are not facts, and it is not likely the anticipated will happen. The drygoods failure at San Francisco was not pleasant, but we should not be surprised at such things. For two days past there have been good profit-taking sales, and it is having its effect. Northern Pacific declared its regular dividend.
